(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the Democratic state convention and the nomination of John Lind for governor now history, the attention of Minnesota Democrats is concentrated on the nominee, who is in the Puget sound country and headed for Alaska and even more distant regions, without having accepted the honor so enthusiastically thrust upon him by his admirers.

Mr. Lind left Portland yesterday before news of the action of the convention could reach him. Had the convention heeded the pleadings of those who wanted to send a message of inquiry to him, it is probable the

NAIL DIET IS TOO MUCH FOR IOWAN

Manchester, Iowa, July 29.—Thomas Drummy of Ryan has retained a shingle nail in his stomach for a week and suffered no serious inconvenience until yesterday. He was shingling a barn and kept a supply of nails between his lips. One slipped down his throat, but he paid no attention to it. Tuesday upon arising he felt uncomfortable and before evening was suffering terrible pains in his stomach. It is expected an operated will have to be performed for the removal of the nail.

CANADIAN OFFICERS ARE READY TO NAB "DR. CRIPPEN"

London Doctor and Leneve Woman Said to Be on Ship.

Scotland Yard Official Will Reach Port Ahead of Montrose.

Father Point, Que., July 29.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Montrose, carrying among her passengers two persons believed by Capt. Kendall to be Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and his typist, Ethel Clara Leneve, steamed through the strait of Belle Isle this morning.

This places the vessel, about whose arrival the greatest interest centers, some 500 miles east of Father Point. She is expected to take on a pilot here Sunday morning.

Early today a thirty-two mile wind swept away the fog that had covered the broad mouth of the St. Lawrence river since last evening, and the Montrose will not experience the delay feared for her when the weather thickened yesterday, unless the predictions for the next forty-eight hours fail.

The White Star liner Laurentia, aboard which is Chief Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, had already entered the St. Lawrence, and under favorable conditions should pass this point between 3 and 6 o'clock this afternoon. At 5:30 a. m. today she was 165 miles east of here.

Inspector to Land First.

The purpose of Scotland Yard has been accomplished in that Inspector Dew, traveling on a faster steamer, has outstripped the suspects and will be in a position to make his attempt at identification when the "John Robinson" and "John Robinson, Jr.," of the Montrose passenger list arrive at a Canadian port.

The provincial police understand that Dew will land here and wait for the Montrose. His subsequent procedure is a matter of doubt to those here. He

ELEVATORS ARE BEING CLOSED

North Dakota Crop Condition Responsible for the Step.

Granville, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — Because of the crop shortage this season, a number of elevators over the state are being closed and many that have been closed during the summer season will not be opened this fall. Several of the line companies, it is understood, have made a division of the territory so that the elevators that are operated will be enabled to make a profit.

OHIOAN SHOOTS TWO WOMEN AND HIMSELF.

Toledo, Ohio, July 29.—George Coyle this morning shot and killed Mrs. Ed Hefinger, wounded Mrs. Dora Strowl-Wilson and then shot himself. He may die.

SAYS DULUTH GETS FAVORS

Claims That City Is Discriminated Against By Three Lines.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, July 29.—The Buffalo Oil Company of Superior, Wis., today filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission against the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville and the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway companies, alleging unjust and discriminatory rates on a car load shipment of lubricating oil from Fayette, Ky., to Superior.

The complainants aver that the carriers of the United States in general and the above mentioned defendant railroad companies have recognized Superior and Duluth as the basis for a group rate, such grouping being dictated by geographical relations between the two cities, being on either side of St. Louis bay at the head of Lake Superior, and sharing a common harbor.

Says Duluth Is Favored.

The complainant further states that the rate exacted on lubricating oil between Fayette and Superior should in no case exceed the rate applying on a like commodity from Fayette to Duluth, and that the rate of 26 cents per hundred, as exacted, is unjust and unreasonable generally, both in itself and relatively as compared with the rate applying between Fayette and Duluth, and subjects the complainant and its traffic and the city of Superior to unjust discrimination, to the advantage of shippers located at Duluth.

MORE TRADE WITH WESTERN WORLD

Exports to North and South American Countries Have Increased.

Washington, July 29.—Export trade of the United States to South America, North America and Africa during the last fiscal year increased over the exports of the previous year, while exports to Europe and Asia declined, according to statistics furnished by the department of commerce and labor.

The increase in exports to North America countries over the preceding year was 24½ per cent; the increase to South America 22 per cent, and to Africa 9 per cent; while the European decline was about 1 per cent and to Asia and Oceanica a little more than 1 per cent.

Atkins Heads Westinghouse.

New York, July 29.—E. F. Atkins today was elected president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, succeeding George Westinghouse. Edward M. Herr was elected vice president of the company. Robert Mather was re-elected chairman of the board of directors.

ISSUES CALL TO CARLISTS

Pretender to Throne of Spain Says Fight Will Come Soon.

Violent Rupture Between Madrid and the Vatican Is Imminent.

San Sebastien, Spain, July 29.—Don Jaime of Bourbon, the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne, today issued a manifesto to the Carlists in parliament, congratulating them upon their loyalty to the pope and their defense of the church, and declaring:

"I think the day is not far distant when my followers must rally to our flag. I will lead the battle."

Bad News in Madrid.

Madrid, July 29.—Ominous reports are received following the publication of the news that a rupture between the Spanish government and the Vatican appears imminent.

At San Sebastien, Don Jaime, the pretender, has issued a manifesto in which he says he will lead the Carlists in the battle which he intimates may be coming soon.

It is expected that Premier Canalejas will ask King Alfonso to set the stamp of his approval upon the course that the premier has adopted.

The Vatican has declared the nego-

DULUTH POSTAL CLERKS GET RAISE

Twenty-One Are Given $100 Increase in Annual Salaries.

Washington, July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Promtions of letter carriers in the following Minnesota postoffices, to date from July 1 were announced today:

In Duluth, twenty-one clerks from $1,100 to $1,200; in Detroit, one clerk from $600 to $800; in Faribault, one clerk from $1,000 to $1,100; in Minneapolis, two clerks from $800 to $900, two from $1,000 to $1,100 and five from $1,100 to $1,200; in Northfield, one from $1,000 to $1,100; in Rochester, one from $1,000 to $1,100; in Virginia, two from $800 to $900.

Ten in Superior.

Ten letter carriers in the Superior, Wis., postoffice are to be promoted from the $1,100 class to the $1,200, such promotions dating from July 1.

Herman H. Dopp was today appointed an additional letter carrier in the Superior postoffice, to go on duty Aug. 1.

HUSBAND GONE; WIFE IS SILENT TWO YEARS.

Chicago, July 29.—A trick whereby a wife was persuaded to maintain silence for two years concerning the disappearance of her husband when she was made to believe he was serving a term in prison at Joliet, Ill., was revealed here today when the police were asked to search for George Hobart, a traveling salesman of Quincy, Mass. Hobart disappeared two years ago.

LAKE FIREMAN IS SHOT DOWN DURING QUARREL ON BOAT

Bullet Fired By Wheelsman Passes Through His Abdomen.

Victim in Critical Condition---Assailant Held By the Police.

Shooting Followed Dispute Regarding Who Should Row to Steamer.

Following a midnight quarrel aboard the steamer James Corrigan, John Hendrickson, a fireman, lies at St. Mary's hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen, which may prove fatal, and Serafim Petros, a Greek wheelsman, is under arrest at police headquarters.

Petros was arraigned in police court this morning charged with assault in the first degree, the accusation being that he intended to kill Hendrickson. His examination was set for this afternoon in order to give the vessel as little delay as possible. Petros does not deny the shooting, and it is thought that he will plead guilty when arraigned in district court. He believes, however, that he was justified. Not being well educated, and trained to the rough and ready life of the seas, having sailed most of his life in various parts of the world, he does not think that he did wrong in sending a bullet into the fireman, whom he claims hit him over the head with a bottle of whisky.

Petros was given shore leave last evening from the steamer, which was at anchor in the harbor basin just off the life saving station. He rowed ashore to Park Point and came up town. Late in the evening he returned to find his boat gone, but caught sight of Hendrickson and another fireman named William Russo in a boat just putting off to the Corrigan, on which they were also employed. Petros hailed the two firemen, and

ARE READY FOR RIOTING

Two Thousand Guardsmen Are Stationed About Columbus, Ohio.

Union Men Start Run on Bank in Panhandle District.

Columbus, Ohio, July 29.—Gen. McMacken, commanding the 2,000 troops of the Ohio National Guard here in the street car strike, would give no information today regarding the disposition of the troops and the plans to quell further rioting in case trouble breaks out.

No cars will be run until after Governor Harmon arrives from Michigan at about 11 o'clock, and none may be run today or tonight.

A run was started today on the Lincoln Savings bank in the Pan-Handle district by men who openly announced that they were union men and in sympathy with the union motormen and conductors of the Columbus Street Railway company, who are out on a strike. E. K. Stewart, general manager of the street car company, is interested in this bank.

ASK FOR POSTAL BANKS.

Clearbrook and Fosston Postmasters File Applications.

Washington, July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The postmasters at Clearbrook and Fosston, Minn., today made application for authority to establish postal savings banks in their offices.

The First National Bank of Cloquet, Minn., today made application to be designated a depository for postal savings bank funds.

MAKING PEACE IN PARLIAMENT

Conferees of Dominant Parties Reconciling Lords and Commons.

London, July 29.—The conferees of the two dominant parties who are trying to compose the constitutional differences of the house of lords and the house of commons, already have succeeded in bridging several gulfs that have separated them, and a statement made by Premier Asquith in the lower chamber this afternoon indicates that the outlook for a compromise is more hopeful. Unless a rupture occurs during the recess, little further of an official character is likely to be heard regarding the negotiations until parliament reassembles on Nov. 15.

Mr. Asquith said:

Will Not Stop Conferences.

"The result is that our discussions made such progress—although we have not so far reached an agreement—as to render it, in the opinion of all of us, not only desirable but necessary that they should continue. In fact, I may go further. We would think it wrong at this stage to break them off."

The premier added that if further deliberations showed no prospects of an agreement that could be announced in parliament at the present session, the conference would be closed.

BIGGER CITIES OF NATION ARE IN DEBT $1,718,000,000

New York Owes Nearly 40 Per Cent of the Whole Amount.

Detroit Has Smallest Per Capita Indebtedness in Its Class.

Washington, July 29.—The enormous sum of $1,718,000,000 is owed by the 158 cities in the country having each a population of more than 30,000. The figures show net indebtedness and are given out by the census bureau as a result of its canvass for 1908.

The same authority finds that of this sum New York owes $684,000,000, or almost 40 per cent of the aggregate. This is more than seven times the amount of the net indebtedness of any other city, and more than one-half of the total amount owed by the twenty-nine next largest cities in the country.

It also is shown that of the $275,000,000 spent for improvements in 158 cities in 1908, New York expended

STOPS PAYMENTS ON COMMON STOCK

Atlas Portland Cement Company Suspends Dividends for the Present.

New York, July 29.—Announcement was made today that the directors of the Atlas Portland Cement company, which has a capitalization of $12,500,000, have decided to suspend the dividend on its common stock for the present. The company, which has been paying 8 per cent on its common stock, obtained a contract from the government aggregating many millions of dollars to furnish cement for the Panama canal.

Beveridge Calls on Teddy.

New York, July 29.—United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana was an early caller today at Theodore Roosevelt's office, reaching there only a few moments after Col. Roosevelt himself entered his editorial quarters on arriving from Oyster Bay for his second visit of the week.

INQUEST VERDICT FAVORS THEORY OF RAWN'S SUICIDE

Jury Finds Railroad President Was Killed By His Own Weapon.

Decision Is Compromise Between Accident and Self-Destruction.

Chicago, July 29.—The coroner's jury impaneled to inquire into the death of Ira G. Rawn, late president of the Monon route, returned an open verdict at 3 o'clock this morning, but found that he died from a shot fired from his own weapon in his own hand. The verdict is as follows:

"We, the jurors sworn on oath to inquire into the death of Ira G. Rawn at his home in Winnetka on July 20, find that he came to his death at 1:20 o'clock on the morning of July 20, from shock and hemorrhage caused by a bullet from his own revolver fired by his own hand, but whether this was accidental or with suicidal intent this jury is unable to determine, ex-

BRITONS FEAR RISING IN THIBET

Unrest Kindled By Chinese Has Assumed Threatening Form.

Simla, British India., July 29.—The unrest in Thibet due to the continued activity of the Chinese has assumed so threatening a form that the Indian government has ordered a considerable force of Indian troops to be held in readiness on the Thibetan frontier to proceed to the relief of Gyantse and Gantong, the British agencies in Thibet, if necessary.

WILL BAR FIGHT PICTURES IN TEXAS.

Houston, Tex., July 29.—By a viva voce vote the lower house of the state legislature yesterday passed to engrossment a bill prohibiting the exhibition of moving pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight in this state. Amendments prohibiting pictures showing train robberies and of those of similar nature also were adopted.

CHICAGO BAKERS APPEAL IN BREAD WEIGHT CASE.

Springfield, Ill., July 29.—The Chicago bakers have taken an appeal to the supreme court of the United States from the judgment of the supreme court of this state in the bread ordinance case, in which the Illinois supreme court held to be constitutional the ordinance passed by the city council of Chicago providing that loaves of bread must be of certain sizes and that a tag must be put on each loaf of bread giving the weight of the loaf.

The appeal was perfected yesterday, when the United States circuit court for the Southern district of Illinois signed the writ of error on which the case is taken to the higher court.

COMMONS MODIFY OATH OF THE KING

Bill Passes Third Reading in Form Not Offensive to Catholics.

London, July 29.—The bill modifying the declaration of religion required of the king upon accession passed the house of commons upon third reading today by a vote of 245 to 62. In its final form, the bill not only eliminates the phrases offensive to the Roman Catholic subjects of his majesty, but it also makes it acceptable to the non-conformists, by striking out the proposed statement of adherence to the establishment church. King George is now required to declare merely that he is "a faithful protestant."

WILL HEAD OFF BONILLA.

England Sends Cruiser to Halt Honduras Plot.

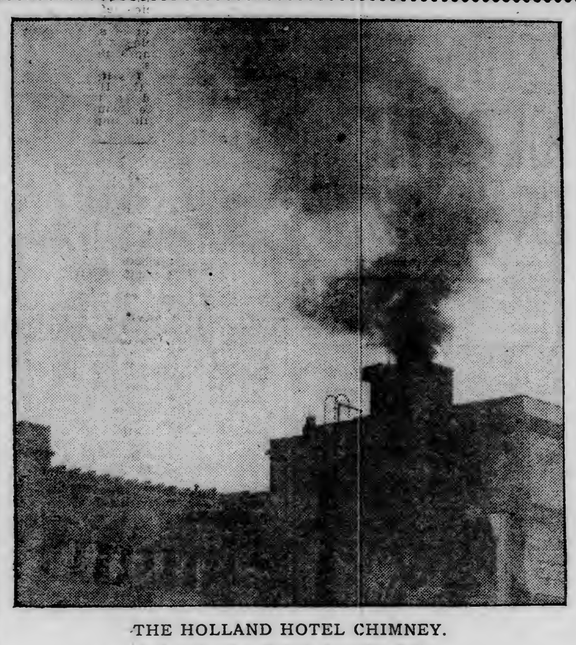

Washington, July 29.—England hopes to intercept with its cruiser Scylla the revolutionary expedition of Former President Bonilla of Honduras, which recently left Belize, British Honduras, headed for some port on the Eastern Honduras coast to join the uprising against the government of the republic.

It is expected the vessel of the revolutionary party will be overtaken at Cayos Zapapilios, a group of islands just off the Honduran coast. This information reached the state department today.

Big Damage to French Crops.

Paris, July 29.—The damage caused to French crops by continued cold and wet weather is unofficially estimated at $400,000,000. The wheat crop is estimated at 312,400,000 bushels against 396,200,000 bushels in 1909.

NOTHING BEING DONE TO ABATE SMOKE NUISANCE

THE HOLLAND HOTEL CHIMNEY.

A Sample of a Duluth Laundry Soiler.

The smoke nuisance still goes merrily on in Duluth, without check or hindrance. Nothing is being done to put a stop to it, much to the disgust of thousands of people who are not fortunate enough to have homes in the suburbs where no sooty chimneys have a chance to pester them day and night. Even the suburbanites are far from pleased, as they get the full benefit whenever they walk or drive in those sections in which the chimneys are plentiful. Their clean linen is spotted and black spots on their faces testify to the presence of the nuisance. It helps the business of the hat cleaners. Just now they are getting unusual benefits, straw and light headpieces being the rule. They show the marks of the chimneys in short order. The ordinance which Duluth now has has been repeatedly characterized as a "standing joke," and it is becoming more and more so every day. The people are hoping that something will be done without loss of much more time to abate the belching soot and dirt. For years they have heard a lot of talk about abating the smoke nuisance, but thus far it has amounted to nothing but "talk," and they would like to see some positive results.

MARINE NEWS

OLD WRECKS TO BE RAISED

Manhattan and Hurlbert Will Be Taken From the Water.

Work will be started immediately upon the removal of the wrecks, Manhattan and Hurlbert, which for many years have been a menace to mariners near Grand Island, Mich., and Vermilion, Mich.

Contracts were awarded yesterday by the local officials of the United States corps of engineers, to Thomas L. Durocher of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who was the lowest bidder for the work. This afternoon he will leave the Soo prepared to take up the task, which must be completed before Aug. 31.

For the removal of the Manhattan, which was sunk at Grand Island about eight years ago, he will receive $1,900, while he will be paid $1,200 for the removal of the Hurlbert, which has been in the water for three years at Vermilion. Besides this, he will be the owner of the boats, and whatever he may find upon them.

The sunken vessels have been causing considerable trouble for the smaller boats which have had to pass these points. The owners of the boats abandoned them after they had gone down, claiming they were not worth raising. The government was therefore compelled to offer large bonuses to have them removed.

The bids were called for some time ago, but the lowest bid for the Hurlbert, $1,200, was higher than the Washington authorities had at first proposed to pay. Upon the recommendation of the local official Durocher's bid was accepted.

DREDGE AT TWO HARBORS.

Debris Will Be Taken From Slips at the Ore Docks.

One of the plants of the Northern Dredging company left yesterday for Two Harbors, where work will be started today on the dredging of the slips between the ore docks at that city, for the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company.

Vessels hauling ore from these docks have been experiencing some trouble for the past few weeks on account of the shallowness of the water, and some of them have had difficulty in freeing themselves after loading.

The shallowness is due to the accumulation of ore, sand and debris of a general character, which drops off the ore dock and settles in the bottom of the slip. This work is generally done every three or four years. It is of a difficult nature, and requires from two to four weeks.

MONEY DEPOSITED TO WOMAN'S CREDIT

New Step Is Gained in Suit Over Alleged "Spirit" Communications.

Washington, July 29.—F. J. Hurd, the 89-year-old grandfather of Dr. Lee M. Hurd of Greenwich, Conn., who is seeking an accounting of $40,000 which he charges was obtained by Mrs. Laura R. Cramer, an employe of the state department, by means of alleged spiritual communications with the aged man's dead wife, is shown to have personally deposited money to the credit of the woman.

This appears in the answer of a Washington banking institution, codefendant in the suit filed today with the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

REPORTS NOT EXAGGERATED

Dakota Man Says Farmers Hope to Get Enough Wheat for Seed.

Judge John Knauf of Jamestown, N. D., is visiting in the city. Judge Knauf is a brother to Dr. Mary McCoy.

Judge Knauf says that in his county in North Dakota, the farmers will be glad if the wheat this year yields enough for seed.

He says the crop reports have not been exaggerated in the least. "There is absolutely no crop this year," says the judge. "Everything is completely burned up."

Judge Knauf is a former justice of the supreme court of North Dakota.

Soo Blindpig Raided.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 29.—The police Wednesday night raided a resort called the "Military club," arresting six men an done woman, on the charge of running a "blind pig." One of the proprietors of the club is Calvin Winters, a brother of Edward Winters, who was shot some time ago by Corporal Collins at Fort Brady. Collins is now held on the charge of murder for trial in the September term of court. Other arrests may follow.

BRANDT IS BOUND OVER

Testimony at Preliminary Hearing Shows Lueck Was Aggressor.

Frederick Otto Brandt, who fatally stabbed Emil Lueck early last Monday morning, was bound over to the next grand jury yesterday, after a preliminary hearing in the police court, which lasted throughout the day. The testimony was practically along the same lines as given before. The witnesses stated without exception that Lueck was the assailant and several of them stated that he made threats to "lay for him," meaning Brandt. It appeared that those who attempted to stop the fight were not allowed to do so, being admonished that the fight was between Lueck and Brandt and that they should be allowed to finish it. Brandt followed the statements of the witnesses closely, but did not appear to be nervous. The court room was crowded with witnesses, most of them being friends of the prisoner or the Lueck family. Attorney O. J. Larson represented Brandt and Assistant County Attorney Greene appeared for the state.

CANADIAN OFFICERS ARE READL TO NAB "CRIPPEN."

may board the Montrose and continue to Quebec.

Chief McCarthy of the Quebec provincial police will make the arrest of Dr. Crippen, if he should prove to be on board the Montrose. The chief received word today that arrangements had been made between Scotland Yard and the Dominion government whereby Inspector Dew would be permitted to land here under a special order suspending the quarantine regulations, and the Quebec official is prepared to co-operaate with the Scotland Yard man in whatever course the latter may adopt.

Think It Is Crippen.

The plans and activities of the police are based, of course, upon the assumption that Crippen and his companion are aboard the Montrose. This fact has not been absolutely established from the police standpoint. Nevertheless, the frequent wireless messages which have been received since the Montrose got into touch with this side of the Atlantic tend to confirm the authorities in their belief that Capt. Kendall is correct in the matter of identification.

These messages are in varying degrees of positiveness, some making the explicit statement that Crippen is aboard the steamer, others reiterating the fact that the suspected parties are aboard. The messages have definitely established that no actual arrests have occurred thus far.

There is no particular significance in this, however, as Supt. Froest of Scotland Yard has already pointed out. So long as the suspects are under surveillance their escape or attempts at suicide are guarded against and their actual arrest before their identity was established beyond all doubt would serve no special purpose. A false arrest, on the other hand, might be embarrassing, and all that Scotland Yard expects of Capt. Kendall is that he shall land his passengers safely where they may be seen by Inspector Dew.

Dew Knows His Man.

It was Dew who interviewed Crippen in London and he knows the man well. It was Dew, also, to whom Scotland Yard says Crippen's promise was given that he would not leave London until the mystery surrounding the disappearance of his actress wife, Belle Elmore, was cleared up. A personal element enters into the keen activity of Inspector Dew, as he has been sharply criticized by the press and public in London and by some members of parliament for not arresting Crippen at the time suspicion was first strongly directed against him.

Circumstantial and positive identification, according to police standards, must now remain in abeyance until the Montrose actually reaches port so that the suspected parties can be confronted by persons who have known them before. Further wireless messages can only repeat the belief of those on board the ship, none of whom had heretofore known Crippen, so far as is known. One report is to the effect that the steward of the steamer lived in the vicinity of Hilldrop Crescent, where the Crippens resided, but this has not been confirmed.

Others on the Steamer.

Besides the two passengers on the Montrose who are receiving chief attention, others on board the steamer are Edward Vervaecke and Hector Reve, booked for Ottawa; John Mubleen and Joseph Paus, of Winnipeg; Gaston Vermeuelen and Feliz Peterman, of Saskatchewan; Caroline Schwelsser, of Quebec; Michael J. Akisbowskiy of Montreal; Gustav Mullebroeck and wife and Henri Kaiserman and wife, of Detroit, Mich.

BIGGER CITIES OF NATION IN DEBT $1,718,000,000.

more than $83,000,00, or nearly one-third the entire sum. Of the total debt increase for the year. $185,877,856, nearly one-half is credited to New York.

Per Capita Indebetedness.

The per capita indebtedness of New York also is much larger than that of any other city, exceeding $157 as compared with $128 for Cincinnati, $119 for Boston, and $113 for Galveston, the other cities making the nearest approach.

It is pointed out that a large proportion of the New York improvement expenditures have been for public service conveniences. The betterment of the water system, the construction of toll bridges, and other self-supporting services are responsible for 37 per cent of the total debt of the metropolis.

Of the cities exceeding 300,000 population, Detroit has the smallest per capita debt, $26; but Indianapolis, falling below 300,000, makes an improvement with a debt of only about $17 to the person.

Chicago Ranks Second.

In the matter of the payments for improvements in 1908, Chicago took rank next to New York, the total for the Illinois city being $18,093,896. Philadelphia's expenditure was $14,473,184. Of the total expenditures for all the cities about one-third was for improved public service and another third for highways.

INQUEST VERDICT FAVORS THEORY OF RAWN'S SUICIDE.

cept that the location of the wound and the type of revolver render the accident theory less probable."

Find Him Responsible.

The verdict was so worded as to show that Mr. Rawn was believed by the jurors to have been responsible for his own death, but the question of suicide or acident was left to be fought out by the family and the insurance companies. It took several hours' deliberation to reach a finding. One of the chief points involved in the long discussion was how to word the document in such a menner as not to deprive Rawn's family of any legal rights the members have under the $140,000 of accident insurance policies left by him.

Two of the six jurors held out for a long time for a verdict of suicide; two others held to the accident theory. The verdict was a compromise between these divergent views.

Declined to Testify.

Representatives of the Illinois Central railroad declined to testify and put the refusal on the ground that to give information would imperil pending litigation.

LAKE FIREMAN IS SHOT DOWN DURING QUARREL.

they came back and picked him up.

"Let's make the ——— work his passage," one of the firemen is said to have exclaimed.

"Who are you talking about?" inquired Petros.

"You, you ———," replied the firemen, applying an obscene epithet.

Petros claims to have taken exception to the language and a scuffle ensued, during which Petros was thrown into the water. He lost his bank book and some papers, but was finally pulled back into the boat by the firemen.

Whisky Bottle as Club.

On reaching the ship, Petros was the first man on board. He met Busso at the top of the ladder and clinched with him. Hendrickson, coming up with a package of two bottles of whisky, struck Petros on the head with one of the bottles, and Busso hit him with his fist, it is claimed. Petros broke away and ran to his bunk, where he picked up a revolver. Returning, he found the firemen had gone to their bunks. He first went to Hendrickson's and found the door closed. He kicked in the panel and found Hendrickson facing him with an uplifted crowbar, he claims. Petros fired and the bullet entered Hendrickson's groin, taking an upward course. Petros then went to the captain, Alex Johnston, and gave himself up, while Hendrickson was taken to St. Mary's hospital. At the hospital this morning it was stated that it was not known whether the injured man would recover or not.

Dr. Barney, who dressed Hendrickson's wounds at the hospital last night, made a more complete examination this morning. He does not believe that the man's wound will prove fatal, although it is serious. The chief danger lies in the possibilities of infection. Hendrickson was weakened considerably by loss of blood.

"When he hit me with the bottle my mind became dazed," said Petros in fairly good, but broken, English at the police station this morning. "The bottle broke into 50 pieces. The other man hit me with his fist when my head was spinning and he had a good chance.

"I ran back to my room and pulled open the drawer. The gun was laying there and I picked it up. I ran back to the deck and the men were gone. I ran to the room where they sleep and called to them to come out and fight. I asked them if they wanted to finish the fight. So I kicked on the door. It was very thin and it broke at the bottom. Looking through I see the man who hit me with the bottle standing there with a big iron bar in his hand. I called to him again. He said that if I did anything he would break my head. So I let him have it."

MOST ABSENT MINDED MAN IN DULUTH.

The most absent minded man in Duluth has been discovered. His name will not be divulged, for it might embarrass him, but he is a well-known citizen and, were his friends to know of the occurrence which won for him the distinction, they might have no end of fun at his expense.

He walked into a Superior street grab-and-eat luncheon today and ordered an egg sandwich, a piece of apple pie and a cup of coffee. The order was handed across the counter and the man behind was surprised to see two lumps of sugar handed over in payment.

A dime and a nickel had been dropped into the cup of coffee.

The coffee was dumped out and the money was rescued from its submersion in the beverage. A new cup of coffee was handed out and the absent minded champion retired with the loud guffaws of the luncheroom attendants and patrons ringing in his ears.

tlations looking to a revision of the concordat cannot be continued until the imperial decree permitting non-Catholic societies to display the insignia of public worship has been withdrawn. Canalejas has responded that he cannot cancel the program announced.

Alfonso Will Back Premier.

In some quarters it is believed that the holy see counts upon the fall of the government. Canalejas, however, is said to have had the assurances of the king's support at the time he determined upon his plan of religious reforms.

The general situation is complicated by the unrest among the miners in the Catalonian provinces and the occasional clashes between the Catholic and non-Catholic elements throughout the country.

El Mundo, discussing the threatened break between the Spanish government and the Vatican over the refusal of Premier Canalejas to rescind the imperial decree which permits non-Catholic societies to display the insignia for public worship, says:

"The holy see has no reason to feel offended. It is heading deliberately toward a rupture which will precipitate the opening of a rapid and energetic anti-clerical campaign.

CUPID HAS A DAY OFF.

Today was the first day in some time that there were no marriage licenses issued by the clerk of the district court.

For the past two months Cupid has been very busy with the result that money in $2 bills has flowed in at the clerk's office.

As high as twelve marriage licenses have been issued during a single day and never has the number been below two.

Many of the days have been unusually strenuous and the dull day is quite a change to Deputy Clerk Frank Smith, who spends a good deal of his time in writing out the certificates.

COL. AMES BACK IN HIS COMMAND

Court-Martial Is Said to Have Reduced Him Twelve Points.

Manila, July 29.—Lieut. Col. Robert F. Ames, who was court-martialed following an investigation of the suicide at his home of Lieut. Clarence M. Janney, was released from arrest today and resumed command of the Twelfth Infantry, U. S. A. The findings of the court-martial have not been published here, but it is understood that the accused was reduced twelve numbers.

Mrs. Janney, widow of the suicide and who was a witness at the court-martial, has sailed for Hongkong en route for her home in San Francisco.

Ames was charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and to the prejudice of military discipline. He was arrested on orders from Washington, following the receipt there of the report of the board of inquiry which investigated the death of Lieut. Janney. Janney shot himself after a quarrel with his wife while the two were dinner guests of Ames. The quarrel was said to have started over the discovery by Janney that his wife had given a champagne cooler to Ames. It previously belonged to her husband.

AGAINST TONNAGE TAX.

Michigan Gubernatorial Candidate Tells Where He Stands.

Calumet, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Amos S. Musselman of Grand Rapids, Republican candidate for nomination for governor at the September primaries, addressed a large number of voters here last evening. Judge George Clapperton of Grand Rapids also talked. Mr. Musselman stated that it is not his intention if elected, to favor the tonnage tax, but rather that he is in favor of investigating valuations and not adding further taxation unless it is found necessary.

Mr. Musselman claimed that he is the only candidate in the field not a politician and that the state needs a hard headed business man at its head. Mr. Musselman is a grocer.

CALUMET JUSTICE OF PEACE ACCUSED

Alleged to Have Failed to Turn Over Money Collected for Firm.

Calumet, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice of the Peace James G. Curto of Calumet is under arrest charged with embezzlement on four counts by J. Miller & Co. of Calumet and Houghton.

It is alleged Curto collected money for the company and failed to turn it over. He denies the charge.

Justice of the Peace Fred Store of Greenland, Ontonagon county, has been cleared by Assistant Attorney General F. C. Kuhn of any intention of wrongdoing in the use of funds collected in fines. The fines were collected in the first criminal case Store had tried and he claimed he did not know what to do with the money. Store admitted his incompetency and will act no longer as a justice. The case was quashed.

BRAINERD BOY DISAPPEARS.

Leaves Home for Band Concert and Fails to Return.

Brainerd, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter E. Roney, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Roney, mysteriously disappeared last night and up to midnight had not been found, although diligent search was made by his parents and the people of that portion of town, assisted by the entire police force. The young lad left home to attend the band concert. He is a lad about 5 feet tall and wears a dark navy-blue suit.

MALARIA FEVER

Mr. T. V. Wilcher was completely restored to health and vigor by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey after a severe attack of malaria had so weakened him that his system responded to no other treatment. This same thing is happening every day and our patients cannot praise this wonderful medicine enough.

In a recent letter Mr. Wilcher wrote: "I am delighted to add my testimony to the excellent quality and also the beneficial effects of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I had a very severe attack of Malaria fever, from which I never entirely recovered until I used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. After taking one bottle the nervous feeling left me, and I felt like a new man. I heartily recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in any one convalescing from fever or suffering from any wasting disease. Taken properly in small doses, it will produce wonderful results. Wishing you continued success."—T. Vince Wilcher, Union Point, Ga.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

as a tonic and stimulant when convalescing after fever is the greatest strength-giver known to science. It aids in destroying the disease germs and by its building and healing properties restores tissues in a gradual, natural manner. It stimulates the heart action, causes the blood to course more quickly through the veins, and builds new tissues. It is a wonderful specific in the prevention and cure of all throat, lung and stomach troubles, low fevers, and all wasting, weakening run down diseased conditions. If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by druggists, grocers and dealers everywhere, or direct, $1.00 per large bottle. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

LIND HAS NOT GIVEN DECISION ON ACCEPTANCE.

telegram would not have reached him for many hours. Mr. Lind was asked, before he left Portland, if he would accept the nomination that it was patent would be made.

The former and prospective governor said that he had not determined whether he would or would not, and that probably he would not decide the question until after the conclusion of his Alaskan trip. The impression Mr. Lind gave, says the dispatch from Portland, was that he would make every effort to induce his party to substitute some one in his place.

When Mr. Lind reached Everett, Wash., where his son, Norman Lind, lives, he was besieged by reporters who wanted him to talk about his nomination. He declined to do so, saying:

"I have nothing to say."

Norman Lind, however, is credited with the statement that his father was annoyed by reason of the action of the convention and would not under any circumstances accept the nomination. However, Democrats are not taking much stock in what others may say for Mr. Lind. The only remarks considered germane to the question must come from Mr. Lind.

One dispatch from Everett is reminiscent of statements that have been credited to Mr. Lind in the recent past. It quotes him as saying that he cannot understand the action of the convention and then proceeds to reiterate his well-known attitude of disinclination to make the run, adding that his attitude remains unchanged.

It is believed that Mr. Lind will sail today or tomorrow for Alaska.

Everybody Satisfied.

When the state convention delegates trooped out of the Auditorium last evening they formed a smiling if weary crowd. Everybody seemed to be satisfied, except a few who had feebly attempted to stem the irresistible tide toward Lind, and even they had the satisfaction of knowing even before the convention met that their efforts were doomed to a futile conclusion.

It was one of the most remarkable conventions ever held in the state. The most impassioned speeches were made, the most ardent of champions held the floor while the mass of delegates seethed tumultuously before them, and out of the moil and struggle of that mass of men came a ticket that, just in itself, is declared to deserve to be elected from top to bottom.

Through it all St. Louis county was a practically controlling factor, not by reason of its numbers—only forty-eight votes—but by reason of the effectiveness of the work done by the individuals and the steadfastness with which the delegation as a whole, prominently placed as it was at the left front of the Auditorium, held to its principles and purposes.

After the adoption of the platform, the turmoil that had characterized the proceedings up to that stage increased rather than diminished. Prof. Frank M. Anderson of the University of Minnesota was on his feet and on his chair, waving a bit of paper and frantically calling for a hearing. When a lull came he said he wanted to propose an amendment to the report of the committee on resolutions. Through rifts in the fog of noise that hung over the delegates he could be heard making reference to the recent Democratic convention in Nebraska, and a mention of Bryan filtered through.

"——the grandest day of his splendid life——" was a phrase that struck the ear and was greeted with a mingled howl and jeer.

Governor Folk Speaks.

The demonstration of Democratic independence made at this stage of the proceedings was the most thrillingly exciting of the convention and was opportunely interrupted by the appearance of Former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, whose introduction to the audience was accomplished by patient Chairman Daly only after the most strenuous demands for order.

The Missourian was given an ovation that obviously pleased him and he proceeded with his remarks in the best of humor. His reference to the late John A. Johnson was accorded the sympathetic tribute of a hush that attested the deep feeling of the delegates whenever that name was mentioned all through the day.

When Governor Folk, in conclusion, said he hoped to be in Minnesota this fall to make speeches for the Democratic nominees, the delegates yelled themselves hoarser than ever, and when the distinguished visitor took a seat beside Frank A. Day, Prof. Anderson was again—or yet—standing on his seat, waving his slip of paper and demanding a hearing. The uproar was quieted long enough to give Governor Folk a rousing viva voce vote of thanks for his speech, and then Prof. Anderson made himself heard, but not without difficulty. He rebuked Chairman Daly for something or other and then succeeded in pronouncing the four words of his proposed amendment to the resolutions report: "We favor county option."

Outburst of Opposition.

That the temper of the delegates was becoming strained was indicated by the tremendous outburst of negative opinion vociferously expressed, the Hennepin delegation being especially noisy and, not uncharacteristically, at sixes and sevens. Anderson demanded a call of the roll on the proposition that the convention consider his motion and the chair called for a rising vote. The exceedingly small number of those who arose in support of the plank brought forth a howl of derision.

The convention having adopted the rule that all resolutions be referred to the resolutions committee and the committee having made its report, Prof. Anderson's plank was referred. Chairman Works, as soon as he was given acoustic facilities, reported for the committee on the Anderson proposition that the committee had carefully considered the subject presented and had come to the conclusion that it as well as all other proposals that might be made was provided for under the plank calling for the initiative and referendum principle. As chairman of the committee he moved that Prof. Anderson's resolution be laid on the table. That carried with a whoop, and then he moved the adoption of the report of the committee. That carried with a bigger whoop, but not before one delegate got the floor to object to the inclusion in the report of the plank criticising the president of the nation. He talked like a Republican some one said, but another explained that the excitement of the occasion explained almost anything.

When the standing vote was taken and the nays were called for Prof. Anderson was revealed to the gaze of all in the role of the Statue of Liberty enlightening the Hennepin delegation.

Jenswold Names Lind.

Nominations being declared in order, Aitkin county yielded to St. Louis and John Jenswold, Jr., of Duluth quickly appeared on the stage. The crowd's enthusiasm caught fire anew and the Duluthian was given a heart-warming welcome. He was briefly introduced as one of the foremost Democrats in the state and as a man who has been all his life active in the service of the people as a private citizen.

Mr. Jenswold's speech was brief, but eloquent, and took with the delegates from the first word. He told of the fame and the glory of the commonwealth and how they are the reflection of the citizenship of the state. The sentences that he spoke took on an almost poetic form and brilliance as he proceeded and his hearers listened intently. When the speaker approached the subject of the late governor, saying of him that he was "the man who made Minnesota famous, who put Minnesota on the world's map," the delegates cheered heartily.

Leading up to his dramatic conclusion, Mr. Jenswold declared that this "is not a time for rapt contemplation of the past; rather is it a time for action, for looking to the future. Concerning Mr. Lind, he said:

"Once a Republican, he was a Republican from conviction; he was the first insurgent from conviction, and he was the first jewel in the crown of Minnesota Democracy. It was he who was the first man to make the Democratic party the power for good that it has been, that made it possible for the Democracy of Minnesota to carry on the fight for the people."

He extolled the character and achievements of the former governor and said:

"With such a man willing to accept the burden, we have the assurance that he is the man to take up the work for Democracy in Minnesota.

"I place in nomination John Lind," and in the storm of acclaim that was brought forth by the concluding sentence the St. Louis county man made his way back to the delegation.

Nominated By Acclamation.

While the cheers still filled the hall the calling of counties for further nominations proceeded, but Becker county was the last one mentioned. It was moved to close the nominations and the motion was no sooner uttered than carried and the nomination of John Lind by acclamation an accomplished fact.

Former Senator S. A. Stockwell of Minneapolis, rushed to the stage and was recognized. He shouted, "When John Lind says he will not accept——"

Whatever else he intended to say at that precise moment will never be known. Possibly he did say it. If he did, he couldn't have heard himself say it. It was gigantic, that noise.

When Chairman Daly succeeded in making his ruling heard, he said the only question before the convention was whether the nomination should be made unanimous. That served to make the uproar greater than ever, but Stockwell doggedly kept his place. Not for twelve minutes was he permitted to talk, and then only because someone moved the previous question. A Minneapolis delegate made the point of order that the previous question could not be entertained so long as Stockwell held the floor This was upheld.

The chair pleaded with the delegates to be quiet and give Stockwell a hearing and, at least, when they had been assured he wanted to say but "ten words" he was given a chance to start. He said about thirty-five of the ten and then, when the delegates understood he was talking against Lind's nomination and nothing else, they effectually silenced him, although he continued to talk for some moments.

Then Fenton G. Winston of Minneapolis got the floor. He was given a chance to talk, besides being heartily cheered. He said no man in the state is closer to the hearts of the people than is John Lind; that his best friends in the convention know he will not accept.

To this the convention interposed thunderous objection and then lapsed into semi-quiet again.

Pleaded for Delay.

"Be fair to John Lind," he pleaded. "Send a telegram to him, asking if he will accept this unanimous nomination that has been given him. It is a duty we owe him, to adjourn until 8 o'clock this evening and await his answer."

But that such a proposition would not be entertained for a moment was quickly and unmistakably made apparent. The storm of noise raged fiercely until Daniel W. Lawler of Ramsey county made his majestic way to the stage.

Lawler, whose voice every one admires, got the ear of the convention in a moment and made use of the opportunity, telling of his great admiration for John Lind and indorsing the suggestion made by Mr. Winston. He said the delegates had no right to "wreck the Democratic pary" by nominating Lind, but added that with Lind as the candidate he would give six weeks of his own time to stumping the state for him. Supported by the vocal power of the Ramsey delegation in the matter of judiciously timed cheers, Lawler made an argument, the intent of which was to convince the convention Lind would reject the nomination, and that as a result the selection of the man who was to head the ticket would devolve upon the state central committee.

"Under such circumstances as would be entailed by the rejection of the nomination by John Lind, no self-respecting Democrat would take the nomination from the hands of the state central committee," he declaimed.

This sentiment was received with every evidence of contemptous disfavor, and Lawler rejoined the Ramsey delegation without having contributed anything to the advancement of the cause in which that delegation was so ardently interested, and that was the defeat of the nomination of Lind.

J. M. Freeman interrupted a bedlam of discussion and controversy as to the proper method of procedure to make a few remarks that were heard.

The Country For Lind.

"We see here what is obviously an attempt to defeat the will of the Democracy of Minnesota," said he. "Outside of the Twin Cities there can be heard no dissenting voice. John Lind is too good a Democrat and too good a citizen not to respond to the call of the Democracy. It is true that he would rather not have this nomination, but I know, and we all know, that he will be the nominee and that he will be the next governor of Minnesota!"

That sentiment was concurred in with an outburst that indicated the force of united numbers.

"Let us get through with this tomfoolery and get down to business," shouted Mr. Freeman. "If there is any Democrat here who will not vote for Lind after he is made the nominee, will he please stand up? I want the Democrats of the state to see him."

Stockwell, stubborn to the last, climbed half way up the steps to the whispered "Here I am," and then got down among the other Democrats.

Stevens of Hennepin got the floor to make a few remarks about "self-respecting" Democrats. They were brief, pointed and edged with the most cutting sarcasm. The Ramsey delegation looked a bit sheepish. He moved to lay on the table a substitute motion made by Lawler and it was done unanimously, except for a bit of grumbling in the Hennepin section.

Chairman Daly stopped the noise for a moment to say that John Lind, the nominee of the Democratic party for governor would be elected by a majority of 50,000, and no one disagreed with him.

Nominations for lieutenant governor being in order, Andrew Nelson of Duluth mounted a chair and moved the appointment of a committee to select a list of candidates for the other offices.

Austin Again in Limelight.

This suggestion was yelled down and Z. H. Austin again got into the limelight, for the last time, he said. St. Louis county derided him and someone back in the hall told him to go away.

"If you folks will only let me alone——" he pleaded.

"We would if you'd stay away," retorted a delegate.

Then began a meaningless, confused, jabbering, hooting controversy over the method by which the head of the ticket should be selected in the event of Lind's refusal to run. Chairman Daly disposed of the matter by ruling that Austin's proposal was out of order because it related to the nomination of a candidate for governor, which had already been disposed of.

The nomination of candidates for lieutenant governor and the other offices was made with trip-hammer speed and then, as a closing feature, came the revolt of the anti-Daylites.

This was the most amusing feature of the proceedings. Most of the delegates had left the auditorium but a reasonably numerous bunch remained for the concert that always follows a circus. The chief performers were James Manahan, Judge Lewis and Judge Larson, all of Minneapolis.

They didn't like the idea of permitting the state central committee to do what the statute says they must do in the event of the failure of a nominated candidate to run for office. They contended that the convention should define the duties of the fifteen members at large, whom the chair was authorized to name. They wanted the convention to say that these members should be selected and that the possible selection of a candidate for governor should be made by the committee only after consultation with the nominees. Frank A. Day, from his seat on the stage, cheerfully seconded the motion.

Exasperated by the derisive tone of comment that surged up from the audience, Larson at last shouted that it was the duty of the convention to kick Daly out of the chairmanship. Everybody laughed, and some hothead made the assertion that the chairman had resorted to correct interpretations of parliamentary rules on every occasion he could, to the disgust of the insurgents.

And so, laughing, bantering, expostulating and declaiming to the last, the convention came to a close.

TRAMPS FIRE BARN WHEN DENIED FOOD

Scare Away People With Revolvers Until Building Is Ablaze.

Denbigh, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because they were refused a meal, two tramps who had called at the home of Chris Schaatz near here, set fire to a large barn on his farm, and in order to prevent neighbors from assisting Schaatz in extinguishing the flames, they kept up a steady revolver fire.

Immediately after the fire began to die out the tramps made their getaway and although a posse had been organized, no trace of them could be found.

Schaatz had been obliged to refuse the men a meal because his wife had already retired, but he had offered them a lunch and also gave them quilts so that they could make themselves a place to sleep in the barn.

COW CAUGHT IN SNARE.

Bossy Loses Her Life in Trap Set for Deer.

Gwinn, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cow owned by Mrs. A. Oja, who lives about three miles from here, walked into a wire snare that was set for deer and was strangled to death.

Parties residing in and near Gwinn and Princeton have been killing game out of season and the snaring method for catching deer is not a new one in this vicinity. It is not known who set the snare but if the party is caught a severe penalty will be dealt out. Game birds and animals are being killed regularly out of season and true sportsmen of this region are on the lookout for the violators of the law.

PLAN SCHOOL FOR TRUANTS

Board Will Be Urged to Use Washington Building for Purpose.

Club Women Would Keep Delinquents and Backward Pupils Segregated.

Pressure will soon be brought to bear on the school board to have the old Washington school turned into a school for backward, delinquent and truant pupils.

What to do with the old building is a question that has bothered the members of the school board for some time past. As yet no action has been taken on the matter, although there is a disposition on the part of some members of the board to sell the building.

If the building were turned to uses of this kind it would be known as the "special school." The boys who "play hookey" from school would find themselves under strict rules and in the very center of the city, where the truant officer would have them under his eye.

Children who are not normally intelligent are said to get along but poorly at the regular schools. They are also said to hinder those who learn more quickly.

The truants sent to the special school would be an example to others, and it is generally thought that the idea would work out well.

Two members of the school board are known to favor the idea. The only obstacle known at the present time is funds. Several teachers and a principal would have to be engaged, and the building would have to undergo repairs. In fact the building has been condemned for school purposes, and some members of the board are said to object to its being put to that use again.

The club women of the city are discussing the matter, and it is probable that some definite movement toward the establishing of a special school will be started in a short time.

The claim is made that Duluth is now large enough for a school of this kind. The old Washington school would be an ideal place for the location of the school, a great number think.

JOKE ON LIFE-SAVER.

"Rescues" Supposed Woman Who Is Expert Male Swimmer.

Miller, S. D., July 29.—A practical joke came near costing a life in the Rafferty plunge bath here. A large crowd was in the water and along the banks of the artificial lake, when a demure, sad-appearing young woman in full dress threw herself from the edge of the deepest part of the lake into the water. It appeared to the onlookers that it was a case of suicide, and Charles Dwyer, who had just come to the lake, instantly jumped in after the supposed victim. He had great difficulty in bringing her to shore, almost losing his balance as he struggled in the deep water with her. He finally managed to bring the limp lady to safety. Then to his great disgust the demure one threw off her dress of woman's attire and dived back into the water in a bathing suit. It was a boy who had dressed up for the purpose of a joke. Mr. Dwyer will not do any more rescuing in that lake.

REPUBLICANS HOLD A LOVE FEAST.

With Carrie Nation out of the way, the local Republican leaders felt much better last evening, and, out of a feeling of greater easiness therefrom, inadvertently dropped into the St. Louis, where an informal reception was held. The hosts of this informal, to which all good Republicans were invited who happened to stray into the lobby, were Congressman Clarence B. Miller, S. W. Gilpin, candidate for county judge of probate; N. A. Young, candidate for superintendent of schools; E. L. Raab, who wants to be a representative from the Forty-ninth; W. A. Anderson, who is secretary of the advisory council of the Republican clubs, and who has fond political hopes, and County Commissioner Ryan.

Mr. Raab seemed to act as reception committee, and he picked off the "lost, stolen or strayed" Republicans as fast as they entered the lobby.

When Carry Nation was forgotten, the subject drifted to their other great foe, the Democrats, then assembled in Minneapolis, and after expressing their fears that Lind would be nominated, they made bitter attacks upon the enemy's leaders, and predicted dark things.

The party broke up at an early hour, all expressing themselves well pleased with the evening's entertainment, and looking forward to a most "brilliant" victory in the near future.

COPPERHEAD SNAKE KILLED

Two Cloquet Women Slay Reptile That Had Crawled Into Front Yard.

Cloquet, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. J. P. Seible and Mrs. W. H. Lancelot killed a copperhead snake in the yard of the former's home, some children shying from the snake first attracting the two women's attention to it.

Mrs. Seible threw a stone at the snake and it turned like a flash and with its tongue out, came directly toward them. It fought viciously, but the two women finally succeeded in killing the reptile.

They kept it until the men of the neighborhood came home from work at 6 o'clock, and they pronounced it a copperhead. It is thought that the snake might have been hauled in with some dirt brought from near the boom house, three miles from Cloquet, and which is being used to fill the Seible yard.

TRAIN DERAILED IN FARGO LIMITS

West Bound Northern Pacific Leaves Track; No One Being Hurt.

Fargo, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The westbound passenger train was delayed an hour at the city limits by the derailment of the Northern Pacific engine, tender, express car and smoker today. The accident occurred at the yard limits. No one was injured and the people in the smoker were the only ones shaken up.

FARGO—MOORHEAD DAY.

Banner Crowd of Week at the Fargo Fair Friday.

Fargo, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—This was Fargo and Moorhead day at the North Dakota state fair. Every body in both towns closed up this afternoon and took a half holiday. The downtown district of Fargo was practically deserted. One of the best racing cards has been reserved for this afternoon, and practically all the judging was completed before noon.

The crowd today was the largest of the week.

BUTTERMAKERS' PICNIC.

Annual Outing of Wisconsin Association at Chippewa Falls.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual picnic of the Northwestern Wisconsin Buttermakers' association was held yesterday afternoon at Irvine park, a large number of members of the association with their families and friends, a total of about 300 being present.

The afternoon's program was opened with the address of welcome by S. B. Cook of Bloomer, president of the association. George F. Comings of Eau Claire gave the principal address, speaking on "Co-operation of the Farmers." Other members of the association were called upon for brief addresses.

Assistant Dairy and Food Inspector U. S. Baer of Madison was to have been present to deliver an address, but owing to business reasons he telephoned that he would be unable to attend.

After the addresses a baseball game was played between the buttermakers and the traveling men, S. J. Blood of St. Paul officiating as umpire. The picnic supper was held at 6 o'clock.

ST. PAUL BONIFACE BUYS INTEREST IN RADISSON.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry J. Tremain, manager and a proprietor of the Willard hotel, St. Paul, has purchased an interest in the Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis. Mr. Tremain may devote part of his time to the Radisson and part to the Willard, which he has built up from a run down condition since he took charge four years ago. It is probable at the annual meeting of the directors of the company which operates the Radisson, Mr. Tremain will be elected an official, likely secretary.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The Saturday evening dances at the main house of the Boat club and the Oatka branch continue to be among the most enjoyable of the informal affairs of the summer season. An orchestra plays the dancing program at both of the club houses and the cool summer evenings are proving a joy for the young people who like the strenuous method of having fun.

Tomorrow afternoon promises to be of much interest to the Boat club members as the second race between the Blues and the Reds in the war canoe event will take place. The Blues won last week's race and the Reds are more determined than ever and have been practicing regularly, in order that the race shall not be won in two straight. Club pins will be given the members of the crew of the boat that wins two out of the three races scheduled. There will also be sailing events and a motor boat race tomorrow afternoon. Next week the ladies' sailing races will be held and the fair sailors are learning rapidly that contrary to all former knowledge "sheet" is a rope and "right" is sail, and other confusing mannerisms of the sailor's language.

A large number of small dinner parties will be entertained tomorrow evening before the regular events.

ONE MORE DAY

That "Miracle" Picture May Be Seen Here.

Tomorrow will be the last day that the wonderful picture "The Shadow of the Cross" will be shown in Duluth. The picture has been shown throughout America for charitable purposes for nearly fourteen years. The picture was to have been known as "The Man of Sorrows" and before the artist, Henry Hammond Ahl, had completed it, he discovered the shadow which was to be seen in certain lights and which resulted from chemical action of the paint. The picture has a record of having been shown to more than 4,000,000 people.

Mr. Ahl has secured his greatest success in the art world through religious pictures. His "Madonna and Child" belongs to the Tate collection of London and his "The Magdalene" was purchased by Pierpont Morgan. During the last year he has been occupied with a portrait of Speaker Joe Cannon to hang in the hall of representatives at Washington.

Hundreds in Duluth have been viewing the wonderful picture on exhibition before at 329 West Superior street. The hours for the exhibition are from 12 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening. The proceeds will go toward St. Luke's hospital. This will probably be the last opportunity that Duluthians will have to see the "miracle picture".

TRY THIS DINNER

Potage Francaise.

Parboil in salted boiling water one carrot, one turnip and one stalk of celery fine cut. When tender, drain, add six cupfulls of hot beef stock and simmer until very tender. Toast eight thin slices of bread and put into a saucepan with enough strong beef stock to cover. Simmer gently until the toasts have absorbed the stock and have partly dried. Put the toasts into a tureen, pour the soup over very carefully, and serve at once.

Meat—Creamed Chicken on Corn Fritters.

First make the usual batter mixture: take a pint of grated corn, add two well-beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoons of flour, a shake of pepper and enough milk to make them pour easily on a hot griddle. Bake like griddle cakes. Make a pint of ordinary creamed chicken, but use cream instead of milk in the white sauce, and two beaten egg yolks. Put a spoonful on each cake, with a sprinkling of chopped green peppers.

Salad—Jellied Pecan Salad.

To one pint of lemon jelly when nearly hard, add one cup of broken pecans, mold in wine glasses and serve on lettuce leaves, with finely shaved sweet green peppers and mayonnaise.

Dessert—Lemon Ice.

Make a syrup of two cups of boiling water and two of sugar. Boil ten minutes. When you take it from the fire add six tablespoons of lemon juice. Allow it to cover, then freeze. Serve in punch glasses with slices of bananas and maraschino cherries, with a little of the liquid of the cherries.

HINTS FOR THE BOUDOIR

By MILDRED WYCKOFF

Value of Sleep.

The first sleep is the soundest—after the first hour the intensity of sleep slowly diminishes—hence the value of forty winks after dinner in quickly recuperating shattered powers. Temperature and vitality are lowered at about 2 a. m., so that two hours' sleep before midnight are worth four thereafter. Nature has no rule as to the length of sleep, except that men need less than women, since women are the more sensitive creatures, and a woman's heart beats five times more in a minute than a man's.

Sleep should be just so long that when you wake in the morning a stretch and a yawn only are necessary to land you in a daytime of bounding vigor. As to early rising, it is comforting to hear a learned doctor say it is a habit that has gone far to wreck the constitution of many a growing youth.

Care of the Hands.

If you wear gloves to bed every night and massage the hands and rub the cold cream well under and over the finger nails before adjusting the gloves your nails should cease being brittle and breaking. Use a little pumice to harden the cuticle, as it creates hard flesh to cut the cuticle continually.

A Dainty Complexion Cream.

A very dainty complexion cream is as follows: Four ounces rose water, 4 ozs. almond oil, 1 oz. spermaceti, 1 oz. white wax, 1 dram tincture of benzoin. Work up the solid materials, gradually adding the liquids. In the morning you should wash your face with warm water and a mixture of benzoin and rose water. Finish this toilet of the face by dashing on quantities of cold water, drying the skin and duffing on some of your favorite powder. You will go down to breakfast with your skin looking very soft and fair.

THE EVENING STORY

OVERBOARD

By J. E. Patterson.

It was a December forenoon, and the cloud-rack hanging over the coast was anything but reassuring. The smack Fawn had experienced a dirty passage, the weather being more like March in a tantrum than it usually is at the end of the year. Now she had arrived within some six miles of the low coastline, and was standing up southwest by west—with the freshening breeze on her starboard bow.

"Locks to me, Jim," the skipper said to his mate, "as how a mule 'as kicked the weather sideways; an' now it's goin' to kick back, an' mighty hard, too."

To this the latter agreed, and wished "the tide would make."

Without a reply the skipper critically eyed his surroundings, then went below to the cabin. There, with his fingers' ends, he rapped the glass face of the aneroid, stood a while in deep thought; then reappeared in the companionway and said: "Dodge her along, Jim, till the ebb slackens—that'll be about 12 o'clock—then call me an' Simpson and we'll make for the river."

"All right," the mate replied, as he straightened up and turned round after re-securing the mizzen-sheets.

The skipper gave him a cautionary order about standing the smack too close in to the land, then returned to the cabin and stretched himself on the long fore-and-aft locker to gain an hour's sleep (which would be more than he had enjoyed since the previous afternoon), preparatory to piloting the vessel into and up the harbor.

"Stand by the fore-sheet, Tom," said Jim, after having smoked a pipe of tobacco, during which he had fixed many a vindictive look on the youth. "We'll 'ave about an' let 'er lay to the north a bit."

Tom sauntered aft to the stern of the small boat, where he stood and tightened his belt by another hole, so as to check his desire for dinner. The mate lashed the helm amidships, then went forward to the lee-bow. There he spent some minutes in deep thought, which he ended by muttering, "Now we'll see if 've can't stop your blabbin' tongue, my fine lad. It's the first chance, an' I'll do it. Tell the skipper I was asleep in my watch on deck, will you? Well, you'll not do it again, if this chance holds good," and, finishing with an oath, he turned away.

Tom obeyed his instructions, as they pulled the jib up to the wind, thus releasing the lee-sheets.

"There," Jim observed when the cringle was abreast the forestay, "you can get at it now. Jump down an' get your sheets up, an' then show you a 'and to haul it aft again w'en you're ready."

Tom went to the main hatchway and leaped into the hold, for the purpose of obtaining the rope termed "sheets." This was kept in the forehold, and it being dark there Jim knew that several minutes would pass before the youth came back. The instant the latter was out of sight the other stepped silently to the lee-bow, took a couple turns with a small, handy line to the chain tail-end of the foretop maststay, slackened up the stay from the windlasshead, then half-disconnected a patent connecting link in the chain—put there to replace an original bad link—made the stay fast to its proper spot, and released the line that had held it while he was at his treacherous work. The next minute he had crept aft, taking care to put his sea boots down as softly as possible on the deck.

When Jim emerged from the hold the mate was standing quietly by the companionway, down which he went as soon as the former climbed on to the stem to go on with his work.

With his legs twisted around the forestay, the youth tried to enter the end of the new sheets into the dangling bullseye on the clew of the sail, but in vain. What with the sail being too far out and the ceaseless moving of the clew, he found that he might stand there all the forenoon and not succeed in his task. After a few puffs of warm breath at his numbing fingers and several times thumping each hand alternately on the opposite breast, he crept out some five feet along the bowsprit and sat astride of it, with his hip resting against the chain-end of the topmast-stay, which ran parallel with the spar and was made fast inboard.

Now he placed his left hand on the tail of the stay by his hip, reached up the rope, watched for an opportunity, and entered it into the swinging bullseye—when, snap! There was a rattle of running chain, his body swung to leeward of the spar, and he dropped headlong into the seething foam about the bows. The next moment he was jerked to the surface, dragged along for the space of some thirty seconds; then left motionless, gasping, and dumbfounded on the water. The two parts of the patent link tampered with by the mate had separated, as intended, and Tom had unwittingly — no doubt instinctively—grasped as he fell the stay-end that led from the topmasthead through the iron loop at the outer end of the bowsprit. His unconscious hold on this had brought him to the surface, as the smack lifted her head to the swell, and it still lay in his hand.

The waters were romping around hime like an overwhelming, mingling, merry, yet mad crowd of little imps. One part of the sea—about a bucketful—flopped squarely down on his face, and he felt himself sinking again. Now commenced a game at which Tom had never played before. Every time the vessel's head dipped between the pale-green, mud-tinged rollers, he gripped to the slack chain for dear life; but when he rose again she tore it through his hands. The chain being small, therefore requiring the more strength to grasp it; the water so icy cold as to have chilled him to the bone at the first contact, and he having to lift the additional load of water in his thick clothing, he had not sufficient strength to bear his own weight.

Whenever he saw the bowsprit descending, he thought he might obtain a hold of it and struggle on to its top. Yet this means of rescue was denied him. On each occasion it uplifted when within a few inches of his reach.

Just then the cabin boy slipped quietly on deck to ask Tom to draw and hand him down to the steerage a couple of bucketfuls of water to swill off the soapsuds from the cabin door—then being cleaned for entering the dock. On issuing from the companionway and seeing no Tom, the boy ran forward. Like a young rabbit back to its hole on the appearance of danger, the boy leaped aft, and more fell rather than ran down the companion-ladder, crying: "Tom's overboard! Tom's overboard! Skipper, skipper! Tom's over—" Before he could say more, the gray-hearded man and the mate were almost pushing each other aside in their eager endeavor to get on deck—the former fully awake at that startling cry, and the latter, all desire to seem an equally impetuous rescuer, though in his heart the while cursed the boy and everything else that had foiled his purpose. After them, with all speed, came the boy and Simpson—the other member of the crew; the lad calling out: "Over the bow, skipper; over the bow!"

"Shove the jib up to the wind, thus releasing the lee-sheets.

"There," Jim observed when the cringle was abreast the forestay, "you can get at it now. Jump down an' get your sheets up, an' then show you a 'and to haul it aft again w'en you're ready."

Tom went to the main hatchway and leaped into the hold, for the purpose of obtaining the rope termed "sheets." WEST END

WEST END BOYS WILL GO CAMPING

Clubs of Neighborhood House Will Have Outing at Pike Lake.

About 130 boys of the West end are looking forward with more than ordinary interest to "camping time," when the Neighborhood House of the West end will send its various clubs to Pike lake for a two weeks' outing. The affair will probably be held the last two weeks in August.

No definite arrangements have yet been made for the trip, according to Miss Jean Poirier, who is in charge. The four clubs, the Twentieth Century club, the Lincoln Literary society, the Knights of the Round Table and the Newsboys' club will each camp for a few days.

The younger boys, who belong to the Newsboys' club, will stay two or three days, the Knights about four days, and the other clubs a week each. Each boy will take his own blanket and will carry a knapsack. It was planned at first to make a cross country hike, but because it is thought that the trip would be too strenuous for the smaller boys, the idea was given up.

HIBERNIAN PICNIC AT TWO HARBORS.

Division No. 6, Ancient Order of Hibernians of the West end will send a large delegation to the annual picnic of the Superior order, which will be held Sunday, Aug 14, at Two Harbors.

The steamer Easton has been chartered for the occasion and will leave the Superior dock at 9 o'clock. The return trip from Two Harbors will be made at 5 o'clock in the evening.

A ball game may be arranged between the Duluth and Superior Hibernians.

EVANSTON PROFESSOR IN WEST END PULPIT.

Prof. G. O. Hall, dean of the Garrit Biblical Institute at Evanston, Ill., will occupy the pulpit at both services Sunday at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Last evening he spoke at the Bethany church in West Duluth.

WILL GIVE LECTURE ON THE HOLY LAND.

Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city will give a stereoptican lecture on his trip in the Holy Land at the First Norwegian-Danish church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street, Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Dr. Rice spent two months abroad this year, returning a short time ago, after visiting the principal cities in Europe and making a tour through Palestine. He took many pictures on his trip and has had many of the views placed on slides.

DR. P. P. WALDENSTROM GOES TO ROCKFORD.

Dr. P. P. Waldenstrom, D. D. Ph. D., founder of the Swedish Mission church and a well known Swedish legislator and author, who spoke Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Swedish Mission church. Twenty-first avenue west and second street, left yesterday afternoon for Rockford, Ill.

Dr. Waldenstrom is touring the principal cities of this country, after attending the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Swedish Mission Covenant. The celebration was held at Chicago. After visiting a few Eastern cities, he will return to Sweden.

He is accompanied by his wife.

SOCIETY HAS RAISED $750 FOR NEW CHURCH.

A social was given last evening at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street under hte auspices of the ladies' aid society.

Each member of the society who attended, donated $1 to a fund, which the society is raising to pay off the debt, which was contracted when the new building was put up.

Out of $1,000, which the society pledged itself to raise before Sept. 1, $750 has already been paid in. A committee of the society will devise means of raising the balance. It is probable that a big bazaar will be given as in former years.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. G. H. Lent of Hibbing is visiting at the home of her brother, Capt. D. E. Stevens, of 2231 West Third street.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy, who recently underwent an operation at St. Mary's hospital has sufficiently recovered to be able to return to her home, 2608 Huron street.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society, a musical and literary entertainment will be given this evening at Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street.

Miss Clara Sommerville, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. M. S. Coleman, of Virginia, has returned to her home, 2601 West Sixth street.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church enjoyed a picnic yesterday afternoon and evening at Lincoln park, the affair being largely attended by the congregation and friends.

Mrs. Mary Harmann, mother of Rev. W. E. Harmann, of 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, who has been visiting at the home of her son, will leave tomorrow for her home at Litchfield, Minn. Mrs. W. E. Harmann will accompany her as far as Aitkin, Minn., where both will visit for a few days.

The party of West end girls camping at Thirty-eighth street, Minnesota Point, with Mrs. James Worthington and Mrs. David Adams as chaperones, has broken up after the girls spent two weeks at the place. The families of W. H. Leonard and G. Wellington, both of the West end, are now occupying the cottages for two weeks.

New Grand Forks Factory.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 29.—Another new factory has been added to the list in Grand Forks, F. E. Ripley, formerly of Illinois, opening a cotton glove factory. The capacity at the present time is not very great but it will be increased within a very short time, it being the hope of those interested to be able to supply the entire demand in this section of the Northwest.

SELLS-FLOTO SHOW KNOWN AS "THE CIRCUS BEAUTIFUL"

THE BORSINIS,
With the Sells-Floto Shows.

In a lumber camp out beyond Lucknow, India, a few months ago, where a gang of natveis with a herd of elephants were getting out railway ties, a gigantic Indian elephant gave birth to twin babies.

Now be it known that twin elephants are practically unheard of in the animal world. It is needless to say that their coming was heralded far and wide, and it is also unnecessary to state that among the big magnates of the amusement world competition became keen for these prizes.

But when it came down to a question of the highest bidder a Western circus loomed up as the important contender. Before the Eastern moguls knew what was happening the proprietors of the Sells-Floto circus had secured the twins, and two weeks ago they were delivered to them at Denver, Col.

This is just one of the instances which has made the Sells-Floto people supreme in the world of the big tent. Elbert Hubbard once christened their attraction "The Circus Beautiful," and it has always lived up to that reputation. Of course it has grown with the years, and each season it comes back more magnificent in proportion and with greater facilities for amusing the masses. But it will always be "The Circus Beautiful," because if it had been run entirely from the money standpoint the Sells-Floto circus would have passed into history long ago. Ever since its inception it has been the target for all kinds of opposition from the combined circus interests. At times this war has been costly. But these Western men never faltered; they always kept their attraction above reproach in every way, and here as in other places always find a welcome awaiting them.

This season the Sells-Floto show returns, making a bold bid for public patronage. In the first place it offers a splendid list of attractions; secondly, they are doing what no one in the amusement world ever dared attempt before, that is to say, they are cutting the regular prices in half.

The Sells-Floto people for years have had a battle on their hands by reason of the independent stand taken by them. They are now carrying their argument straight to the people, and in doing so are practically revolutionizing the circus business.

The Sells-Floto circus will arrive here sometime in the forenoon of Sunday and will give two performances here on Monday next. The time-honored parade will be given at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, and by all accounts it will only be necessary to see this magnificent pageant in order to be convinced that the Sells-Floto circus is better than ever before, and that's saying something.

Doom of the Fire Horse.

The doom of the fire horse as an important part of the equipment of the fire department is foreshadowed owing to the fact that the automobile fire engine is growing in favor in the larger cities. During the summer months the use of beer as a cooling, refreshing and, at the same time, nourishing beverage, such as Golden Grain Belt beer, is becoming more general in the American home. Get a case and be convinced of its good qualities. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

ADMIT BREAKING INTO BOX CARS

Five Young Toughs Taken in Pine County; Anxious to Do Time.

Sandstone, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — The five men arrested by Marshal Regan and M. H Galvin, a detective in the employ of the Great Northern, gave their names as Edward Sullivan, George Wilson, Anthony Grove, William Getchel and George Ketter, and are supposed to hail from Northeast Minneapolis. They are charged with breaking the seal of a box car and stealing a box of shoes, in the railroad yards here, and also some sardines. Some of the shoes they offered for sale at half price among employes in the sandstone quarries here, but found very few buyers.

They were arraigned before Justice Russell, Wednesday evening, after the arrival of the county attorney from Pine City and all pleaded guilty and were anxious to have their sentence pronounced immediately. Judge Stollerg of the district court, was notified at once and he will act at once. They are a young looking lot, but tough.

GERMANY FAVORS THE SCHEME FOR LIBERIA.

Berlin, July 29.—The foreign office, it is understood, fully agrees with American plans to assist Liberia, and gives its moral support to German participation in the international syndicate loan.

The semi-official Cologne Gazette, discussing the subject, says:

"The United States, through the development of her present plan will have a political influence upon Liberia, but has no intention to infringe upon the independence of that country."

News of the movement, originating in the United States, to refund the national debt of Liberia, is printed fully in the Berlin papers, and usually with the editorial suggestion that the United States is entering more definitely than ever before in old world affairs.

Prohibitionist Leader Is Making a Tour of Wisconsin.

Eau Claire, Wis., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eugene N. Chafin of Illnois, Prohibition candidate for president in 1908, is in the city today. He delivered an address in Randall park this afternoon, on his old subject, "One Standard of Morals."

He spoke at Chippewa Falls last evening. He is making a tour of the state.

GRAND MARAIS COUPLE IS MARRIED AT CLOQUET.

Cloquet, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Afraid of the joshing usually indulged in at the expense of a bride and groom, Miss Jennie Brobock and Antone Peterson, both of Grand Marais, eluded their friends and came to Cloquet to be married, the wedding taking place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Johnson, the latter a girlhood friend of the bride, Rev. C. O. Swenson performed the marriage ceremony. The bridal couple have returned to Grand Marais. Miles Brobock recently returned from a trip to Norway.

NEW NATIONAL FOREST CREATED

Part of Tahoe Reserve Is Included in the Area.

Washington, July 29.—A new national forest has been created in California and christened the Eldorado. The proclamation was signed by the president immediately upon his return from his vacation cruise along the Maine coast, according to a telegram received today by the department of agriculture.

The new reserve consists of 809,910 acres, which have been listed out of the southern portion of the Tahoe national forest, and 31,761 acres additional taken from the public domain. This makes the total number of national forests 151.

EMBARGO ON BANANA SHIPMENTS IS RAISED.

New Orleans, La., July 29.—Cabled messages from Port Cortez, Honduras, announce that the embargo on banana shipments to the United States has been raised and that regular service has been resumed on the Honduras railroad running into the interior. These cables are taken as indications that peace again reigns in the little republic.

Lightning Kills Horses.

Flasher, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eight head of horses that were owned by Herman A. Fay and which were in his barn near this city, were killed by a bolt of lightning. Only one horse in the barn, and that the least valuable of the lot, escaped death. The loss amounted to about $2,000.

FOREBEAR OF CLEVELAND

Sold Into Servitude for Sixteen Gallons of Rum.

Boston, Mass., July 29.—Miss Rose Cleveland, in her investigation of the lineage of the Cleveland, finds that the great-grandfather of Grover Cleveland was sold into servitude in Canada for sixteen gallons of rum. His great-great-grandfather, Richard Falley, was kidnaped on the Island Guernsey when 10 years old and brought to Massachusetts, where he was bound out till he was 21 years of age.

His eldest son, Richard, during the latter part of the Indian wars, entered the contest against the French and Indians, and in one of the fights was captured.

With twenty men and women, Richard was taken to Canada and sold to a woman in Montreal as a servant. The Indians received sixteen gallons of rum for young Falley. A few months later he got aboard a ship bound for Boston and returned to Massachusetts.

NEGRO BLOOD IN HER VEINS.

Husband Deserted When He Heard It and She Went Mad.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—Through the arrest of Mrs. Caroline Harkins, on the assumption that she had gone insane, the story became known of how her husband of the last twenty-six years and the father of her four grown children had deserted her when he was told there was negro blood in her veins.

An aged relative was visiting Mrs. Harkins, and in a moment of pique informed Harkins that his wife's great-grandmother was a mulatto. Harkins put on his hat, shook hands with his wife and informed her she would never see him again. He then left and Mrs. Harkins went into hysterics. When arraigned before Magistrate Alpern she told her story.

Mrs. Harkins acknowledged that it is true that there is some negro blood in her veins, but declared it is so slight that she always has associated with members of the Caucasian race.

ADDITION TO HAREM

For Which He Will Pay $25,000 Sought By Sulu's Sultan.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 29.—The sultan of Sulu has left his 4,000 subjects and 14 wives in the Philippines and is coming to the states.

While here he will be on the lookout for an addition to his harem, for which he is willing to pay $25,000 if he can satisfy his discriminating taste.

The sultan draws a pension of $125 a month from Uncle Sam, but his chief source of income is from Sulu pearl divers, his royal rake-off being one-third of the catch.

He also, it is said, takes toll from sundry army officers at the great American game of draw.

He is also looking for an American wife for his oldest son.

WIPES OUT CIVIL SERVICE.

Ruling of Milwaukee City Attorney Practically Has That Effect.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 29.—Civil service protection does not apply to any office in Milwaukee city hall, the head of which is obliged to furnish a bond assuring the honest discharge of the duties thereof.

This is the opinion of City Attorney Daniel W. Hoan given to Harry E. Briggs, commissioner of public works. Mr. Briggs asked for an interpretation of the civil service law to circumvent the alleged perniciousness of the three non-Socialist members of the civil service board. The city attorney's view of the situation practically wipes out civil service in the city hall as the city attorney is the only official who does not furnish a bond.

UNCLE SAM MUST WAIT

Manufacturers Will Not Make Deliveries Under Six Months.

Have Plenty of Other Business to Keep Plants Running.

Washington, July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is the time when all the government departments are engaged in making contracts for fixtures, supplies and material, also for the construction of public buildings. The result of the recent opening of bids demonstrates very clearly the condition of business throughout the country. There are a number of big concerns, especially among manufacturers of steel, who never bid upon government work when they have plenty of commercial business to attend to. They seem to go upon the theory that government contracts are the least desirable for a manufacturer, and the reason is that the technicalities which surround most of the contracts are so great, and that the action of some of the minor officials and employes of the government in enforcing these technicalities are so annoying as to frequently deprive the contractor of every particle of profit. The most noticeable difference between bids this year and those of previous openings is found in the time of delivery for contracts running into thousands of dollars. Last year it was possible to secure bids ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 for fixtures and supplies with deliveries in sixty or ninety days, or at the farthest four months, while in nearly every instance noted this year the concerns which are recognized as the best and most reliable will not agree to do such amount of government work under six to eight months. The inference drawn by the department officials from this state of affairs is that manufacturing plants are running to their full capacity, and that manufacturers do not care to involve themselves in a liability for liquidated damages by promising deliveries within a shorter period. In other words, they have plenty of business aside from that secured from the government, and Uncle Sam must wait his turn instead of being granted favors not extended to the commercial world.

Money Going to Europe.

In other words, the flow is no longer in the direction of the United States from abroad. It is in the direction of the rest of the world from the United States.

The balance of trade on the face of things is still in favor of the United States. That is, the statistics of the department of commerce and labor show that we are exporting more than we are importing. Figures recently given out by the department of commerce and labor showed the excess of exports over imports was $187,111,349. This, however, is an extremely small excess, the lowest in recent years.

But the small balance of trade in our favor, as shown by the figures, is much more than counterbalanced by the fact that large sums of money go out annually from America which are not included in the term of exports. These sums go mainly to Europe. They consist of the following: Money expended by American tourists traveling abroad; money sent abroad to pay interest on American securities held there; money sent abroad by persons of foreign birth living in the United States who contribute to relatives; money paid to foreigners for transportation.

Estimates as to the totals of these items vary widely. But it is said from good authority that from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 is carried abroad and left there by American tourists; about as much more is sent abroad for interest, and perhaps $100,000,000 is sent by those of foreign birth in this country who give to relatives and friends abroad.

Work for Young Men.

Within the past few weeks a great many young men, mostly students of high schools and colleges, have been employed by the geological survey and have been sent to far distant posts where they are acting as rodmen or chainmen in the survey parties which are plotting out the public lands of the West and are making topographic surveys of the thicly settled states. These boys are eager to secure the positions which afford them an excellent summer outing and give them a better knowledge of the country in which they live than they could obtain by any other method. It is a law of the department that no boy under 18 shall be employed in any of the survey parties operating in the East and the dividing line between the East and the West is the Mississippi river. Then, too, in those states which share with the general government the cost of the topographic survey are permitted to name their own chainmen and rodmen. This year scores of young fellows from Harvard, Princeton and other Eastern colleges as well as the high schools of the District of Columbia, Philadelphia and New York are out on the Canadian frontier, in the Rocky mountains, and on the Pacific coast, living the roughest kind of lives, sleeping in the open, rolled up in blankets, learning something of civil engineering while enjoying a vacation in camp such as they never dreamed of before, for all of which they receive a salary of $40 a month. Inasmuch as each one of these young men must pay his way out and back, it is easy to understand that his four months' employment will leave very little surplus. In fact many of the boys or rather the parents of the boys find that this sort of a vacation of four months is as expensive as a month or six weeks would be at a summer resort at the sea shore or in mountains. But the benefit to the young American is more than counterbalanced by the expense which "Dad" must bear. As Director Smith of the survey remarked this morning, a good many of these young fellows go out as college men and come back as good American citizens. There is no branch of the federal service which does as much for young America as the geological survey in the matter of educating young men while giving them a summer vacation.

The New Submarine.

The navy department is delighted with the report of the great work accomplished by the new submarine Salmon. The Salmon was built by the Electric Boat company of New York and is a development of the original type known as the Holland. Boards of officers of the navy department have frequently recommended the adoption of this type to the exclusion of others which have been offered, but political influence brought to bear upon congress has compelled the department to contract for the construction of other types. That wonderful run of the Salmon during which she made an average speed of about eight knots an hour and ran from Quincy, Mass., to Bermuda, shows that this type of sea fighter has a radius of action far greater than that of a like vessel owned by any other nation. In other words, the officials of the navy department are confident that the Salmon and sister boats now in course of construction will give the American navy the most effective fighting vessel on the face of the seas. It has always been thought heretofore that the submarine could be depended on only for coast defense service. The importance of this test in time of war can be understood and if a sub-marine can stand away from the coast 300, 500 or 700 miles the fear of an attack from foreign fleets will be materially lessened and it is probable that the result will be a very large increase in the number of these vessels authorized in the next session of congress.

SUCKED INTO SHAFT.

Lexington, Ky., July 29.—Frank Miller, while working in the local postoffice as a special delivery messenger fifteen years ago, laid $14 in bills in one of the windows. A puff of wind came along and the money was sucked into a ventilating shaft.

Workmen tearing down the foundation in the process of enlarging and remodeling the building this week, found the money, damp and decaying.

It was turned over to Miller, who will forward it to the treasury department for redemption.

NEW USES FOR POSLAM.

Surprising Results After One Application—Skin Ailments Eradicated.

Those who have on hand a jar of poslam, the new skin remedy, should try it for some of the little skin ailments common to all households, particularly in the summer time. Surprising results will be seen after a single application when poslam is used for sunburn, fever blisters, mosquito bites, burns, rashes, pimples, hives, red noses and irritated and inflamed skin. The complexion is cleared over night; dandruff is dissolved; itching or chafing feet are speedily relieved.

These uses are suggested apart from the primary purposes of poslam, the treatment of eczema, acne, skin scale, all forms of itch and other serious and virulent skin troubles. There is no skin disorder for which poslam should not be unhesitatingly used and which it will not benefit. Whenever itching is present, it is stopped at once.

According to the uses for which it is employed, poslam may be purchased in 50-cent boxes or $2 jars at all drug stores, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior. A free sample, which will demonstrate its marvelous work, will be sent by mail, upon request, to any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

UNEASINESS THAT EXISTS

In Labor Circles Adds to the Uncertainty in Stocks.

Waiting for Results of Crops Causes Hesitation in Buying.

New York, July 29.—The uneasiness of labor, as evidenced by demands for advanced pay and for changes in hours of work and methods of business dealings with employers, has added to the uncertainty existing in the stock and financial affairs here during the last few weeks.

For two months past attention has centered upon crop conditions, and there has seldom been a period when the reports of those conditions carried information of such rapid changes from good to bad and vice versa.

It is accepted that some persons interested in the grain markets, either for lower or higher prices, use all the modern devices for publishing such reports as favor their own personal fortunes, and it is also accepted that they have no hesitation in formulating reports of the kind that will aid them in case the actually existing conditions are not such as they desire to exist.

Yet this present season has given the news bureaus of the world (for the entire world is more interested than usually this year) swift and sudden changes in actual conditions of wheat and of cotton in a most remarkable series of favorable and unfavorable reports. That wheat has fallen off very greatly from the conditions of June 1 is regarded as too true.

That cotton and corn are yet subject to the contingencies of what has proved to be a most uncertain crop year is also a matter of great concern to all the great business interests of this country and many of those of Europe, as well as to all the millions of people to whom low prices for food and clothing are really a necessity of existence.

A Cause of Hesitation.

This waiting for the results of the harvest has caused a hesitation in purchases of many kinds of merchandise by merchants, and in turn has lessened the buying of raw materials by the manufacturers, and the total of the curtailment of business has amounted to many scores of millions of dollars in value.

There has ensued a most conservative and safe basis of affairs in every line of business, and the effects are noticeable in the increased surplus reserves of the New York banks and the decrease in the bank clearances of the country.

There can arrive no disaster save through a very general and severe loss in the crops of the country, and if the crops on the average should prove to be normal then the hesitation will quickly disappear and the conservatism and caution of June and July will be succeeded by buoyancy and confidence in September and October.

That the crops of one section will certainly be above all prior records is nearly assured from reports from Texas and Oklahoma.

Merchants and others here from Texas say that never in the history of that state has there been as generally fine crops produced as during this present year.

Never was there such large acreages put under cultivation, and at the present outlook in cotton, corn, oats, grass, fruits and vegetables Texas will surpass in yield per acre all the records the state has made.

The wheat harvest in the state is all over, and the yield is said to be double that of any year of the past. Corn is felt to be beyond doubt in Texas, and cotton is looking very fine, but all dangers to that crop are not yet passed.

The warm weather here has aided the retail merchants in lowering their stocks very much, and they will carry over to the next season far less merchandise than they expected to do.

In the Same Class.

It must be conceded that the merchants of the interior, and also those of the seaboard cities, are in the same class, so far as careful buying is concerned for the trade of the next six months.

The financiers of this city have been very much disturbed over the legislation as regards corporations, and the merchants of the country have been influenced by their gloomy and unsatisfactory discussions, and this has to a very great degree lessened their confidence in trade and general business of the country at large.

The recovery, the reaction, the return to acceptance of policies of the administration as neither a detriment to public interests nor injurious to those of the investors, will only come when it is evident the transportation companies can continue to pay reasonable dividends through the support given to business by fair crops and prosperity in the agricultural districts of the country.

The fact that the majority of both political parties of the country are committed to practically the same policies as regards control and regulation of corporations removes any chance of the prevalence of the idea of the leading New York financiers.

There is nothing left for them to do but accept the situation and endeavor to do the very best possible under the circumstances.

The country is committed to policies they detest; but there never was a time since the commencement of our government when public sentiment was so vigorous and prompt in action as now, and it never was so speedy before in achieving results.

It becomes more evident with every month that the efforts of our manufacturers to secure foreign demand for their output are productive of large results, and that still more persistent, energetic and systematic work will do wonders toward building up our foreign trade.

For decades our dependence so much upon home consumption of our manufactures resulted in overproduction and resultant depression and panic.

By overproduction should be understood a surplus that our people could not pay for, not a surplus they could not use or did not need. Their purchasing power in 1873 and 1893 was curtailed through reductions in amount of currency, and when that purchasing power was reduced the surplus output of our manufacturers having no foreign outlets, remained on hand unsold and compelled the industrial shutdowns.

Adding the Foreign Markets.

Our manufacturers are now strengthening themselves by adding the foreign markets to their agencies of distribution, and it is very seldom that depression strikes all the nations at one and the same time.

A few months of depression in business in the United States could be safely tided over by many of our manufacturers without shutdowns or even curtailment of forces of employes through an active demand for the outputs from customers abroad.

With all nations friendly to us, with almost universal acknowledgment of our superiority in many lines of recent invention, as well as in standard articles of modern commerce, the way is wide open for the securing by our people of an immensely increased foreign trade.

Apropos of this, one of the directors of the Cotton Ginning and Oil Manufacturing company, of Akola, India, and who is also a member of a prominent firm in Bombay, India, which imports American machinery to that country, is now in the United States and reports business in India very good indeed.

He added that the trade of India had been almost wholly in British control until last year, when the Germans entered into competition with the British in nearly all the important branches of the machinery business.

Wherever American machinery had been introduced, he said, it had given ample satisfaction and was considered superior to all others in quality and efficiency.

Here, then, in India is a field for our outputs of manufactured articles that, with the increasing prosperity of that population, will constantly grow better, and the demands of these hundreds of millions of people should for many years to come be of enormous benefit in keeping our own industrial population at steady work.

India is but one country, and there are a score of other ancient realms whose people are most desirous to be supplied with the latest modern devices and modern supplies of all kinds. Our foreign trade can be made of immense value to our people.

RICH KENTUCKIAN'S WIFE

Showed How to Farm Tobacco Patch Without Help.

Nicholasville, Ky., July 29.—Cailton Reed, a farmer and Confederate veteran, after trying in vain to hire farm hands, told his wife that he'd have to abandon his seven acres of tobacco to the weeds.

Mrs. Reed donned an old dress and, with her three daughters, slipped into the patch while Mr. Reed's back was turned.

When he saw the women at work Mr. Reed called to them to "come outen that." They laughed, and, seeing that it was impossible to dissuade them, he joined them, and the patch was soon cleared of weeds.

It is believed that many others will emulate their example of self-help. Mrs. Reed is the second wife of the Morgan raiader. She was a Miss Guyn, of the large and influential Guyn family, and they own a fine farm near the old Lexington club distillery and another rich one at Clover Bottom, Woodford county.

The Modern Figure

How to Regain Beauty of Form

The vagaries of Fashion are a great trial to ladies inclined to overstoutness; but it is a great mistake to go in for physical repression in the shape of special stays. Fasting and violent exercising are also dangerous. One very soon becomes limp, depressed and sallow of complexion when such methods of getting thin are adopted. There is absolutely no necessity to study dietetics or deprive one's self of wholesome rest and bodily comforts.

The following is a prescription which will restore beauty of form without any sacrifice of health or strength. Any druggist will make it up for you or supply the harmless ingredients, viz.: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ oz. Peppermint Water. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Don't be afraid of a good appetite, especially as the digestive system will be much benefited by this simple treatment. Indeed, the whole body is beautified, and the reduction of weight occasions no wrinkles. The skin and complexion are rebeautified.

SILENCE BROKEN BY WICKERSHAM

Defends His Legal Opinion Regarding The Friar Lands.

New York, July 29.—Attorney General Wickersham has broken his silence regarding the friars' lands investigation. Defending his opinion on the legal question involved, which he gave to the secretary of war, he adds that the matter was given wide publicity in this country prior to the commencement of the present administration.

Mr. Wickersham's version of the situation is contained in the Churchman, which, in its previous issue, published an editorial under the caption, "The Friars' Lands and the Sugar Trust."

Mr. Wickersham writes:

"Apparently your only authority for statements and comments made, and those are accepted without any inquiry, consists in statements made by Congressman Martin of Colorado. The first question involved is whether or not the opinion given by the attorney general to the secretary of war, with respect to the legal question involved, was sound.

"The only question propounded to the attorney general on that subject was whether the act of congress temporarily to provide for the administration of the affairs of civil government in the Philippine islands, limiting the amount of land which may be acquired by individuals and corporations, is made applicable to the estates purchased from religious orders in the Philippine islands.

"The opinion rendered to the secretary of war under date of Dec. 18, 1909, was to the effect that the limitations upon the disposition of the public lands of the United States acquired by the treaty with Spain did not apply to the estates purchased by the Philippine government from religious orders. Such had been the construction placed upon the statute by the Philippine commission itself when it was composed of such lawyers as William H. Taft, Luke E. Wright, Henry C. Ide and James F. Smith. The secretary of the interior of the Philippine islands, in his report for 1908, made the following statement: 'Under the law as amended there is no limit as to the amount of land which may be purchased.'

"Briefly, this means that the decision that the restrictions as to area governing the sales of public land under the act of July 1, 1902, do not extend to the friar lands, was given full publicity in the United States prior to the commencement of the present administration. A more careful consideration of the question, since the discussion raised with respect to it, has satisfied me that no other conclusion is possible as sound statutory construction than that which the members of the Philippine commission, the law officers of the Philippine government and the chief law officer of the federal government have reached.

"The insinuation in your article that construction was the result of some improper influence on the part of the law firm of Strong & Cadwalader and myself, is the sort of criticism which is, unhappily, too common in the secular press, but which one does not expect to find in a newspaper whose motto is 'the faith once delivered to the saints.' With the policy of the war department, respecting the disposition of these lands, I have no concern."

WEEKLY BATHS ORDERED.

Residents of Illinois Town Told They Must Bathe.

Aurora, Ill., July 29.—Residents of Aurora are ordered to take a bath at least once each week under penalty of arrest and prosecution, in rule 8, of a series of health regulations issued by the board of health. Dr. A. R. Roder and Chief of Police Michaels agree that the unwashed are offensive to the community and a menace to the public health.

It also is ordered that not more than two persons may sleep in a small room and not more than five in a large room and these must be well ventilated. This will be a hard blow to some of the foreign population, which has been sleeping twelve to twenty in one room.

It is further ordered that floors must be swept clean every day and scrubbed at least once each week, and all residents are positively forbidden to expectorate upon the walks or floors of any public buildings or upon the floors of their own homes.

THE HOUSE THAT MADE GOOD

S.S.S. A GREAT TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER

There is one reason above all others which makes S. S. S. the greatest of all tonics, and that is because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. Any system which needs a tonic, needs a blood purifier, for it is impure, weak blood which causes the weakened, run-down condition of the body. S. S. S. is Nature's Tonic and Blood Purifier. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, which possess not only strengthening properties, but at the same time this combination of botanical juices and extracts is the most potent of all medicines for removing every impurity, poison or taint from the blood circulation. S. S. S. improves the appetite and digestion, corrects stomach disturbances and steadily and surely tones and builds the system up to perfect health. It adds to the blood the rich, healthful properties it needs, and in every way enables the system to stand the strain of the long, hot Summer months. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases or disorders due to impure or poisoned blood. VEGETABLES ARE FIRMER

Cooler Weather Brings an Increased Demand for All Staples.

Texas Peach Raisers Make Little Profit From Huge Crop.

The demand for vegetables, butter, cheese and produce of nearly all kinds improved this week, probably on account of the cooler weather. The increased demand and broader outlet for many staples and vegetables caused prices to harden somewhat. Eggs held firm at 19 cents and fancy creamery butter at 29 cents. Dairy butter was firmer, partly because of the increased demand. The poor pastures were a contributing factor. Cheese was much firmer. The fruit trade was good.

The state of Texas this year grew one of the largest peach crops in its history and this market got its full share. The local consumer was not quite equal to the occasion, however, and although supplies were heavy at easy prices the consumptive demand was not as good as it should have been, considering the fine quality of the peaches and the comparatively low prices. Peaches remained on dealers' hands, although the prices were probably as low, if not lower than had ever been asked before for that grade of fruit. Prices eased off toward the close in order to move accumulations.

Much of the stock was marketed in bushel baskets and crates. The buyers got such low returns that their receipts barely covered the cost of the basket or crate after express charges and commissions had been paid. Then they forwarded their stock in bulk but the cost of unloading was so high that shippers did not benefit by the change. Reports from Texas and Georgia said that the number of refrigerator cars available had been insufficient to handle the enormous quantity of fruit ready to be forwarded.

Handlers of green goods had a similar experience on tomatoes. Receipts of this vegetable were in excess of requirements, but easy prices stimulated the consumptive demand. Prices were shaded in order to attract buyers.

Staple products fared well. Butter, cheese, poultry and potatoes were kept in satisfactory condition. Butter prices were firm and dairy advanced from 24c to 24@25c. The supply of eggs declined slightly and the demand held up moderately well. The demand for cheese was good. Prices were up on account of the activity of cold storage people and the sympathetic effect of burned and parched pastures. Potatoes were unchanged. The old crop is 50 a bu and the new crop $1 a bu. Prices are at a low level compared with the cost of other products. The demand is somewhat indifferent. Supplies have not been unusually large. The Minnesota yield this year will be bountiful.

Dried fruits are in abnormal demand for this season of the year. In fact, the retail trade has experienced exceptional business in staples. A flurry in sugar, with probable local higher prices, has been caused by a strike among the employes of sugar refineries in the East. The Federal company had withdrawn its offerings from the market. The Eastern market is in a chaotic condition.

Canned goods remain in firm demand, with no change in quotations over last week. Blueberries are about cleared out and reports indicate a light crop of red and black raspberries and strawberries. Corn syrups have advanced 1c. The quality of new crop teas is said not to be good, and declines in quality with each shipment. On account of the short crop there is little likelihood that prices will decline.

The raisin, peach and apricot crops were good this year, but the demand has been heavy. Canned opsters are 10c a dozen higher, and a scarcity of dried beans was responsible for a boost in prices of canned kidney beans. Spot peas are growing firmer daily, but jobbers are buying only when necessary. The sweet pea crop in Wisconsin, despite timely rains, will not make much more than half of a crop, according to most reports. New canned strawberries are coming into the market and are of good quality. They are selling at the same prices that prevailed last year.

Meat prices are mixed. Beef is ½c a pound cheaper than a year ago. Mutton is slightly higher at 9½@10c. Pork loins are ½c higher at 13½@14c. Veal is unchanged at 9@11c. Lamb is cheaper, dropping in one week from 13@14c to 12c, due to a run from the ranges, where the pastures have been greatly damaged or destroyed and the water supplies have dried up in many places. Lard is unchanged at 13½c.

BERRY-PICKING SEASON OPENS

Fruit Is Scarce This Year and Quality Not Good.

Berry season is now opening, and within the course of another week it will be in full swing. Already many fond of picking the fruit, are to be seen making their way to the woods, ladened down with receptacles of all kinds and descriptions.

Considerable rivalry exists between the pickers.

Those who have followed the berry-picking "industry" for many years claim that the production this year will be far below that of former seasons due principally to the drought that has been experienced here. Not only will the production be smaller, but the quality of the berry will not be up to the standard. But this fact does not seem to diminish the number of pickers, for the outlook is that as many as in former years, if not more, will be in the fields.

Early in the mornings, the street cars are filled with men, women and children, garbed in the clothing most suitable for a day's outing, while many more are to be seen making the slower progress by the Weston method.

This lack of berries this season is felt in other sections of the country, and it is estimated by wholesalers, that the price will be higher than last year. At this time, raspberries are selling at $2.50 per case of twenty-four pints, wholesale, while at retail they sell at 15 cents per pint.

Blackberries and blueberries are also scarce in this vicinity, and most of the berries which will be consumed here will be shipped from other parts of the country.

LYCEUM—Forbes Stock company in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

AN AUTHOR AS WELL AS AN ACTOR.

James Kyrle MacCurdy, who is this week making a large sized hit with Duluth theater-goers in the role of the butler in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which he plays in a delightful manner, is an author as well as actor. Mr. MacCurdy, like most other folks of the human race, has of course many immortal works that have not seen the light of day, but his play, "The Old Clothes Man," has been a popular dramatic success for many seasons and last year he was at the head of his own play. The Yankee Doodle Detective." In the leading role of the detective, Mr. MacCurdy was in turn a New York sport, a Yiddisher cop, a fortune teller, an Italian banana peddler and last of all an inspector of police. In one climax the actor-author produced an effect that made George Cohan green with envy. He raised the American flag that the villains have lowered and then makes them dance to the tune of "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy" while the actor-author keeps them at it at the point of two revolvers.

Mr. MacCurdy is from California, although his literary efforts have classed him with Indianians many times.

His butler this week at the Lyceum in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is one of his best efforts of the summer.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow and Sunday nights and there will be Saturday and Sunday matinees. The advance sale has been large for the concluding performances.

The bill for next week will be "An Old Sweetheart of Mine."

LIQUOR DEALERS ARE PREYING ON INDIANS.

Washington, July 29.—Aroused by reports that liquor dealers in several sections of the country recently have been preying upon the Indians as soon as they received their annuities, selling them intoxicants in contravention of federal and state statutes and sending them home penniless, the bureau of Indian affairs has taken steps to bring about the more rigid enforcement of the law.

Second Assistant Commissioner Hauke issued instructions to the superintendents and agents of the Indian service, calling their attention to the federal statute. Indian agents were advised also that it was within their power to change the places of paying the annuities in all cases where they fail to secure the necessary co-operation from the local officials in the matter of the sale of liquor to the government wards.

BERRY FOR GOVERNOR

Pennsylvanians Form "Keystone Party" and Pick Nominees.

Gibboney, Scully and John Casey Also Named for Offices.

Philadelphia, July 29.—William H. Berry of Delaware county for governor; D. Clarence Gibboney of Philadelphia for lieutenant governor; Cornelius D. Scully of Alegheny county for state treasurer; and John Casey of Luzerne county for secretary of internal affairs, is the ticket nominated by the Keystone party, formed here yesterday to oppose the nominees of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

The convention, composed of 117 delegates from fifty-two counties, denounced both the old parties as being under the domination of the liquor industry, but refused to incorporate in its platform any reference to former President Roosevelt, who was proclaimed by some of the delegates "the greatest American citizen."

Berry Formerly Treasurer.

The nominee for governor formerly was state treasurer, to which office he was elected by the combined Democratic, Prohibition and Independent votes in the political upheaval in 1905. While in office he uncovered the state capitol scandal. In the recent Democratic state convention he was defeated for the nomination of governor, but received 109 votes. Many Democratic delegates subsequently bolted their party and took part in this convention.

D. Clarence Gibboney, the nominee for lieutenant governor, has headed the reform ticket in nearly all the recent reform movements in this city. He has been secretary of the local Law and Order society for twenty years.

Cornlius D. Scully is a young banker and lawyer in Pittsburg, where he has been active in reform politics.

John Casey, the fourth name on the ticket, was elected to the state legislature by the labor vote of Luzerne county and is the author of the employers' liability bill.

The name Keystone was adopted by the convention as the party name.

WHO RULES THE ROOST?

Dispute Over Control of Vanderbilt University at Nashville.

Board of Trust Rebels at Rule of the Church.

Washington, July 29.—Do the churches really own the various colleges which are styled Presbyterian, Methodist or Episcopal colleges? Are these institutions to be under the control of assemblies, conferences or conventions, or are they to be controlled and their destinies shaped by self-perpetuating boards of trustees? If the denominational colleges are really owned by the ecclesiastical bodies to which they are attached, in what manner is that ownership to be manifested? Ought a college to be under ecclesiastical domination? Should it be a leader in the attainment of knowledge or meekly dispense such traditional views as may be held by a religious denomination with which it is allied? These and similar questions are agitating several of the churches of the United States and arousing controversy which threatens the peace and welfare of both colleges and religious bodies.

These denominations which are congregational in policy, which include the Baptists, Disciples and Congregationalists, do not appear to be greatly disturbed by the present shaking up of relations long since established, but the denominations which have the Presbyterian or Episcopalian form of government are wrestling with those questions as never before. Indeed, with the exception of rare instances, the questions raised are comparatively new. It has long been taken for granted that a school which was established by a religious sect and which enjoyed its patronage in some sense belonged to that church. Until recently schools and colleges, with the exception of state institutions, have usually sought affiliation with some church, and even yet new institutions, planned and established largely by the people of a community where such institutions are needed commonly seek to be taken under the patronage of a religious body, and every little while the papers tell of offers to give acres of ground and thousands of dollars if a church will establish a college in a community which is seeking to boom itself, hold its youth at home and attract the youth of the adjacent towns and the countryside.

Drift From the Churches.

At the same time, there has been a marked tendency during the last few years for the established institutions to sever or weaken the ties which bound them to the churches. The blame is usually placed upon the Carnegie Foundation. Teachers in a distinctively denominational college cannot share the benefits of that fund. This fact has its effect upon instructors. Why teach in a church school at a small salary with the knowledge that age or disability will leave one stranded, when similar service in another equally good institution will give assurance of a pension for old age? If the answer is made that it is better to teach in a Christian college than in one which has no religious connections, the response is elicited that the colleges which are not under denominational control are as truly Christian as the others. This reasoning on the part of teachers has led many boards of trustees to conclude that the only way to get and keep the best teachers is to cut loose from the churches, at least sufficiently to reap the benefits of Mr. Carnegie's liberality. Time was when the colleges looked to the churches for their means of support; now large gifts come from outside sources, and to many, the benefits from being attached to a religious denomination do not make up for the barriers that the relation places in the way of financial prosperity. It is claimed, too, that a college cannot develop properly when controlled by a church; that the church is inclined to be narrow and to prevent the college from keeping pace with the educational and scientific progress of the times. It is contended that persons selected by a religious convention of all sorts and kinds of people, comparatively few of whom are college graduates and almost none of them has any knowledge of education as a science, are not likely to be fitted to guide the development of a great institution of learning. Many other reasons are given why the colleges should be controlled by self-perpetuating boards.

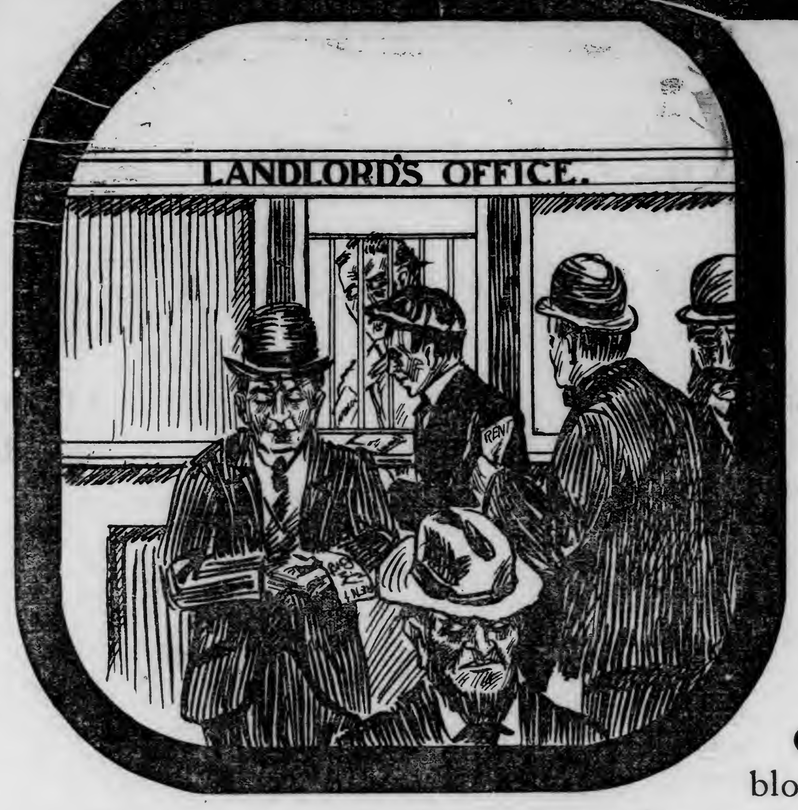

When Colleges Are Weaned.

There are many church people who feel that some of the colleges are playing the part of ungrateful children. Undoubtedly, most of these denominational colleges owe their existence to the churches with which they are or have been allied. As a nursing mother, a church cared for an infant college. The basket was passed in its behalf and it lived on the bounty of the church till it became strong. Now that it has attained its majority it proposes to disregard the wishes of the mother who reared it. Such an argument is made, for instance, with reference to Occidental College in California, an institution which was brought into being and tenderly nourished by Presbyterians, but which is said to have thrown off the yoke of Presbyterian control. The Southern Presbyterian church recently had a round with the trustees of Central university in Kentucky, but in spite of admonitions and threats the school seems to have slipped away from anything like effective denominational control. Randolph-Macon is another great institution which is said to have tried to play the prodigal from Methodism, but, in this case, the college appears to have repented. It is in the Southern Methodist church, however, that the whole question is just now most acute, the great Vanderbilt university at Nashville, Tenn., being the bone of contention.

Vanderbilt University Case.

The institution at Nashville received its name because of the large gifts of the Vanderbilt family. Originally it was under the control of certain annual conferences. Then the college was transferred to the general conference and its board of trust was considered as managing the school in trust for the Southern Methodist church. During recent years there has been more or less disagreement between a portion of the board and some of the ecclesiastical leaders. A few years ago, it is reported, a professor was dismissed by the influence of certain bishops because he taught evolution. Evolution has found a place again, but the conflict indicated in that incident has developed to the acute stage. Four years ago the general conference appointed a commission to determine the relation of the college to the church. The commission reported that the church owned the college and had the right to fill vacancies on the board of trust. But the majority of the board contended that they constituted a self-perpetuating body, and there grew up two factions. One wanted the school controlled by the board of trust as a self-perpetuating body; the other insisted that the general conference must have the say. The discussion became heated, with Chancellor Kirkland and Bishop Hendrix championing the cause of the board and Bishop Hoss as the leader on the part of the church. The intensity of the controversy led to personal antagonisms. The church party had a majority in the late conference at Asheville and after the scalps of certain elective officers. For instance, the brilliant and scholarly editor of the Christian Advocate and the able secretary of the board of education failed of re-election to their offices because of their leaning to the board view. The conference also proceeded to elect trustees to fill vacancies and authorized its board of education and its bishops to see that its will was carried out. But the board of trust met and refused to seat the trustees selected by the conference. Hence, the battle flag is unfurled. Bishop Hoss announces that the matter will be taken to the courts and a conflict is on which does not promise well for either the church or the university. Its outcome will be awaited with great interest, however, by other schools and other churches which will have to deal with similar questions.

PROCTOR CHILD DIES.

Taken Ill on Train, Expiring at Little Falls.

Little Falls, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tommie Cota, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cota of Proctor, died Tuesday evening at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilcox, on Fifth street northeast.

The little boy with his mother, brother and sister, arrived from Proctor Saturday morning and at the time of leaving home was in good health, but during the trip was taken ill. The boy was under 3 years of age, his birthday being in December. The cause of death is given as dysentery.

The deceased is survived by his parents, a brother, Richard, and sister, Lucile. Mr. Cota arrived Wednesday morning in response to a message sent him when his son's condition became serious.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Methodist church, with Rev. J. C. Jewell in charge of the services, and Rev. W. H. North preaching. Interment was in Oakland cemetery.

Relieved of Shiloh Bullet.

Beloit, Wis., July 29.—Edward Linder, Chicago, underwent an operation in the home of his son, L. O. Linder, near here, by which a bullet he had carried in his body since the battle of Shiloh in 1862 was removed. The leaden ball had worked from his shoulder down to his hip in the forty-eight years since the wound was received.

McDONNELL LANDS CROOKSTON CONTRACT.

Crookston, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—An adjourned meeting was held by the city council Tuesday night. The letting of the Sampson's addition and North Front street sewer was acted on and the contract was awarded to P. McDonnell of Duluth. The hose purchasing action of the last session was rescinded, one member having changed his mind for some reason or other, leaving those favoring the purchase in the minority.

LA MOURE MAN WINNER IN THE BUTTER CONTEST.

Fargo, N. D., July 29.—Gus Kruempel of La Moure won first honors in the creamery butter contest at the North Dakota state fair with 96. There were twenty-five contestants. Mr. Kruempel won in the last state fair. Charles H. Tillman of Rosebud had 95½; J. M. Hein, New Salem, 95; Paul Hoertz, Youngston, was a quarter of a point less, and ten others scored 90 or better.

Boy Kicked By Horse.

Jamestown, N. D., July 29.—While in Medina with his father's team, Sam Crandall, the 15-year-old son of J. Crandall of that town, was kicked by one of the horses. His face was badly bruised and one of his shoulders dislocated.

Misrepresentation in a store's advertising is as rare as—murder! And no more profitable as a business policy.

MR. LIND'S NOMINATION.

The Democratic state convention obeyed the voice of the people when it nominated John Lind for governor. Mr. Lind said, previous to the convention, that he did not want the nomination and that he would not accept it, if made by the convention. He wrote letters to many friends urging them to prevent his selection. But all that he could do or say could not prevent the inevitable. The demand from the people that Mr. Lind be named as the candidate for governor was irresistible. No political convention could afford to disregard the almost universal sentiment for Mr. Lind. And it will be difficult for any man, so nominated in response to the people's plainly expressed wishes, to decline the honor, no matter what may be his personal desire or no matter how strongly he has insisted that he could not accept. Mr. Lind is going on a trip to Alaska, where he will have time to carefully consider the whole question.

But whether Mr. Lind accepts the nomination or sticks to his resolve not to re-enter politics, the Democratic convention performed its full duty in placing at the head of its ticket the foremost citizen of the state. Mr. Lind is not an unknown quantity in public service. He has represented two Minnesota districts in congress and made a splendid record at the national capital. He has in past years filled the office of governor of the state, and the record of his administration stands out as one of the brightest features of Minnesota's history. As president of the board of regents of the state university, Mr. Lind has had a congenial occupation. Always taking a deep interest in all educational matters, Mr. Lind has labored hard to place the University of Minnesota in the front rank. In short, in every position that he has filled, Mr. Lind "has made good."

Mr. Linds enjoys the confidence of the people of Minnesota. They have tried him and found him not wanting in all the qualities that make the upright citizen and the wise statesman. At this period in the state's history, it is fitting that the Democratic ticket be headed by such a man, and more especially as certain powerful interests combined to prevent, if possible, the nomination of Mr. Lind or any one holding his views on public questions. Had the convention yielded to this influence, it would have justly laid itself open to the charge that certain interests had been sufficiently powerful to prevent the will of the people being carried out. For this reason, therefore, aside from all consideration of his personal worth and fitness, the nomination of Mr. Lind was a necessity. And this view of the question should be potent in persuading Mr. Lind that it is his duty to yield to the people's demand.

The other nominees on the state ticket are strong, able and well known men and deserve the support of the people at the polls in order that Governor Lind may be surrounded by state officials in sympathy with his aims and views. The platform is sound upon both state and national questions and voices the sentiments of all who believe in rule by the people as opposed to rule by the representatives of special privilege.

THE RISK OF EMPLOYMENT.

Says a news item in a New York newspaper: "A verdict for $8,000 was given today by a jury in the supreme court of Long Island City to John Kasczak, who sued the Central railroad of New Jersey to recover damages for the loss of a leg. Kasczak was run over by a train five years ago in a freight yard at Penobscot, Pa. This was the fifth time his suit has been tried."

Items like that are distressingly commonplace, so commonplace that most people overlook the shameful injustice they indict.

The worker, without capital or resources except his strength and skill, assumes all risk of employment. If he is injured his sole resource is gone. If his injury is due to the negligence of his employer he is entitled to suitable compensation. It is the duty of the state to see that he gets it. Yet the state lends itself to the attempt of the employer to evade payment, and if payment cannot be evaded to delay payment as long as possible in the hope that the injured workman can be tired out and forced to drop his case or compromise it.

The public and the bar condemn the "personal injury lawyer" who takes such cases on a contingent basis, and usually takes half the proceeds for his fee if he wins. Yet, lacking the support of the state, to which he is entitled, and lacking the means of carrying on his case, how else but by the ambulance chaser's enterprise is he to pursue his claim? It is the fault of the state that the worker is compelled to assume the burden of risk of employment, that he is compelled to undergo an interminable siege of litigation, and that in the end if he gets anything at all his lawyer takes the better part of his award.

In the case quoted, either the man was entitled to substantial damages for the loss of his leg, or he was entitled to none at all. If he was entitled to compensation for his injury, he was entitled to get that compensation immediately. Yet he has been pushing his case for five years, has gone through five trials, and there is no assurance that the railroad will not find technical occasion for getting a new trial and continuing its resistance for five years more.

Says the New York Evening Post, in commenting on this typical case: "How long are we to have a state of things in which such items as this are continually appearing in the news? Five trials, and five years, to determine the liability of a railroad company to a man who has been run over by a freight train and had his leg cut off! The thing is monstrous, whatever the explanation. There is something profoundly wrong in a system under which it is possible, not to say frequent. It is in flagrant violation of common sense, as well as of common justice. No system of law administration can prevent the possibility of error; we are not clamoring for infallibility. But any rational system must see to it that a decision, and a decision on as satisfactory a basis as can reasonably be demanded, shall be rendered in a reasonable time. It is preposterous to drag a case like this out for five years; if the truth of it cannot properly be adjusted in a few months, it cannot be properly adjusted at all."

Eight thousand dollars is the jury's estimate of Kasczak's damages. Even if there is no more litigation, what will he get out of that sum? By the time the costs of his five years' litigation are paid and his attorneys take their share there will be but a pitiful remnant, and he was entitled to every penny of it.

In point of fact, such cases ought not to go to court at all. The employer should assume the full burden of risk, and damages should be reckoned by a proper tribunal and awarded automatically, without litigation.

THE STATE SUPREME COURT.

The nominations by the Democratic convention for the places on the bench of the supreme court will commend themselves to the people. The convention showed its desire to have a nonpartisan judiciary by indorsing two of the nominees on Republican ticket, Judge P. E. Brown of Luverne and Justice C. L. Brown of Morris. It also nominated Justice T. D. O'Brien, who was appointed to the supreme court by Governor Johnson, and Judge A. H. Snow of Winona. Justice O'Brien is recognized by every one as one of the ablest members of the supreme court, and it would be a misfortune should he not be retained upon the appellate bench. It is to be regretted that the Republican convention refused to nominate him, because he is a Democrat, but the people will now have an opportunity to rebuke this display of partisanship and, by voting for Justice O'Brien, retain the services of one the ablest and most distinguished jurists in the country.

WORKING FOR LESS THAN NOTHING.

"In this country from fifteen to twenty million people work for nothing, or less than nothing." So declares George Lewis, editor of the Financier, in the Cosmopolitan magazine. This startling statement he proceeds to prove by statistics.

"They constitute," he continues, "fully 60 per cent of the 30,000,000 wage-earners, who annually find that they are steadily becoming poorer; that is, the end of each year shows that the cost of food, lodging, clothes and all the necessaries of life has outstripped the income from wages. This statement may seem absurd, if not an economic impossibility. As a matter of fact it is based on government statistics, and no self-respecting government report would be guilty of pessimism. By combining dissociated but authoritative statistics bearing on opposite phases of the problem, one may arrive at definite and logical conclusions."

The average yearly earnings of wage-earners is about $500.

Thorough investigations have shown that it is impossible for an average family of five to maintain a normal standard of living on an income of less than $800 a year. In Massachusetts, where the cost of living is conceded to be less than elsewhere in the country, the bureau of statistics in a recent report shows that a family of five requires $745 to live on.

On the face of the situation, then, the workers are getting an average of $500 a year when it costs an average of $700 to $800 for a family to live.

If these figures are correct, either the average worker's family is getting less than its actual needs, or is going into debt more deeply every year.

Mr. Lewis thinks it is debt that solves the problem. "Research and inquiry among the retailers of any congested district," he says, "will show that the retailer shoulders the burden of debt. Frequently the landlord is the creditor; but mostly it is the butcher and the grocer."

Averages, of course, are dangerous things to rely upon. Yet one may disregard altogether the apparent fact that the average worker's family either isn't getting what it actually needs or is going into debt, and still it is clear beyond argument that the many are not getting their share of this country's prosperity.

There are too many consumers, too few producers. There are too many in a position to reap the cream of production for their own lavish uses, leaving the skimmed milk for the producers, and mightly little of that.

This country has prosperity enough and to spare. The problem is not how to increase the nation's prosperity and wealth, but how to give them wider and more equal distribution; not by any absurd plan of "dividing up," but by securing to the real producer a larger share of the fruits of his toil, even at the cost of curbing some of the luxurious habits of the cunning few who have mounted the producer's back and insist that he carry them.

At the bottom of the high cost of living, of the outcry against the tariff and special privilege, of the uprising against unfaithful public servants, of the demand for government in the interests of people rather than property, is the need of a readjustment that will secure to the many a decent proportion of the fruits of their labors.

The Nebraska Republicans indorsed the Payne tariff law and the insurgents, all in the same platform. They evidently believe in making a good job of it when they start out to straddle.

Governor Lind always did sound well.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 200 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE POINT OF ROCKS AND A WORKHOUSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I trust that no time will be lost by the city in establishing a workhouse at the point of rocks if it can legally be done. The move is one of the best that has been proposed in the council for a long time. The city is badly in need of such an institution, whether it be located at the point of rocks or at some other cliff. At present but a small part of the prisoners sentenced from the police court can be worked, and not a great deal is accomplished by the fraction that does get out on the streets and alleys. Further, I do not believe that it is proper for any prisoner to be publicly humiliated by being worked on the highways with an armed guard standing over him. It's bad enough to be arrested. I am also satisfied that so many loafers and drunks would not return if they had to use their muscles from morning to night making big rocks into small rocks. And if the workhouse could help towards the removal of the point of rocks, so much the better. But in any event, let us have the workhouse. B. S. C.

Duluth, July 29.

DO NOT GET FULL BENEFIT OF VIEW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The drive around Duluth's boulevard is one of the most beautiful in the United States. The view of the cities of Duluth and Superior—the docks and elevators and wholesale houses and residences fringing the lake and bay, the narrow line of Minnesota Point with its covering of trees, the boats riding at anchor or steaming through the canal, the aerial bridge and the other objects of interest that may be seen from the hillside—is superb. Every visitor to Duluth makes it a point to go around the boulevard and the delight they express is an excellent advertisement for the city.

Yet the boulevard drive is not taken so that the best effect may be obtained. If the drivers were to take the route from west to east instead of from east to west, they would find that their patrons would be even more delighted with the view.

Years ago, the most approved drive was from west to east. The drivers of horses found that the grades were easier from east to west and to save their horses the drivers took the drive from the other direction. What was merely convenience has become an institution and in this day of automobiles it is still held sacred.

Grades make little difference now. The horse is giving way to the auto on the boulevard and I believe the Commercial club should urge owners and drivers of vehicles of all kinds to take the drive from west to east that visitors of the city may get the best impression. The view of the lake and bay from the west is much more beautiful than that obtained when one is traveling from the east and I believe the drive should be taken so as to get the best effect. G. H. Duluth, July 28.

The Baltic Collision.

New York Times: The collision between a first-class liner and a "tanker" illustrates that the chief remaining perils of the sea are those in which two vessels are concerned. Shipwreck from the elements is almost out of the question, perhaps altogether so unless the element is fog. No captain of a boat in the Baltic's class thinks about foundering from a storm. The landsman may think that the ship will never rise again as she rides a descending swell, and looking out of the hollow may think that overwhelming waves will engulf him forever. The captain is thinking of other things, and mostly in darkness or fog of whether or not another vessel is anywhere near; and if so, what it is doing. No ship is so well found in itself or so well officered that it is not in danger from a vessel far its inferior. A pygmy may wound a leviathan steamer in its vitals, and a sleepy lookout or bad commander is as dangerous on one boat as on the other.

Fog confuses the judgment of direction or distance of sound. Darkness through fog or night impedes sight however keen, or watchfulness however great. The mishap of the Baltic will emphasize the demand that the resources of modern science shall supply aids to these human faculties and remove them as far as possible from being factors of disaster. Two possible aids are mentioned in connection: A wireless system would have warned another similar system better than any whistle or bell, but would have been of no use to itself unless both vessels were equipped for aerial telegraphy. The submarine telephone also might have given a warning if both vessels had been equipped with it. Just as vessels with telephones below water communicate with lighthouses, so they with the Baltic disaster. The Baltic's might be made to communicate with each other in a manner not subject to interruption by fog or storm. The requirement of such equipment is an obvious suggestion. The throb of the "tanker's" propellor might have been audible to a submarine ear with a keenness and precision the unaided human ear cannot rival at its best and undisturbed by conditions which make ears almost useless without such aids.

Not the least benefit of such appliances ought to be to produce greater confidence among captains and passengers alike. The fog whistle is a sign that the officers cannot see or hear and of course, the conditions are similar for both the colliding vessels. Even a single set of submarine and aerial signals would more than halve the danger. A double system ought to make collision as remote as sinking from the effects of storm.

For Black and White.

Boston Globe: Whenever Booker T. Washington gives advice to negroes, as he did the other day at Wilmington, Del., what he has to say is generally as applicable to the white race as to the black. His plea for industry, thrift, economy sober, upright living, his contrast of the dignity of labor with the disgrace of idleness, his appeal for justice to all men, his fine discrimination between equality of opportunity and social equality—all that could not be put more forcibly and clearly. It would be just as salutary for a white as for a black audience and as wholesome for northerners as for southerners.

Of especial interest to those who believe that Christianity, like charity, should begin at home, is Dr. Washington's reference to home and foreign missions. "Throughout the South," he says, "I have noted an increasing disposition on the part of the best white people to feel a responsibility for the salvation of the negro in their own community. It is just as important that time and work and money be given toward the elevation of the negro as it is to spend effort in lifting up the people in Africa, China, Japan or any foreign country."

It is even more important. If American foreign missions help to stimulate American foreign commerce, and if, as is frequently said, American exporters contribute to foreign missions for that reason, home missions would stimulate domestic trade by inculcating industry and thrift among the shiftless and by thus increasing their purchasing power.

Was not Dr. Washington giving a quiet hint to the Home Market club as well as to the promoters of foreign missions?

Out of George's Mouth.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: George Washington's teeth are on their way to Denver to grace a dental exhibit. This should raise a peculiar sensation in the mind of the Sagamore colonel.

THE LAKE FLEETS.

Collier's: A Chicago poet who looks out over Lake Michigan daily has come to think of that vast waste of waters as the most desolate sight he has ever known. It was not always empty—"as a boy, I saw the harbor crowded with shipping, heard the deep-toned whistles of tugs and steamers at the many bridges, watched the frequent sails—clear touches of pure white in the sunlight—and noted long streamers of dark, sky-brown steamer smoke trailing down the wind. All were delightful, stimulating." To that boy, lake traffic was romantic. Out of the golden fields of Minnesota and Dakota came grain; Wisconsin and Michigan sent great piles of odorous lumber; out of deep-trailed Kansas and Neoraska came cattle to be transshipped for the hungry East; gold and silver ores from Colorado and the mountain country rattled noisily into the holds of lake freighters. Back came boxes and bales from the manufacturing centers—red-topped, copper-toed boots for the boys, chalky-smelling calicos, linens, resplendent ribbons, fragile bric-a-bric from France, odorous mysteries from the Orient. But the railroads set out to get the lake traffic. "Now," says the poet, "I see perhaps once a day—not often once a day—one or two deep-laden, homely steam barges for or from Gary and South Chicago, the United States Steel corporation's ports. An occasional tug carrying supplies to the inlet cribs, the boats for St. Joe, and, in summer, other lake ports—except for these the harbor is empty of shipping. And the deserted lake is only one of this observer's sorrows:

"Several times last year I went through the Illinois valley to the Mississippi. Canals and rivers were as empty as the lake. I saw but one boat on one canal, and one on the river. Merchants of Rock Island said it was because of the commodity clause in the railroad rates. And I saw it was because of the ignorance of most men, the indifference of many, and the mastery of the few."

Sooner or later, if he lives long enough, the Chicago poet will see the waters fill with traffic again. Water transportation, where it exists, is the cheapest; the railroads destroyed it only by reducing the freight rate at water ports to a point where it was grossly unremunerative to themselves, and so low that the water transportation companies had to go out of business. The railroad companies made up their losses by charging excessive rates to places that have no water competition. To destroy the form of transportation, which is by nature much the cheapest, was a crime against economic law, and that is the sort of crime which is more sure than any other to find its own remedy in the long run.

The Novel Method of Gaynor.

Boston Traveler: American cities, including Boston, may learn much from the administration of Judge Gaynor. New York has always known that many abuses and extravagances and much graft existed in the city. She has taken it for granted they had to exist—that the condition was inseparable from metropolitan size.

She has had mayors who set out to rectify things. They discovered that things were wrong. They appointed bulky commissions to investigate. They applied to the legislature for new laws. Before these were passed, if they ever were, a new mayor was in power with new ideas. New York didn't get anywhere.

Then came Gaynor, with the strange idea that the way to stop abuses is to stop them. Without appointing any investigating commissions, without petitioning the legislature for any new laws, without seeking any extraordinary means to accomplish extraordinary things, he set about rectifying abuses, checking extravagances and throwing out grafters. New York is breathless with wonder at his success, and generally very well pleased indeed.

Mayor Gaynor has demonstrated that almost anything necessary to good government may be done under existing law, if the executive is earnest enough, ingenious enough and honest enough. His rule is on a par with that famous advice of many years ago, when the resumption of specie payments was under discussion:

"The way to resume specie payments is to resume."

Automobiles and Newspapers.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Did you ever stop to think what newspaper advertising has done for the automobile business? In the beginning the automobile manufacturers did not make much use of the newspapers in heralding the good points of their products. They stuck pretty closely to the magazines and they did not sell any enormous number of cars. Men of wealth bought autos, but the masses didn't get interested.

When the manufacturers began buying newspaper space their sales began to increase and now they are selling machines by thousands where they formerly sold them by dozens. Lots of well-to-do people read the newspapers every day, but never subscribe for a high-priced magazine and do not see the inside of one more than once a year. When the manufacturers told about their wares through the daily papers a vast number of persons who never had given the automobile a serious thought acquired a sudden interest in the subject. They made mental comparisons between rival machines and they weighed carefully the claims of the rival makers. By and by they commenced buying automobiles and the business boomed as it had not boomed before. It has been booming ever since.

Farmers did not give the motor car much attention until they saw it exploited in their favorite newspapers. Then they began to investigate and inquire. They came to the conclusion that the automobile was a good thing and they became buyers. It used to be that the farmer felt like all his wants in the transportation line were supplied by a rubber-tired buggy or surrey. Now he finds that he wants something better, and inasmuch as he has been reasonably prosperous in recent years he buys an automobile.

Everybody does not read books, or bulletin boards or ornate editions of weekly or monthly periodicals. On the contrary, about everybody that reads anything, or can read at all, reads the daily newspapers. It stands to reason that the man who has a meritorious article to sell is making a serious mistake if he fails to advertise in the newspapers. The marvelous development of the automobile trade is only one instance out of many of the same sort.

Public Taxation For Private Profit.

Philadelphia Record: When a senator charges a colleague of his own party and the most influential member of the senate with legislating in his own interest it is evident that the break between the regulars and the insurgents has gone pretty deep. This is the accusation brought by Senator Bristow against Senator Aldrich.

There is nothing improbable in the charge. There is nothing in the conduct charged which the standpat element would even admit to be improper. For years members of the senate and the house have been legislating money into their pockets through the agency of tariff bills, and no high protectionist would allow that it was grossly improper. Nor is there anything in the public and commercial career of Mr. Aldrich that makes it difficult to believe the charges of the Kansas senator.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

FOR NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

The Party Held Responsible.

Princeton Union: All Northern Minnesota asks for is equal and exact justice with the rest of the state in the matter of representation in the law-making bodies. The Republican party of Minnesota is pledged to this, and the Republican party will be held responsible if the pledge is not redeemed.

Let 'Em Come.

Brainerd Tribune: There is room in Northern Minnesota for many thousands of settlers.

Come to Northern Minnesota.

Pine River Sentinel: Farm land in Iowa is worth on an average $75 per acre. In Minnesota the average value per acre in the central and northern parts of the state is not over one-third this amount. Last year Minnesota raised more crop per acre than Iowa in everything they raised, including corn and apples. Now, Mr. Farmer, if you cannot figure where you belong your scope of vision is very limited.

It's a Live Body.

Big Falls Compass: The withdrawal of $6,100,000 by the state board of investment from foreign state loans bearing 3½ per cent to be invested in home municipal bonds at 4 per cent is another of the achievements of the Northern Minnesota Development association.

Exactly Where They Stand.

Greenbush Tribune: One of the things we want in Northern Minnesota is reapportionment and all candidates for the legislature should tell exactly where they stand on this proposition. The people of Northern Minnesota want reapportionment, and want only men to represent them who will work to that end.

Uncle Joe and the Press.

Detroit News: They say Uncle Joe Cannon was overcome with the heat at the Winona Chautauqua, but the fact is he was suffering an unusually acute attack of his old ailment, typophobia, just previous to his collapse. These attacks are becoming alarmingly frequent with the aged gentleman. Every time he sees a headline that deals with honesty in government or attacks the old regime whose principal tenet is that government was created for the officeholders, he makes most prodigious assertions. He was in the midst of one of these Saturday, when they had to turn the electric fan on him and ice his head.

"Discontent of a people is not measured by the press," was the way the symptoms began. "It is measured in a more significant manner and makes more indelible impression than of a paper bought, perused, thrown away forgotten."

If this is true, Uncle Joe doesn't believe it. If he believed it, of course, it wouldn't bother him so much. After he has cast the press into the waste paper heap, saying to himself, "There, that's done for," he returns to it again and again to see if it is still dead, and it worries him so much that he must needs stiffen his own faith by going out and shouting it. If discontent is not to be measured by the press, why has the old man felt obliged to do nothing since last winter but attack the press.

The press has been spoken of as the molder of public opinion. That is only a half statement—it is also the recorder of public opinion. If you see discontent seeping out through the columns of the newspapers you may make up your mind that there is considerable of it lying about amongst the mass of the people. And then, if after a few weeks you notice that the tone of the press is serene again, you may make up your mind that the public has simply said, "Oh, well, it might be worse," and let it go at that. The trouble with Mr. Cannon is that he cannot bring himself to believe that the country has been through him at last. After several decades of public life, during which the people laughed at his odd profanity, and regarded him as a sort of farmer-statesman, he cannot realize that on closer view of him he has lost considerable prestige. Like all strong men he has just enough sustaining vanity to deny the very existence of any opinion about him which is not favorable. It's extremely foolish, but you'll never be able to make Uncle Joe see it. In fact, with his theory of the press he will never be able to see it.

The Use of Firearms.

Hartford Times: Coroner Bill of Windham county, said in a recent finding of accidental death from the use of a gun that he believes legislation as to the use of firearms by boys is needed. Undoubtedly something is needed, but if it is to take the form of legislation it would be more useful if it prohibited the use of high-power rifles anywhere in the state without a special permit. They serve no purpose at all here, except for practice at a target. Taken into the country they become a menace over half a township, wherever they are fired, unless they are used with unceasing care. For squirels or any other game they are no better than a rifle of limited range. This will remain true even if an open season for deer is provided, and if that comes there will be new reason for limiting the power of rifles that may be used, for many of the hunters will be new to the sport, excitable, and possessed by the false notion that a high-power rifle is the proper thing to carry. The state will be a dangerous place for travel or farm work, or any recreation in the country, when deer hunters are abroad with such weapons.

Of course, no boy or man should be allowed to shoot by himself until he has been properly instructed under competent authority, and the training should relate more to maintaining safety for himself and others than to the care of the shotgun or rifle, or the training to readiness and accuracy in shooting. An astounding number of fatal accidents are due to boys—and men also—drawing a gun toward themselves by the muzzle, more come from getting over fences in such a way that the gun may be discharged, and others from assuming that a gun is unloaded. No one is fit to be trusted with a shotgun or rifle until he has learned to carry it so that may go off at any instant without harm to any one.

Legislation therefore should not be made for boys particularly; it should apply equally to all who use firearms, and the first element of safety is to restrict the lawful use of such implements in this state to those of moderate range. Any rifle of more than moderate power is superfluous for shooting here, and increases the risk enormously.

Self-Inflicted Woes.

Cleveland Leader: "We are bound, hand and foot!" shrieks an English suffragette. Well, why wear those hobble-skirts? Whose fault is it?

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Journal: "Madam, if you had a child to weep over," suggested the lawyer, "the alimony might be bigger."

"But I have none."

"At least you have a dog?"

"Alas, no."

"Then there's nothing else to do. We'll have to take the rubber plant into court."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Hurry," said the manager of the lyceum bureau. "Get me a telegraph blank."

"What's happened?" asked his secretary. "I hope no member of your family is sick."

"No, I want to find out what terms Stenographer Kerby will demand for thirty Chautauqua lectures."

Cleveland Leader: Him—I thought you and Ethel had had a quarrel?

Her—We have; I hate her.

Him—But I saw you kiss each other when you met yesterday.

Her—Yes, but that's all we do. We hardly speak.

Atlanta Constitution: "I told you," said Brother Dickey, "dat de comet wuzn't gwine ter hurt anybody. I said so from de very first—didn't I?"

"Well, then," said Brother Williams, "how come you wuz holdin' revival meetin's, an' prayin' day an' night?"

"Well, replied Brother Dickey, "I thought it wuz jest as well ter be in a state of preparation."

Washington Star: "I will be magnanimous," said the French duelist. "Rather than risk taking human life I will fire in the air."

"Don't do that," responded his second; "you'd be almost sure to hit an aviator."

Judge—Howell—Does your wife care anything about baseball?

Powell—She never did until one day when she heard me say that they were going to play two games for one admission.

London Opinion: The Narrator—And from my tee shot the ball caught the dog, lifted him over a bush and landed him in a pond; and I've never been able to induce the dog to come on to the links with me since.

Baltimore American: "I tell you I am worrying a lot over this bakers' strike."

"I don't see what call you have to worry. I heard your wife telling mine that she was going to make all the bread herself."

"Yes; that's what's worrying me."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Punishment stimulates the conscience most.

A girl believes she can make a man love her by telling him he does.

A widow gets along so well with men because she has learned how to conceal her real opinion of them.

The great secret of keeping an automobile is how you can be out riding in it when creditors walk to the house to try to collect their bills.

After spending three days getting everything ready to make a window open without jamming, a man can always send for a carpenter to do it.

Very Annoying.

Weekly Telegraph: A well dressed man standing outside a bookseller's shop in Charing Cross road, closely examining one of Balzac's works, illustrated by Gustav Dore. "How much is this Balzac?" he asked an assistant outside.

"Twenty-five shillings," was the reply.

"Oh, that's too much. I must see the manager about a reduction," continued the prospective customer, and, suiting the action to the word, he took up the book and went into the shop.

Approaching the bookseller, he took the book from under his arm and asked what he would give for it. "Seven shillings, highest offer," he was told.

The offer was accepted—the man took his money, and left.

"Well," queried the assistant later, after the man had gone, "were you able to hit off with the gentleman, sir?"

"Oh, yes, I managed to get another copy of that edition of Balzac for seven shillings."

Then the bookseller went out to lodge a complaint with the police.

The Kaiser.

Brooklyn Citizen: After reading the verse telegraphed by the kaiser to the twenty school girls who visited and drank chocolate with him at Lotus, near Odde, verse which approaches poetry in English quite as nearly as it does in German, one is reminded of a conundrum put in German but which sounds just as well in English, to-wit: "What is the difference between God and the kaiser?" the answer being "God knows everything, but the kaiser knows everything better."

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Demands Submission of an Amendment for Initiative and Referendum.

Commends Insurgents and Deplores Taft's Weakness and Timidity.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following is the text of the platform adopted late yesterday afternoon by the Democratic state convention:

The Democratic party of Minnesota in biennial convention assembled, strong in its consciousness of the faithful service rendered to the people, encouraged by an awakening public conscience which presages the return of the party to control of the federal government, solicits for its candidates the suffrages of all friends of good and popular government.

We call upon the fair-minded people of this commonwealth to rebuke sternly the base and cynical deception practiced upon them, in common with all the people of the United States, by the Republican party in causing the enactment of the Payne tariff law, in defiance of the universally made promise of that party to revise the tariff downwards. If the people will permit such political faithlessness to go unpunished, our government will become utterly irresponsible.

Denounce Tariff Law.

We denounce the present tariff law as a repudiation of the principles of protection as laid down by the Republican national convention of 1908. Instead of its schedules imposing tariff taxes corresponding to the difference of the cost of production at home and abroad, hundreds of them impose a tax greater than the entire cost of production at home or abroad. These grinding taxes were raised or renewed at a time when the masses were staggering under an appalling increase in the cost of living, brought about largely by the malign influences of a long established protective tariff system.

In addition to the excessive taxes levied through that system, it has corrupted the economy of the nation, encouraged and propagated graft and prolifically littered the country with public and private extravagance and waste.

We call upon the people of Minnesota to register this fall their emphatic denunciation of a system fundamentally wrong, both morally and politically, which, as they now know by grievous experience, will never be reformed by its friends.

Taft Weak and Timid.

We deplore the weakness and timidity of President Taft, who, with his own campaign promises still fresh, but dominated by the predatory interests, weakly failed to use the tremendous forces of his high office to force a recreant congressional majority to do its solemn duty of tariff reform. No subsequent effort to fulfill party promises can atone for this supreme failure or restore public confidence.

We condemn the national administration for its initial effort to prevent the conservation of natural resources, and have nothing but contempt for its insincere efforts to appear to support conservation after public disapproval of its course was manifested. The appointment and retention of Ballinger, the attorney for the raiders of public property, as secretary of the department charged with the administration of that property, is a national scandal. The discharge of Gifford Pinchot, the faithful guardian of that property is a national crime.

Party of the People.

National administration by a party whose cardinal creed involves the exploitation of the common people for the benefit of the favored few is necessarily wasteful, and no relief from national extravagance, oppressive taxes and ruinous cost of living can be expected until government is placed in the hands of the party of the people.

We commend the Minnesota insurgent Republican representatives in congress who futilely voted against the tariff law, but cite their defeat as irrefutable proof that no tariff good can come out of the Republican party.

We declare that those members of the delegation who so faithfully supported Cannon and Cannonism, knowingly misrepresented their constituents and should be retired from congress by the action of their own partisans as, failing which, they will inevitably be by the people.

We recommend and applaud the wise, faithful, consistent, statesmanlike course of the Hon. W. S. Hammond, Minnesota's distinguished Democratic representative in congress, and declare that he has generously earned re-election.

We favor the direct election of United States senators by the people.

We favor the federal income tax law.

Johnson's Administration.

The three state administrations of the late Governor Johnson were the most progressive, clean and businesslike in the state's history, and fully demonstrate the capacity of Minnesota Democracy for constructive administration and have earned for it a restoration to that power of which it was deprived by the death of the great governor, whose sudden taking off in his prime was an incalculable loss to the party, the state and the nation. His career is a bright page in Minnesota's history, and through his legacy of a noble life, replete with great achievements, will long continue to affect the destinies of Minnesota and spur ambitious youth to well-doing.

Another irreparable loss has been sustained by the state through the death, after a long period of uncomplaining suffering, of the Hon. L. A. Rosing of the state board of control, a man whose name the Democratic party of Minnesota is proud to inscribe on the long list of those who have given standing and influence to the party.

Are for Reapportionment.

We are unequivocally in favor of a reapportionment of representation in the state legislature with a view to making the composition of that body a true reflection of the distribution of population.

Conservation of natural resources for the benefit of all the people is a problem of the first importance. The state of Minnesota is in a position to accomplish much in this direction by reason of its large ownership of land, timber and minerals, and we recommend as a first step in this direction that inauguration of a prudent and business-like administration of the state's publicly-owned natural resources, to be brought about by a centralization and systematic organization of the various offices now charged with their direction, along the lines recommended and urged by Governor Johnson upon an unwilling legislature.

Closely allied to conservation of natural resources are the works of drainage and the construction of good roads. We favor a constitutional amendment by which a one-mill tax may be levied for the construction of roads and bridges.

Bureau of Labor.

We point with pride to the record made by the bureau of labor under the administration of Democratic officials, in which the rights and interests of labor have been jealously guarded. Never before in the history of this state has such careful attention been given to every phase of the life of the working classes. The child labor law has been vigorously enforced. Factory and workshop inspection has been brought to a high standard of efficiency, and as a result hundreds of accidents which have yearly crippled as many workingmen, have been prevented.

Thousands of dollars extorted from common laborers under the pretense that it was charged for interpreters' fees, has been returned to the men through the efforts of the bureau of labor. Workingmen defrauded out of their wages have been given relief and support and their wages have been collected for them.

The women wage-earners have been given attention and protection such as they never had before, and many other helpful services have been rendered to ht working class by a sympathetic Democratic administration.

We pledge the working classes of Minnesota that if the Democratic party is placed in control of the government of this state, we will correct the defects of existing laws, which do not now adequately protect their health, their limbs and their lives. We will strengthen the child labor law so that it can be more easily enforced, and we will enact such laws as will better protect all men and women wage earners in following their daily tasks.

For Workingmen's Compensation Act.

We stand committed to the enactment of a workingmen's compensation act that will justly and fairly compensate without delay every person injured in industry, irrespective of whether he assumed the risk, contributed to negligence or suffered injury through the act of a fellow servant. It was the administration of the late Governor Johnson which inaugurated the movement for this kind of legislation, and we pledge our party to bring it to a successful termination, assuring both capital and labor of our desire to do each exact justice.

We hold that all questions affecting the moral, political and economic welfare of the people should be directly subject to the conscience and will of the people. To this end we demand of the incoming state legislature, regardless of the political affiliations of its members, that it submit to the voters of this state at the next general election, a constitutional amendment providing for the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

Referendum and Recall.

We hold that with this instrument of fundamental Democracy at their command; the people can settle all questions in accordance with the will of the majority.

We pledge the nominees of this convention and the Democratic members to do their utmost in support of this policy.

The aggressions of monopolistic and lawless wealth are fast becoming a menace to the state and nation. Fostered and encouraged by vicious legislation which gives them undue advantage, these interests depress the price to the producer, while unwarrantedly raising the cost of living to the consumer. Through them the integrity of our courts are threatened and our legislatures are debauched; the heritage of the people is filched from them to further enrich those who have already too much; they seek to control our conventions, dominate our politics and impoverish the people. The Democratic party is unalterably opposed to these interests and would take from them undeserved advantage given by law.

We are in favor of such measures as will make public education only Democratic, practical and efficient, and offer opportunities for every boy and girl in Minnesota to receive the full measure of benefit for which the public schools are established.

Plank on Education.

We strongly favor the establishment of practical and progressive courses in agriculture, manual training and domestic science in all state high and graded school. We recognize the demand for the study of agriculture in the rural schools and pledge our support to such measures as will raise the rural school to a higher plane of efficiency and make it the means of training the youth for useful service and intelligent interest in profitable farming.

We favor the granting of special state aid to encourage consolidation of rural schools, thus placing them upon a broader basis, where their work may result in higher conception of the equality of all classes, whether agricultural, commercial, industrial or professional.

We recognize the duty which rests upon the university and state normal schools to make added provision for training teachers for the practical work which is demanded of the public schools.

Provision should be made for closer supervision of rural schools, for an educational standard for the office of county superintendent, and a more liberal compensation for their services.

We favor the levying of a tax on state lands for the purpose of local improvements.

Theodore Douglas Robinson Loses Campaign in County Fight.

Utica, N. Y., July 29.—Congressman Charles S. Millington of Herkimer, candidate of the organization of Republicans backed by Vice President Sherman, obtained a majority of the delegates at the primary contests last night over Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of former President Roosevelt, candidate of the "insurgent" faction.

There are sixty-six delegates to the county convention, which chooses delegates to the congressional convention, and the organization was successful in fourteen towns, winning forty-three delegates.

CIGARETTE BUTT HELPS HANG MAN FOR MURDER.

Boston, Mass., July 29.—Napoleon Rivet of Lowell was executed in the electric chair at the Charlestown state prison early this morning for the murder of his roommate, Joseph J. Galiloux, in a plumber's shop in Lowell on the night of Feb. 29, 1908.

It was shown at the trial that Rivet was beneficiary in a policy on the life of Galiloux, and that a cigarette stub of the brand used by Rivet had been found on the floor beside the body.

Both men were natives of Quebec.

AFTER FOUR YEARS OF MISERY

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Baltimore, Md. — "For four years my life was a misery to me. I suffered from irregularities, terrible dragging sensations, extreme nervousness, and that all gone feeling in my stomach. I had given up hope of ever being well when I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then I felt as though new life had been given me, and I am recommending it to all my friends."—Mrs. W. S. FORD, 2207 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has stood the test of years and to-day is more widely and successfully used than any other female remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed.

If you are suffering from any of these ailments, don't give up hope until you have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. She has guided thousands to health, free of charge.

WED AFTER MANY YEARS

Marriage of Mary Ayer to Cherokee Chief Pathetic Romance.

He Forgot Marriage Troth, But Redeemed It When Squaw Died.

Talequah, Okla., July 29.—A pathetic romance of old Cherokee days involved one of the nation's most distinguished men, Lewis Downing, once principal chief of the Cherokee, and for whom the Downing party, long a potent factor in tribal politics, was named. In a grassy lawn on Muskogee avenue stands a spreading tree, now green and luxuriant in its summer foliage, that was planted by the hand of the woman who wore her heart away in her devotion to this cavalier of the Cherokees, citizens of Talequah who know the story often point to the tree, the only living relic of the romance, and speak gently of what they remember as a tragedy of love.

During the Civil war Lewis Downing was assistant chief of the Cherokees, his superior being John Ross, one of the most illustrious citizens of the nation. Chief Ross maintained a palatial home in Philadelphia, where he entertained in a lavish manner men and women distinguished in literature and in public life, and it was there that his tribesmen from Indian territory always found their way when they went to Washington and the other principal cities of the East.

Lewis Downing was frequently at the Philadelphia home of Chief Ross.

In the full strength of his manhood Downing was of knightly appearance. His features were strong and clearly cut, his eyes dark and brilliant, his complexion swarthy and his hair, reaching nearly to his shoulders, black and glossy. He was 6 feet in height, and bore himself proudly. Downing was an ordained minister in the Baptist church, his ministrations being among the Cherokees. He spoke English brokenly, but in Cherokee he was fluent and a notable orator.

Meets a Quaker Girl.

About 1863 Downing was a guest of Chief Ross in Philadelphia, and at that time was an officer of high rank in the Union army. He made a dashing appearance in his uniform. Another guest at the Ross home was Miss Mary Ayer, a Quakeress of Bethany, Pa. Miss Ayer was of excellent family, wealthy and highly educated. She lived at Bethany with her aunt, her only surviving relative. Miss Ayer was about 35 years of age, and though attractive her beauty was that of character rather than of person. She gazed upon the handsome Cherokee with unrestrained admiration. Downing was then a widower, his first wife having died. There was lovemaking in time, and before his departure for the wilderness in the far-off Indian territory, 2,000 miles away, Downing had promised to make his Quaker sweetheart his wife, though the date of their wedding was not fixed.

When Lewis Downing reached the Indian Territory his country was enduring all the miseries that follow fire and sword in civil strife. It may have been that in his constant activities he became forgetful of his troth. There are some who suspect that he may have regretted his promise and felt that the long distance that lay between Talequah and Bethany was a barrier to communication. Lewis Downing felt this, he was mistaken, and when he married his second Cherokee wife he may not have dreamed of ever again seeing the face of Mary Ayer.

In May, 1867, the body of Chief John Ross was brought from Washington to Talequah for interment at his old home at Park Hill. When the funeral party reached Talequah, Lewis Downing, then principal chief of the Cherokees, stood aghast in the presence of Mary Ayer. The passage of years nor the hardships of a long journey had prevailed against her hunger to behold the man she loved. In her modesty she did not obtrude herself upon the Cherokee chieftan, and to only one person did she confide the secret of her grief. Lewis Downing stood aloof; there was nothing he could do to make reparation for what he had done.

Mary Ayer never returned to her home in Pennsylvania. Among the poor and dependent Cherokees and among the orphans she dispensed generous charity. In this work she went to the remote places in the Cherokee country in search of those who were in need. And ever she let her eyes rest upon Lewis Downing. If he rode down the street on his horse, Mary Ayer, concealed behind the curtain of her window, watched him ride past. She could not understand a word of the Cherokee language, yet she would attend all the meetings of the fullbloods, where Lewis Downing spoke, that she might hang upon the accent of his words.

If there was bitterness in her heart, she never spoke of it. In her devotion Mary Ayer adopted a young son of Downing by his first wife and changed his Christian name to Lewis—the name of his father. Upon this boy she bestowed her utmost affection.

The second wife of Lewis Downing died about six years after Mary Ayer came to Talequah. Those who knew the story of what Lewis Downing had done whispered among themselves and wondered what he would do. Would he ask Mary Ayer a second time to marry him? When Mary Ayer became the wife of Lewis Downing, chief of the Cherokees, for her all the blue Cherokee hills swam in a mist of happiness and the streams that sparkled and foamed down their pebbly beds in this beautiful land were not more joyous than her heart.

The women of Talequah beheld with unrestrained interest this belated redemption of Lewis Downing's pledge. Secretly they condemned his earlier conduct, but felt that if Mary Ayer at last had found happiness it was not for them to speak of other things. Wherever Lewis Downing went his wife was found at his side. He made wearisome journeys into the interior, where he was exposed to all the inclemencies of storm and cold, but always Mary was with him, devoted and adoring. In time her health began failing and those that knew her said it was caused by this exposure.

Women who knew Mary intimately divined shortly that deep in her heart was the chill and fear that Lewis Downing did not truly love her, and that his pride and sense of justice were all that had impelled him to marry her. This was indeed the desolation of love. A year passed, and death came to Mary Ayer with its balm for broken hearts. A woman that sat with her on the last day related with tenderness how the dying woman, conscious to the final moment, followed with wistful eyes every movement of her husband as he moved about the room, yearning to be near him, fearful lest she should lose a single minute of the time that was falling like beads from a broken strand.

Mary Ayer, with her broken heart, was laid to rest in the cemetery at Park Hill and there she sleeps today. Eight months later Lewis Downing died.

"Somewhere and somehow," said the Cherokee woman who told this story, "I feel that Mary Ayer should be happy. She gave all that a good woman can give to the man she loved. No woman could give more. Life would be cruel and unjust if still there is heartache in the shadowy region beyond us."

Constipation

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you, I am free from all that this morning. SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER

Seeks Divorce, Saying Wife Holds Him to 16 Cents Daily.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—George Ward, for the past twenty years a Sunday school teacher at Friendship Park Presbyterian church, has entered suit for divorce against Martha Ward, and the entire congregation appears to be scandalized.

For weeks members of the congregation have been urging Ward not to enter the divorce court, but he filed his complaint.

The woman from whom a separation is asked is Ward's second wife. Ward makes allegation that since their marriage six years ago she has carefully collected his wages and has refused to give him even enough to buy luncheon, and on different occasions has sent him to work hungry.

Ward, who is an expert steel worker, submits figures to show that his daily income averages $10, but of this he avers he has not been allowed to spend 16 cents daily since marrying Wife No. 2. Ward is 50 years of age, his wife about 35.

When asked for her side of the case Mrs. Ward said:

"I don't need an attorney. I'm enough of an attorney to handle this case myself. Mr. Ward does not know anything about the value of money, but he has some children by a former wife who do know the good of money, and there is the rub.

"I won't see them take his money, and some time since I was compelled to put one of his grown daughters out of the house.

"Then these Sunday school people nosed into the case, and there was trouble."

POP BOTTLE EXPLODES,

Tearing Away Portion of Boy's Face, Including an Eye.

Louisville, Ky., July 29.—In the presence of a merry assemblage gathered at a lawn fete church social, William Kold, a twelve-year-old boy, was hurled to the ground, and suffered the loss of an eye, when a pop bottle exploded, tearing away a portion of his face.

The sharp report broke into the night air, stilling the laughter and gay shouts instantly, and the big crowd rose startled to its feet, to find the boy writhing and bleeding upon the ground. Physicians were at the side of the boy instantly, and a hasty examination revealing the dangers of his wound, he was taken immediately to a hospital, where an operation was performed to save his left eye.

With tremendous force, the shattered glass like fine shot was driven into the lad's face. The right eye was torn away, and the whole right side of the face lacerated. The right forehead was scraped to the skull.

Kold is the son of a gardener who is a member of the church, and had volunteered his services for the evening.

LAWYER BEER HIRED

To Prosecute Saloon Keeper Schnapps and Then Joker Fled.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 29.—Frederick T. Beer, attorney for Frank J. Marmann, who last week, representing himself as an agent for John D. Rockefeller, had John D. Schnapps, a St. Clair avenue saloonist, arrested because he exhibited a sign "This is John D.'s place" in his saloon, appeared before Squire Griswold and asked that action in the matter be indefinitely postponed.

Beer said: "I understand Marmann is now in Columbus with the Ford Detective Agency acting as a strike-breaker. Whether he thought it was a joke to have a lawyer named Beer prosecute a saloon keeper named Schnapps or not I do not know.

"I know that he asked me to take up the case. I did so, and he has now gone."

WOMAN SEEKS DAMAGES.

Sues Hancock Saloon Keepers for Giving Her Husband Liquor.

Houghton, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Gustafe Rauhala of Hancock has filed with County Clerk Richardson a suit for damages against nine saloon men of Hancock, asking $10,000 damages.

Matt Rauhala, who is at present an inmate of the county jail, was tried in circuit court on a charge of drunk and disorderly, it being his third offense, and convicted. Friends interceded with the court for him and requested permission to send Matt to an institute to cure his habit of drunkenness and stated that they were collecting funds for the purpose. Since then he has been under the care of the sheriff.

Mrs. Rauhala claims in her proceedings that Matt, who was a tailor, started in drinking and from being a sober and industrious man became a common drunkard, and claims that after warning nine of the saloonmen of Hancock not to give her husband drink they did so. Therefore she commenced proceedings against them. A case similar to this was tried in circuit court several months ago, the parties being from South Range. In this case the woman who brought the suit was awarded a judgment.

MOSBY FIGHTS POVERTY.

Famous Confederate Living in One Room in New York.

New York, July 29. — In a humble room in this city one of the few surviving heroes of the Civil war, Col. John Singleton Mosby, the famous confederate leader of the partisan rangers, is trying to support himself by his writings since his dismissal from the department of justice "because of age."

Friends are planning an appeal to President Taft for reinstatement or appointment to some other post.

The colonel was United States consul at Hongkong, China, from 1878 to 1885. Then he practiced law in San Francisco until appointed to the department of justice.

"They say I am superannuated," said Col. Mosby. "I am no such thing. I am as strong as I ever was. I am old, it is true, but I am strong, nevertheless. I have no plans for the future. I shall work on my book. My present condition is a part of the game—it's war, and I take it as such. I have been up against it during the war, and did not take it seriously to heart. I shall endeavor not to do so now."

Laporte, Ind., July 29.—Prof. W. D. Hart has accepted a place on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin. As a member of the faculty, Prof. Hart will visit high school mathematical courses and try to establish a closer relationship between the high schools and university.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

Is the President of Electro-Radio Experts Whose Qualities of Mind and Heart Have Won Him Thousands of Friends Throughout the Land

A BRILLIANT SCIENTIST A MASTER SPECIALIST A TRUE PHILANTHROPIST

Gifted in many ways that would bring him reputation and success in commercial life, politics or literature, he chose to give his life work to the healing of the people. The thoroughly equipped offices are filled with a bewildering array of scientific appliances, costing many thousands of dollars and representing the highest attainment of modern skill in treating disease that others fail upon.

Selects Greatest Diagnostician.

A tall man, of imposing appearance, sparingly built but splendid physique, with a fine, well proportioned head set on broad shoulders, with kindly sympathetic blue eyes—wonderful eyes—that can see into your body, and, I also may add, your soul, because this man has delved into all the greatest philosophies of the earth, he is rated as one of our greatest psychologists, and when you come under his care he is at once inspired with the loftiest zeal for the advancement of the profession in which he labors, with a capacity for the abstract reasoning which works its way unerringly through the mass of phenomena to the truth that astonishes the world. His grasp on affairs is that ready and masterful kind which would have made him a reputation and phenomenal success in any sphere of work he might have undertaken. It is this union of the student and scientist and practical business man which explains the unique position occupied by this great benefactor of mankind.

A Sympathetic Nature.

But it is the spontaneous sympathy which is ever meeting the widely varying conditions of the sick people who crowd to him that explains the affectionate regard which every one of his patients entertain for him. His frankness and hearty kindness, always characteristic of the great minds in the most beneficent of professions, seem to enkindle in the sick a feeling of confidence which is a powerful assistant toward the recovery of health. They feel that they have a true friend in him and that the intellect which plans the means for the recovery of health is aided by the charity of his heart.

His Office a Wonder.

A trip through the institute when it is not filled during treating and business hours is a wonder to behold; not anywhere, except Paris, can one see the priceless array of radium, ozone and electric mechanism of priceless value and some of the most brilliant achievements of the world's greatest inventors.

Manufacturers of Ozone.

Here one can see how ozone is made, for years acknowledged to be the only sure cure for consumption, asthma, bronchitis and lung troubles. It will actually improve the blood 50 per cent. in less than a month. Sleeplessness is a thing of the past since it was adopted.

Radium Used.

Up to the time this valuable therapeutic agent was discovered, many cases of cancer and malignant growths were absolutely incurable, even after an operation had been performed, the cellular nucleus remained sufficient to start the malignant growth again, and after many operations had been performed the patient, exhausted from each ordeal, succumbed to the disease or mere weakness. The order of things have been reversed in many cases of this dreadful disease since the discovery of the X-Ray and radium.

Marvelous Electric Instruments.

Electro-Radio should head the list of all these instruments, as this is a combined power of electric and light energy so highly recommended by Finsen Pasteur and, in fact, all the leading scientists, as it has been demonstrated time and again that this instrument not only sends a million volts of electricity in all parts of the body, literally burning up all germs and dead tissue, which pass off in the form of carbonic acid gas, but at the same time it gives a life-giving power, stimulating and feeding every deprived and crying nerve with the food and electrical energy it so desires. It will cure every case of neuralgia, nervousness, backache, run down anaemic women. With this wonderful power we can put ozone into the deepest recesses of the human body, destroying clots or malignant growths, stricture and tumors.

Galvanism.

If we could prove to you that female troubles that are butchered with the surgeon's knife in order to obtain permanent results are as far behind the times as an ox-cart is today, compared to our modern automobile of the six-cylinder type, would you believe it? If we showed you how we could wipe out stricture and piles with only a few treatments with the negative pole of the galvanic current, and you continued to doubt, then you are a hopeless case and only fit for one place, and that is to be separated from progressiveness and placed on the isolated isle of "Doubting Thomases," where you could nurse your hobby of doubt as the miser does his gold, and enjoy alone your selfish thought.

Laboratory Equipment.

Special interest centers in the laboratories of each institution. In the microscopical and chemical department all research work is done. Here the examination that enables the experts to delve into the most remote mysteries of the human body, searching out the tubercular and other germs and poisons, is pursued. Here the costly serums and anti-toxins are prepared. Although no extra charge is made the patient, thousands of dollars each year are spent in each institution for this alone.

Finsen Light.

This remarkable light is used in the treatment of tumors, lupus, cancers and growths, fibroid tumors, benign and malignant, skin diseases and facial blemishes. We have a machine, the only one of its kind in America, which cures sciatica, lumbago, spinal troubles and poor circulation. This machine has many attachments, oscillators, capillary dilators, etc., thus enabling the specialist to do complete work.

HEALTH AND MONEY

Money is the Most Envied But the Least Enjoyed; Health is the Most Enjoyed But the Least Envied; and This Superiority of the Latter is Still More Obvious When We Reflect That the Poorest Man Would Not Part With Health for Money, But the Richest Would Part With All His Money if Necessary For Health.

Life at Best Is Short and to Get the Best Out of Life One Must Have Health. We All Know How to Live in Order to Avoid Being Sick; But Few of Us Appreciate Advice When Given. What We Usually Want Is Some One to Help Us Out of Our Difficulties. Whatever Follies or Indiscretions Have Led You Into ELECTRO-RADIO Will Cure You.

Nebulizing Appliance.

For diseases of the ears, nose, throat and lungs, catarrhal conditions which cannot be benefited otherwise are burned out with the most powerful, yet harmless, ozone gas, which kill every germ penetrating into one inch of tissue.

Electro-Radio Library.

Here we have the most unique library in the world today. Think of such volumes, subjects as radium, liquid air, electro-therapy, light rays, Finsen and X-Ray, Electro-Radio and a thousand volumes of other subjects worth thousands of dollars, representing the brains and achievements of all the celebrated discoveries in the past twenty-five years. Many of these books are the only ones in existence and cannot be bought at any price. Here the experts spend all their spare hours talking over the case of each patient, suggesting the proper methods to pursue to get the quickest and most efficient results. Many times it is in the wee hours when they depart—the work is so interesting. Many cases treated here are put before clinics in Europe. The doctors have saved many of their patients from cancers and other dangerous growths when the patients were being treated for some minor ailment, never dreaming such a condition threatened them. The doctors always keep these things to themselves, not wishing to frighten the patient, but they treat and remove many unknown cases, then report what they have done to the chief of staff, as in the case of Mrs. A. M. Moffett, who was possibly saved from cancer of the stomach by commencing in time, unbeknown to her at the time. She is now out of danger and has not felt a pain since she began.

Mrs. L. E. Goodwin.

Those who appreciate the endeavors of the experts are many, but possibly no one has thanked them in her own heart as much as Mrs. L. E. Goodwin, who was cured of gallstones without the knife. She is now being treated with good results for catarrh.

Mrs. M. Robbins

Is another who is loud in her praises, as this lady was dying from that dreadful affliction, Bright's disease, until the doctors checked it and placed her on the road to rapid redovery.

Mr. W. A. Martin

Had given up in despair of ever getting rid of a 100-foot parasite, which gorged his stomach until it almost threw him into a fit of agony and made him unfit for labor. This monster was removed alive and placed on exhibition, where thousands had their curiosity appeased.

Mrs. C. W. Mason

Brought her child, suffering from a clot on the brain, causing spasms and paralysis. This was three weeks ago. The child was recently examined, and no trace of the clot remained. The spasms have ceased and paralysis is responding fast.

Mrs. R. W. Rushing

Was saved from the knife. We removed several tumors from the bowels—without cutting or pain.

Mrs. J. O. Tucker

Has received great benefit for threatened cancer of the womb. The place has entirely healed, and she is feeling fine and wants you to know of her great relief.

Out of the hundreds secured, some on account of their family physician and other reasons do not want us to print their testimonials. At the same time they are willing to help their fellow being by mail in person. We have these names, which if any suit your case we will make arrangements and let you talk with them if you mean business and promise to act with the lady or gentlemen and not insult them by sarcastic remarks, as they are influential and solid business men and women, who, if approached with a bribe, would immediately turn the briber over to the police, and what they do is from a spirit of benevolence and duty they feel that they owe humanity. Consequently, they have no time for the skeptic who would falsely accuse them and take up their valuable time, and you cannot blame us for talking "straight goods."

Every testimonial used by the Electro-Radio Institute is true and given voluntarily. Every giver can be easily reached by letter or a personal call and will not only be willing, we are sure, but anxious to give their personal account of help or cure derived from the treatment. It would be the height of folly to even insinuate that the institute buys their testimonials. The hundreds they receive would mean an expenditure no bank account could afford. Free consultation still holds good, but very soon those requiring examination will be charged, which will be deducted from the regular fee should they begin treatment. From 11 to 12 tomorrow; 9 to 12, 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 week days, the Institute is open and solicits a call from you in person. You will be treated courteously whether you spend 1 cent or not. 800 Alworth building.

Games Today.

Wausau at Duluth.
Eau Claire at Superior.
Red Wing at La Crosse.
Rochester at Winona.

The White Sox and the Eau Claire bunch divided honors at the ball park yesterday.

In the first game Hughes was taken out and Blanke substituted in the second inning after three runs had been scored by the visitors. The score was 6 to 1 in favor of Eau Claire. The young collegian started the second game and was in great form, holding Eau Claire to four hits and no runs. Duluth bunched hits, profited by the errors of the visitors and grabbed nine runs.

Delave pitched well in the first and won his game by rapping out a double in the second, sending in two men. Boothby succeeded Delave toward the end of the game when the latter was bounced for endeavoring to punch the umpire. Boothby pitched the first seven innings of the second but was far from a puzzle. His support was poor.

In the first inning of the first game Eau Claire grabbed its first run. Breyette singled to right and scored on Callahan's bingle. In the second Moore sent a high one to Kohl who muffed it. Dehaven hit to Hughes. The twirler threw to Kohl at third to nab Moore. The runner seemed to be out but "Ump" McDermott called him safe. Benrud fanned and Delave clinched the game by rapping out a two-sacker to right, scoring Moore and Dehaven. Blancke succeeded Hughes and he pitched great ball, letting down in the ninth after two were out when the visitors got three runs on singles by Breyette and Callahan, Russ Bailey's screaming two-bagger to center and Moore's single.

The second game was replete with sensational plays and was a fast exhibition of the national game on both sides until the Eau Claire team participated in a little aviation meet in the sixth. Hughes was invincible, the four hits that were glommed from his delivery being kept scattered. No two bingles came in any one inning. Two of the hits were of the scratch variety.

Duluth got two tallies in the first. J. Anderson was walked and when G. Anderson was retired at first on his infield hit J. Anderson went to second and stole third. Kohl got a base on balls and pilfered second. J. Anderson was caught at the plate on an attempted squeeze play. Darby hunted into Boothby's hands, but the play would have been good if Anderson had taken a longer lead. Holstrom got an infield hit and Kohl scored. Darby surprised everybody by coming in home from first base on the infield out. How from first base on the infield out. How he did it nobody had time to figure out. Fast fielding kept the visitors hitless and runless in the first. Kick slammed a hot one to Kohl, who fielded it cleanly and retired Kick at first. Breyette sent up a high fly to right field, which O'Brien grabbed after a hard run. Kohl made a great one-hand stop of Callahan's grass cutter and eclipsed the batter at first.

Duluth registered again in the fifth when Hughes was hit on his pitching hand. J. Anderson was an out. G. Anderson stopped a pitched ball with his arm. Kohl doubled to left, scoring Hughes and G. Anderson. O'Brien bunted into the air. Boothby plucked it out of the atmosphere and shot the ball to Moore at second, retiring Kohl, who had started for third.

The Sox scored six runs in the sixth in a comedy of errors and by bunching hits when bingles were needed. Breyette threw Altermott's grounder over Kading's head and Altermott rested at second. Holstrom was hit by a pitched ball and Marion bunted, filling the bases. Schwab slammed the pill to center for two sacks, scoring Altermott, Holstrom and Marion. Hughes got to first when Breyette fumbled his grounder. J. Anderson bunted and Kading let the ball roll around his fingers several times before he got hold of it. In the meantime Schwab crossed the rubber, Hughes went to second and J. Anderson was safe at first. G. Anderson rapped out a single to right and Hughes came home, followed by J. Anderson. Kohl went out in the infield and O'Brien got a base on balls. The orator stole second and G. Anderson pilfered third simultaneously. Altermott fanned and Holstrom flew out.

The visitors got only one man to third base. In the seventh Bailey got a base on balls, went to second on an infield out, took third on Altermott's fumble of Moore's biff and tried to come home when Benrud singled to center. The hit was clean but G. Anderson fielded it clearly and brought the spectators to their feet when he threw home from center, catching Bailey at the plate by a block. The throw was as accurate as a rifle shot. Schwab receiving the ball in the air without moving. The play choked off the only chance of scoring that the visitors had.

Duluth and Wausau will play the first of a three-game series this afternoon. The locals are playing great ball and are expected to grab two out of three, if not the entire series.

WAUSAU EASY FOR SUPERIOR

Red Legs Bat Out a 6 to 0 Victory at Hislop Park.

The Superior team continued its climb up the baseball ladder of fame yesterday, when Wausau was defeated at Hislop park by a score of 6 to 0. Wausau was seemingly outplayed and bewildered at every stage of the game. Not once were they real contenders for the long end of the score.

Dahlgren worked from the slab for Superior, while Schieffer and Dunbar threw for the Lumberjacks. Schieffer pitched the first three innings but so kindly did O'Dea's boys take to his delivery that Dunbar was sent in to finish the game. He did little better for the Superior men had on their batting clothes.

Bancroft again starred. Out of four times up he secured four hits, one of them being a two-bagger. When the game was over he had three runs and two stolen bases to his credit.

When at bat the Superior players were the busy boys. They got a man as far as third every inning except two. Hits were made in every inning except the seventh.

The first real action took place in the second, after two men were out. McCarthy was out, shortstop to first, and Lizette skied out to left. Chase was passed and went to third on Caldwell's hit to right. Both scored on Bancroft's long hit. Bancroft stole second and scored on Dahlgren's double. McGraw ended the inning by popping to the pitcher.

Wausau was unable to connect for more than two hits and they didn't come together. It was a one-sided hitting game and it made the fans present happy, for today Eau Claire is playing in Superior and the backers of the Red Legs can see nothing but victory against the league leaders.

LA CROSSE MAKES IT THREE STRAIGHT.

La Crosse, Wis., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — La Crosse again defeated Rochester here yesterday, 5 to 2, making a clean sweep of the series. Both teams played great ball. Barngrover, recently of La Crosse, pitched for Rochester and his former teammates bunched hits on him.

Whittaker was the star of the game. He held the Doctors to three hits. With the score a tie and two men on bases in the seventh, Whittaker poled out a triple, winning his own game.

RED WING WINS FROM WINONA.

Red Wing, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Fautsch pitched great ball yesterday allowing but six well scattered hits and striking out eleven men. Had it not been for errors by Gustafson he would have had a 6 to 0 victory. As it was the score was Red Wing 6; Winona 3.

Winona used three pitchers. Byers, Baillies and Vance tried to head of the Red Wing batters, but were unsuccessful. Demmer made a sensational one-handed catch in right field, cutting off two runs. Score: R. H. E.

PHILLIES WIN FROM GIANTS ON FOUR HITS.

New York, July 29.—Philadelphia made only four hits off Mathewson yesterday, but three of these came in the first inning and with a fumble by Devoro netted the visitors two runs and victory. The final score was 3 to 2. The Philadelphia's tallying in the sixth inning on errors by Murray and Bridwell. Field Umpire Easton put Manager McGraw of New York off the field in the ninth for disputing decision. New York and Boston will play only one game here today, instead of two as scheduled, but a double-header will be played Saturday. Score: R. H. E.

MAY DAY WINS FROM FAVORITE

Horse That Sold for $500 Wins Heavily at Kalamazoo Meet.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 29.—May Day, no better than third choice in the pools, yesterday won the $5,000 Rickman hotel purse, the feature of the fourth day's racing in the grand circuit meet here. May Day is the Indiana mare which William Ryan, a blacksmith of Covington, Ky., last winter sold to Thomas Bodine of the same place for $500. Her winnings at Grand Rapids last week added to her share of the Rickman purse make a total of nearly six times the amount Bodine paid for her.

An event of much interest yesterday was the presentation to the Recreation Park association by the Thackeray family of Kalamazoo of an old triangle which was used at the old National park in 1859, when Flora Temple in October of that year startled the racing world by trotting a mile in the then unapproached time of 2:19¾. The triangle was used in all of yesterday's races. The 2:05 pace carded for yesterday failed to fill, leaving only three events on the program, all of which were won in three straight heats.

The big event of the day, the 2:13 pace, attracted a field of nine starters.

Brenham Baugham was made favorite after the Estabrooke entry, C. The Limit was withdrawn before the race on account of lameness. In the first heat Lady of Honor led to the home-stretch and then May Day came down and drove in a winner in a whipping finish, Brenham Baugham finishing third. In the second heat Oscar Wild led to the half, then lost by breaking. It was a neck and neck finish between May Day and Brenham Baugham, while Lady of Honor was a close third. The last heat was again a fight at the wire, but May Day had a shade the best at the end.

Hall Worthy, favorite in the 2:12 trot, did not get even into the money, while the winner, Maj. Strong, was a rank outsider. Vito twice pushed Maj. Strong rather hard, but the result was never in doubt.

Capt. George, the only favorite of the day to win, had an easy thing of it in the 2:30 trot.

Hard Fought Match.

The Wood-Legg match attracted the largest gallery and brought out a hotly contested affair after the first nine holes. Wood got a flying start on his stocky opponent and was 5 up at the end of the morning play. Legg took a decided brace coming in and he was 2 down at the end of the morning round.

Legg—

Wood—
Out .....4 4 3 5 4 4 2 4 3—33
In .....3 4 5 5 4 5 5 3 1—38—71

Legg started with a rush in the afternoon and won the first, 4-5, but the second was halved in 4. Legg rimming the cup for 3 from the edge of the green. Legg evened the match by holding a long putt on the third and winning 2-3. The fourth was halved in 5 but Legg was up for the first time in the match when Wood missed a three-foot putt and Legg won on the fifth, 3-4.

The sixth and seventh were halved in par fours. Legg got into trouble playing the eighth and Wood evened the match by winning 4-5. Wood took the lead again by winning the ninth, 5-6, after hooking his second into the woods. Legg missed and Wood won, 3-4, making him 2 up.

Legg was halved in 5 on the twelfth, 535 yards, while Wood played his second safe with an iron. Legg won, 4-5. The thirteenth and fourteenth were halved but Wood made it two up again by winning the fifteenth, 4-5, Legg missing an easy putt. The sixteenth and seventeenth were halved in par figures and Wood won the match, 2 up and 1 to play. Their afternoon cards:

Seckel Easy For Hunter.

Hunter had little trouble in disposing of Seckel by 6 up and 4 to play. He was four up at the end of the first eighteen holes. Hunter was forced to play his sensational 68 in the afternoon as Seckel played brilliantly, making a 71 for the last 18 holes. Their afternoon cards:

CHICAGO MEN PLAY DOWN

Evans, Hunter, Phelps and Wood Meet in Semi-Finals.

Wood Looms Up Through His Defeat of Harry Legg.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—Four Chicago golfers met in the semi-final round of the Western amateur golf championship tournament today over the Minikahda club course. Charles Evans, Jr., Edgewater, the present champion, played Robert E. Hunter of Midlothian, who made a 68 in his match with Albert Seckel yesterday, while Mason Phelps of Midlothian was opposed to Warren K. Wood of Homewood.

Wood's defeat of Harry G. Legg of Minikahda, who made the low qualifying score of 140, made him loom up as one of the favorites for the championship. His match with Phelps drew a large gallery but more followed the Evans-Hunter contest.

The four semi-finalists appeared in excellent condition as they drove off the first tee and hard-fought matches were expected.

New Record Made.

Hunter was the sensation yesterday when he defeated Albert Seckel of Hinsdale, the Eastern intercollegiate champion by 6 up and 4 to play, negotiating the eighteen holes in 68, two strokes better than it ever had been done before. His 68 will not stand as a course record as it was made in match play. Although Seckel was beaten with four holes left to play both men continued the eighteen holes in order that Hunter might complete his medal score. Hunter's card follows:

Hunter—
Out .....4 4 2 4 4 4 3 4 5—34
In .....3 4 4 4 5 3 4 4 3—34—68

The hardest fought match of the day was finished when Warren K. Wood of Homewood defeated Harry G. Legg by 2 up and 1 to play.

Charles Evans, Jr., the present champion, remained in the battle by virtue of the decisive defeat administered to W. E. Clow, Jr., of Onwentsia by 9 up and 8 to play. Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian, western champion in 1908, defeated C. T. Jaffray, the veteran of the Minikahda club, by 4 up and 3 to play.

DULUTH IS FAVORITE

Local Oarsmen Are Picked to Win Junior Eight Event.

Winnipeg Senior Eight Is Rowing in Beautiful Form.

Kenora, Ont., July 29. — (Special to The Herald.)—By competent judges of rowing the Duluth junior eight is regarded as the favorite in the event of the first day of the Northwestern regatta, here today. Duluth, St. Paul and Winnipeg have gone over the beautiful, straightaway course and of the three eights, the eight husky young men from the Head of the Lakes, look the best. St. Paul is very light. The Apostles have lots of snap and have also better blade work than the Duluth boys, but it is not believed that they have the power to win from the strong Duluth crew. In the bantam four event, also, judges of rowing believe that the Duluth four stands an excellent chance for victory.

Winnipeg looks the best for the senior eight with a crew composed of men from last year's senior and junior eights. This crew rows like a machine and the rhythm of the boat is beautiful.

St. Paul is a favorite for the senior four-oared event with a veteran and tried crew. The weather is windy today and if the present conditions obtain when the race is called Duluth will have an advantage as the men from Duluth are used to rough and choppy water.

GRADY GETS DOWN TO SEMI-FINALS

Final Game Will Take Place at Boat Club Saturday Afternoon.

Powell Grady is now down to the semi-finals in the boat club tennis tournament. Yesterday he won from Edmund Ingalls, giving him the right to contest in the semi-finals with Loren Kennedy. The winner of this match will meet Dickerman, who is already down to the finals.

The sets played yesterday were among the best yet played in the boat club event. Gradp won the first set, 6-4. Ingalls won the second set, 6-2, and Grady won the third, 6-4.

There is much interest in the finals, which will be played Saturday afternoon between either Kennedy and Dickerman or Grady and Dickerman. It is expected that quite a crowd will gather to witness the final match for the championship.

NORTH DAKOTA SHOTS CHOSEN

Members of Militia Who Will Participate in National Shoot.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota's rifle team that will represent the state militia at the national rifle competition at Camp Perry was announced at the conclusion of the shooting here. There were some splendid scores made, members of Company K of Dickinson doing exceptionally well as the result of their continual practice work on their own rifle range. The team names and the scores follow:

Sergeant Wolford, Company K, Dickinson, 245; Lieut. Baird, Company K, 240; Private Engebrecht, Company K, 228; Lieut. Gray, Company H, Jamestown, 222; Corporal Dardis, Company K, 220; Sergeant Halvorson, Company G, Valley City, 215; Lieut. Sappenfield, Company H, 193; Sergeant Petrie, Company A, Bismarck, 196; Corporal Mason, Company G, 192; Capt. Boyd, Company I, Hillsboro, 187; Corporal Constant, Company H, 186; Lieut. Barker, Company K, 186. Alternates: Corporal Petrie, Company A, 183; Corporal Bryan, Company C, Grafton, 181; Capt. Wright, Company H, 180.

ZANESVILLE FANS ATTACK UMPIRE

Zanesville, Ohio, July 29.—Umpire Welsh of the Central league, was attacked by a crowd of angry spectators at the ball park yesterday and severely beaten after Lejeune had won the game for Zanesville in the tenth inning with a home run. Welsh, some of the Zanesville partisans asserted, had given a long series of decisions unjust to the local club.

FAIL TO REACH TOP OF MT. McKINLEY.

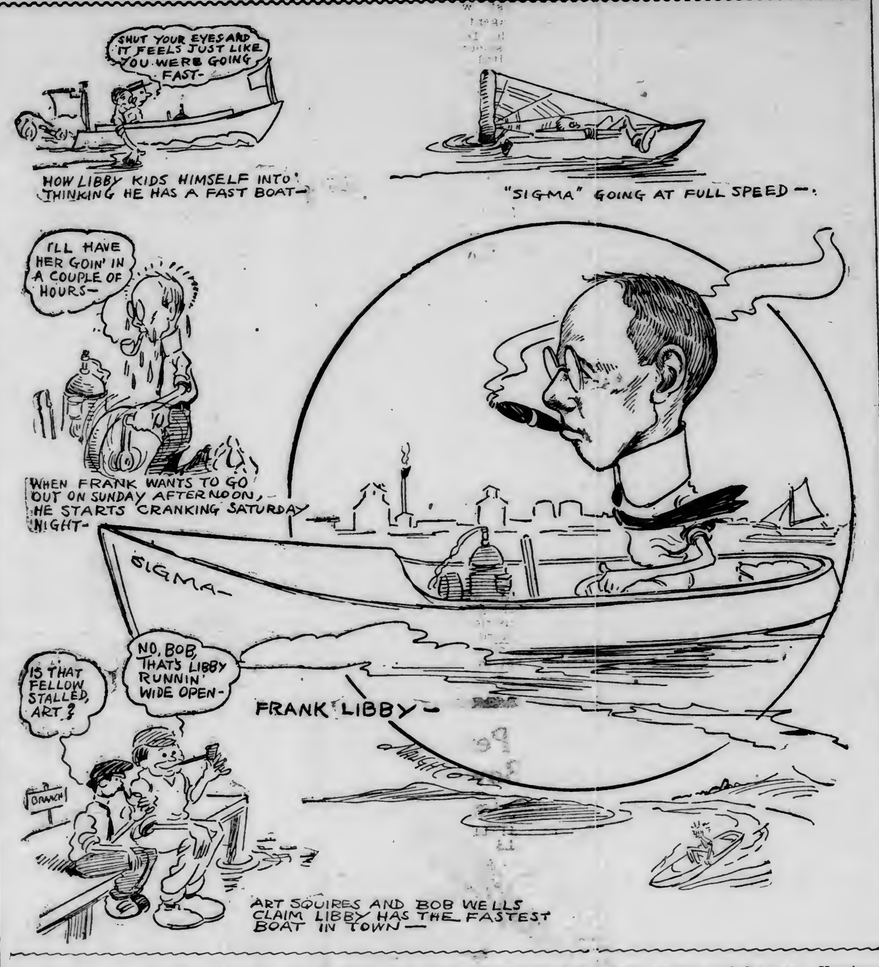

Seward, Alaska, July 29.—The Portland Oregonian-New York Herald Mount McKinley expedition, headed by C. F. Rusk of Chelan, Wash., which sailed from Seattle on the revenue cutter Tahoma April 24, and which followed Dr. Cook's route up the Susitna and Chulitna rivers, failed to reach the summit of Mount McKinley, and is now on the way back to Seward.

The climbers ascended the peak alleged by Cook to be the summit, but it is ten miles from the topmost point of the mountain. The Rusk party was unable to see the flag which the Thomas Lloyd party is alleged to have planted on the summit last April, and the members are disinclined to believe the story told by the Fairbanks expedition.

The party, headed by Prof. Herschel Parker of New York and Belmore Brown of Tacoma, still is endeavoring to ascend the mountain.

This news was brought to Seward by W. McDougall, president of the Cache Creek Mining company, who met the Rusk party a few days ago.

Liquor Interests Claim Indians Were Used to Trap Saloon Men.

Fight Against Government's Saloon Closing Order Is Getting Lively.

St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. W. Zollman of St. Paul, attorney for the Minnesota Brewers' association, returned yesterday from Washington, D. C., where he argued against the most recent order of the Indian bureau closing the saloons in a large part of Northern Minnesota. To substantiate his argument, Mr. Zollman says he submitted an affidavit of C. W. Johnson, a private detective of Minneapolis, said to have been employed by the firm of Brandt & Juam, saying the methods used to obtain evidence against the saloon keepers, were unjust.

With Mr. Zollman were Representatives S. G. Comstock and W. H. Bazy, mayor of Moorhead. These men told Frank Pierce, acting secretary of the interior, that the order was unjust and that it would bankrupt Moorhead and other cities included.

Brewers Will Make Fight.

No definite plans have been made by the brewers, according to the attorney, but he says they will use every legitimate means to protect their rights. They will first wait and see what action is taken on their appeal to the department of the interior.

The affidavit of Johnson, the detective, says, according to Mr. Zollman, that the detectives took Indians from North Dakota into the saloons and persuaded the saloon keepers to sell liquor to them. In some cases, according to the affidavit, the Indians were of light complexion and did not look like Indians.

None of the lands, he said, are Indian lands properly, but have been divided into counties under the state constitution and subject to the state police power.

ELOPERS DENIED LICENSE TO WED

Half-Breed and Sweetheart Flee to Stillwater Only to Be Balked.

Stillwater, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. Tyler, a Lakeland, Wis., half-breed and Luella Staberg of the same place, who failed in their efforts to be married at Hudson, Wis., then eloped here, were foiled again yesterday afternoon as Clerk Mackintosh of the district court acting on instructions from the girl's father who made strenuous objection to his daughter marrying her dusky lover, refused a license. There was a stormy scene at the Union station in Hudson, and the Hudson police were appealed to by the father of the girl, but Chief O'Keefe refused to act without a warrant, as the girl was of legal age.

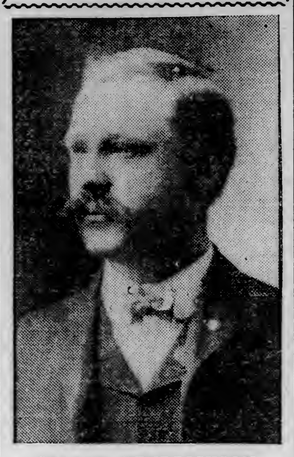

The young couple secured a marriage license last week in Hudson, and according to the dusky-skinned lover his sweetheart was spirited away to Star Prairie. He followed her there and returned with her Wednesday evening. Mr. Staberg and Louis Olsen, a relative, the mother of Tyler and others were at the station when they arrived at Hudson.

The girl was appealed to by her father to leave her lover but refused. A fist fight was narrowly averted. Mrs. Tyler stood on the outskirts of the crowd and declared she was there to see her boy get a square deal. The couple managed to get on the Stillwater train. Feeling is high in Lakeland, where both young people live.

Clapp Speaks For La Follette.

Madison, Wis., July 29.—Senator La Follette, who was scheduled to open his speaking campaign at the Platteville chautauqua today has cancelled the engagement. Necessity of continued rest before starting on a strenuous speaking tour is the reason for his action. Senator Clapp of Minnesota will speak in his place.

FORMER LEGISLATOR NAMED GAME WARDEN

STAALE HENDRICKSON.

Minot, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Staale Hendrickson, a member of the last legislative assembly from this district, has been appointed deputy district game warden, succeeding E. H. Stenwick of this city who has resigned for business reasons.

Mr. Hendrickson is one of the best known men in this section of the state and his appointment has pleased his friends.

DRISCOLL, N. D., HAS BAD FIRE

Of Supposed Incendiary Origin, Damage Amounting to $125,000.

Bismarck, N. D., July 29.—Starting in an alley between a pool hall and a meat market, a fire did damage to the amount of $125,000 at the little village of Driscoll, east of here on the Northern Pacific, yesterday. The entire west side of the village was wiped out.

There is no fire fighting apparatus and the buildings on the east side of the track caught fire several times, but the flames were put out before they gained much headway.

There is no theory as to the origin of the fire, but there are some who suspect that it was of incendiary origin.

The loss is about half covered by insurance.

The Powers elevator, with its coal and wood yards, two residences, a pool hall, and an old hotel building were among the property destroyed.

TEAMSTER'S TALK SAVES HIM MONEY

Held Up East of Pine River He Talks Bandit Out of $15.

Pine River, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.—Teamster Pettinger, while hauling goods from Backus to Remer on Monday evening, was held up by a masked man in the woods in the Wabedo country, about twenty-five miles northeast of here, and relieved of his purse. Pettinger asked for the return of his purse, stating that it was a present and he disliked to lose it, to which request the robber complied, overlooking $15 in paper money in a separate compartment of the purse, and securing only $4 in silver for his trouble.

The robber has not been as yet apprehended.

CLAIMS BEMIDJI CAN KEEP MONEY

Member of Council Says It May Retain All of Saloon License Money.

Bemidji, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Beltrami county will not get any of the saloon license money from this city, if the wishes of the city council are carried out," says a member of the council in talking of the 10 per cent which is popularly supposed to go to the county under the provisions of a recently adopted state law.

"The 10 per cent of the saloon license tax which some say must go to the county may be used by the city of Bemidji for the improvement of streets and roads and it is the intention of the council to turn it into the city's $15,000 street paving revolving fund instead of giving it to the county treasurer.

"The law in question was passed in 1909, was approved April 23, and was to have gone into effect Jan. 1, 1910. Under the statutes, the city is only liable for 10 per cent of the 1910 license tax money, which amounts to about $1,500 The 10 per cent which it has been stated is due for 1909 does not have to be paid as the law did not go into effect until last January. A resolution covering the case under the statute has been drawn by the city attorney and was presented to the council at the last meeting."

NOTED ONES TO SPEAK.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — The committee in charge of the program that will be carried out when Frank L. McVey, formerly of Minnesota, is inaugurated as president of the North Dakota university, Sept. 27 to 29, announces the speakers. James J. Hill will be one of the principal speakers at the banquet Sept. 28. President Edmund S. James of the University of Illinois, will deliver an address, "The State University and the Commonwealth;" President George Maclean of the University of Iowa, will speak on "The University and the State Educational System;" while Rt. Rev. S. P. Matheson, chancellor of the University of Manitoba, will also speak.

Two buildings also will be dedicated, the teachers' college and commons. The exercises dedicating the commons building will be dedicated the day following.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Valley City, N. D.—O. H. Hanson, a porter of the Hotel Butler, will have to answer a charge of murder as a result of the death of Robert Secford, who was shot by Hanson last Saturday in a row over some trivial matter. The two had a dispute, and were not good friends when the trouble arose. Hanson alleges that Seeford came after him with a knife, when he drew his revolver and shot.

Fargo, N. D.—Mrs. Edith Smith-Davis of Milwaukee, Wis., one of the most distinguished workers in the temperance cause, who has a world wide reputation, will be in this state for a tour for some time under the management of the state educational department.

Bismarck, N. D.—Charles White, the Bismarck blind pigger, who jumped his bond of $2,000 here a few days ago, was captured in Minneapolis Central station.

Center, N. D.—Sheriff O'Brien, with a crew of men, destroyed the beer that had been stored in the basement of the courthouse since July 4. These goods were secured in the raids of the blind pigs that were operating in the county at that time.

Fargo, N. D.—Local and district agents of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, numbering about sixty have been in the city attending the annual meeting of the agents and incidentally enjoying the state fair meet as the guests of the company. The business sessions of the meeting extend over Tuesday and Wednesday and closed Thursday morning.

Steele, N. D.—An unknown man between 25 and 30 years, shot just below the heart, was brought to this city Wednesday in an unconscious condition. He was found in a buggy just north of Tappen, near here. His gun was lying in the vehicle. The supposition is that he is probably a well-to-do young farmer of that vicinity and had gone out hunting.

Bathgate, N. D.—The Tongue river is now at a very low stage and an idea of the amount of water flowing may be obtained at the bridge east of the Chevalier farm, where the actual flow of water is three feet wide and an inch deep.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Contractor P. McDonnell of Duluth is in the city, and expresses himself as more than pleased with the manner in which the paving work has progressed. He expects to fulfill his entire contract within a few weeks. The city's paving warrants, including the saving clause, were readily accepted by Mr. McDonnell, who found a ready market for them.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Caught between the passenger and combination cars while attempting to make a coupling, George E. Reiger, a passenger brakeman for the Milwaukee in the Sioux City and Dakota division was killed here Monday afternoon, his head crushed between the coupling irons of the two cars.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Cambridge—Elliof Wiklund, a former resident of Northeast Cambridge town, committed suicide in Minneapolis last week in a hotel. Elliof had been suffering from consumption for a couple of years and realizing that there was no help or cure for him he became despondent and ended his life by turning on the gas.

North Branch—Miss Inez Edstrom and Fred L. Smith were quietly married on Tuesday evening of this week at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. Edstrom, north of this village. Rev. C. W. Andeer of the Lutheran church performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by only a few of the immediate friends.

Staples—Alexander Hasbrouck died July 25 at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. James P. Simpson, after a week's illness with erysipelas. He was 87 years old.

St. Cloud—By a fire which is supposed to have been started by a hunter, Albert Kraemer of Rockville, who lives near Grand lake, lost five stacks of grain Tuesday night which had just been harvested. The family, with the exception of a small boy, was away from home when the fire started.

Fergus Falls—Charles Revees, who stole the team of horses from the Froslee farm near Vining, pleaded guilty before Judge Baxter in the district court and was sentenced to state's prison at Stillwater for a term of two years. The hearing against Joseph Shemp, the young man who accompanied him, has been postponed until January.

Little Falls—Sportsmen of the city are complaining of the slaughter of chickens out of season. It is said that poachers are numerous in the county just now and unless measures are taken to put a stop to the practice few chickens will be in evidence when the season opens.

Hinckley—The hay crop will be better this year than was expected, potatoes are doing fine since the last rains and the fodder corn is looking fine and from all indications there will be a very good crop.

New York Mills—Laurence N. Blowers, an old resident of this vicinity, now residing in Hood River, Or., which he has made his home for more than twenty years, and served two terms as mayor of that city has now been chosen as a candidate for county judge on the Republican ticket.

Brainerd—J. M. Elder has received a shipment of four female Duroc Jersey swine, registered blooded animals. They will be sent out to his model farm near Brainerd and will be an addition to his herd of Durocs. The shipment comes from the Pine Hill farm of Belden ville, Wis.

Stillwater—Stillwater lodge No. 7 Knights of Pythias, will hold annual memorial services in accordance with the custom of the order. The exercises will be at their castle hall, corner of Third and Chestnut streets, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

St. Cloud—The Great Northern railroad bridge across Johnson creek at St. Augusta was partially destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. About fifty feet of the east end burned. The fire was started by sparks from an engine and was first noticed by a farmer lad who made an attempt to put out the blaze. Failing in this he made for the home of John Ruehle, from where he called up the Great Northern ticket office here.

Minneapolis—The Hunt's Perfect baking powder factory site, Frist street and First avenue north, has been sold for $15,000. The company will remain in the premises, however, as the transaction is merely a property transfer. The site was owned by Rosetta Foster and sold to Lillie A. Hedderly as an investment.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—A new secret society was instituted in Ashland Tuesday evening, the Order of Owls. A total of 168 members were initiated into the mysteries of the order, and another meeting will be held Friday evening, to initiate others.

Eau Claire—The Eau Claire jail is still housing the prisoners from Dunn county. Yesterday Sheriff Swant of Menomonie took home and brought back one F. H. Murphy, guilty of defrauding a widow, who ran a farm in Dunn county of certain property. Murphy was given a four months' sentence by the court in Menomonie, and as the jail there is being rebuilt was brought back to Eau Claire.

Ashland—The town of La Pointe will have to expend about $1,000 in rebuilding bridges burned during the recent forest fires. Five bridges were destroyed, one of them quite a long one. Only one residence was burned, that of R. C. Chambers but minor damage was done to timber.

Eau Claire—By touching a wire connected to an electric arc light on Franklin street on last Monday the little daughter of Samuel Bostowitz, residing on Franklin street, received a bad shock and necessitated sending for a physician.

La Crosse—Commander M. L. Miller, in charge of the lighting service on the upper Mississippi, has countermanded a recent order, ordering the discontinuance of river lights on account of low water. Merchants complained their interests were injured by shutting off the lights and they will now be lighted regularly until the close of navigation, although there are few big boats attempting to maintain a schedule.

Oshkosh—The police are positive that John Ginski, the wealthy peanut vender who disappeared Tuesday and whose wooden leg was found in any empty row boat on Lake Winnebago, either committed suicide or left the city and plananed the missing leg feature in order to throw the police off the scent.

Manitowoc—A small pimple which Andrew Cabat attempted to remove by picking it with his finger nail, caused his death Wednesday. Blood poisoning caused intense agony, Cabat's arm being swollen to three times its natural size. He is survived by a wife and two children.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—Exhaust steam is now employed for the generation through the medium of a Curtis turbine of all electric power used in the operation of the Quincy mine.

Houghton—President A. J. Ruhl of the Portage Lake Motor Boat club has received from the American Power Boat association, with headquarters at New York, a certificate of membership for his club.

Hancock—Hancock entertained one of the largest delegations of tourists in its history Wednesday morning, when the passenger steamer Lakeland tied up at the local dock and discharged its cargo of human freight for a several hours' stroll about the city.

Houghton—The Houghton team which is training to enter the A. O. H. games in Hancock next month is making a good showing in practice. Capt. Charlie Anderson has the crowd out every night at an improvised track in Haas' park and is more than pleased with the showing made.

Ishpeming—Miss Millie Johnson of Ishpeming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, was wedded late Wednesday afternoon to Elmer P. Larson of Elm and Seventh streets, Red Jacket. The ceremony was a very quiet one.

Iron Mountain—John Rowett of Ironwood took first prize at the Cornish wrestling tournament conducted here in connection with the Sons of St. George celebration there, the tournament having opened Saturday and being continued on Monday morning.

Lake Linden—The annual picnic of the Lake Linden stamp mill employes was held at Eagles' park Thursday afternoon, the program arranged for last Saturday having been prevented by rain.

Calumet—A number of scarlet fever cases are prevalent in the village of Laurium. The authorities are taking every precaution to prevent the spreading of the disease.

Menominee—Amsden's Third Regiment band has received the cup presented by the Chamber of Commerce of Ludington in recognition of the concerts rendered there last year. The presentation was made by Col. George B. McCaughna of Owassa, who spoke of the band in a highly complimentary manner.

Negaunee—Dr. C. J. Larson, the health officer, has decided to send samples of Teal lake water, also the spring water, to Ann Arbor for examination. The prevalence of typhoid fever in the city has caused many to believe that the disease is due to the impurity of the Teal lake water.

Ishpeming—The annual convention of the Knights of Kaleva will be held in Ishpeming on Aug. 18, 19 and 20. There are now twelve lodges of the society in the Copper country and it is expected that all of them will send delegates.

Marquette—The present term of the United States court, which has been the longest ever held in Marquette, is likely to come to an end with the present week. Three of the Chinese deportation cases, which were to have been tried, were postponed until next term.

ON THE IRON RANGES

MEETING IS BIG SUCCESS

National Finnish Temperance Convention at Eveleth Is Fine Affair.

Are Electing Officers and Winding Up Business at Friday Session.

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today's sessions of the Finnish national temperance convention are being devoted to a general discussion of the policies of the society for the coming year. This afternoon the officers will be elected and the next place of meeting decided upon.

Delegates who arrived from Ishpeming last night were: H. Kinpula, Wattred Welson, Enco Salin, Ceus Kanda, Frar Hakala, Valdemar Lofberg. The Finnish band of Ishpeming also came and gave a concert in the evening at Wahlonlahde hall, which attracted a large crowd. The selections were rendered with much skill. W. W. Wiltala conducted.

This evening a long program of speeches and music will be given, for the benefit of the society: Music, Ishpeming band; address in English and Finnish, Miss M. Pertulla of Ishpeming; son, the Eveleth Glee club; address, Rev. Ilmonen of Ely; music, the Ishpeming band; address in English, John R Shields of Minneapolis, field secretary of the Minnesota State Prohibition committee; selection, the Ishpeming band; speech, Prof. Wihle Reima of the Finnish College of Helsingfors; recitation, John Hinkkonnen of Ishpeming; song, the glee club; speech, Grand Secretary Alma Hinkkonen of Ishpemiun; music by the band.

Big Parade on Saturday.

At tomorrow afternoon's picnic at Ely lake, ex-Mayor Smith, the Republican candidate for state treasurer will speak briefly. Prof. Reima, President Michael Skytta, Vice President M. Toppari, Grand Secretary Alma Hinkkonnen, John Shields of Minneapolis and several local speakers also will give addresses.

There will be a contest between the glee clubs of Hibbings, Eveleth and Ironwood and the Ishpeming and Eveleth bands for a prize. As the mining company has given permission to all who wish to attend the picnic to lay off for the afternoon, a very large attendance is expected.

So far the convention has been a success in every way. A large number of delegates are present and the discussions of the society's work this year and for the coming year are very spirited. Much interest has been shown in the work of the society.

Miss Alma Hinkonnen, the general secretary, has been a very busy woman since her arrival the first of the week. Prof. Reima has delivered many addresses, while the others have also been conspicuous by their earnest efforts in behalf of the society.

ST. CLAIR'S LAND BEING SURVEYED

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The party of Iron Range surveyors that left here about two weeks ago to work near Ely returned for a day, but went out again this morning. The surveyors located some mining land about thirty-six miles south of Ely near Mesaba on the Iron Range road, which belongs to Mr. St. Clair of Duluth. The property has been explored for several years and ore has been found, but at present it has not been decided as to whether it will be mined or not. The party went out today to locate some land a little north of the St. Clair land.

TAKE DEADHEADS FROM BIG RIVER

Northern Boom Company Going After All Sunken Logs in Upper Mississippi.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A work of considerable importance to Cohasset was announced at the conclusion of the trip of inspection of the upper Mississippi river by C. E. Chute, head of the Northern Boom company.

Mr. Chute says his company has received instructions to raise all dead heads, or watersoaked and sunken logs, belonging to the companies for which the Boom company has done driving operation on the Mississippi.

All of the deadheads in the flowage above Pokegama dam will be taken out, the work to commence at once. They will be piled on the banks at points along the river to dry. Cohasset will be the headquarters for this work, which it is expected will require several seasons to complete. No estimate can be made of the amount of timber which is under water in the river, but there is doubtless a great quantity. Another object of doing this work at this time is to clear the channel of the logs that interfere with navigation. This will not be the final clean up of the dead heads, for there will continue an accumulation of sunken logs until the driving operations on the river are finished.

EVELETH BOY IS DROWNED IN POND

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Berg, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Berg, was drowned at 9 o'clock this morning in a pond five feet deep, formed in the Adams dump, being seized with cramps.

Milo Cooper dived into the pond and brought Berg out about half an hour after the drowning.

Doctors worked forty minutes over the body before pronouncing him dead.

GRAND RAPIDS ROAD TO BOVEY IMPROVED

Highway Leading From Itasca County Seat to Range Much Better.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Art Mitchell, who had the contract to straighten and lower the grades on the Bovey-Grand Rapids county road from the point where the Grand Rapids town road merges in the iron range town road has the work almost completed.

The road has been made into a 35-foot turnpike road, nicely rounded and gravelled all the distance. The road at the point where it formerly went around a hill just before arriving at the Buckeye lake hogs-back, now passes by a curve through the hill, avoiding some bad, sharp curves, and leaving the grade of the road about the same as it was formerly. The hogs-back has been cut down so that there is scarcely any climb from either end to get to the roadbed on the top of it, and the road east of the Great Northern tracks has been widened out and made even better than it was formerly. The roadbed of gravel and sand at some places is a little soft, but it is thought that travel will harden it and make it as good as the rest. All along the way the pebbles larger than an ordinary marble have been raked off, making the roadbed as smooth as any one could wish it.

LOSES HIS LIFE CATCHING A RIDE

Joseph Bunch, Aged 18, Fatally Injured at Pergins Mine, Aurora.

Aurora, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Bunch was run over by a train of cars at the Pergins yesterday while attempting to catch a ride and received injuries which resulted in his death.

Both legs were cut off, one below the knee and the other above. Bunch was about 18 years old.

ARRIVED TOO LATE.

Coleraine Woman Reaches Isanti After Sister's Funeral.

Isanti, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Mary Malmgren arrived Tuesday evening from Coleraine in response to a telegram announcing the death of her sister, Miss Christine Larson of Athens. Mrs. Malmgren had moved from Taconite, where the telegram was sent, but the message was forwarded and delivered as quickly as possible. On account of the distance and train service, Mrs. Malmgren did not arrive here until a few hours after the funeral.

POPULAR GIRL CALLED.

Miss Minnie Durand of Grand Rapids Dies After Operation.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Minnie Durand, who was operated upon last week for appendicitis, died yesterday morning, after an illness of two weeks. Miss Durand's case was a very bad one, the appendix having been ruptured before the operation, with the result that complications set in which were fatal.

Miss Durand was 20 years of age, and had been a resident of Grand Rapids three years. She was employed as a stenographer for the Reishus Remer Land company. She was beloved of all who knew her, and her loss will be keenly felt among her large circle of friends.

The funeral was held today from the family residence.

BUILDING STEEL TRESTLE.

From No. 4 Spruce Shaft to the Stock Pile.

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A steel trestle is being built out from the No. 4 Spruce mine shaft proper to the stock pile. The cement piers are already up. This will be the first all steel trestle on the Adams Spruce property. At the No. 1 shaft, part of the trestle over the Missabe tracks is of steel but the rest is of wood. It is also understood that instead of hauling the cars of ore along the trestle by means of a cable, the ore cars to be dumped at the stock piles will be pulled by motors. All this work will be finished by the time the shipping season closes, when the stock pile work commences.

Eveleth Tennis Players Busy.

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local tennis game is in a flourishing condition. The courts at the Adams-Spruce office and at the high school are in almost constant use.

BEALS BOUND OVER.

Man Alleged to Have Fired Houpt Store Is Held.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary hearing of James Beals, arrested at Redby, Beltrami county, and returned here to answer to the charge of firing the postoffice and store of E. C. Berg at Houpt, Itasca county, resulted in his being held to the grand jury.

Beals was arrested July 1 and was brought to Grand Rapids. He made his getaway from the authorities. He was then traced to Redby by A. Seamans, a local constable. In company with A. G. Rutledge, deputy sheriff of Beltrami county, Mr. Seamans went to Redby, where Beals, who was going under the name of Thomas Kelly, was rearrested.

CHISHOLM NEWS NOTES.

Recent Happenings of Interest Gathered in Young Village.

Chisholm, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out yesterday at the home of Mrs. Fitingers, a widow, living in the sawmill location. Nothing could be done to save the building, as this location is not as yet supplied with hydrants. Besides the loss of the building, some of the furniture was also burned. None of the property was covered by insurance.

James Watson of the Shenango Furnace company is not to leave the employ of the company as was reported. He is to remain in Chisholm at the Shenango location, and is to retain his position there. Mrs. Watson and the boys are going to Aitkin, leaving Chisholm today.

Mrs. Hilda Gorsberg, wife of Eric Gorsberg of the Hartley location died on Wednesday morning of tuberculosis. Besides her husband she leaves one child. The funeral was held from the house on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Anna Carlson, who has been in the employ of the Mesaba Telephone company for some months past as one of the operators has been appointed chief operator to take the place of Miss Elizabeth Crellin, who lately resigned as chief operator to enter the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Richard Bateson's yesterday. A good attendance was reported and a profitable meeting held.

PRESBYTERIAN PICNIC.

Largest One Ever Held by Eveleth Church at Elbow Lake.

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church held its annual picnic at Elbow lake three-quarters of a mile from Iron Junction yesterday and a very large crowd attended from this city, Iron Junction and Forbes. Going down on the morning train the day was spent in playing a baseball game with picked nines, potato races for boys and girls, sack races and several running races. Prizes were awarded the winners. The largest crowd that has ever attended a Presbyterian Sunday school picnic from this city was present. Rev. P. A. Schwarz had charge of the picnic and he was a very tired man last night after taking care of so many children all day.

The Sunday school of the Methodist Episcopal church is planning on holding a picnic very soon and expects to go to Elbow lake.

The local Austrian societies are making elaborate preparations for their picnic to be held next Sunday at Ely lake. They were to have had the picnic last Sunday, but it was postponed on account of rain. There will be several speeches.

AURORA FIREMEN HAVE A RELIEF ORGANIZATION.

Aurora, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A relief association was organized by Aurora firemen last night to provide for firemen who may receive injuries at fires. It is expected that all members of the local department will join.

DROP SLASHINGS CASE.

Prosecution of Men Alleged to Have Violated Law Dismissed.

Deer River, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cases prosecuted here by State Fire Warden Andrews against John O'Donnell and Archie Cullum of the Minnesota Logging company before Justice of the Peace Burgess for failure to burn slashings were dismissed on motion of defendants' counsel.

The law in question is intended to require loggers to burn all refuse left in their operations. The defense attacked this law as being unconstitutional.

SECTION FOREMAN HURT.

Employe of Alger-Smith Company Run Over, Losing One Leg.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Struck by a train at Alger, on the Alger-Smith railroad, John Schulz, foreman on the section for the company, had one of his legs so badly crushed that amputation at a local hospital was necessary. It is not known exactly how the accident happened, but it is supposed he became tired and sat down, or laid down, on or near enough the track to be struck by the train. Mr. Schulz was brought to this city and taken to the Two Harbors hospital immediately after the accident, where amputation was made.

CHISHOLM CHILD SCALDED.

Chisholm, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A kettle of boiling water boiled over at the home of Louis Kmet, a miner living in the Monroe location, and a 6-year-old child sleeping under the kitchen stove was badly scalded, much of his skin and hair peeling off. It is feared the injuries may prove fatal.

FRANK TREZONE DEAD.

Brother of Well-Known Mining Official Called.

Ely, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—After an illness of a year or more during which time he had visited several health resorts in search of relief, Frank Trezona, aged 50, brother of Capt. Charles Trezona, the well-known mining man, is dead of Bright's disease. He leaves a widow and four children.

MARINETTE YOUTH LOSES LIFE IN MENOMINEE RIVER.

Marinette, Wis., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—William S. Ross, aged 15, son of Albert Ross, an employe of Lauerman Bros. department store, was drowned in the Menominee river last evening, being seized with cramps while swimming. The body was recovered this morning.

Eveleth Shots Practicing.

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — The members of the local gun club have been holding practice shoots on the range near the Iron Range depot and some good scores have been made. The local club is expecting to shoot against the Virginia Gun club in the near future for the championship of the range.

Eveleth Elks to Install.

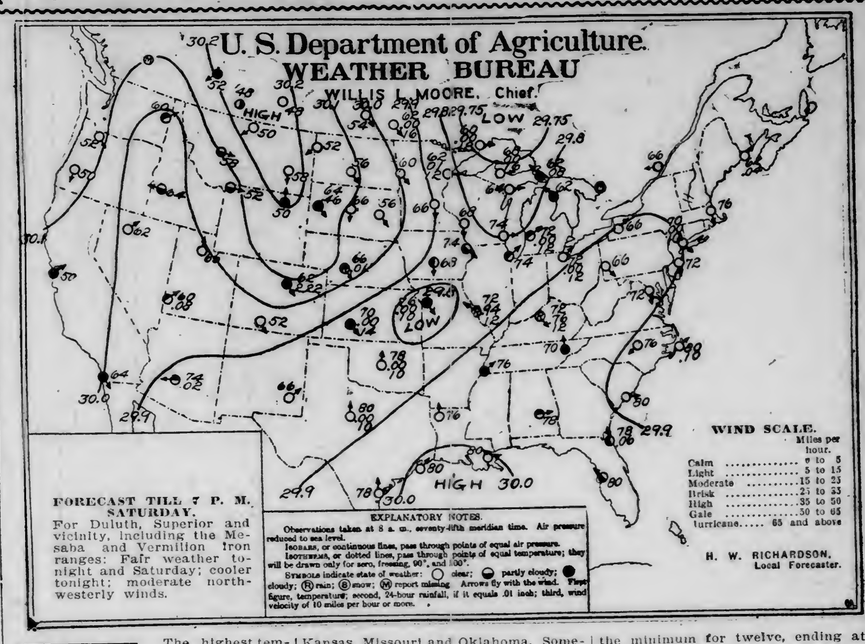

Eveleth, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks are preparing for a big time tonight when between ten and fifteen candidates will be initiated. Several Elks from Virginia and Hibbing are expected to be present and help in the initiations.

BELTRAMI'S GOOD CROPS.

That County Promises to Have First Yields of All Sorts.

Bemidji, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crops in this portion of Beltrami county are in a thriving condition. The heavy rain of last Saturday came at just the right time to prevent the continued hot, dry weather from parching the growing grain and root crops. The hay crop will be better than in any other county in the state; and all grains and grasses will be about as good a yield as during any average year. The soil of Beltrami county is of such a nature as to be peculiarly adapted to all classes of weather conditions.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The highest temperature in Duluth yesterday was 84 deg. and that was for but a short time. During the greater part of the day cool breezes offset the work of Old Sol and Duluthians were comfortable. Clouds threatened last night, but there was no rain. Today is fair and cool and continued fair weather is predicted.

Fair, warm weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:45 and it will set at 7:44, giving fourteen hours and fifty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours light to heavy but scattered rains fell over Colorado, Nebraska, Western South Dakota, Missouri, Utah, Arizona, Kentucky, Northern Michigan, North Carolina, Florida and Maine, largely due to the influence of slight barometric depressions central over Missouri and Western Ontario. High temperatures continued Thursday throughout the plateau region, the Missouri and Mississippi valleys, and Southern states generally, 100 deg. again occurring in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. Somewhat cooler weather attends a high pressure condition that overlies Montana and Alberta and which is slowly advancing eastward."

General Forecasts.

Upper Lakes: Moderate west to northwest winds. Generally fair tonight and Saturday, preceded by unsettled weather on Huron this afternoon.

Chicago, July 29.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight in northwest portion.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight and in east portion Saturday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight.

Iowa — Generally fair tonight and Saturday preceded by threatening weather in east portion; cooler tonight.

North Dakota — Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler in southeast portion tonight.

Montana — Fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature.

SPEECH BY JENSWOLD

Eloquent Address Placing Lind in Nomination for Governor.

Ex-Governor Folk of Missouri Much Interested in Proceedings.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—When John Jenswold of Duluth made his appearance before the delegates to the Democratic state convention here yesterday afternoon he was what they used to call "the cynosure of all eyes," the "observed of all observers." He was the man who was looked to be the most probable nominee in the event that a message was received from John Lind definitely and irrevocably taking him out of the field of possibilities.

Many delegates to the convention confessed to a lively interest in the personality of the Duluthian. Most of them have known him or known of him for many years. Others had no knowledge of the man or of his powers as an orator and man among men. They inquired about him and seemed deeply interested in him.

"He'll be governor some day," was a sentiment that was heard more than once during the convention.

The reception given Mr. Jenswold when he took his place on the stage to nominate John Lind for the governorship was such a one as would have been gratifying to any man. "Jenswold, Jenswold" came the cry from many parts of the hall and it was some moments before the crowd permitted him to begin his speech.

Given Close Attention.

Mr. Jenswold was given close attention throughout the speech, frequently punctuated by applause as the telling points were driven home. When he began to speak a voice shouted "Louder," but it was an unnecessary request. The speaker is the possessor of a voice of peculiar carrying power and it was without any apparent effort that he made every word of his talk audible to all in the great assemblage. The speech follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: The fame and position of a state is measured by the reflected greatness of its natural resources, its enterprise and progressiveness and its citizenship. To these its loyal citizens point with justifiable pride. By the comparative worth or value of these it takes its rank among the different states of the Union.

"We are justly proud of our conspicuous position in these respects. We point with pride to our fertile prairies, teeming with the fruits of scientific tillage; to our forests of towering pines deep rooted in the vast bodies of iron ore of untold wealth; to our jobbing and manufacturing enterprises, the joint result of capital and industry under the guidance of skilled captains; to our great rivers with an energy of undeveloped power which we expect ere long will furnish the power to move and the light by which to operate all these industries; to our splendid school system so thorough, so American, if you please, that it takes the boy of foreign parentage and converts him into a man of intelligence, character and loyalty, a splendid type of American citizenship. To illustrate: under the roof of one of the school houses in the county where I live are the offspring from parents speaking twenty-two different languages, parents unable to speak our language, and yet these children are as bright and keen in their recitations as is the boy of a parentage native born and will become citizens as desirable as those whose parents are native to our soil.

Great Men of Character.

"Yet, above all these material resources the products of energy and the intelligence loom out our great men of character. Conspicuous among this nobility was our great governor, the product of our soil and of our opportunities who rose to the highest point of fame. The leader of our Democracy who made us famous. He placed Minnesota on the map of the world and gave our renown. While yet rising to greater eminence the Great Ruler called him hence. While we mourn his untimely loss we must pass on remindful that our duty is to the present and to the future. Our duty to maintain this high standard.

"We still have other men of greatness intelligence and character, conspicuous among whom is our favorite son whom I have the honor to present for nomination to the highest office within this state. While yet this state was known by the fact that the falls of St. Anthony were within its territorial limits and that the borders of our great rivers, the Mississippi, the Minnesota and the Red were famous for their production of No. 1 wheat, he was assisting in the laying of the foundations for the greatness and beneficence which we now enjoy. He was a Republican from conviction, became the first insurgent in this state from conscience and as the leader of our Democracy its brightest jewel. With an intelligence, nerve and honesty that would not be deflected he made his office respectable and respected. As a thorough lawyer he understood the true meaning of proposed legislation as well as its effect. As a doer of things he was a great executive with a far-reaching ken and saw what was beyond the observation of others. Of impeachable integrity he is better known as Honest John. He is known to us all. He has our full measure of confidence and lives in the hearts of our people. The acceptance of our nomination will insure his election and an administration that will give 'equal rights to all and special privileges to none.' To this high office I present the name of our first citizen, John Lind."

Folk Much Interested.

Ex-Governor Folk of Missouri, who had a place of honor on the stage after he had concluded his speech, was the recipient of the attentions of many admirers. He conversed in a friendly way with all comers and at times evinced much interest in the proceedings. That he is not unfamiliar with convention noises was indicated by the easy nonchalance with which he chatted with Mr. Day while the hubbub was nearly at its worst.

Mr. Folk's speech was an off-hand talk with fellow Democrats. It was especially notable for the pronounced Southern accent with which it was spoken. Among Northerners this peculiarity was noticed particularly because of the fact that the Folk speech came after and before many other talks which were distinguished by the hardness of the "r's" enunciated by the talkers. It was a pleasing quality and the audience would have enjoyed a longer talk, not only for what he said, but as well because of the way he said it.

He said that if the Democratic party is to triumph, it must be the party of progress and against reaction, and that if it is true to its ideals it will stand for progress.

Concerning the protective tariff, he said:

"If it's a good thing, we can't have too much of it; if it's a bad thing, we should have none of it at all. And it is a bad thing. It is a device that benefits the one as against the many.'

The high cost of living, which is proving so burdensome to the many he blamed upon the great middlemen, such as the beef trust. He mentioned that meat is sold by that trust for 6 cents less in London than is charged for it here, and he left it to the audience to draw the obvious conclusion.

"The Republican party stands for the one," he said, after quoting a poem on "The Ninety and Nine," and the Democratic party should stand for the ninety and nine."

He pleaded eloquently for true, sincere Democracy and predicted the triumph of the Democracy of Minnesota in the coming contest.

When the delegates were leaving, many of them, together with men and women visitors, crowded about the Missourian and shook hands with the man who cleaned up graft-soiled St. Louis.

Frank Day's Speech.

In calling the convention to order yesterday morning, Chairman Frank A. Day made a brief address that seemed to take very well with his audience. In view of the exciting last fifteen minutes of the proceedings last evening, when Mr. Day was made the object of attack, directly and indirectly, the text of his talk is of interest. He said:

"Well, boys, we are here again. We are here to meet in a grand old-fashioned Democratic convention, a convention without a boss, without a steam roller, without a slate and without a pre-conceived committee. It is made up of more than 1,000 delegates, each of whom has paid 2 cents a mile fare to come here, and each would have paid 3 cents a mile had it not been for a Democratic governor.

"This is a convention dominated by the good old Democratic rule, let the people rule.'

"Since we met here two years ago the great leader of Democracy in this state, John A. Johnson, has been taken from us. It is safe to say that no man during the past quarter of a century has been so deeply or more universally mourned than John A. Johnson. At the time of his death, there was no man in the country who had a more useful or a more responsible career than our lost leader.

"I cannot forbear at this time to paying tribute to another great Democrat, Leonard A. Rosing. In all the affairs of private life, in his party affiliations, in the discharge of his official duties, Leonard A. Rosing was the very soul of honor. He was a big-hearted, big-brained, kindly, lovable gentleman, and in my opinion he was the greatest political general either party has ever produced in Minnesota.

"Now, I want to say a personal word or two. You may have seen during the past two years an occasional mention of the name of Frank A. Day. I have been called a boss. If I am a boss or have been a boss, it is time to get rid of me. I hate the very name of boss. The word is a stigma and a disgrace to any party. If I have foisted upon the state anything which is inimicable to the best interests of the commonwealth, it is time to get rid of me. I will go further than that. I am a good deal of a Christian scientist in some things and I will say that if you even think I am a boss or have been a boss, it is time to get rid of me. I am here today to co-operate with you in your efforts to secure a new leader.

Cause of Humiliation.

"If a stranger came to town with no knowledge of the situation, he would say the papers of the Twin Cities are all Democratic. He could not arrive at any other conclusion in the face of their editorial expressions. They are all against President Taft. William H. Taft! Why, my friends, it is a humiliation to you and to me as citizens of the United States of America to know that when the name of the president is mentioned it is received with pity or contempt. I sat at the big Republican banquet given Gifford Pinchot in St. Paul, and, though the talkfest lasted nearly five hours, there was not one mention of President Taft's name.

"But, referring to our newspaper friends. The papers are with us against Cannon, against the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, and against James A. Tawney.

It was at this point that Mr. Day referred to The Duluth Herald, declaring it to be the best paper in Minnesota. He made it a motion that such was the sentiment of the convention and the motion prevailed most vociferously.

"It has been reported that if certain action is taken here today there are some Democrats who will bolt the party," he continued. I can conceive of no conditions under which a Democrat would leave the party to go to the Republicans. I could give you a thousand reasons why the Republicans cannot win this fall, but I will content myself with stating only one."

Then, turning to the press table, Mr. Day said, very impressively:

"Adolph O. Eberhart wants to be elected governor so badly that he is willing to accept the honors of the office and let some one else run the office."

Straw Votes.

A. D. Brown, until recently chairman of the Republican state central committee, was there, deeply interested in the proceedings but hopeful for Eberhart in spite of the enthusiasm for Lind.

Alderman Shartel has a good voice to use at a noisy convention.

Mayor J. C. Haynes came into the auditorium during the recess and was at once pounced upon to tell what he thought about the gubernatorial situation. "I am not a candidate and cannot expect to be nominated," was all he had to say.

Chairman Daly had the time of his life, but probably he didn't enjoy it as much as he will later in recalling the incidents of the scrap. Several volunteer chairmen of the Hennepin and Ramsey delegations came very near having the two-by-four club that he used as a gavel hurled at their heads. At least, many observers wouldn't have been a bit sympathetic if these men got hurt.

That convention was a fit place for a governor of Missouri to make a speech. It was of the "show me" variety at every stage of the game. When Chairman Daly thought to still the storm that raged so persistently by making the fake announcement that Governor Folk was on the stage, and the Missourian was not apparent to the naked eye, the chair was overruled and the dance of the dervishes went on.

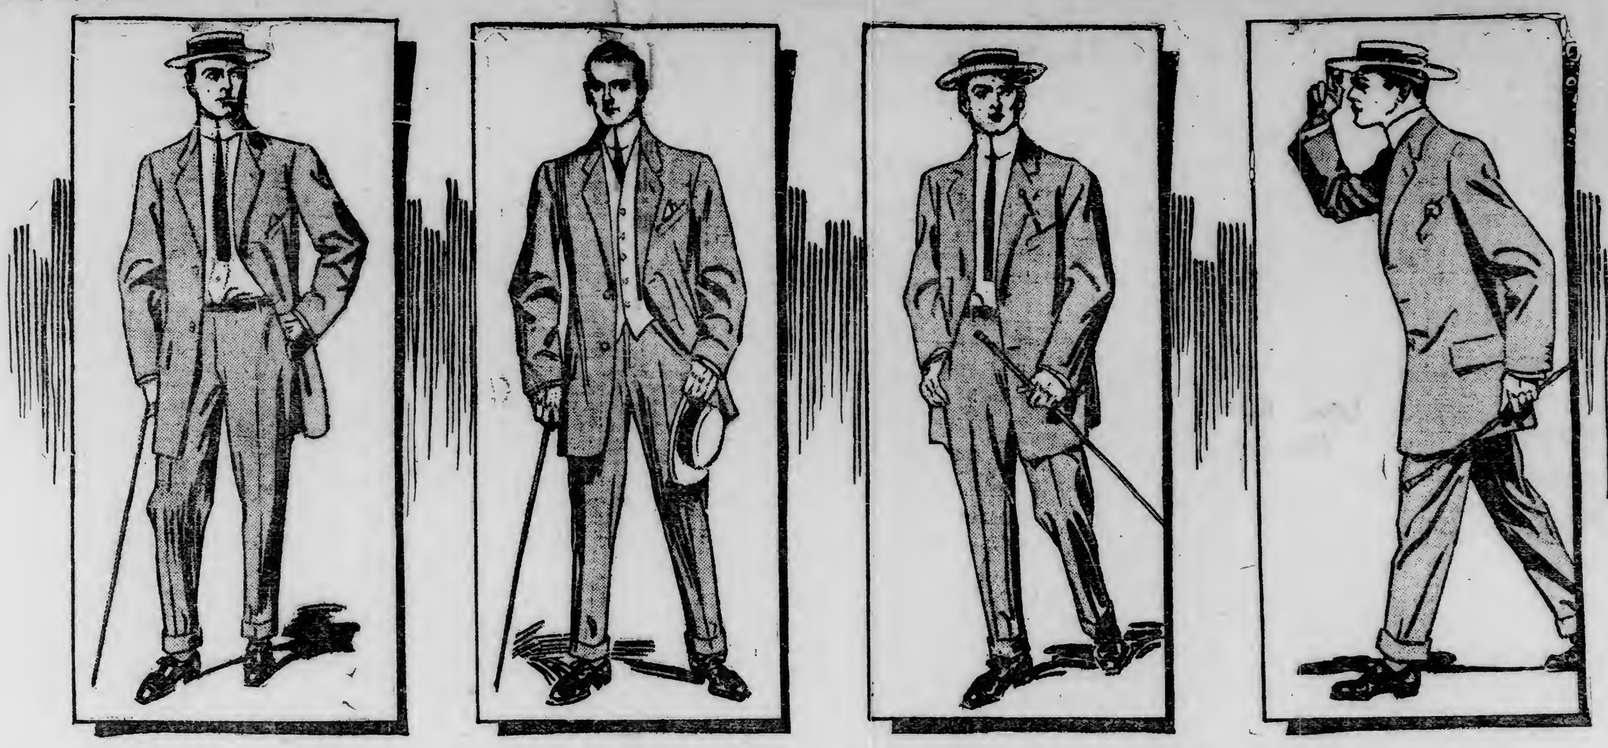

Senator S. D. Works of Mankato, chairman of the resolutions committee, had to take his coat off, after all.

Lives Nearly Century.

EAST GRAND FORKS TO CONSTRUCT WHITE WAY.

East Grand Forks, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—An ornamental system of street lighting is being considered by the city council and there is a splendid prospect of the plan being carried through successfully. This week the council took action looking to the removal of all poles and wires from the main business street. In their stead an underground system of handling wires will be necessary and the installation of the ornamental lighting system will naturally follow. The matter comes before the council at its next meeting.

AID FOR FARMERS.

Counties Will Help Those Who Need Seed Grain.

Minot, N. D., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota farmers will not be obliged to suffer anything in the way of seed grain shortage next year, although there will be a light crop in the state this year. The state legislative assembly, two years ago, passed a bill providing for county assistance for farmers needing seed grain, and it will work out quite well next season. The law in question provides that any county in the state may create a seed grain fund through the issuance of bonds, and the farmers securing assistance give the county a lien on the crop raised.

RAILROADS

INTERESTED IN NEW LAW

New Ruling on Long and Short Hauls Causes Discussion.

Railroad Men Say It Is to the Disadvantage of Manufacturers.

Considerable interest is manifested by local railroad men in the new law passed by the interstate commerce commission, in the commerce court, regarding the long and short hauls.

This law, which calls for a modification of all the freight rates where there is specially active competition, was enacted on June 18, and will go into effect six months after its passage.

The Western Passenger association and the Trans-Continental association, which practically control all the railroad movements in the West, have paid special attention to the law, and it was quite fully discussed at their last meetings held in Chicago during the past week.

Aug. 2 the attorneys for all the railroads will meet at Portsmouth, N. H., when the matter will be fully threshed out by them, and probably some conclusion arrived at, which will define the attitude of the railroads in regard to the new law.

A similar law was in effect until 1907, when it was abrogated. Since then there has been no restriction on the roads.

Under such conditions, the roads had power to practically control the prices, while they could set a price in some regions, which would fairly compete with the water traffic.

For this reason, goods could be shipped from the East to a Western point, where the roads had competition on water, at a price much lower than they would ship a similar consignment to a city almost in the same locality, but so situated that it could not be benefited by water services.

Complaint came from the inland towns, that they were conspired against by the railroads, and such pressure was brought to bear upon the commission, that the law was enacted.

Railroad men of the city state that the probable result will be that manufacturers will find it to their disadvantage, and that the many localities will suffer from such a law, as it will make them more depended upon themselves. Practically all manufacturers are given rates for the shipment of their production to territories far remote from the factories, and so they are given an opportunity to expand. Without these rates, they will have to depend upon their own little field for actual growth, the railroad men say.

EXCURSION OF RAILROAD MEN

Northern Railway Club to Hold Annual Event Saturday Night.

The annual July boat ride held by the Northern Railway club will take place tomorrow evening. Original plans called for this excursion last Saturday evening, but owing to the severity of the weather, it was postponed one week. All arrangements have already been made by the committee, and from returns received from members, it is expected that more than 200 will attend.

The trip will be either up the river or around the horn depending upon the condition of the weather. Music will be furnished, and those desiring may have an opportunity to dance. The boat will leave the Fifth avenue dock at 7:45, arriving at Superior at 8:10. The members of the club have extended invitations to a number of friends.

The following compose the committee on arrangements: C. L. Kennedy, chairman, Duluth; H. B. Knudsen, Duluth; H. E. Olson, Two Harbors; J. P. Parks, Superior; George Turgeon, Superior; C. B. Gilbert, Proctor; W. F. King, Duluth; E. C. Hollidge, Superior.

NEW STATION TO BE ERECTED

Duluth & Iron Range to Have Larger Building at Allen Junction.

A new station, costing between $6,000 and $7,000, will be erected at Allen Junction by the Duluth & Iron Range Railway company soon. Plans for this structure have just been completed by Chief Engineer Clark of that company, and preliminary steps for actual work will be started in a few days.

The station will be a two-story frame building, the main part of which will be 72x24 feet, with wings on each end 32x16 feet. It will be of neat design, and of the modern type of depots.

This point is an important one of this road, as there are many passengers who have to transfer here for another branch of the company. The old station has practically outlived its usefulness, and is not large enough for the business done at the junction.

A. M. FENTON TO TAKE TITLE MONDAY.

A. M. Fenton, district passenger and freight agent at the local office of the Omaha, who was recently appointed to the position of assistant general freight agent, with headquarters at Minneapolis, is expected in Duluth tomorrow from the Flour City, when he will wind up his affairs here, before taking actual charge of his new work. He will leave again Sunday and on Monday morning will assume the new title. W. D. Burr, of St. Paul, formerly traffic manager for this company, will be here Monday morning to succeed Mr. Fenton.

New Iron Range Folder.

The Duluth & Iron Range Railway company has just issued a new folder, entitled, "Over the Old Vermilion Trail," which is a neat advertisement for Duluth and the section served by that railroad. It gives a good description of the country about Duluth, its resources, possibilities for agriculture, and its many advantages as a resorting place. It is gotten up in an attractive style, and is one of the best folders published by any road in the interest of this section.

English Emigrants.

The Omaha from Chicago brought in thirty-five immigrants from England this morning. These men will leave today over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern for Winnipeg, from where they will go to Northwest Canada for settlement.

Railroad Personals.

W. F. Fitch of Marquette, Mich., president and general manager of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, arrived in the city yesterday on a business trip.

Frank M. Rugg of St. Paul, northwestern passenger agent for the Burlington road, is in the city today on business. He reports that travel througout the Middle West as well as the West, is very heavy this year, and that most of this is due to pleasure seekers.

Thomas C. Walsh, manager for Johnson & Carey, railroad contractors, who are building the part of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railroad out of Duluth as far as Short Line Park, left for St. Paul last evening. He has been here for a few days, making arrangements to start on the big task.

James Maney, assistant general passenger agent for the South Shore, returned this morning from Chicago, where he has been on business for several days.

LANDS CONTRACT IN MICHIGAN

P. McDonnell Will Pave Main Street in Crystal Falls.

P. McDonnell has secured the contract for paving the main street of Crystal Falls, Mich., with Donnelite at 2.37 a quare yard. His was not the lowest bid, but he was able to satisfy the council that the city would get more for its money than would be the case if a cheaper pavement were purchased. The Duluth contractor made a decided hit with the Crystal Falls dads, fairly overwhelming them with facts and figures, offering a guarantee of five years as against that of one year of other bidders. The contract amounts to about $60,000.

Mr. McDonnell states that he is going ahead on Garfield avenue as fast as is possible. He says that he has been delayed because of the water mains, which had to be laid before the paving could be done, and that another delay is being caused by the lack of necessary hydrants, which are put in by the city. He explained that he started laying the concrete foundation today and declared that the job will be finished at the earliest possible moment. He didn't think that the recent complaint was warranted, and declared that he could put a job through as fast as anybody, and as well as anybody in the Northwest.

NEXT WEEK'S EXCURSIONS

Don't let your summer vacation slip by without enjoying one or all of The Herald's delightful low-priced excursions on the lake or up the river. The Herald's excursions are popular, or they would have been discontinued long ago. Every season more people take advantage of the outings afforded by The Herald at a cost that is insignificant compared with the enjoyment derived.

Every Monday morning at 9 o'clock the steamer Newsboy leaves Fifth avenue dock for a trip up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, the old Indian trading post. Visitors to the city declare that this is a scenic trip that cannot be excelled anywhere in the country. Fare for the round trip, 25 cents. The boat returns from Fond du Lac at 4:30 p. m. Chamber's Grove affords a splendid place for picnic parties. Every facility for boating and bathing.

For an all-day outing on the lake The Herald has arranged a trip every Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock on the steamer Mascotte, down the south shore to Port Wing, Wis. This is an 80-mile ride for only $1. The boat leaves Fifth avenue dock, stops two hours at Port Wing and returns by moonlight. Lunches may be taken along or refreshment can be purchased on the boat.

If you have only a few hours to enjoy an outing, try The Herald's Tuesday afternoon excursions on the steamer America, down the north shore to Two Harbors. The boat leaves Booth's dock at 4 o'clock, remains an hour at Two Harbors and returns by moonlight. Fare for the round trip only 30 cents. Here is a 60-mile ride in the cool of the afternoon and evening that is unsurpassed. Buy your tickets at The Herald office.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK IN INDIANAPOLIS OCT. 13.

New York, July 29.—Col. Roosevelt, after a talk with Senator Beveridge today, announced that his Indiana speech for Senator Beveridge will be delivered in Indianapolis on Oct. 13.

HUNTER AND PHELPS UP

Semi-Finals Being Played in Western Golf Tournament.

Four Chicago Experts Fighting It Out for the Championship.

Minikahda Club, July 29.—Robert E. Hunter of Midlothian was 1 up on Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater and Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian was 3 up on Warren K. Wood of Homewood at the end of the morning round of the semi-final matches of the Western golf championship at the Minikahda club today. A high wind swept over the course and made good playing almost impossible. At the end of the first nine holes Evans was 1 up on Hunter and Wood was 2 up on Phelps. The four men all showed the effects of the nervous strain attendant upon the crucial matches and none was able to play his best game. Their principal weakness was in putting, but Phelps and Hunter were also in trouble in the trees and sand pits.

Evans and Hunter were the first to start and halved the first and second holes in par figures 4 and 5. On the third, 130 yards, Evans laid his iron tee shot within five feet of the hole and ran it down, winning 2-3 and taking the lead. Evans drove into a sandpit on the fourth, but Hunter's putting was ragged and the hole was halved in sixth. The fifth was halved in a par four but both men played poorly on the sixth. Hunter drove into a bunker but his second was good. Evans lost his advantage by taking three putts after he laid his second six feet from the hole. Hunter won his first hole at the seventh but Evans was again 1 up when Hunter missed a short putt for the eighth. Both putted poorly on the ninth and the hole was halved in five. Their cards:

Out .....4 5 2 6 4 5 5 4 5—40
Hunter—
Out .....4 5 3 6 4 5 3 5 5—40

Evans lost the tenth to Hunter when he missed a four-foot for a half in the three evening the match. Evans hooked his drive on the eleventh and put his second to the edge of the green and won the hole in 4. The twelfth was halved in six, but Evans had a poor drive on the thirteenth and Hunter evened the match by winning 5-6.

The fourteenth was halved in a pair four, and the fifteenth was also halved, Evans rimming the cup for a three. The sixteenth and seventeenth were halved, Evans missing a six-foot putt to win. Hunter drove into the road going to the sixteenth and Evans approached short and he missed a five-foot putt for a four, Hunter winning 4-5 making him one up.

Their cards:
Evans—
In .....4 4 6 6 4 4 3 3 5—39
Hunter—
In .....35 6 5 4 4 3 3 4—37

Wood and Phelps halved the first in four and Phelps drove the bunker on the second, but got a good second and won the hole, 5-6. Phelps lost the third, 130 yeards, when his iron tee shot rolled down the side of the hill and gave him an unplayable lie. He was forced to almost shovel the ball out and lost the hole 3-5, evening the match. The fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth were halved in par figures while Wood made it two up by winning the seventh and ninth, holing a 15-foot putt on the ninth green. Their cards:

Wood—
Out .....4 6 3 5 4 4 3 5 3—37
Phelps—
Out .....4 5 5 5 4 4 4 5 4—40

Wood did not win a hole in the last nine, Phelps winning five while the other four were halved. Wood had hard luck on his long game and neither putted well.

The tenth and eleventh were halved in three and five. Wood took six on the twelfth while Phelps ran down a par five by good putting. The thirteenth and fourteenth were won by Phelps in 4-5. The fifteenth was halved in a par four and Wood made a beautiful long drive on the sixteenth but landed in a sand pile and took two to get out, Phelps winning the hole 4-6. The seventeenth also went to Phelps but the eighteenth was halved in par four. Their cards:

Wood—

BRAINERD FACES SERIOUS CRISIS

If Mississippi Falls Another Foot Water Supply Will Be Curtailed.

Brainerd, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. J. Johnson, superintendent of the Northwest Paper company pulp mill here, says the water in the Mississippi river is very low, his mill has not been bothered any for want of water because it uses only a small amount. Two-thirds of the natural flow of the river runs over the sluice ways and is not used. For the last four weeks the water has remained practically stationary. He says the river is at the lowest stage he has seen in seven years. The Northwest Paper company pulp mill has four pair of 36-inch turbines. The city electric light plant was lost in the fire several months ago. It had two turbines and the loss of these has increased the head of water at the dam.

Albert Stevens, the engineer of the city's pumping station says the present stage of water is the lowest he has seen in twenty years, and that if it falls another foot the city will be in serious danger, for there will not be enough water within reach to fight a big fire.

Pat Long, a foreman at the Mississippi & Ruin River Boom company says the river is at the lowest stage he has seen in the last fourteen years.

DELAY PRESENTATION OF BATTLESHIP SERVICE.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 29—Because the United States battleship North Dakota will leave American waters Nov. 1, the official presentation of the silver service given by the state of North Dakota will very probably be delayed until the early part of next year. The navy department had suggested Oct. 25 as the date for the presentation but inasmuch as this is just a few days prior to the general election in this state, it will be impossible for many who might otherwise wish to participate in the presentation an opportunity of going.

THIRTY-SIX HOURS' WORK

Contractor Completes Delicate Job on New Concrete Bridge.

After thirty-six hours' work without a moment's intermission Contractor George H. Lounsberry finished running the concerte for the "slab" on the new bridge which is being put up across Tischer's creek between Thirty-second and Thirty-third avenues east. The "slab" in one solid piece which forms the upper part of the bridge. It is put in as one piece and in order to do the work properly it was impossible to do it piecemeal. The "slab" is one-half of the upper part. When this sets, in about ten days, the other will be made. The two will be joined by "S" bars. The eighteen columns are up, nine on each side, as well as the concrete abutments. The "slab" is about 172 feet long, 34 feet wide and 20 inches thick. Conduits have also been put in for future use. The bridge promises to be one of the best and neatest in the city when completed. The city engineering department has carefully supervised every foot of the work to guard against any flaws or poor construction.

LOWER COURT ORDER UPHELD

Engineering Works Will Recover $5,500 for Delay in Contract.

In an order received today from the United States Court of Appeals, at St. Louis, Mo., the verdict returned in the local United States district court several months ago in the case of the Great Lakes Engineering Works against the Northwestern Steam Boiler Works, when the plaintiff was awarded $5,500 damages, was affirmed.

The defendants had contracted to construct new boilers for the engineering company, agreeing to having them finished within a time limit. The work required more time than agreed upon, and the plaitniffs alleged that they were losers of a large amount on this account. Washburn, Bailey and Mitchell represented the Great Lakes Engineering company.

Two Killed in Butte Mine.

Butte, Mont., July 29.—John Rogers and Frank Bruneau were killed in St. Lawrence mine Wednesday by a premature explosion, while they were engaged in loading a round of holes on the 1,500-foot level.

WISHED GRAY CASKET.

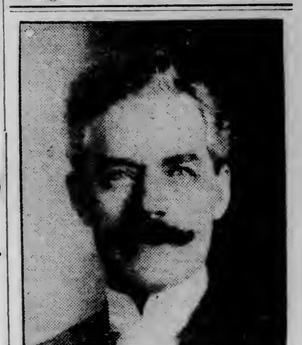

Peculiar Request of Veteran Who Had a Presentiment.

Menominee, Mich., July 29. — (Special to The Herald.)—John Krause, the veteran, who was killed by a train at Faithorn Junction, seemed to have a presentiment to disaster. He possessed considerable property and made a will leaving it to his god-children. He requested that he might be buried with military honors with the Third Regiment band in attendance. He also expressed the wish that he be buried in a gray casket. His wishes were carried out.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK AT THE STATE FAIR

New York, July 29.—C. M. Griggs of St. Paul, vice president of the Minnesota State Agricultural society, obtained a promise from Col. Roosevelt today to speak at the state fair in St. Paul, which is on the same day the colonel addresses the conservation congress in St. Paul.

You'll never need to buy anything that cannot be bought to best advantage in a store that advertises.

Mr. Voter: Have you made your will? If so, who is to be your executor? If not, and you should die tonight, who is likely to be your administrator?

It is the sacred duty of the probate court to make such appointments and many others and to look after the widows and orphans and insane persons. It is the most important office in the county to you. I ask you candidly and cordially to look into the merits of the several candidates and vote for the one you think best suited for the position of judge of that court. Leave out politics and personal pull. It is a business proposition. Talk it over with your wife seriously. She is as likely to have business in that court as you are.

J. H. WHITELY,
Republican Candidate for Judge of Probate.

DELAY FOR BRODERICK

Motion to Quash Bribery Indictment Entered By Attorney.

Pemberton and Clark, Accused in Furniture Deal, Face Court.

Springfield, Ill., July 29.—When the case of Senator John Broderick of Chicago, charged with bribery in giving State Senator D. W. Holstlaw $2,500 to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator and $700 "jackpot" money, was called in the Sangamon circuit court today, by agreement of the counsel a motion to quash the indictment was entered by Former State Senator Thomas Dawson, attorney for Broderick. The attorney for Broderick was ordered to file the specifications in support of the motion before the first Monday of September, when the September term of the circuit court convenes.

The order was allowed because the case of Lee O'Neil Browne is called for trial in Chicago next Monday.

Furniture Cases Up.

When the cases of State Senator Stanton C. Pemberton and Representative Joseph S. Clark, charged with conspiracy to bribe in the furniture contract deal, came up, Attorney Graham, representing the defendants, moved to quash the indictment on the grounds that the indictment does not sufficiently state the crime; that it does not give the name of the corporation alleged to have given the bribe for awarding the furniture contract, and that the commission had no authority to make the contract, that authority existing only in the secretary of state.

The cases then were continued until this afternoon. Senator Pemberton gave a new bond in the sum of $5,000.

RIGHT TO DESTROY MILK IS UPHELD

St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—Special to The Herald.)—According to a decision rendered by the supreme court this morning, health officers in Minnesota have authority to seize and destroy all milk brought into the city which has been taken from herds not subjected to the tuberculosis test.

Suit was brought by Ole B. Nelson to restrain the city from interfering with his dairying business, after the officers had seized and destroyed six cans of milk from untested herds. Nelson said that as the milk had been pasteurized after drawing it was wholesome and pure. He was fined, however, in municipal court, and appealed the case. The supreme court affirmed the action of the lower court.

Question of Public Health.

In the opinion handed down this morning Justice Brown said:

"The question of public health is one of first importance to the regulation and control of human affairs, and all laws or ordinances enacted for that purpose, when not so arbitrary as to be unnecessarily destructive of individual property rights, are uniformly upheld by the courts. Milk constitutes one of the principal articles of our food supply, and the purity thereof and the freedom from disease germs is of serious concern, and efforts to attain, so far as may be, results consistent with the public welfare, are purely of legislative cognizance."

SAYS IT WOULD SAVE $100,000,000

Martin Dodge Talks of Suitable Improvement of Roads.

Niagara Falls, July 29.—Before the National Good Roads congress here today, Martin Dodge advanced the theory that suitable improvement of highway systems in the United States would diminish by $100,000,000 the cost of short haul freight transportation.

OBITUARY

Rev. Dr. Bostwick Hawley, one of the best known retired Methodist Episcopal clergymen in Northern New York, died at Saratoga, N. Y., July 29, at the age of 96.

E. V. W. Brokaw, for more than twenty years prominent in educational circles in Minnesota, is dead in Boston, Mass., at the home of his eldest son, V. S. Brokaw. He was 75 years old. Death was due to hardening of the arteries. He had been ill three weeks. Mr. Brokaw is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter—V. S. Brokaw of Boston; A. C. Brokaw, assistant managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, and Miss L. E. Brokaw of Frederick, Md. About ten years ago Mr. Brokaw gave up active work. Until his retirement he had been energetically engaged in shaping the progress of younger Minnesota. He was for fourteen years superintendent of schools at Litchfield and for six years superintendent at Glencoe, Minn. He devoted much time to summer training schools in many counties and his acquaintanceship embraced almost the whole state. The body will be taken to Port Huron, Mich., for burial.

William F. Mirick, a member of Minneapolis Typographical union, is dead at St. Mary's hospital in that city. He had been a sufferer from a complication of troubles and was in the hospital for several months. Mr. Mirick was well-known in printing circles in the Twin Cities, where he lived for about forty years, working on the daily papers most of that time. In the last five years he was compelled by ill health to give up active work. He was a pensioner in the International Typographical union and will be buried in a cemetery lot of the Minneapolis union. Mr. Mirick is survived by two sons and a daughter.

Judge George Baker Lake, for many years a leading jurist of Nebraska, died at his home in Omaha, Neb., July 27, aged 84 years.

George W. Anderson, one of the best known of the older citizens of Bozeman, Mont., is dead. He was 76 years of age. A widow and two children survive him. Manager Charles B. Anderson of the Gallatin Valley Electric railway, and Mrs. Cora Fries of Arcadia, Neb., survive him.

Andrew J. Swenson, an early pioneer, died in Madison, Wis., July 27, his 91st birthday, of paralysis. He went to Madison when Indians inhabited the site. He is survived by four children.

PUBLIC HEARING AT ASHLAND

Engineer Will Hear Views on Changing Harbor Line.

A public hearing has been authorized by the war department and this will be given on Thursday, Aug. 25, 1910, at 10 a. m., in the city hall, in the city of Ashland, Wis., to bring out expressions of opinion on a proposed change in the harbor line by placing it further in shore.

It is desired that all who are interested in the subject, whether corporate or individual, shall state their wishes by means of written communications at this meeting, or orally, if they prefer, but it would be preferable to the engineers' office that they should be in writing. Vessel interests as well as commercial bodies and individual citizens will be given full hearing in the matter, both for and against the proposition. It might be stated that the Advancement Association of Ashland is very desirous of making this change and before a recommendation is made by the engineer's office the opinions of those particularly interested are specially invited.

COURT'S O. K. ON SUNDAY SHOWS

Supreme Court Says Moving Pictures Are Not Illegal on That Day.

St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Operating moving pictures on Sunday, when the pictures are moral and there is no disorder, received the sanction of the Minnesota supreme court this morning in an opinion written by Justice Lewis. So long as the "repose and religious liberty of a community" is not disturbed by the productions, they are not held to be unlawful.

The opinion came in the case of D. W. Chamberlain, who was arrested at Mankato and fined in municipal court for keeping the Unique theater open on the Sabbath day. He appealed and the supreme court this morning reversed the decision.

SUPERIOR

NEW YORK EXPERT TO INSPECT WATER WORKS.

Allan Hazen, engineer and water works specialist of New York city, is in the city to inspect the filtration and water works system of the local plant. Mr. Hazen will return to New York Saturday. Although it has been two years since he last visited the Head of the Lakes, he has made a number of inspection trips to Superior.

DELEGATES ARE AFTER THE 1911 CONVENTION.

Superior delegates who will attend the grand lodge meeting of the National Fraternal League at Waukesha Aug. 11 and 12, will make an effort to secure the 1911 convention for Superior. Literature advertising Superior is being sent to the other councils throughout the state with the view of securing their aid in landing the 1911 meet.

Summer School Ends.

The summer school at the normal school will close tomorrow. It is the fourth annual term, and, according to Principal Merrill, one of the most successful. Yesterday Rev. N. J. Lokrem gave the students a talk on the achievements of the Norwegian people. This year 366 students were enrolled.

Assault Is Charged.

James Catherwood of Hawthorne was arrested at his home yesterday charged with assault and battery and taken to Superior by Undersheriff Riches. In the afternoon he was arraigned in police court, where his case was adjourned for a week. Mrs. Kelley of Hawthorne is the complainant. It is claimed that he struck the woman during an altercation over the custody of some children.

Drummer Gets Jail Sentence.

Menominee, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. O. Lauetzensinger, a traveling man, who was arrested in a house of questionable character in company with a young girl of this city, was sent to jail for twenty days.

Woman Hit By Bicyclist.

Menominee, Mich., July 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Frederick Datson, wife of the rector of Grace Episcopal church, was knocked down and severely hurt by a careless bicyclist.

ARTISTIC RECLUSES.

Geniuses Who Seldom Leave Their Homes.

Tit-Bits: Carlyle once remarked when a friend chided him for being such a recluse that social life was work's greatest enemy. The Chelsea sage considered that a man must shun acquaintances and friends if he wished to give the world his best work, and a study of the lives of some present day geniuses shows that it is total absorption in their work which causes them to hide from the public gaze.

Take the case of Matthew Maris, for instance, the well known painter, whose picture "Four Mills" fetched 3,300 guineas at Christie's a few days ago. Maris lives in strict seclusion in London lodgings, the whereabouts of which is only known to about a half dozen people. He is now an old man of 70 years of age and rarely leaves his study. And not only does he hide himself from the public, but he also hides his pictures. He has not sold a painting for years, although dealers are willing to pay thousands of pounds for them, as is evident from the prices fetched by those which are occasionally put up for auction.

Maris reminds one of the great Italian sculptor, Vincenzo Gemito, who twenty years ago shut himself in his study and refused to leave it. To a certain extent Gemito's reason had become unsettled owing to overwork and distressing mental suffering and one of the reasons why he would not leave his study was that he feared the attacks of fantastic foes, who were the figments of his disordered brain, but his malady in no way interfered with his work. For twenty years Gemito has been working hard at the production of statuettes, real masterpieces, which he modelled and remodelled time after time, bringing them to the highest degree of perfection.

It was reported a few days ago, however, that Gemito had been induced to leave his study by no less a personage than the duchess of Aosta, who frequently visited him. She succeeded in inducing him to go to the royal palace and, accompanied by two relatives, Gemito left his house and walked along the sunny streets of Naples. At the palace he was cheerfully greeted by the duke and duchess of Aosta, who entertained him for a considerable time. The effect was magical. Throwing off the depressing gloom of years the aged sculptor returned home full of joy, declaring that he would come out again and enjoy life.

For the first time for some years Tolstoi left his home at the beginning of October to pay a visit to a friend in Moscow. The famous Russian has for many years led a peaceful and quiet life on his estate at Yasnaya Polyana, which is situated about 130 miles south of Moscow, amid forests and surrounded by beautiful hilly country, devoting his time in tween writing and outdoor labor, clad in the picturesque blue smock of the Rusisan peasant. Tolstoi, however, while refusing to mix with the world, is ever ready to receive visitors. The consequence is that, although Yasnaya Polyana is by no means easy of access, many pilgrims find their way thither to pay their respects to the preacher of obedience to Christian principles.

In a little cottage of the simplest kind at Bromley, Kent, lives Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian exile, whose revolutionary teachings led to several terms of imprisonment, while serving one of which he escaped to England. The prince rarely leaves his Bromley home, where he writes his books and indulges in his favorite hobbies of book binding and carpentry. He is a man who has suffered even more than Tolstoi for his ideas, and still seeks by his writings to ameliorate the conditions under which the Russian peasant lives.

Maurice Maeterlinck, who has been called the "Belgian Shakespeare," has immured himself in Normandy at a ruined abbey which he has made his home. Now and again he gives the world some new masterpiece, but people seldom have an opportunity of seeing the genius who has made for himself a name as one of the greatest of living thinkers.

OLD GRIMES, WHO'S DEAD.

Tales They Tell at Templeton, Mass., of Hero of Popular Song.

Old Grimes is dead, that good old man,
We ne'er shall see him more.
He used to wear a long gray coat
All buttoned down before.

Old Grimes he had a good old hen,
A good old hen was she.
She used to lay two eggs a day
And Sunday she laid three.

The squirrel's a very pretty bird,
And wears a bushy tail.
He used to visit Old Grimes' corn
And eat it on a rail.

Old Grimes he had a little dog,
A little dog was he.
He used to hist up one hind leg
And hop along on three.

Old Grimes' wife made butter and cheese,
Old Grimes he drank the whey.
There came an east wind from the west
And blew Old Grimes away.

So the old song goes, with a legion more of verses, and will be kept on going years longer. Although Old Grimes has been dead these seventy-five years and more his memory is still with the old folks at Templeton, Mass., handed down by their fathers, to whom he was a living reality of social comradeship and waggish wit. They will point out hills, roads, house sites, landmarks famous for some doughty deed, some practical joke, played by Old Grimes.

"This very road, the old state road," they will tell you, "leads to Hubbardston, where, three miles up a piece, Old Grimes was born. 'Twas along this road he led the old dominie such a pace.

"You see, he'd made a bet with some of the boys at the tavern that he'd make the dominie ride behind him on his pillion before breakfast Sunday morning wearing his, Old Grimes' hat and coat and drink half a pint o' toddy with him at the tavern. Sure enough, he rapped up the dominie early one Sunday morning and told him to come quick to the bedside of his dying mother. 'Here,' says he, 'don't wait for your hat and coat. Take mine, and climb right up behind me. They rode along together till they came to the tavern, where Old Grimes stopped. 'Come,' he says, 'it's been a pretty cold ride. Let's have a nip or toddy to warm us up a bit.' The dominie (you know all folks drank toddy in them days), well, the dominie climbed down and drank his toddy and was for hurrying right on. 'Sit a while,' says Grimes. 'If ma ain't dead she's better by this time, so there ain't no need to hurry.' I guess he won the bet.

"Right there on that hill where you see them piles of stones stood old Ed Bennett's house. One time Ed was woke up about the middle of the night by a loud knocking at the door. He got up and went down to see who it was and there stood Old Grimes.

"'Ed,' says he, 'it looks as though we might have rain before morning, so I thought I'd wake you up, so's you could take your chimney in.'

"Another time he rapped up Bennett's folks and asked if Mis' Bennett hadn't lost a darning needle. He'd been looking around among the straw in the barn and expected to find one any minute.

"Old Grimes went over to Worcester fellow running to his house tomorrow horse. He didn't have his money with him, so he told the man he'd pay him the next day and gave him his note to secure it. The note read, 'I promise to pay Jed Starkes $20 tomorrow. Grimes.' The next day Starkes waited for Grimes to come, but no Grimes showed up. The day after he rode to Grimes' house and asked for his money.

"'Well,' says Grimes, looking wise, 'this note says I'll pay you tomorrow. Come around then and I'll give it to you. You see Old Grimes hadn't put no date to the note, and he kept that is waiting until the money received and tomorrow till he'd had enough fun out of it, then he paid him off with the interest added to it.

"Grimes had a horse that he'd brought up from a colt and had trained it so's it would go when he said 'Whoa' and would stop still when he said 'Get-ap.' One time when they was holding court up to the meeting house Grimes came along riding this horse, and, by golleral, if he didn't ride him straight up the meeting house steps into the room where the court was settin, hollering 'Whoa' to it at the top of his voice. Of course the horse kept right on, and the folks around couldn't blame Grimes none for a balky horse, 'cause they seen he was trying to make it stop. They didn't know how he'd been trained.

"Some folks say Old Grimes wasn't quite right. He was a mighty goward, they say. His folks scared him so when he was a child that when he growed up he was afraid to go down cellar after dark without he had a drink or two to brace him up. Anyhow, his doings gave folks their fun years ago, and I guess it ain't died out yet."

GYROSCOPE CAR PROBLEMS.

"Lubrication is a vital part of the Brennan gyroscope car," writes Perceval Gibbon in McClure's. Let that fail and the axles, grinding and red hot, would eat through the white metal of the bearings as a knife goes through butter. It is a thing that has been foreseen by the inventor; to the lubricating apparatus is affixed a danger signal that would instantly warn the engineer.

"But," says Brennan, "if one broke down in other gyroscope would hold her up—till ye could run her to a sliding anyway."

"But supposing the electric apparatus failed?" suggests somebody. "Supposing the motor driving the gyroscopes broke down; what then?"

"They'd run for a couple of days with the momentum they've got,' answers the inventor. 'And for two or three hours that 'ud keep it upright by itself.'

"On the short track at Gillingham there are no gradients to show what the car can do in the way of climbing, but here again the inventor is positive. She will run up a slope as steep as one in six, he says.

"There is no reason to doubt him; the 5-foot model that he used to exhibit could climb a much steeper incline, run along a rope stretched six feet above the ground or remain at rest upon it while the rope was swung to and fro. It would do all these things while carrying a man; and for my part, I am willing to take Brennan's word.

"When Brennan made his early models he found that while the little cars would remain upright and run along a straight rail they left the track at the first curve. The gyroscope governed their direction as well as their equilibrium. It was the first check in the evolution of the perfect machine.

"It was over ten years before he found the answer to the problem—ten years of making experimental machines and scrapping them, of filing useless patents of doubt and persistence. But the answer was found—in the spinning top.

"A spinning top set down so that it stands at an angle to the floor will right itself; it will rise till it stands upright on the point of equal friction. Brennan's resource, therefore, was to treat his gyroscope as a top. He enclosed it in a case through which its axles projected, and at each side of the car he built stout brackets reaching forth a few inches below each end of the axle.

"The result is not difficult to deduce. When the car came to the curve the centrifugal action tended to throw it outward; the side of the car that was on the inside of the curve swung up and the bracket touched the axle of the gyroscope.

"Forthwith, in the manner of its father the top, the gyroscope tried to stand upright on the bracket; all the weight of it and all its wonderful force were pressed on that side of the car, holding it down against the tendency to rise and capsize. The thing was done; the spinning top had come to the rescue of its posterity. It only remained to fit a double gyroscope with the wheels revolving in opposite directions, and save for engineering details the monorail car was evolved."

RIKKI TIK AND THE COBRA.

"I had the good fortune this evening," says a writer in the Ceylon Times, "to witness a fight between a four foot cobra di cappella and a mongoose.

"On first catching sight of the cobra, rikki tik (as Rudyard Kipling calls the Indian mongoose) quietly smelt its tail and then hung around awaiting events with curiosity, but he had not long to wait, for the cobra spread its hood, hissed out its death sentence and prepared to dart from its coil at its natural and hated enemey.

"Now commenced a most interesting and deadly battle of feint and counter feint by the mongoose and strike and lightninglike recovery by his adversary, who was also on the defensive, all the time watching for the opportunity to get in his properly aimed bite.

"Time after time rikki tik squirmed slowly up to within reach of those terrible fangs—belly on ground—with every gray hair of his body erect with anger and excitement, his eyes glaring from his head, which, by the way, he invariably held sideways during this approach and attack, but the moment the cobra struck in a flash back sprang master mongoose, and although often it appeared as if impossible that he could have escaped the dread fangs not a scratch marred him, and there he would be again, wearing the cobra out and pressing his advantage inch by inch.

"At last with a growl and sharp cry rikky cry the plucky little beast flew down, avoided the strike and seized the snake behind the head, never for a moment getting under its mouth, but right at the nape of the neck and head, which he scrunched with a loud cracking sound despite the struggles an dwistling and turning of the cobra. Again and again rikki returned to the now writhing reptile and bit its head and body until it lay dying.

"Finally he ate three or four inches of his mortal foe, but carefully avoided eating the fangs and poison glands, which I picked up by a stick and found them broken, but with the venom sacks attached. Contrary to popular belief I am of the opinion the mongoose is not immune from snake poison, else why should he so particularly avoid being bitten? It is only by his marvelous activity that he escapes the spring and darting strike of his deadly enemy the cobra di capella."

THE AGILE ESKIMO.

"In all my experience I had never encountered a rougher, more difficult country in which to hunt than in Ellesmere Land," writes Harry Whitney of Cook-Peary fame, in Outing. "Ordinarily I should have believed these mountainsides, with walls of smooth rock sheathed with a crust of hard ice and snow, quite unscalable.

"In places they were almost perpendicular. Rarely did they offer a crevice to serve as foot or hand hold, and jutting points and firm set boulders were too widely scattered to be of much help.

"In this his native land the Eskimo has a decided advantage over the white hunter. His lifetime of experience has taught him to scale these ice-clad heights with a nimbleness and ease that are astounding. He is quite fearless, and even the mountain sheep is not his superior as a climber.

"As if by magic, and with little apparent effort, the two Eskimos flew up the slippery walls, far outstripping me. How they did it I shall never know. Now and again I was forced to cut steps in the ice or I should inevitably have lost my footing and been hurled downward several hundred feet to the rocks beneath.

"I was astonished even at my own progress, and when I paused to glance behind me I felt a momentary panic. But there was no turning back and one look robbed me of any desire to try it.

"The Eskimo has no conception of distance. He is endowed with certain artistic instincts which enable him to draw a fairly good map of a coast line with which he is thoroughly familiar, but he cannot tell you how far it is from one point to another. Often when they told me a place we were bound for was very close at hand it developed that we were far from it. This they are never sure of and cannot indicate.

"The Eskimos have a white man 'sting to death' from every point of view. They not only can go to sleep promptly but sleep soundly and well as they travel, when circumstances permit. They get sustenance too by eating hard frozen walrus and seal meat or blubber. This I could never do, for it is so strong in flavor that it invariably nauseated me, though I did succeed very well with raw hare or deer's meat when I had it.'

A SURPRISE ALL ROUND.

Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, said at the New Willard, in Washington, apropos of a political argument:

"Well, if they try to put that theory in practice, they will be as much surprised as the Laddonia farmer was.

"A farmer out Laddonia way drove to Bowling Green one afternoon to do some shopping. His wife had reproached him often about his shabbiness, so, to surprise her, he bought in Bowling Green along with his seeds and tools and what-not, a complete new rig from the skin out.

"As the farmer drove home in the twilight, an idea struck him, and halting his wagon on a bridge over a deep stream, he took off his old patched coat, doubled it up and flung it in the water, saying:

"'Won't Emily be surprised?' he said to himself. 'Won't she be took aback when she sees me so spick and span?'

"He took off his waistcoat and sent it after his coat. Then he flung his hat into the stream, then his shirt, then his shoes and socks, then his trousers. And so this disrobing act kept on until the farmer—it was of course pitch dark by now—had nothing further to disrobe.

"'I'll certainly surprise the wife,' he said.

"Then shivering a little in the evening air, he reached down for the package of new clothes. It wasn't under the seed bag. So he hopped lightly to the back of the wagon and searched the floor on hands and knees. But the bundle wasn't on the floor, either. For quite five minutes the farmer looked for it. And then, while he took his old place again on the hard, cold seat and drove off homeward through the darkness.

"It was a long ride and a chilly ride for the white, slim figure nolding the reins, but it ended at last, and the farmer hopped from the wagon and dashed nimbly indoors, hoping to reach his room unnoticed.

"But his wife, a lamp in her hand, came full upon him in the hall. The strange, snowy apparition, moving so lightly, gave her a great shock.

"'Why, Father!' she said.

"But the farmer, brushing her aside, sped upstairs three steps at a time.

"'I said I'd surprise ye,' he shouted grimly, 'and, by gosh! I reckon I've done it!'"

THE WISE WANG.

Governor John F. Shafroth of Colorado, advocating woman suffrage in New York, said of a woman leader:

"She is showing, in her fight, the wisdom of Solomon. Indeed, she has chosen her course with the unerring perspicacity of the Chinese judge, Wang, in the Yan-ki case.

"Before Wang two men and a woman appeared. The older man was the woman's first husband; he had gone to the wars and been reported dead; now he returned alive to claim his wife. But she, meanwhile had married the younger man, who refused to give her up. Hence all three came before Wang, that he might decide this truly difficult case.

"'Yang-ki,' said the judge to the woman, 'which of these two men made the better husband?'

"'Both were perfect husbands, my lord judge,' Yang-ki modestly replied.

"So the judge told the men that he would keep the woman by him for a week, examining her thoroughly, and a week hence he would decide the case.

"Well, the week passed, and the two husbands came once more before the judge. He shook his head gravely and said to them:

"'The woman, Yang-ki, has died. There is no case. Let her original husband take the body away from my house and pay for the burial.'

"'Ho, not I,' said the original husband; and so saying, he darted from the court and was soon lost to view.

"'You, then,' said the judge to the other man, 'must stand these burial expenses.'

"'Yes,' the man answered, 'that is just, and I will give this woman, who was good and kind, the finest burial my purse will allow.'

"The judge clapped his hands. Yang-ki, blushing and smiling, entered the courtroom in a rich dress of gold brocade.

"'Take her,' said the wise judge; 'for you, and not the other, merit her love and service.'"

WHAT THE BISHOP KNEW.

Washington Star: On one occasion when traveling along the west coast of Africa with an old skipper who had known many missionaries but "did not see the use of them," Bishop Taylor-Smith was obliged to endure a string of taunting questions, such as "What is the length of an alligator's tongue?" "What do missionaries know anyway?"

At last the bishop could stand it no longer. Turning to the skipper, he said: "I know you are an expert. Can you tell me the length of an alligator's tongue?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "but it depends on the length of the alligator."

"Very well, then, say an alligator fifteen feet long. What would be the length of its tongue?"

"Three feet," was the answer.

But the bishop, who had kept alligators and watched their ways, knew better. "It is evident that you are an authority on the west coast of Africa," he said, "but it is also evident that some people see more in ten minutes than others in twenty years. Let me tell you that an alligator has no tongue."

A REMEDY FOR DIVORCE.

Miss Maud Allan, conversing with an interviewer in New York, said:

"My critics have been so kind that I fear that they have acted as people after marriage are advised to do.

"A famous London beauty, you know, gave this advice at a wedding breakfast:

"'Before marriage we should keep our eyes wide open. After marriage we should keep them half-shut.'"

"In Mayor Gaynor's early days on the bench," said a Brooklyn lawyer, "a prisoner's counsel in the course of his speech:

"'Medical witnesses will testify that my unfortunate client is suffering from kleptomania, and, your honor, you know what that is.'

"'Yes,' said Judge Gaynor, 'I do. It is a disease the people pay me to cure.'"

LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

Portmasters of Third and Fourth Class Officers Band Together.

State Is Divided Into Ten Districts for Purpose of Organization.

The Duluth District League of Postmasters, a supplement to the Minnesota State League of Postmasters, which is a branch of the National League of Postmasters of Third and Fourth-class Offices, was organized today at a meeting held at the federal building here at the call of W. S. Barthlolomew of Avon, president of the state league.

The Duluth district is composed of St. Louis, Itasca, Lake, Koochiching, Cook, Pine and Carlton counties, and postmasters of third and fourth-class offices from all except Cook, Lake and Koochiching counties were present at today's meeting. Although but twelve postmasters were present and enrolled in the league today, Mr. Bartholomew hopes to secure the enrollment of every postmaster in the district, in order that the league may be a potent factor in the postal service as applied to the smaller communities.

Mr. Bartholomew opened the meeting this morning and explained the purposes of the league. He said that the organization of the third and fourth-class postmasters by districts was decided upon as the most satisfactory manner of bringing the officials with common interests closer together for mutual benefit, and especially for the improvement of the service.

J. D. Barstow of Barnum was chosen chairman of the meeting and E. B. Robinson of Floodwood secretary.

The discussion this morning centered mainly on the money order business, especially the cashing of orders and the identification to be required for the purpose. All of the postmasters present took part in the discussion, and the ideas brought out were beneficial.

This afternon Mr. Bartholomew addressed the meeting on "The League and Its Objects." The organization will elect its officers for the year this afternoon.

The Duluth district league is the eighth to be organized by Mr. Bartholomew in the state, the others being at Granite Falls, Pipestone, Mankato, Rochester, Minneapolis, Crookston and Fergus Falls. Two more districts are to be organized at meetings to be held in Brainerd and St. Cloud.

Mr. Bartholomew said today that the organization of the postmasters in districts has met with enthusiastic support by the postmasters eligible to membership in the league and the meetings have all been fairly well attended. He expects that by next year when the objects of the leagues are better understood, nearly every third or fourth-class postmaster in the state will be enrolled in his district league and will attend the annual meeting. An annual meeting of each league will be held in June or July of each year for the discussion of matters of interest to the postmasters.

The following postmasters were present at today's meeting: Charles Olson, Sturgeon Lake, Pine county; E. R. Robinson, Floodwood, St. Louis county; J. J. Sonmod, Denham, Pine county; F. Kowalski, Mountain Iron, St. Louis county; Max Shuirman, Keewatin, Itasca county; J. D. Barstow, Barnum, Itasca county; N. L. Johnson, Buhl, St. Louis county; L. N. Peterson, Twig, St. Louis county; Evan Johnson, Rock Creek, Pine county; Ira H. Williams, Brook Park, Pine county; F. A. Trolander, Alborn, St. Louis county, and E. J. Anderson, Coleraine, Itasca county.

Mr. Bartholomew will leave tonight for Brainerd, where a league will be organized tomorrow.

BANKERS FORM ASSOCIATION

New York Men Adopt Plan Suggested By Aldrich and MacVeagh.

New York, July 29.—The National Currency Association of the City of New York was regularly organized today at a meeting held at the clearing house and attended by representatives of tweny-seven national banks. The association was formed in conformity with the act of congress known as the Aldrich-Vreeland act providing for issue of additional circulation and in response to the recent suggestion by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh as to the desirability of forming such associations in the country's financial centers.

Personal Injury Suits.
The personal injury damage suits of James Wallace and his wife, Edna G. Wallace, against the city of Duluth are on trial today before Judge Page Morris and a jury in United States circuit court. They claim to have been injured on account of a defective sidewalk at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Sixth street. The cases are being tried together.

Suit Is Dismissed.
The suit of Lillian Marie Adette against Beckman Bros. for $25,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been sustained when a sleigh in which she was riding overturned was dismissed by Judge Morris in United States circuit court yesterday afternoon. The motion to dismiss was made on behalf of the plaintiffs, the claim being made that the federal court had no jurisdiction and the contention was sustained by Judge Morris.

Dry Farming Congress.
The fifth annual session of the Dry Farming congress will be held this year at Spokane, Wash., on Oct. 3, 4 and , for which an official call has just been issued. The purpose of this congress is to discuss modern agricultural methods.

Held to Grand Jury.
Walter Crackel, arrested last week for forgery, was bound over to the next grand jury in police court yesterday afternoon. He is accused of attempting to pass a worthless check for $24 to which he attaeched the name of J. E. Miller.

Moves to Duluth.
George M. Marnie, for three years general agent of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company at Minneapolis, has moved to Duluth and established headquarters for Northeastern Minnesota at 18 Third avenue west.

Verdict For Plaintiff.
A jury in district court this morning returned a verdict of $350 for Julius E. Diesen against the Great Northern Railroad company. The railroad company condemned five acres of land owned by the plaintiff near Brookston.

Fears Were Unnecessary.
John Dragnovich's money is safe. A few days ago he asked to have a new guardian appointed as Manuel Calich, who held that position for some time, had seemingly disappeared. The new guardian was appointed. Calich is at Mount Clemens and it is announced that Dragnovich's money is safe at a local bank.

New Stack Is Needed.
The damage to the incinerator from the storm last Saturday is heavier than at first anticipated. It now looks as though the entire stack will have to be replaced, at an estimated cost of $2,000. The upper third of the stack was knocked off, so badly injuring the remainder that it is thought that it will be useless.

Thinks Launch Is Stolen.
A. J. Gruesen reported to the police that he thought his 18-foot gasoline launch had been stolen from one of the stalls in the former quarters of the yacht club. It is possible, however, that friends may have taken the boat out. As it is too small to weather the lake seas in a wind, it is believed that it will soon be located somewhere about the bay or river.

Crusher Gets Clothes Dirty.
Because a rock-crusher located across the street created dust, the Peerless laundry has been unable to deliver clothes in as good condition as is necessary. Judge Ensign issued an order yesterday restraining the operation of the crusher for two days and ordered the proprietor to show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

New York, July 29.—E. Wider, the missing cashier of the Russo-Chinese bank, sought for in connection with the theft of $500,000 in securities from that institution, was arrested here this afternoon, according to information received at police headquarters before 3 o'clock. The detective who arrested him is to bring his prisoner to headquarters immediately.

The New York agency of the bank issued a statement last night lightening by $100,000 the gigantic stock and bond theft of which Wider stands accused. The bank's loss, the statement says, will not exceed $500,000. Heretofore the most conservative estimates placed the value of missing securities at $600,000.

Witnesses, including representatives of the stock exchange houses with which the erractic young speculator had dealings were examined by the grand jury yesterday, and it was rumored that an indictment had been found. If so, it had not been handed up in court.

Carried on Big Deals.
During twelve months, it was learned today, one firm bought $800,000 of stocks for his account, and it is assumed that he must have been on the right side of the market at times, although he is said to have lost heavily as a bear during one of the great bull movements in cotton.

The statement issued by the bank says in part:

"A full examination shows that the loss can not in any event exceed $500,000, and of that amount a large sum is certain to be recovered by the bank. The robbery cannot in any way either affect the normal course of business of the bank nor exert any influence upon the bank's dividend.

MOODY TO RETIRE BEFORE NOV. 15

Supreme Court Justice Will Take Advantage of Enabling Act.

Magnolia, Miss., July 29.—Associate Justice Moody of the supreme court has definitely stated that he will make announcement of his retirement from the bench prior to the expiration of the enabling act passed in his behalf by the last congress. This act expires the middle of November.

POT LUCK.

Congressman Longworth, discussing at a dinner in Cincinnati the project for the government ownership of suitable buildings for American embassies abroad, said:

"For an ambassador to be poor and poorly housed is no disgrace. It is, however, inconvenient. It makes one feel as Lowell felt after his return to Cambridge from his very successful ambassadorship in London.

"One day Lowell met in Boston an English peer who had been a great friend of his abroad, and he invited the peer out to Cambridge to dinner. About this he had some misgivings, for he lived very simply, keeping only one servant. He even went so far as to say, as the horse car jangled Cambridgeward:

"'You know, Lord Blank, we are very simple people, Mrs. Lowell and I.'

"'Oh, said the Earl, 'I love simplicity.'

"This remark fortified and comforted Lowell. It kept up his fortitude even when Mrs. Lowell informed him, when he got home, that there was nothing for dinner but creamed fish. But his spirits must have sunk a little when, at table, he essayed to help the simplicity-loving peer to the only dish, and the latter said politely:

"'If Mrs. Lowell will pardon me, I think I will omit the fish course.'"

THE ENGAGEMENT CLOSED.

Detroit News Tribune: Robinson—Hallo, old boy! How are you? Glad to see you.

Jones—First rate. You well?

Robinson—Thanks, quite. By the way, I heard you were engaged to Miss Bondclipper.

Jones—No, Robinson; I was engaged to her, but that is past.

Robinson—Well, Jones, between you and me, now, you are a lucky boy. She's rich, of course, but that is all she has to recommend her.

Jones—Yes.

Robinson—And then her money is only prospective, you know. Her father might lose it all before the daughter got to handle it.

Jones—That is true.

Robinson—Well, that's the way I look at it. I could have married her myself.

Jones—You could!

Robinson—It's a fact; but I counted the cost and drew out just in time. Fortunate, wasn't it?

Jones—Very.

Robinson—But tell me how you managed to break off the engagement. Mine hadn't quite gone that far.

Jones—I didn't break it off.

Robinson—Oh, she did it herself, did she? But perhaps I ought not to say anything about it. I supposed, of course, you broke it off yourself, as she was so anxious to marry; everybody knows that.

Jones—Oh, you needn't apologize. I'm not worrying at all about it.

Robinson—That's good. I like to see a man keep up his spirits. Might I inquire what made her break it off?

Jones—Oh, she didn't break it off, either.

Robinson—Well, that's strange. Then it must have been her father.

Jones—No; he had no objection.

Robinson—Then how did you manage to get out of the engagement?

Jones—I married her last week.

Robinson (with a gasp)—Ah-h-h! Well, I must really be going now. Good-by.

Jones—Good-by.

SEER AND NEW WOMAN.

Mrs. Margaret Deland, the noted author, at the end of her recent brilliant arraignment of "the new woman" at the Waldorf-Astoria, said:

"She is, the new woman I speak of, too selfish. She thinks only of herself. It must have been she in person who visited the Boston fortune teller.

"'Lady,' said the fortune teller, shuffling the cards, 'fate decrees that you will visit foreign lands. You will mingle in the court life of kings and queens. Conquering all rivals, you will marry the man of your choice, a tall, dark, handsome gent of distinguished ancestry—in fact, a peer of the realm.'

"'Will he be young?'

"'Yes; young and rich.'

"The visitor in her excitement clutched the seer's arm.

"'But how,' she cried eagerly, 'how am I to get rid of my present husband?'"

CONVENTION'S SECOND DAY

Delegates Still Arriving for Swedish-Finnish Temperance Conference.

Annual Election of Officers Will Be Held Saturday Morning.

With the morning given over to the reading of annual reports, the revision of the by-laws and other matters of routine business, the second day's session of the eighth annual convention of the Swedish-Finnish National Temperance association was opened today at Wade's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street.

Several more delegates arrived today from the ranges and other nearby towns. Many also came from Michigan towns. Miss Mary Johnson of Hartford, Conn., and I. Wahlsteadt and John Burg of Chicago are among the latest arrivals. There are now more than 100 delegates from all parts of the country in attendance.

At this morning's session it was decided to instruct E. J. Antell, editor of the Finnish-Swedish paper published in Brooklyn, N. Y., to make a lecturing tour throughout the Middle West this summer. The trip will be under the auspices of the Temperance association. Not only will he talk on temperance subjects, but he will also tell of conditions as they exist in Finland. He will visit Duluth.

The official organ of the society, a paper published at Chicago, will be doubled in size during the next year, according to a resolution which was passed this morning. The paper, known as the Leading Star, has a large circulation among the Finnish and Swedish people. The annual reports of the association show that the membership had increased 300 during the past year.

The annual election of officers will be held tomorrow morning. Victor Jacobson of Ironwood, Mich., the retiring vice president, who has been presiding over the meetings in lieu of the president, whose death occurred a month ago, is a candidate for the office, and as no opposition has shown itself thus far, it is probable that he will be elected.

Several delegations are making an effort to land the 1911 convention. Delegations from the Rocky mountain district have put in a strong bid for the annual meet, and Chicago, Dollar Bay, Mich., and Ironwood, Mich., are also after the honor. The matter will be voted upon tomorrow morning.

Tonight, P. J. Youngdahl, superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-saloon league, will give an address in English and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Miss Mary Johnson of Hartford, Conn., will appear on the program for a recitation, and other numbers are as follows:

Music
Greeting ..... Victor Jacobson, Ironwood.
Patriotic speech ..... Charley Engman.
Speech ..... John Berg, Chicago.
Vocal solo ..... Miss Hildur Anderson.

FURNACE LABORER OVERCOME BY GAS

Albert Bullock Nearly Suffocated When Fumes Escape From Tank.

Albert Bullock, a laborer, residing at 5501 Grand avenue was nearly suffocated by gas this morning, when he was overcome by fumes, while engaged at his work at the Zenith Furnace company.

As a result of the experience, he lies in St. Mary's hospital in a very precarious condition, although he has more than an even chance for recovery.

Bullock was painting the inside of a tank at the coke ovens and escaping gas fumes got the better of him before he could get out of the place.

Fellow workmen carried him out and called for an ambulance. Dr. Payette was also called and took charge of the man. At St. Mary's hospital this afternoon, it was stated that he would probably recover.

OLD RESIDENT DIES.

Ernest Masse, Aged 40, Passes Away After Long Illness.

Ernest Masse, 40 years old and a carpenter, died this morning at his home, 12 North Fifty-fourth avenue west after a six months' illness. He is survived by a widow.

Mr. Masse was an old resident of West Duluth coming to the city about fifteen years ago. He was unable to work for some time and his death was not unexpected.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church with burial at Calvary cemetery.

LABORER ARRESTED FOR JUMPING A BOARD BILL.

On the complaint of Frank Gotwald, proprietor of the Tremont hotel, 132 Central avenue, Mike Smith, a mill worker, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper. It is probable that he will be arraigned in the West Duluth justice court before Judge Flack this evening.

Gotwald claims Smith "beat" him out of a board bill.

Falls Thirty Feet.

Raymond McCorbric, 20 years old, sailor, fell thirty feet into the hold of the steamer Hoyt last evening and sustained a fracture of his left arm. He received a number of small cuts and bruises, but will recover. He is at St. Mary's hospital.

WORKMAN SUSTAINS A FRACTURED LEG.

Michael Laughren, 40 years old, a foreman for the W. H. Kiltin Construction company at West Duluth, had his leg broken this morning, when a wagon conveying a large concrete mixer ran over him.

Laughren and a crew of men were at work on Central avenue at the time of the accident, which occurred about 11 o'clock. In attempting to step from the sidewalk on to the wagon, Laughren slipped and fell. One of the wheels passed over him before he could pick himself up.

He was taken to the Duluth hospital, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. David Graham. Laughren lives at 326 West Third street.

ALLEGED VAGRANT MAY BE DEMENTED.

John McLarnon, 39 years old, was picked up last evening on South Seventy-first avenue west, by the police, who think that he is demented.

McLarnon had been acting strangely and could not give a definite account of himself. He was booked up on a charge of vagrancy and this morning was taken to headquarters station.

McLarnon claims to be a marine engineer and says that he has a wife in Ottawa, Can., whom he has not heard from for nine months.

West Duluth Briefs.

No danger of poisoning if you use Non-Excelled ice cream.

Miss S. Lindgren will leave Sunday evening for a lake trip down the lakes. After spending a month, she will return via the Twin Cities.

Michael Miller of St. Paul is a guest today at The Hotel Cody.

The West Duluth fire department had a run yesterday to put out a chimney fire at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Raleigh street.

The funeral of L. T. Brazeau, who died Wednesday at Fond du Lac was held at 8:30 o'clock this morning from the Flintstrault undertaking establishment and at 9 o'clock from St. James' Catholic church, with burial at Calvary cemetery.

The Catholic ladies of Proctor gave a card party last evening at the village hall. Prizes went to Mrs. Whitney of New York, Mrs. T. L. Ronayue, W. Allord and A. Burger.

Miss Anna Spenard has as her guest, her cousin, Miss Coranna Tonpin of Crookston, Minn.

A son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Gable of 1213 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

SAYS THAT BOYS HINDER WIRELESS

Admiral Schroeder Thinks Government Should Control All Service.

Washington, July 29.—Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, in his report of operation for the fiscal year ended June 30, urgently recommends government control of all wireless plants.

The Atlantic fleet made a great record in wireless transmission, the admiral reported. The flagship frequently took 200 messages a day, but the work was needlessly interrupted by commercial operators and schoolboys with amateur plants on shore. At times the wireless operations of the fleet were completely suspended.

Day signalling with searchlights has been highly developed in the fleet, and on one occasion in a thick fog a ship eight miles off was called back to her anchorage and the searchlight signals were read without the use of a glass.

"CONFUSED AND WRONG."

Henry E. Dixey, at a dinner at the Lambs', said of an actor who had failed in a new part:

"His idea of the part was so confused and wrong that it reminded me of Ferguson. Ferguson, you know, awoke one morning after a studio supper—you know what studio suppers are—and groaned and muttered:

"'Dear me, what a headache!'

"He screwed up his lips in disgust. The taste in his mouth was horrible. He thought he'd have a look at his tongue, and, reaching out for the hand glass, he took up by mistake a silver-backed hair brush.

"He stared at the bristles a long while, then he shook his head and said:

"'Fergy, my boy, you certainly do need a shave.'"

SURE MAN IS CRIPPEN

Captain of the Montrose Sends Message to Montreal.

Says Doctor Is Raising Beard and Has No Baggage.

Montreal, July 29.—The Montreal Star prints the following message, which it states it received this morning from Capt. Kendall of the Montrose:

"Steamship Montrose, July 28. To the Editors of Montreal Star: Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve, I am confident, are on board. He is still shaving his mustache growth, and he is growing a beard.

"Dr. Crippen has no idea his identity is suspected. The other passengers also are ignorant of his identity. Miss Leneve refrains from talking. The pair have no baggage.

Sleepless at Night.

"They cannot be parted and are very reticent. Dr. Crippen has stated that he has traveled much. He puts in much of his time reading books. He is very sleepless at night.

"I first suspected the identity of the couple two hours after leaving Antwerp, when I got the first clue.

"Dr. Crippen says with regard to his companion, who is disguised as a boy, that he is taking him to California. The boy, says the doctor, is in bad health. They spend much time in their room. Ordinarily they are bright and cheerful, but at times both show signs of decided worry. Dr. Crippen is booked as a merchant. The woman, disguised as a boy, is booked as a student.

"This is the first account given to any newspaper.

"KENDALL,
"Commander."

MARKET NOT SUPPORTED

Coppers Ease Off When Profits Are Taken on Bulge.

The copper market eased off today when buyers of yesterday took profits. There was some liquidation and the support which was present yesterday was totally lacking today. Toward the close shorts covered and stopped the decline. Rains in the Southwest caused buying in railroads and this reflected a better tone in coppers. The close was about 1 point lower, on an average, than yesterday's close.

The curtailment of copper production appears to be having some effect as consumers are increasing their present small supplies. One of the largest selling agencies has been asked to ship August immediately and September copper in August. The suit of the North Butte against the Tuolumne will not be pressed at this time, it is said.

Copper exports for the week ending July 28 were 5,538 tons, a decrease of 1,684 tons. In the month to date the exports have been 21,013 tons, a decrease of 12,806 tons. From Jan. 1 the exports have amounted to 148,520 tons, a decrease of 32,721 tons over the corresponding period last year.

A significant statement in the New York Post follows:

"There is a growing belief in Wall street that Amalgamated Copper does not exist. One may buy it or sell it, indeed, but one trades only in contracts. There has been no Amalgamated Copper stock in commission houses for so long that brokers have forgotten what the certificates are like. As for its being in the banks or in loan envelopes with the banks, one has but to mention that possibility to any bank to learn that there is no Amalgamated in loans any more."

Trading here was light. Copper Queen sold at 28c; Red Warrior at $2.43¾, $2.50 and back to the opening after selling down to $2.37½; Shattuck at $23; Amazon-Montana at $2.75; Calumet & Montana at 80c; Calumet & Sonora at $14 to $13.37½; Carman at 78c, and Cliff at $1.12½.

Amalgamated sold ex-dividend at $63.62½ to $61.87½, $62.75 and $62.50; Steel common at $69 to $69.12½, $67.50, $68.25 and $68; Butte Ballaklava at $11.25 to $11; Butte Coalition at $18, $18.50 to $17.87½; Greene at $6.87½ to $6.50; Giroux at $6.62½ to $6.25; North Butte at $23.87½, $24.25, $23.50 and $23.75; Superior & Pittsburg at $10.37½ to $10.50.

PEDDLER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

His Horse So Badly Wounded It Has to Be Shot.

A peddler whose name is believed to be I. Dekall, was thrown from his rig and badly bruised and his horse so badly injured that it had to be shot when the runaway rig of H. L. Chase collided with his outfit at Second avenue east and Superior street last evening.

The peddler was knocked to the pavement and the seat from his wagon pitched on his head, nearly knocking him senseless. The shaft of the Chase rig pierced the side of the peddler's horse. A vetrinarian was called and he promptly sent a bullet through the suffering animal's brain.

The Chase horse got away near Fourth avenue east and Superior street, when bridles were being changed in front of a harness shop. The animal is said to be rather wild, and as soon as it felt its head free it bolted westward down the main street. The peddler's rig was coming up Second avenue east and had just reached the pavement when the collision occurred.

Dr. J. J. Eklund had a narrow escape. By running his automobile onto the sidewalk over the curb in front of the Forward Furniture company's store he barely managed to get out of reach of the plunging runaway. Spectators state that scarcely an inch intervened between the electric runabout and the runaway. After the collision with the peddler's rig the Chase horse was captured. The dead horse was still lying on the pavement when city officials came to work this morning. It was removed by the health department, which also covered the big pool of blood on the pavement with ashes.

A YOUTHFUL JOKE.

"When Mark Twain was the editor of the Virginia City Enterprise," said an essayist at the Franklin Inn in Philadelphia, "a servant girl in the neighboring town of Lovelock unexpectedly fell heir to $300,000. Her name was Miriam Rogers.

"A day or two after the announcement, while all Virginia City and Lovelock hummed with Miriam's good luck, Mark Twain printed on the editorial page of the Enterprise this paragraph:

"'If Miriam Rogers, of Lovelock, who recently inherited a large fortune, will call at this office, she will hear something greatly to her advantage. We are a bachelor.'"

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed by Ira Beldin and Etta E. Beldin, his wife, mortgagors, to Editha M. McEwen and Thomas Murray Quick, mortgagees, bearing date the 21st day of February, 1908, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 24th day of February, 1908, at 3:15 p. m., in Book 219 of Mortgages on page 291, which said mortgage, together with the indebtedness thereby secured, was assigned to D. F. Tyler, who is now the owner thereof, by said Editha M. McEwen and Thomas Murray Quick by written assignment dated the 22nd day of April, 1910, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 29th day of April, 1910, in Book 188 of Mortgages on page 450.

Said default consists in the nonpayment of Four hundred dollars ($400.00), the principal sum named in the note referred to in said mortgage and secured thereby, together with (Seventy-five dollars and forty-five cents ($75.45) interest thereon computed to the day of this notice, and in the nonpayment of the taxes on the premises described in said mortgage, before the same became delinquent, amounting to the sum of Fourteen dollars and ninety-five cents ($14.95), which sum has been paid by said mortgagees and in the failure to keep the buildings on said premises insured according to the terms of said mortgage, which has been done by said mortgagees, for the sum of Twelve dollars and ninety cents ($12.90) which sums have become a lien on said premises and a part of the debt secured by said mortgage by the terms thereof.

By reason of said default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage.

There is claimed to be due and is due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of Five hundred three dollars and thirty cents ($503.30), including said taxes and insurance.

The property described in said mortgage and thereby mortgaged is situated in St. Louis county, Minnesota, and is as follows: Lot numbered six (6) in block two (2), First addition to Proctorknott, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said St. Louis county, Minnesota.

NOW THEN NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises above described, which sale will be made at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the Sheriff's office in the County Court House in Duluth, St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 13th day of August, 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage including the said amounts paid by said mortgagees for taxes and insurance and additional taxes, if any on said property and Twenty-five dollars ($25.00) attorney's fees as limited by statute instead of Fifty dollars ($50.00) as provided by said mortgage, together with the costs and disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of said sale as provided by law.

Dated June 30, 1910.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis—ss.

In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of John Garasz, Decedent.

THE PETITION OF Maryjanna Garasz of Duluth, Minnesota, having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that John Garasz, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of December 1909; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the surviving spouse of said decedent, and praying that letters of administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Maryjanna Garasz.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 15th day of August, 1910, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in the Duluth Evening Herald according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis county not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 21st, 1910.

By the Court,

WHEAT ON DOWN GRADE

Prices Slump on Receipts of Favorable Thrashing Returns.

Flax Shows Strength in Spite of Very Light Trading.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 29.—Wheat slumped today, cash markets being unable to stand up in the face of a heavy run of winter wheat. A few thrashing returns from the Northwest were more favorable than had been expected. Shorts covered in the July option at Chicago, sending values upward. Future deliveries were unaffected. All deliveries in all American markets closed lower.

July lost 1½c, September 1⅛@1¼c, December 1c and May 8/8c.

Flax displayed some strength, the futures acting in sympathy with July which advanced on short covering. Trading was exceedingly light. July advanced 6c, September 1½c, October 1½c and December 3c.

Cash wheat closed 8⅛c over September. Oats closed ⅛c off. Rye and barley were unchanged. Durum closed ⅜c off.

Wheat values opened easy and declined despite higher cables. The foreign markets did not have any effect on this slide, while the fact that durum wheat was being loaded here for export either was overlooked by the bulls or bearish influences were too strong for bullish sentiment to make any headway. About 250,000 bu of durum will leave this port this week for export by way of Montreal. About 50,000 bu of bonded wheat has been shipped. Of the 250,000 bu of durum wheat about 100,000 bu has left this port. The supply of durum is becoming comparatively small.

The main cause of today's weakness was the depressed state of the cash markets. Elevators reduced cash prices, which were quoted on the September basis. Elevators bid 6c over September for No. 1 northern, and mills bid 8c over. The demand was slow and only the very best stuff was taken. Thrashing reports from Southern Minnesota were scarce, but the few that arrived were more favorable than had been expected. The weather for harvesting is favorable, a factor that was not to slight bull. Harvesting is general in the south of the state and South Dakota and in occasional districts of North Dakota.

The bull market in corn appears to be at an end for the present, and the passing of the extreme bullish sentiment that pervaded the corn market for a few days produced a bearish effect on the wheat market. Most of the professionals are of the opinion that sufficient damage has been done to the Northwestern wheat crop to warrant higher prices, and many people favor picking up wheat on the breaks. Towards noon today values firmed somewhat, as there was moderate buying.

The July option showed strength. This was especially true of Chicago, where the July delivery marched forward as the futures were declining. The shorts, apparently, were getting under cover. In the face of what folks term a calamity in the Northwest, prices in Chicago are cheaper than at this time last year. The run of winter wheat as to primary markets was too great for bulls to combat, and the receipts were a potent factor in the weakness of the market. It is believed that the height of the run has been reached and that receipts will decrease next week. The bulls look for a stronger market next week. Hedging sales against wheat to arrive forced down the deferred months.

The Modern Miller's report was bullish and contributed to the firming of wheat values toward noon. The Modern Miller said that a percentage of the soft winter wheat in several states, notably Missouri, Illinois and the Southeast is light test, thin, shriveled and smutty.

Outside interest in the wheat market is at a standstill. The Northwestern market has received about all the injury that can be done to it unless a wet harvest materializes and there is little news to attract the public to the current delivery, which will probably go out of existence without fireworks.

Reports from Canada were more cheerful and Canadian yields are expected to be larger than early estimates. The damage in the provinces and the three states has been discounted, many traders think, until the outcome of the harvest is known. The bears think the yields in the Northwest may surprise many people. They cannot forget the unfavorable estimates and reports of the winter crop by the experts and the favorable yields which the crop made.

A weak grain was oats. The Eastern demand was poor and hedging sales against oats in the leading market were heavy. Country acceptances were said to be large. Reports from the country were bearish both as to yield and the disposition of farmers to sell. The weakness in the market caused some unloading of long lines.

July flax was strong on account of the short interest. Some shorts got under cover today, forcing values upward. The bulls say there is not enough seed to satisfy long accounts and they think there may be some excitement in the July option before it goes into history unless a private settlement is made. The deferred months did not display pronounced strength.

Broomhall cabled: Wheat opened steady and ⅛@¼d higher, being influenced by the steady American cables yesterday and light shipments from Argentina and Australia and unfavorable reports from Hungary. Cable giving 1,230 p. m. prices mutilated, awaiting confirmation. Corn opened weak, ½d lower on liberal shipments from Argentina and free Plate offers.

Hungary—An official report states rains are delaying harvest and causing damage to the crops. Estimates on wheat being reduced.

India—Shipments this week, 2,232 000 bu; last week, 1,600,000; last year, 1,-712,000. Broomhall predicts shipments next week from India at 1,072,000 bu..

Argentina—Weather has become favorable and reports indicate an increased acreage. Argentine shipments: Wheat, 1,072,000 bu; last week, 1,384,000; last year, 880 000; corn, 3,970,000 bu; last week, 2,983,000; last year, 3,137,000. Australian shipments: Wheat, 292,000 bu; last week, 264,000; last year, 208,000.

Wheat, after opening ¼@¼d higher than yesterday, further gained strength, with shorts covering on firmness of Manitoba offerings and an improved demand from the continent. At midday the market was steady and ⅜d higher than yesterday. Advance was checked by predictions of larger world's shipments this week. Corn, after opening ½d lower, further declined ⅜@½d on larger cargo offerings and reported rains in America.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bullish Foreign News Gives Wheat Prices a Lift.

Chicago, July 29.—Bullish foreign news helped to give an upward twist of prices of wheat today. Light shipments from Argentine and Australia and unfavorable crop reports from Hungary, were among the factors. Pit traders were short overnight, and seemed inclined to cover promptly. This desire was heightened by the fact that the nearby options in which there are large concentrated holdings showed the greatest strength. Offerings were light except at an advance. Then selling by longs became more liberal. Talk of probable larger world's shipments this week was of some aid to the bears in bringing about a reaction. The market opened at an advance of ⅛c to ⅝c. September started ¼c to ⅝c up at $1.01 to $1.04¼. On the ensuing decline, the price went back to $1.03⅜@1.03½.

Large receipts in Northwest and good reports from the Minnesota harvest fields cut considerable figures. Indications that the July shorts will get no important relief caused a temporary rally. The close was weak with September at $1.02⅜ to $1.02⅞, a net decline of ⅜c.

Cool weather led to general unloading of corn by longs. Country offerings of cash grain were notably increased. The market opened unchanged to ⅜c down with September at 62⅞@63⅜c, a loss of ⅛@⅜c. A rally to 63¾c was succeeded by a drop to 62⅝c.

There was heavy selling by the country, although for a while railroad reports as to crop damage in Oklahoma and Kansas occasioned a recovery. The close was weak at 52⅛c for September, a net loss of 1c to 1⅛c.

Although there was little hedging in oats, the market for that grain was easier in sympathy with corn. September opened ⅛@¼c off at 37⅛@37½c and declined to 36⅛c.

One of the largest packing companies was a seller of provisions. First prices were 5@5½c lower with the September option at $21.70 for pork, $11.62½@11.65 for land and $11.40@11.42½ for ribs. Additional declines followed.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Turn to New Low Levels on Liquidation.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—Liquidation made the market easier again today and prices declined to new low points on this downward movement. Liquidation was gradually made and light. Quotations were at the low point near the end of the session. July closed 2¼c below yesterday, September 1⅞@1¾c lower and December 8/8@¾c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased about 545,000 bu for the week, making the total about 2,829,876 bu or about 697,566 bu more than a year ago. Minneapolis today received 164 cars of wheat against 122 a year ago; Duluth 53 cars against 43 and Winnipeg 94 cars against 37. July opened $1.21½, high $1.21½, low $1.19¾, closed $1.19¾. September opened $1.12, high $1.12⅜, low $1.11¼, closed $1.11¼; December opened $1.10, high $1.10, low $1.09⅝, close $1.09⅞. Demand was lacking for everything except choice quality. No. 1 northern sold for ⅝c above the September contract.

Closing cash prices: No. 1 northern, $1.18@1.20; to arrive, $1.16¼; No. 2 northern, $1.15½@1.16½; to arrive, $1.13¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.12@1.14½; No. 3 yellow corn, 62@62c; No. 3 white oats, 41@42c; No. 2 rye, 72@74c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,540 tons; demand continued strong and in excess of the supply. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $20.00@20.50.

Flour—Prices were lowered again on account of the further decline in cash and future prices. Demand showed some improvement and prices held firm. Shipments, 40,643 bbl. First patents in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.70@5.90; second patents, $5.50@5.70; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.10@3.40.

Flax—Receipts, 5 cars; year ago, 1; shipments, 1. Demand continued strong for both spot and to arrive, flaxseed at the even Duluth September price. Closing price, $2.46¾.

Barley—Receipts, 9 cars; year ago, 5; shipments, 13. Offerings were unusually light but demand was very dull and barley was easier. Prices on both malting and feeding grades were quoted 1c lower. Closing range, 54@64c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, July 29.—Closing: Wheat—Spot dull; No. 2 red western winter, no stock; futures firm; July nominal; October, 7s 6¾d; December, 7s 7¼d. Corn—Spot firm; old American mixed, 5s 8d; do, via Galveston, 5s 7½d; new, kiln dried, 5s 7d; futures steady; September, 4s 9⅞d; October, 5s 9⅞d.

New York Grain.

New York, July 29.—Wheat—July, $1.07½; September, $1.08¼; December, $1.10¼. Corn—July, 72¾c; September, 72c.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 600; market generally steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 1,400; market 10c lower; range, $7.90@8.55; bulk of sales, $8.00@8.15. Sheep—Receipts, 600; market steady; lambs, $1.00 lower for the week; sheep, $1.50@4.00; lambs, $3.50@6.00.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 29.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 6 to 13 points in response to lower cables and rumors that one of the private condition reports now being prepared for publication was more favorable than those recently issued. July sold first at 15.90, but almost immediately broke to 15.30, a net decline of 68 points under scattering liquidation or a selling against belated arrivals of spot cotton at New York. The bulls seem willing to buy the July at the price of August, but the big break unsettled the whole list and the market during the middle of the morning was nervous and excited at a net decline of about 12 to 18 points on August and later positions.

Spot closed quiet, 70 points lower; middling uplands, 15.35; middling gulf, 15.60; sales, 71,951 bales. Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: August, 15.24; September, 14.15; October, 13.62; November, 13.53; December, 13.53; January; February, 13.46; March, 13.50; May, 13.55.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, July 29.—The condition of the treasury at the beginning of business today was as follows: Trust funds—Gold coin, $868,333,660; silver dollars, $480,582,000; silver dollars of 1890, $3,637,000; silver certificates outstanding, $489,582,000.

General fund—Standard silver dollars in general fund, $2,836,181; current liabilities, $105,153,493; working balance in treasury offices, $25,694,665; subsidiary silver coin, $20,279,436; minor coin, $1,144,-190. Total balance in general fund, $90,505,250.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Market Opens With Another Buoyant Rise in All Directions.

Weakness Develops in Special Stocks and Gains Mostly Lost.

New York, July 29.—The stock market opened today with another buoyant advance in all directions. Stocks immediately affected by the settlement with the Pearson syndicate, which became known yesterday, led the advance. Missouri Pacific jumped 2½; Rock Island and Wabash preferred 1⅝; Denver & Rio Grande 1½; Wabash and Southern Pacific 1⅛; American Car 1¼, and Union Pacific, St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper, American Hide & Leather preferred, Ontario & Western and Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis, 1. There were besides many substantial fractional gains. Canadian Pacific and Great Northern preferred moved contrary to the general trend, the former losing 1⅛ and the latter ¾. International Harvester also declined ¾.

Traits was pressure to realize profits which hampered the advance during the first hour. The market showed good absorption but the tone developed hesitation. American Agricultural Chemical rose 2, Kansas City Southern preferred, Denver & Rio Grande preferred and Pittsburg, C. C. & St. Louis 2, Rock Island preferred and Pressed Steel Car 1⅞, Atlantic Coast Line and Tennessee Copper 1½ and many others a point.

The disposition to take profits on advances held the market in restraint. The selling was not pushed on reactions and the trading became quieter than for several days. Belief that the settlement of the Pearson syndicate's difficulties had cleared the air. The easier tone of the corn and cotton markets were favoring factors. Mackay company rose 2¾, Toledo, St. Louis & Western declined 1¾. The tone was easier at noon.

Bonds were firm.

A break of 8 in Sloss-Sheffield Steel unsettled the market and prices began to yield. American Locomotive was carried down 2¾, Laclede Gas 1½, Reading 1¼ and St. Paul, St. Louis Southwestern preferred, Northern Pacific, Interborough Metropolitan preferred, United States Steel, Consolidated Gas, American Smelting and Colorado Fuel 1. Earlier gains were mostly wiped out.

Weakness in special stocks suggested further weeding out of disliked collateral in loans. The general list weakened in sympathy. Lacede Gas lose 3½; American Sugar and St. Louis Southwestern preferred, 2; Consolidated Gas, 1¾; Reading, 1⅛; Amalgamated Copper, 1¼ and Norfolk & Western, National Lead and General Electric, 1; American Steel Foundries advanced 1¾; Sloss-Sheffield Steel rallied 3½.

The market closed irregular and dull. Stocks met a point of resistance when Rock Island preferred, American Woolen and United States Rubber first preferred had made 1 point declines and Illinois Central, 1¾. The recoveries were moderate and came to a halt in face of the dull demand.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Jelunson & Case.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss.

In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Sarah M. Patterson, also known as Maggie Patterson, Decedent.

THE PETITION of Chas Shogron of Duluth, Minnesota, having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Sarah M. Patterson, also known as Maggie Patterson, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of Otter Tail, State of Minnesota, on the 23rd day of May, 1910, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is an officer of St. Louis County, which County is a creditor of said decedent, and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to H. B. Haroldson.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 22nd day of August, 1910, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required, at said time and place, to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 29th, 1910.

TWENTY NEGROES ARE KILLED IN RACE RIOT; THREE WHITES HURT

Maker of the Instrument Curses Indorser and Fight Is Started.

Sheriff and Heavily Armed Posse Are Sent to the Scene.

Palestine, Texas, July 30. — Twenty negroes are dead and three white men wounded thus far as a result of a race riot which began late yesterday at Slocum, Anderson county, about fifteen miles south of here. Communication is difficult, and further reports are lacking.

Sheriff Black and a large posse of citizens, all heavily armed, have gone to Slocum.

As far as has been learned here the trouble started over a promissory note, which was made by one of the negroes and indorsed by a man named Alford. The negro failed to pay the note, and Alford went to inquire the reason. The negro refused to explain, and began to curse Alford, declaring that no white man could "do" him.

Alford resented the negro's insults, and a fight started at once. Other negroes came to help the black and white men were drawn in on Alford's side until the fighting became general.

It is not know here whether the rioting was stopped or not.

MT. McKINLEY IS YET UNCONQUERED

Geological Society Expedition Also Turns Back From Its Trip.

Seward, Alaska, July 30.—It is creditably reported here that the American Geological society's expedition, headed by Prof. Herschel Parker of Columbia university and Belmore Brown of Tacoma, has failed in its efforts to climb Mount McKinley; that the expedition has turned back and that its members will arrive here within a few days.

Prof. Parker gives shortage of supplies as the reason for abandoning the effort.

The American Geological society's expedition started from Talkeetna a day later than the Portland Oregonian-New York Herald's expedition and went up the Chulitna in the power boat Explorer, built expressly for the party.

The Oregonian-New York Herald's expedition reached the summit of the mountain ascended by Dr. Cook and Edward Barrett and found the scaling of this peak easy enough, but it was ten miles distant from the summit.

SAVE CASSELTON, N. D.

Fargo Firemen Traveling by Special Halt Progress of Flames.

Fargo, N. D., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Covering the twenty-five miles between here and Casselton, N. D., in twenty-two minutes on a special train yesterday afternoon the local fire department probably saved Casselton from destruction by fire which starting in an oil shed and fanned by a stiff northwest wind, was rapidly getting beyond control of the department of that town.

The flames destroyed two business buildings and threatened the rest of the town. The Northern Pacific furnished a special train and a Fargo steamer and a couple of hose wagons answered the appeal for help. They had the fire under control half an hour after reaching Casselton. The losses: Casselton hardware store, $25,000; A. O. U. W. hall and Wrights' store, $20,000; Manen's millinery store, $8,000.

ESCANABA SCHOOL FIGHT.

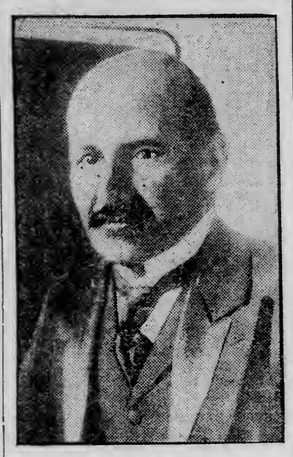

New Board Appoints Another Superintendent, Injunction Resulting.

Escanaba, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a controversy over the appointment of a superintendent of schools here which is developing into an interesting law suit. Supt. Davis, who has been head of the schools for six years, was recently re-engaged for a period of three years and the contract was duly signed. A new board was elected and it canceled the contract made by the old board with Supt. Davis. Davis was asked to resign but refused. Prof. F. E. King of Ames, Iowa, was appointed to succeed Davis, and the contract duly signed. The latest development is an injunction signed by Judge Flannigan of the circuit court, restraining the Escanaba school board from setting aside the contract held by Supt. Davis and appointing his successor.

LIVE WIRE HURTS BOY AND KILLS HIS MOTHER.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—Mrs. Henry Smith of this city, was instantly killed yesterday in an attempt to disentangle her 14-year-old son, Henry, from a live wire. While he was playing in front of his home, Henry went to investigate the end of a wire that was dangling from a pole. His screams attracted the attention of his mother, who rushed out to help him. Mrs. Smith grasped the wire with one hand and the boy's shoulder with the other, endeavoring to free him. Then she fell to the pavement dead. It is thought the boy cannot recover.

BIG INCOME FROM LIQUOR

Cities Receive Over Forty Millions in License Fees.

Statistics Show Four Thousand Fewer Saloons for One Year.

Washington, July 30.—Over $40,000,000 in the large cities of the United States goes to pay license fees.

The extent to which the drinking men help to pay the expenses of government in the cities is indicated by a census report covering the finances of the country for the year 1908 in the cities having a population of 30,000 or more. There were at that time 158 of such cities, but the complete figures were available for only 151 of them, and these figures showed that in those places the licensed drinking places paid an aggregate of $41,950,188. This was a gain of almost $3,000,000 from the preceding year and of about $11,000,000 over 1905. The increase was due to the large fees exacted by most of the cities.

Fewer by Four Thousand.

Of the drinking places sanctioned by law there are no fewer than 67,134, and this is a decrease within three years of about 4,000. The falling off was due largely to the fact that a number of cities went "dry." Of the 158 cities, 24 had become "no license" cities when the canvass was made. The change was most marked in the South Atlantic states and least in the Rocky mountain region.

The states claiming the largest number of saloons to the population were Texas, Wisconsin and New York, while Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Nebraska claimed the smallest number in proportion to the people to be supplied.

Galveston had one licensed bar to

CONFERENCE AT BEMIDJI ELECTS

Gathering Will Conclude on Sunday With Appropriate Exercises.

Bemidji, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Bible conference elected Rev. T. N. Finlay, Rev. S. A. Jamieson and Rev. R. S. Sidebothem directors to succeed Rev. Mr. Finlay and Rev. Mr. Jamieson, and as a third director. All three will serve until 1913. The board of directors chose D. K. Laurie as chairman and Rev. S. R. McKee as secretary until 1912. The officers of the conference are: Rev. F. G. Barackman, president; Rev. S. A. Blair, vice president; Rev. S. E. P. White, secretary.

Friday, Dr. Gaebelein gave a stirring address on "The Book of Job and Its Lessons." Last evening there was a splendid song service. A. M. Locker giving another fine address.

Today Dr. Gaebelein had for his subject, "The Second Psalm," the services being held in the afternoon; the forenoon being spent by those attending the conference in enjoying an outing of several hours. The doctor also spoke on "How to Read and Understand the Book of Revelations." A. M. Locker gave one of his popular talks. Tonight a sacred concert will be given in which all the singers of the city will participate. The conference will close tomorrow with addresses, both forenoon and evening by Dr. Gaebelein.

FINNS TO GO TO NEGAUNEE

Michigan City Will Entertain Big National Gathering Next Year.

Great Picnic at Ely Lake Proves the Crowning Event of the Week.

Eveleth, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday's afternoon's meeting of the Finnish national temperance convention was the largest attended of the week. Some more delegates from Michigan arrived, swelling the total number of delegates to about 150. The morning session was given over to general discussion, but in the afternon there was a contest over the place for holding the next convention in July, 1911. Negaunee, Mich.; Peabody, Mass., and Ironwood, Mich., all put in strong claims for the convention, but Negaunee finally won out. There was some spirited balloting for the executive offices for the ensuing year.

President M. Skytta of Ishpeming, was the only one of this year's officers to be re-elected. The others elected are: Grand vice president, Herman Guoma of Ishpeming; grand secretary, Kalle Mantylla of Gilbert; grand treasurer, Alex Pautti of Ishpeming; board of directors, Matt Manner, Hancock; Frank Mitson, Eveleth, and Judith Karonen, Ironwood.

Friday Evening's Concert.

In the evening a concert was given at Wahlon Lehde hall, and many addresses were given by the prominent men in attendance. Music was furnished by the Finnish band of Ishpeming, while the Virginia Finnish Glee club sang several songs. Miss Helma Lahti gave some piano solos. Miss Aima Hinkonnen, grand secretary, gave a few words of welcome. Vice President M. Toppari spoke at some length on the work of the society during the previous year and what it expects to do the coming year.

John R. Shields, the Minnesota state Prohibition committee's field secretary, spoke on "The Progress of Prohibition," showing how some of the states are

BIG MERGER ANNOUNCED

International Cotton Mills Corporation Formed in the East.

Has $20,000,000 Capital and Controls Twenty-Two Mills.

New York, July 30.—New England, New York and Baltimore mill owners, bankers and capitalists have incorporated the International Cotton Mills corporation under the laws of New York, with an authorized capital of $10,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock.

A statement issued by Myron C. Taylor, president of the new corporation, says that textile mills, sales and distributing agencies in this country and Canada which manufacture and sell 3,000 varieties of cotton cambrics are included in the merger. The properties consolidated represent twenty-two mills and thirty-five principal banks, owning 10,000 acres of land, part of which is under cotton cultivation, and employing more than 10,000 hands, with an aggregate annual output of approximately $18,000,000. Among them are the Stark mills of Manchester, N. H., the Mount Vernon Woodbury Cotton Duck company, the Consolidated Cotton Duck company, the Boston Yarn company, the Bay State Cotton corpora-

NO MORE FREE BEER FOR COPS

New York Policemen and Firemen Cut Off From Brewery Graft.

New York, July 30.—Mayor Gaynor has announced his determination to put a stop to the distribution of free beer to policemen and firemen by several big New York breweries. The practice was called to his attention in a letter from Fire Commissioner Waldo. The letter says:

"Yesterday evening a battalion chief, at my direction, visited a brewery on One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street for the purpose of determining what firemen, if any, were there. He found three firemen and fourteen policemen in full uniform. They were provided with a keg of beer, which two policemen, with their helmets on, were distributing to their comrades, acting as bar tenders."

According to officers of the brewing company, the practice the mayor is trying to stamp out is not new.

Entire Separation of Church and State Is Aim of Canalejas.

Madrid, July 30.—Excitement in the capital and throughout Spain over the conflict with the Vatican came to a head yesterday with the decision of Premier Canalejas to recall the Marquis Emilio de Ojeda, Spanish ambassador to the Vatican. Both the government and clerical parties have accepted the challenge, and the situation, complicated by the intrusion of Don Jaime, the exiled pretender to the throne, under existing conditions of ferment in Spain may easily develop as acute features as those of last year. Already the government is taking precautionary measures and prohibiting demonstrations from which disorder might result.

The clerical element, which often before has won similar battles in Spain, shows no hesitation in entering upon the conflict, and seems to have set its aim, not upon minor concessions and a compromise acceptable to the holy see, but upon the downfall of Canalejas and his cabinet and the cancellation of the entire program of reform.

Ostensible Issue Forgotten.

The withdrawal of the imperial decree permitting non-Catholic organizations to display the insignia of public worship, which furnishes the ostensible cause for the conflict and for the severance of diplomatic relations, assumes secondary importance. Premier Canalejas has fixed his eyes upon a modernization of Spain and the complete elimination of the clerical ele-

FEELS SURE OF HIS MAN

Says Messages Received at Sea Convinced Him of That.

Father Point, Que., July 30.—Chief Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard threw off his reserve to some extent today as to his plans in tracing the Crippen suspects. He remained in close communication with Chief McCarthy of the Quebec police department until late last night and again this morning the two men consulted on plans for the decisive stroke when the steamer Montrose arrives off Father Point.

To one of the press representatives who had been of personal service to him, Dew said:

"I am absolutely certain that the persons on board the Montrose are Dr. Crippen and the Leneve woman. The Laurentic was in touch with the Montrose on the way over and I received messages from Capt. Kendall which leave no room for doubt about the identity of the suspects.

"Crippen and the woman will be greatly surprised when I step aboard the Montrose and confront them, but my surprise will be just as great if the suspects turn out to be not the persons I expect."

Surprised the Inspector.

The incident of Inspector Dew's arrival yesterday was a subject of gossip and considerable amusement today. The Inspector had carefully concealed his identity on shipboard, and had pictured himself slipping into Canada as Mr. Dewhurst, a merchant of whom no one knew or cared anything. What was his astonishment when he merged stealthily from one of the freight hatches on the Laurentic's lower deck to hear himself greeted with a chorus upon the pilothead of "Hurrah for Dew!" The tug which came out to meet the man from Scotland Yard had brought to him forty-four newspaper writers, thirty-nine photographers, a river pilot and a few police officers.

The weather was cloudy here this forenoon but there was no fog and it is thought that the Montrose will make her expected time, arriving in port about 6 a. m. Sunday.

NEGRO IS HANGED FOR IOWA GIRL'S MURDER.

Fort Madison, Ia., July 30.—John Jukin, the negro convicted of the murder of Clara Rosen, a white girl, who was killed while returning from choir practice in Ottumwa in February, 1908, was hanged at noon yesterday in the penitentiary here. The negro made the following statement just prior to his death:

"I, John Jukin, now on the point of death, desire most sincerely to obtain mercy and forgiveness from God for all my sins. I like to ask forgiveness from my mother for the sorrow I have caused her and earnestly and sincerely ask forgiveness of the parents and relatives and friends of Clara Rosen for the pain I have brought upon them. May God have mercy on my soul."

LUMBER PLANT AND GRAND STAND BURN.

Asbury Park, N. FATAL FIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Miner Is Killed and State Trooper Is Severely Wounded.

Greensburg, Pa., July 30.—In a desperate hand to hand conflict last night, near the Export Coal mines, ten miles from this place, a striking coal miner was shot and killed and George Davis of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a member of Troop A, Pennsylvania state constabulary, was severely wounded. Nearly a score of others received minor injuries.

The battle between the strikers and authorities was fought out in the dark. The strike situation in the coal mines of this section is extremely grave. Rioting and the presence of state troops and deputy sheriffs are the result, it is said, of an attempt to unionize the Irwin district.

Maker of the Instrument Curses Inderser and Fight Is Started.

Sheriff and Heavily Armed Posse Are Sent to the Scene.

Palestine, Texas, July 30. — Twenty negroes are dead and three white men wounded thus far as a result of a race riot which began late yesterday at Slocum, Anderson county, about fifteen miles south of here. Communication is difficult, and further reports are lacking.

Sheriff Black and a large posse of citizens, all heavily armed, have gone to Slocum.

As far as has been learned here the trouble started over a promissory note, which was made by one of the negroes and indorsed by a man named Alford. The negro failed to pay the note, and Alford went to inquire the reason. The negro refused to explain, and began to curse Alford, declaring that no white man could "do" him.

Alford resented the negro's insults, and a fight started at once. Other negroes came to help the black and white men were drawn in, on Alford's side until the fighting became general.

It is not know here whether the rioting was stopped or not.

NO MORE FREE BEER FOR COPS

New York Policemen and Firemen Cut Off From Brewery Graft.

New York, July 30.—Mayor Gaynor has announced his determination to put a stop to the distribution of free beer to policemen and firemen by several big New York breweries. The practice was called to his attention in a letter from Fire Commissioner Waldo. The letter says:

"Yesterday evening a battalion chief, at my direction, visited a brewery on One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street for the purpose of determining what firemen, if any, were there. He found three firemen and fourteen policemen in full uniform. They were provided with a keg of beer, which two policemen, with their helmets off, were distributing to their comrades, acting as bar tenders."

According to officers of the brewing company, the practice the mayor is trying to stamp out is not new.

PREMIER CANALEJAS.

Entire Separation of Church and State Is Aim of Canalejas.

Madrid, July 30.—Excitement in the capital and throughout Spain over the conflict with the Vatican came to a head yesterday with the decision of Premier Canalejas to recall the Marquis Emilio de Ojeda, Spanish ambassador to the Vatican. Both the government and clerical parties have accepted the challenge, and the situation, complicated by the intrusion of Don Jaime, the exiled pretender to the throne, under existing conditions of torment in Spain may easily develop as acute features as those of last year. Already the government is taking precautionary measures and prohibiting demonstrations from which disorder might result.

The clerical element, which often before has won similar battles in Spain, shows no hesitation in entering upon the conflict, and seems to have set its aim, not upon minor concessions and a compromise acceptable to the holy see, but upon the downfall of Canalejas and his cabinet and the cancellation of the entire program of reform.

Ostensible Issue Forgotten.

The withdrawal of the imperial decree permitting non-catholic organizations to display the insignia of public worship, which furnishes the ostensible cause for the conflict and for the severance of diplomatic relations, assumes secondary importance. Premier Canalejas has fixed his eyes upon a modernization of Spain and the complete elimination of the clerical ele-

FEELS SURE OF HIS MAN

Says Messages Received at Sea Convinced Him of That.

Father Point, Que., July 30.—Chief Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard threw off his reserve to some extent today as to his plans in tracing the Crippen suspects. He remained in close communication with Chief McCarthy of the Quebec police department until late last night and again this morning the two men consulted on plans for the decisive stroke when the steamer Montrose arrives off Father Point.

To one of the press representatives who had been of personal service to him, Dew said:

"I am absolutely certain that the persons on board the Montrose are Dr. Crippen and the Leneve woman. The Laurentic was in touch with the Montrose on the voyage over and I received messages from Capt. Kendall which leave no room for doubt about the identity of the suspects.

"Crippen and the woman will be greatly surprised when I step aboard the Montrose and confront them, but my surprise will be just as great if the suspects turn out to be not the persons I expect."

Surprised the Inspector.

The incident of Inspector Dew's arrival yesterday was a subject of gossip and considerable amusement today. The inspector had carefully concealed his identity on shipboard, and had pictured himself slipping into Canada as Mr. Dewhurst, a merchant of whom no one knew or cared anything. What was his astonishment when he emerged stealthily from one of the freight hatches on the Laurentic's lower deck to hear himself greeted with a chorus upon the pitchdeck of "Hurrah for Dew!" The tug which came out to meet the man from Scotland Yard had brought to him forty-four newspaper writers, thirty-nine photographers, a river pilot and a few police officers.

The weather was cloudy here this forenoon but there was no fog and it is thought that the Montrose will make her expected time, arriving in port about 6 a. m. Sunday.

NEGRO IS HANGED FOR IOWA GIRL'S MURDER.

Fort Madison, Ia., July 30.—John Jukin, the negro convicted of the murder of Clara Rosen, a white girl, who was killed while returning from choir practice in Ottumwa in February, 1908, was hanged at noon yesterday in the penitentiary here. The negro made the following statement just prior to his death:

"I, John Jukin, now on the point of death, desire most sincerely to obtain mercy and forgiveness from God for all my sins. I like to ask forgiveness from my mother for the sorrow I have caused her and earnestly and sincerely ask forgiveness of the parents and relatives and friends of Clara Rosen for the pain I have brought upon them. May God have mercy on my soul."

LUMBER PLANT AND GRAND STAND BURN.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 30.—Fire which started last night in the dynamo room of a lumber company burned out the $100,000 plant and consumed several hundred feet of the big grandstand in the course of construction for the aviation meet to begin here Aug. 10. The total loss is estimated at $125,000.

FATAL FIGHT IN MINERS' STRIKE

Miner Is Killed and State Trooper Is Severely Wounded.

Greensburg, Pa., July 30.—In a desperate hand to hand conflict last night, near the Export Coal mines, ten miles from this place, a striking coal miner was shot and killed and George Davis of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a member of Troop A, Pennsylvania state constabulary, was severely wounded. Nearly a score of others received minor injuries.

The battle between the strikers and authorities was fought out in the dark.

The strike situation in the coal mines of this section is extremely grave. Rioting and the presence of state troops and deputy sheriffs are the result, it is said, of an attempt to unionize the Irwin district.

D. P. THOMAS IS SHOT BY WOMAN

Sturgis, S. D., July 30.—Attorney D. P. Thomas was shot and killed by Mrs. M. McMahon, widow of his late partner in the McMahon & Thomas law office, this morning. Mr. McMahon died a few months ago and it is said Mrs. McMahon wanted Thomas to vacate the law office. Thomas refused and this led to a wrangle.

IS MILITIA DAY AT NORTH DAKOTA FAIR

Troops Reviewed By Governor Burke Before Leaving for Sparta, Wis.

Fargo, N. D., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—This was militia day at the North Dakota state fair. The state troops are here en route to the national encampment at Sparta, Wis. They were reviewed this morning by Governor Burke and other officials and this afternoon indulged in a sham battle. A big horse racing card was on this afternoon, followed by automobile races.

Hancock, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Both Hancock and Bessemer are in the race to secure the 1911 tournament of the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association, which meets this year at Sault Ste. Marie. Hancock will probably land the next meeting. Calumet is receiving assistance from the eleven other fire companies of the Copper country in electing its candidate, Lydia Weidelmann, weighing 500 pounds, and believed to be the heaviest woman in the world, queen of the Soo tournament.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

E. A. LINDGREN.

Mr. Lindgren, who was unanimously indorsed by the Democratic county convention at Eveleth, July 23, has finally, at the urgent request of friends, decided to file for the Democratic nomination for the office of county treasurer. With his wide acquaintance in the city of Duluth, as well as in the range towns, he is certain to make a strong run, his friends say, and, in view of the situation in the county, is assured that he will be elected by a large majority. Mr. Lindgren will file next week.

MATCH WITH MINIKAHDA

Duluth Golfers Will Meet Team From Minneapolis Club.

Club Will Be Represented at Trans-Mississippi Tournament.

Arrangements are now being made between the Northland Country club and the Minikahda club of Minneapolis for a second game in the series for the beautiful cup put up by the local club two years ago, and it is probable that it will be played during the middle part of August.

This club was to become the property of the club winning the first two games. The first leg was won two years ago by the Minikahda club, in a contest which took place in this city. No game was played last year in this series, not on account of any lack of interest, but because arrangements could not be made.

The Duluth men are out for a victory this year, and plan on carrying the cup back with them. It was made for the club by Bagley & Co., and is one of the handsomest cups put up for play.

During September the second game between the Northland club and the Houghton club will be played on the local grounds. The first was played about a month ago at Houghton, when seven men from this club went down to defeat before the Copper country team.

The Northland Country club will be represented at the annual meet of the Trans-Mississippi Golf association, of which it is a member. The meeting will be held in Denver on Aug. 15 to 20, at which all the clubs affiliated will take part. This is the largest golf association in the West, and includes only clubs west of the Mississippi. The Duluth club is in it, as it is recognized as being on the banks of this river.

The team to be sent from here to that meet will be composed of six men, but these have not been selected yet. Announcement of the team will be made within the course of a week or so.

Efforts will be made by the Minikahda team of Minneapolis to secure the meet for next year. It has a strong following, and the chances for getting it to the Flour City are quite promising.

Today the match game against Bogey is being played at the local grounds, in which many are taking part. Considerable interest is manifested in these handicap contests.

The purchase of the land for the enlargement of the golf grounds was completed today, when Thomas F. Cole transferred the property to the club for $24,000. This is said to be $8,000 less than the real valuation of the land, and the members feel that, in selling it to the club, Mr. Cole has donated this sum to it.

The work of improving this land, converting it into a golf field is progressing rapidly, and it is believed that it will be ready for play in a short time. The present course is only a nine-hole field, and is too short a course for tournaments. The new field will be a nine-hole course, making the entire grounds a course of eighteen holes.

When completed it will be one of the best fields in the Northwest and the club will then be in position to extend invitations to the different associations of which it is a member, to hold tournaments here.

GRADY EASY FOR KENNEDY

Loren Kennedy won the semi finals this morning, from Powell Grady in the tennis tournament that is now being played at the Duluth Boat club courts. In the two sets Grady had little show, for Kennedy took them both by scores of 6 to 0 and 6 to 1.

The finals which were scheduled for this afternoon have been postponed until 4 o'clock Monday, when Kennedy will meet Dickerman, who is now at Kenora.

The finals promise to be interesting from the fact that Dickerman is one of Duluth's best tennis players. The winner in this contest will meet Max Washburn, who won the city championship last year. Arrangements for this championship contest will be made after the finals have been finished.

Kennedy has been wielding the racket with remarkable ability this season, and his many friends are predicting that he will carry off the city honors. Grady, who was defeated today is among the leaders in the tennis game and his decisive defeat by Kennedy was rather unexpected.

EVANS TWO UP ON MASON PHELPS.

Minikahda Club, Minneapolis, July 30.—Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater was 2 up on Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian at the end of the first eighteen holes of their final match for the Western amateur golf championship at the Minikahda club today.

Evans gained his advantage in the last seven holes as the first eleven were halved. Evans won the twelfth, fourteenth and seventeenth. Phelps was unable to win a hole until he holed a long putt on the eighteenth green, reducing Evans' lead to 2 up.

CLOQUET HOTEL IS POPULAR WITH MOTORISTS.

There are so few places about Duluth where the automobile parties may dine after an appetite-producing ride that the hotel at Cloquet, where Miss Lindberg, formerly of Duluth, is in charge, has become very popular with Duluth enthusiasts and the week-end parties that stop at the Hotel Cloquet are many. The drive to the little village is one of the most pleasant about Duluth and a delicious meal at the end makes a hit with the riders.

LEADS SLEUTH A MERRY CHASE

Harry Mont, wanted for stealing $200 worth of clothes in grips at the union station, was captured this noon by City Detective Herman Toewe, after an exciting chase down Michigan street, Fifth avenue west and into the railroad yards.

While the chase was on Detective Toewe fired a shot over the head of the fugitive to scare him. The unusual excitement attracted a crowd of several hundred people.

Mont stole the goods several days ago. They were left on the floor of the station by Joseph Konarich, who stepped away for a moment. When he returned he couldn't see them anywhere. He reported the matter to police headquarters. The next day the stolen property was located in a pawn shop, where a description of Mont was obtained.

Walking down Superior street this noon Detective Toewe saw the man standing on the lower side of the street between Third and Fourth avenues west. Walking over to him he put him under arrest. When he reached the patrol box at Third avenue west and Michigan street he discovered that he had left his keys at the station and started down Michigan street towards Fifth avenue to find a policeman. On the way Mont made a break for liberty. He ran three or four blocks before he was caught. He is charged with grand larceny and will be arraigned in police court Monday.

PETROS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Serafim Petros, the Greek wheelsman who shot John Hendrickson, a fireman, on board the steamer James Corrigan at midnight Thursday, was bound over to the next grand jury in police court yesterday afternoon. The evidence at the preliminary hearing showed that the prisoner and two firemen had a quarrel on board the small boat taking them to the Corrigan from shore and that the fight was continued on board the steamer. After it was apparently over Petros got his gun from his room at the opposite end of the ship, and returning, shot Hendrickson, after he had broken the panel of the door. The wounded fireman was reported improved at St. Mary's hospital today.

BUYCK MUST PAY FOR ROAD

By the affirmation of the decision of the local district court by the state supreme court, Hippolelt Buyck, alias Charles Buyck, must refund to the town of Buyck $9,161.95, which that town had paid over, presumably for the building of a road.

The action against Buyck, who was town treasurer, was brought by the town about two years ago, when it was discovered by the residents of the town that there was considerable juggling of finances.

It was shown that the town was practically run by the Buyck family, and when the matter of the financial management was brought to light, it was claimed by the people of the town that Hippolelt wanted to get out of the United States, and legal measures were taken to prevent his doing so.

Among the larger improvements proposed by the officers of the town was the construction of a road, and a bond of $22,000 was issued. About five miles of the road was built at a cost of $9,161.95, when the citizens suspected that something was wrong. This led to an investigation by county authorities, and was followed by the suit against Buyck for this amount.

A verdict was returned against Buyck in the district court, and an appeal was made by him immediately. The affirmation of the lower court's decision was received yesterday.

THE VICTOR RECORDS FOR AUGUST.

In the August list of new Victor records there are band and orchestra music, instrumental solos, grand opera arias, vocal and instrumental medleys from favorite operettas, popular songs, sacred music—everything that the heart desires, played and sung by the world's greatest artists. Pryor's band plays a bright and lively march by Mr. Pryor, to which he has given the unique name of "Affi March," and there is an irresistible swing about this selection which will appeal to every one. The Victor Light Opera company adds to its laurels by the two splendid records it has given of the "gems" from Victor Herbert's popular "Mlle Modiste," and from the most famous of all the Gilbert-Sullivan operettas, "The Mikado," which has been revived with great success in New York.

A haunting little comedy, "Every Little Movement," from Chicago's new musical production, "Madame Sherry," is splendidly sung by Lucy Marsh and Harry Macdonough. An interesting novelty is the first of a series of duets by Elida Morris and Billy Murray, a most entertaining darky song, "Angel Eyes," with an odd and effective chorus. Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth sing "Rosa Rosetta," an Italian dialect song, with which they made a phenomenal hit in the "Jolly Bachelors."

The month's records include solos by the great Fritz Kreisler, some fine double-face records and sacred songs, in fact something to please every Victor enthusiast.

RATTLER IN AUTOMOBILE.

Maryland Man Has Thrilling Experience in Wisconsin.

Stevens Point, Wis., July 30.—While on an auto trip, Mark S. Williams, Baltimore, Md., stopped near here to repair his machine. After the repairs were made, he reached in to turn on the battery. As he did so his eyes fell on a big rattlesnake coiled on the floor of the car at the foot of the steering gear. The angry head darted out, the fangs striking a portion of the heavy gauntlet on Mr. Williams' right hand, but without sufficient force to enter the flesh. Before the snake could strike again, Mr. Williams' hand was out of danger. The serpent soon was killed. It measured more than three and one-half feet in length.

KOOCHICHING FAIR.

This Year's Event at Northome Promises to Be Success.

Northome, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The officers of the Koochiching County Agricultural society are busying themselves with the arrangements for the third annual county fair to be held here, on Sept. 12 and 13.

It is the intention of the managers to make the 1910 fair the biggest and best ever held, and everybody should take hold and help to that end.

The premium list is being made up and will be ready for distribution in a short time. There will be about $1,000 to be distributed in prizes this year. All efforts will be put forth to arrange an especially interesting program for the entertainment of visitors duing the two days.

May Abandon Fair.

Laurium, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the scarcity of money, the Northern Michigan Agricultural society, organized a year ago for the purpose of holding Upper Peninsula fairs here each year, will probably be forced to give up the fair project this fall. Solicitors have met with very little encouragement in their search for funds and exhibits about the peninsula the past couple of months and the people of the Copper country towns are very apathetic toward the project.

RETIRES FROM BOARD OF GRAIN APPEALS

T. B. McMANUS.

After five years' service on the state board of grain appeals, T. B. McManus today severed his connection with the board, his term expiring.

Mr. McManus was appointed to the board by Governor John A. Johnson, and has made an excellent record. Before assuming his duties on the board, Mr. McManus had been a resident of Polk county for twenty-three years. Part of that time he lived in Crookston, and part of the time on a farm near Crookston. He was interested in the grain shipping business while there, and has been connected with the grain business practically all of his life. He has always taken an active interest in state development work, and during the last few years has been prominent in Democratic state politics.

MAY CONTINUE TO USE PLANT

John A. Johnson Must Not Damage the Laundry Company.

If he puts a canvas over the screen and a portion of the elevator of of his stone crushing plant; refrains from operating the plant when the wind is blowing from it toward the Peerless laundry; harnesses the apparatus so as to minimize the noise, and uses care so that the property of Henry A. Blume and the Peerless Laundry company will not be damaged, John A. Johnson may continue to operate his stone-crushing plant on First street, near Third avenue east.

The order was handed down by Judge Dibell in district court, in the injunction proceedings brought by Blume and the laundry company. They claimed that Johnson's plant emitted so much dust and dirt and made such noise that the business of the laundry company was injured and the property of Blume made almost untenable.

Johnson offered to screen the plant and use care in its operation and Judge Dibell dismissed the temporary restraining order with the modifications.

RECORDS ARE SHATTERED

Missabe Ore Shipments to Date Exceed 1909 By 2,000,000 Tons.

In the shipment of ore from the local harbor, all former records have been broken, according to reports just compiled by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company. Heretofore the year 1909 has been the banner season, but so far 1910 eclipses it by far.

The past week exceeds in shipments the corresponding week of 1909 by more than 200,000 tons, while the month of July this year has over 100,000 more tons to its credit. The greatest increase is noted in the shipments for the season to the first of August, showing that this year has more than 2,000,000 more tons recorded.

The following figures for the shipments of ore to the end of the month, are the official reports of the railway company: During 1910, for the past week, 589,380 tons; month of July, 2,346,510; for the year, 7,443,772. During the corresponding period of 1909,, for the week, 383,026, for the month, 2,249,410, for the year, 5,434,135.

The year 1907 was one of the largest years in the history of the company, but last year exceeded it by a considerable amount. The volume of business done so far this year, shows that the company has been making a remarkable progress.

The prospects for the rest of the season are very bright, and it is believed that the season will close with an enormous increase over the former year.

CLOQUET READY FOR EAGLES' MEET

Three Bands Will Be Present ---Chisholm Working Hard for Next Meet.

Cloquet, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the entertainment of the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles next week are as nearly completed as possible. They will receive a very hearty welcome to Cloquet. Three bands have been arranged for, one from Duluth, the Cloquet band, and the Chisholm band. Chisholm will make an effort to get the convention next year and the whole aerie is coming in a special car. About 300 delegates are expected. Following is the program as it has been arranged:

Tuesday, Aug. 2.

The forenoon will be devoted to meeting trains and assigning delegates to their rooms.

2 p. m.—Reception of delegates at Nelson opera house.

Address of welcome by Mayor C. I. McNair.

Response by State Presidest P. D. Winship.

Address by Rev. F. C. Coolbaugh.

Band concert by Cloquet band.

8 p. m.—Initiation of class of candidates.

Wednesday, Aug. 3.

9 a. m—Executive session of the state aerie at the Nelson opera house.

1 p m—Visiting points of interest in and about Cloquet.

3 p. m—Log rolling contest in Pinehurst park.

8:30 p. m—Fireworks display in Pinehurst park, followed by dance in park pavilion.

Thursday, Aug. 4.

9 a. m—Executive session of the state aerie in the Nelson opera house

2 p m—Executive session of the state aerie, election of officers, selection of city for holding convention next year.

3 p. m—Ball game, Chisholm vs. Cloquet.

Grand street carnival in the evening.

No fraternal order in Minnesota has experienced a more rapid growth than the Eagles, its present membership numbering approximately 10,000, distributed through eighty aeries. Financially the order is in good condition, as there is in the treasury of the different aeries from $300 to $10,000, and they pay out annually $25,000 to sick and disabled members and their widows and orphans. Minnesota was the first state to hold conventions, the present gathering being the seventh of the kind to be convened in the state.

TWO VERDICTS AGAINST CITY

William G. Wallace was awarded $600 and his wife, Ella C. Wallace was awarded $100 damages from the city of Duluth by a jury in United States court this morning for injuries they sustained on account of a defective sidewalk at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Sixth street last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace are residents of Saginaw, Mich. and were in Duluth on a visit when the accident occurred. They were crossing Sixth street at Thirty-ninth avenue west during a rainstorm when they stepped into a hole in the cross-walk. Mr. Wallace suffered a sprained ankle, while Mrs. Wallace sustained minor injuries.

A jury was drawn this morning in the last jury case to be tried at the July term of court, the appeal of the Duluth & Thunder Bay Railway company from the award of $4,000 made by the commissioners to the Northern Pacific Railroad company for a right-of-way across the Northern Pacific tracks in entering Duluth. The jurors not drawn on the case were discharged this morning.

CLOQUET MILLS RESUMING WORK

Temporary Shutdown Because of Low Water Has Happily Ended.

Cloquet, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sawing in the Cloquet mills will be booming about as usual Monday morning, as two more of Cloquet's big mills, the Cloquet steam mill and the Lover Norton, are to start up at that time and both for night and day runs, making four more full crews of men to go to work Monday.

Three band rigs will be kept going at both mills, but the gang saws will not be operated for the present. This makes five mills to start up within a week, as three mills resumed operations Monday.

The shut down which has made many people anxious over the business outlook, has been of comparatively brief duration, not a month long, and has therefore worked no great hardship for anyone. There has been much more rain at the headwaters of the St. Louis river than here, and men have been sent up to the pineries to see what can be done about getting out logs. The big landing at the end of the Mesabe Southern railway is the objective point of the drives. The railways have been broken and the dams on the Partridge and Embarass rivers opened. It is thought this will start the logs down the St. Louis, and if this is the case, the dam on the Whiteface river will be opened to assist in floating the logs. If this brings the logs down as far as the Cloquet river, the big dam on this stream will be opened and the head of water resulting from this will take the logs over the rapids at Brevator. On the Cloquet, between the dam and the St. Louis are 6,000,000 feet of logs, and bringing these logs into the St. Louis will help swell the up-river drive.

SUPERIOR GLOBE ELEVATORS ARE CLOSED DOWN

Shortage in Crops Puts the Grain Houses Out of Service.

Because of the short crop, the Globe elevators will be closed down Aug. 1, throwing several workmen out of employment and meaning a loss of several hundred dollars in fees to the state of Wisconsin for the receiving season.

It is expected that no more than 45,000,000 bushels of grain will be handled this year through Superior as compared with 60,000,000 bushels last year. Of the 45,000,000, the Great Northern elevators will handle about 30,000,000 bushels and the remainder will be divided among the Cargill, Itasca and Duluth-Superior Milling company elevators.

The Globe elevators, which will be closed down today employed eighty men during the rush season. The local office of the Peavy system, which controls the Globe elevators, has been closed in the board of trade building and removed to the Duluth headquarters of the concern.

McMAHON IS APPOINTED ASSISTANT DISPATCHER.

E. J. McMahon has been appointed as assistant chief train dispatcher succeeding W. H. Seidel on the Superior and Mesabe divisions of the Great Northern railway. He has already assumed his new duties with offices in Superior.

Mr. Seidel, has been transferred to the range district and now holds a position at Kelley lake.

Tearing Down Church.

Work of tearing down the old Hammond avenue Presbyterian church at the corner of Belknap street to make way for the proposed new church building was started today. The job is expected to take two weeks. If the weather permits, the new structure will be built this fall. Arrangements will be made this week to hold services elsewhere.

Grocery Store Fire.

Fire which broke out last night about midnight in the grocery store of Henry Berg on Grand avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets did considerable damage to a confectionery store owned by C. H. Lomquist at 4 Grand avenue. The damage will run over $1,000, the stock of both stores being badly damaged by water and smoke.

Will Remodel Theater.

At a cost of $5,000 the Savoy theater, 1113 Tower avenue, will be remodeled by constructing an addition on the rear and enlarging the present quarters. The contract for the work was let yesterday. Manager R. H. Hadfield has secured through Wildner & Wildner a five-year lease on the property.

Brush Fires Raging.

According to reports which were brought to the city yesterday, brush fires raged all day yesterday in the vicinity of Rockmont and Hines. Much property was threatened, but as far as has been learned none has been destroyed.

Many Permits Issued.

Building permits, covering improvements to cost $33,000, were issued today to J. J. Flinn, a Superior contractor. The permits are mostly for the construction of dwelling houses in various parts of the city, each to cost between $1,000 and $3,500.

EXPECT DECISION SOON IN THE SCHWITTAY CASE.

Marinette, Wis., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge E. Ray Stevens of Madison has returned from his vacation trip and a decision may soon be expected in the Schwittay disbarment case. Schwittay has announced himself a candidate for sheriff, in the event of his disbarment.

WANTS TO BE MISSIONARY

Wealthy Boston Youth Runs Away to Preach to Indians.

Mayor Fitzgerald Aiding in Search---Mother on Her Deathbed.

Joseph E. Hubbard, 15 years old, the son of a prominent family of Dorchester, Mass., is believed to be in or about Duluth on his way to the West to evangelize the western tribes of Indians.

Brought up in luxury the boy, it appears, has developed an overwhelming desire to act as missionary to the Red men. He left home early this month and nothing has been heard of him since, although he had no money and did not inform his parents of his intentions.

Mayor John T. Fitzgerald of Boston and Rev. T. I. Gasson, president of Boston college, are deeply interested in the boy and have been aiding personally in the search. Both have sent out letters asking that everything possible be done to locate him. They state that the boy's mother is dying under the strain.

Young Hubbard is described as being 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing about 120 pounds, with black hair and a full, refined face. When last seen he wore a dark corduroy knickerbocker suit.

It is believed that he may be found on some reservation in this vicinity. It is stated that he is very fond of horses and that if he is compelled to seek employment he will likely look for work at a place where horses are kept.

Await Wednesday evening, Aug. 3, when sale of lots in Colman's addition to Woodland begins.

GOVERNMENT ACQUIRES SITE

Virginia Property Owners Are Awarded $17,852 By the Court.

An order affirming the award of the commissioners and decreeing that the land in question be taken over by the government on the basis of the award and filed by Judge Page Morris in United States court this morning in the matter of the condemnation of the site for a federal building at Virginia.

The site will cost the government $17,852 in all, Victor Nelson being awarded $1,600, John Curry $8,700 and P. A. Coffey $6,000, the remainder being distributed among lessees and holders of interests in mineral rights.

RAILROADS

CROSBY WILL BE ON NEW SOO LINE.

All fears that the town of Crosby would not be served by the Soo line was dispelled yesterday when the people of that town received a letter definitely stating that the branch now being constructed in that vicinity would pass through it, and that moreover, this new and promising town on the Cuyuna range would have the finest station on the new line.

For some time it has been understood that the branch would pass two miles away from the town, passing through a rival town. It is said that this rival town has been advertising this fact quite strongly of late, much to the annoyance of the Crosby people.

The information of the building of the line into Crosby was given out by President Pennington, of the Soo line, in reply to a letter written him by George H. Crosby, who stated clearly all the conditions.

ADJUST ALL DIFFERENCES.

Pennsylvania Railroad and Men Agree on Terms.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—"All differences between the Pennsylvania Railroad company and its men on lines west of Pittsburg have been satisfactorily adjusted."

This statement was made by General Manager G. L. Peck of the lines west last night, following the concluding conference of nearly three weeks of negotiation. A new wage scale was signed which covers technicalities in working conditions of which the men complained. The basis of adjustment is practically the same as the New York Central award, with wages slightly higher, according to G. H. Sinee, vice president of the Order of Railroad Trainmen.

More Demand for Cars.

Chicago, July 30.—An improved demand for cars and a consequent reduction of the surplus of 9,320 cars is noted in the fortnightly statement of surpluses and shortages of the American Railway association. The total surplus is now 134,914. There was a slight increase in the shortage, but it was so scattered and light as to lack importance.

ENGINE JUMPS TRACK.

Enginemen Leap for Lives at Ironwood, Being Bruised.

Ironwood, Mich., July 30.—Special to The Herald.)—A switch engine on the Soo railroad was derailed near the old Northwestern main line yesterday. The engine was backing up at quite a high speed to make the Ashland mine hill with a train of empties, when it jumped the track and rolled down the embankment. Both engine men jumped and escaped being crushed under the locomotive, although Engineer Reider injured his back when he struck the ground. The cars piled up on and around the engine.

IRONWOOD SCHOOLS SUE BONDING COMPANY.

Ironwood, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.) — Henry Rowe and Matt Fitzimmons left Thursday for Marquette to represent the school board in the case against the bonding company, which refuses to pay anything towards the school loss in the defunct First National Bank of this city.

ACTIVITY IN BUILDING

Inspector's Figures for July Show Increase Over 1909.

The total amount of building done in Duluth thus far this year exceeds that of the same period for last year in estimated cost by $338,065, according to the report completed today by Deputy Building Inspector Adolph Anderson.

The total estimated cost for work done the first seven months of 1910 is $2,017,544 as compared with $1,679,479 for the same time last year. This year 907 permits have been issued as last year. During July the building inspector's office issued 134 permits for improvements estimated to cost $266,955. Last July 131 permits were issued for improvements estimated to cost $182,965.

EIGHT LIVE IN ONE ROOM

Duluth Doctor Presents Pitiful Case of Destitution to Citizens.

The following letter was received by The Herald today. It is self explanatory.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A word through your columns to make an appeal to my friends and all charitable people of Duluth in behalf of a family in great need.

The family consists of a mother and seven children, the oldest, an invalid girl, aged 14, and the youngest 3 years old. This family of eight persons is living in one room in a most unsanitary condition, and with only $10 a month to feed them. I know this family well. I have been present at the birth of every child, and I unhesitatingly make this appeal for aid. If interested call on me or drop me a card, and I will call on you and explain the situation fully. Do not send me anything until you have talked with me, as it is cash we want.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and delivered by Martin Johanson, sometimes spelled Martin Johnson, an unmarried man, mortgagor, to Gust Carlson, mortgagee, dated May 26th, 1909, and recorded in the Register of Deeds office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on May 26th, 1909, at 9:45 o'clock A. M., in Book 267 of Mortgages, on page 135.

Said default consists in the non-payment of Four and 90-100 Dollars, ($4.90) the annual instalment of interest due May 26th, 1910.

By reason whereof said mortgagee has elected to exercise the option given by the terms of said mortgage to declare and does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable.

There is claimed to be due and is actually due on said mortgage at the date of this notice, the sum of Eighty-six and 65-100 Dollars ($86.65) principal and interest and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, viz:

Southeast quarter (SE¼) of the Northeast quarter (NE¼) of Section nineteen (19) in township fifty-one (51), North of Range sixteen (16), West of the Fourth Principal Meridian, according to the Government survey thereof. Which said premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, at the office of the sheriff in the Court House in the City of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 6th day of September, 1910, at ten o'clock A. M., at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and taxes if any and Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) attorneys fees, stipulated for in said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption within one year from date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, this 23rd day of July, 1910.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

In Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of Nathaniel O. Abrahamson, Decedent.

THE PETITION OF William M. Abrahamson of Duluth, Minnesota, having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that Nathaniel O. Abrahamson, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May, 1910; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is the father of said decedent, and praying that Letters of Administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to William M. Abrahamson;

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 22nd day of August, 1910, at ten o'clock A. M. and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this Order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this Order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 25th, 1910.

By the Court.

J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.

(Seal, Probate Court, St. Louis County, Minn.)

MUST TEAR DOWN BARN

Fire Commissioners Say Old Stewart Stable Is Menace.

The board of fire commissioners declared at its meeting last night that the old Stewart livery barn on West Second street, between First and Second avenues, must be removed.

No definite steps were taken towards causing it to be torn down, but it was agreed that it is such a menace that it cannot be allowed to stand.

The ramshackle old structure has been an eyesore to the neighborhood for several years. It has been condemned and cannot be used for anything. It is said to be a loafing place for disreputable characters, and it is claimed that children have been learning immorality there.

The tumble-down affair is dry as tinder. Being large and susceptible to almost any small spark, the fire board believes that it is a serious danger to the block in which it stands. There is scarcely any doubt but that fire once started there would spread rapidly, setting many adjoining buildings on fire.

So rapidly has the city grown the last few years that the members of the fire board and Chief Randall state that new buiddings and additional equipment will be needed if the city is to have adequate fire protection. Sections which had but two or three houses a comparatively short time ago are now quite thickly settled. They are a considerable distance away from the fire departments in most cases.

The board roughly estimated that in order to take care of the department's needs next year at least $170,000 will be needed. Last year the levy was $157,000. Another meeting will be held before the conference committe convenes Aug. 20 to take final action upon the question.

A new hall is needed badly at Lakeside. The present hall is a disgrace to the city, being old and rotten, unhandy, insanitary and little better than nothing. Another is desired in the vicinity of Fifth or Sixth avenue east and Seventh or Eighth streets to take care of the thickly populated hillside. Each of these, it is estimated, would cost about $10,00. The equipment would also cost considerable. About 4,000 feet of new hose is needed, as is a combination chemical and hose wagon.

Giving the men one day off in seven brings the salary list up between $7,000 and $8,00 0a year. A new repeater is also needed at headquarters. The chief's monthly report dealt largely with routine matters.

Proper Treatment for Dysentery and Diarrhoea.

The great mortality from dysentery and diarrhoea is due to a lack of proper treatment at the first stages of the disease. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a reliable and effectual medicine, and when given in reasonable time will prevent any dangerous consequences. It has been in use for many years and has always met with unvarying success. For sale by all druggists.

The most meritorious sale of real estate ever inaugurated in Duluth, will begin on Wednesday evening, Aug. 3, when Colman's addition to Woodland will be thrown open to buyers. $1 down, no interest plan. Investigate.

HEALTH OF CITY GOOD

Duluth is probably "healthier" this summer than any other city of its size in the country.

Contagious diseases are lower than they have been for years. The pesthouse doesn't contain a single case of smallpox or scarlet fever. The entire city has less than half a dozen cases of diphtheria and has only twenty-six cases of scarlet fever. Part of the scarlet fever cases are at the new contagious pavilion at Fourteenth avenue west and Third street and part of them are guarantined in their homes. The emergency hospital at the poor farm is vacant and is being thoroughly renovated throughout by Supt. Neil McDougall. The winter was a hard one on the health department. Most of the time they had over 100 cases of scarlet fever and thirty or forty diphtheria patients under quarantine constantly, with about a dozen cases of smallpox at the pesthouse. They came down gradually in the spring and when the schools closed the drop was very pronounced. Although many bitter complaints regarding sanitary conditions were made during the hot weather, Duluth is generally clean. Had this not been true much more sickness would have been reported during the hot days than was the case.

BRANDT IS RELEASED

Upon bail furnished by friends, Frederick Otto Brandt, bound over to the grand jury for the killing of Emil Lueck, was released from jail, yesterday.

It is understood that the prosecuting attorney considers the case against the accused man, as being rather weak, and some doubt is entertained whether he will ever be brought up for trial.

Emil Lueck died early Monday morning as the result of the heavy loss of blood from the severance of the femoral artery. This wound he received in a scuffle which occurred between him and Brandt a few hours before, following a quarrel they had had in the Maccabee hall, where both had attended an entertainment.

The bond on which Brandt was released was only for $1,000 and was signed by R. E. Patterson, Charles Christy and two others.

The grand jury will meet during the first part of September, when the case will be presented.

Decide ON CROSLEY PARK

Six weeks ago we sold 200 lots in Crosley Park in just four hours. So many people were disappointed at that time in being too late to buy that we have decided to offer the remaining ONE HUNDRED LOTS at the same rediculously low prices. We anticipate they will be sold in one day, and when they are gone the last opportunity to secure beautiful choice building lots at rock bottom prices will be gone.

Your fare refunded if you come and see these lots. No inconvenience for you. It is your last opportunity to buy CROSLEY PARK LOTS.

POSITIVE FACTS

Crosley Park Lots are 75 feet wide by 140 feet deep, affording the best building opportunities.

Many lots are 100 feet wide, 140 feet deep. The large size of these lots insure a more home-like locality with chances for spacious lawns, etc.

We have at a large expense extended the water and gas right to the property.

Crosley Park is level, high, dry and stoneless.

Crosley Park is not barren; Crosley Park is productive of luxuriant growths of fine trees and shrubbery.

Crosley Park overlooks the lake. Every lot affords a perfect view of Lake Superior.

Investigate these important facts in other properties. We can say that NONE has all, if any, of these advantages.

Crosley Park has sold and will sell because it has the best selling qualities of a good homeland.

PRICES—$50 to $400—Only $1 Down and $1 Weekly.

This sale will be in progress all day Sunday, and we will pay your car fare both ways if you will come out.

Get a Gold Certificate from our agents on the grounds. They are worth real money, in payment on lots.

Take Lakeside car, get off at Fifty-fourth avenue east, and we will meet you there with automobiles or rigs and take you to the property.

ON THE IRON RANGES

WORK PROGRESSES ON HIBBING BLOCKS

Basements of Reed-Pearce and Corcoran Buildings Are Now Completed.

Hibbing, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The basements of both the new Reed-Pearce and Corcoran blocks have been finished and work started on the superstructure. The first story of the Reed-Pearce building is almost completed. These buildings are both located on Third avenue on the south side of the track and when completed will add greatly to the business aspect of that portion of the city.

The Graham Young company of this city has just secured the contract for the building of a new school building at Gilbert. It is stated that the new building is to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Ezra Rust, owner of the Rust mine, accompanied by George L. Burrows and Ernest Goff of Saginaw, Mich., returned to their home Friday in their private car, after spending the past few days in this city, inspecting the mine.

E. C. Kleffman returned home Friday from Duluth.

D. O'Brien and B. F. Forrestal of Duluth, who are representing the Mountain Iron Mining company at Buhl, are in this city.

J. D. Rundell left today for his home at Calumet, Mich., after visiting here.

Judge Hughes and Clarence Dwyer returned Friday evening from Virginia, where they have been attending court.

Supt. Blair of the public schools has returned from a two weeks' visit to Eastern cities.

Miss Ethel Grenier returned Friday evening from Milwaukee and other cities.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Kreis returned Friday evening from Minneapolis.

Mrs. W. E. Lynan will leave Sunday for Cleveland and Chicago for an extended visit with relatives.

Mrs. William Bolan returned Thursday evening after visiting with relatives in Michigan.

Mrs W. B. Benson left Friday for her home in Chicago after spending the past two weeks with her mother, Mrs. W. Murray.

George Stevenson returned friday from Eveleth.

Mrs. S. Hooper and daughter, Leona, left Friday for an extended visit at Ishpeming, Mich., with relatives.

GILBERT'S PLANT NEARLY FINISHED

Gilbert, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water works system here is almost finished. The work in the Gilbert part proper put in by Pastoret & Lawrence has been finished about a week while that being done for the former Sparta residents in the First addition to Gilbert by the Oliver Iron Mining company, should be finished in a week. About 7,000 feet of water pipes are being placed and the town will be well taken care of in that line.

The question of electric lighting is being discussed and it is very possible that a locally owned electric plant will be put up and a franchise secured which will allow the city to buy the plant after a certain term of years. At present the electricity is being secured from the Gilbert mine. The water is being pumped from the Genoa mine two miles away.

GRAND JURY PRODS VIRGINIA POLICE

Virginia, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mayor and the police of Virginia were given a sharp reminder by the grand jury here yesterday that the law relative to the sale of liquor on Sundays and after hours must be enforced.

The jury, yesterday afternoon, adopted the following resolution after being waited upon by local Good Templars, who claimed the law was being violated:

"Whereas, information has come to the grand jury that the liquor laws in regard to Sunday closing and keeping open after closing hours are being violated in the city of Virginia;

"Therefore, be it resolved that it is the sense of the grand jury that the mayor and police of said city make a thorough investigation of this matter and see to it that such laws are strictly enforced."

Many Indictments Returned.

The grand jury reported the following indictments:

Pasquale Etigerdille, grand larceny, second degree; Matt Kurn, assault second degree; Milo Tonson, carrying concealed weapons; Joseph Judnik, assault, second degree and assault first degree; Fred Susnik, assault first degree; Dave Merelak and Katy Sahsl, adultery; Anton Spanicha, arson first degree; Eli Rojatic, assault second degree; John Hendrichson, indecent assault; Sadie Dillon, murder, first degree, having shot her husband at Hibbing several weeks ago; Dyseppi Surlini, murder, first degree; Pete Carishamitz, assault first degree.

WILL USE MOTORS IN HAULING ORE

Eveleth, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not only will the No. 4 Spruce shaft have a steel trestle to the stock pile, but it is expected that such a trestle will be put in at the No. 6 Adams. The cement piers are already up for the trestle at the No. 4 Spruce and the steel is on hand. It will be between 125 and 150 feet long. From good authority it has been learned that the use of the motors on the trestles to haul the ore cars to the stock pile instead of by the cables as at present will mean the employment of more men underground at the No. 4 Adams and likewise if the steel trestle is placed at the No. 6 Adams. In past winters the underground work has been retarded on account of the inability of the cars on the trestle to take care of what might be taken out. The new trestles will be in by the time the shipping season ends, so that the work in the two shafts will be more this year than in any year before. As the other shafts and the Adams open pit are working full force, a good winter is looked for. The new Leonidas shaft is now down exactly 222 feet on good authority. The work of sinking the shaft has been retarded by the recent heavy fall of rain. This new shaft will be the first steel shaft around Eveleth.

Chisholm Woman Dead.

Chisholm, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.) — Hilda Gorsberg, aged 25, wife of Eric Gorsberg, is dead, of tuberculosis. She leaves her husband and one child. They lived at the Hartley location.

CHISHOLM HAS BUILDING BOOM

Chisholm, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are twenty-eight new residences under construction in Chisholm. The citizens here maintain that in consideration of the extraordinary building that followed upon the fire of 1908, the present rate of new buildings going up indicates a very healthy as well as a steady growth for their town. The indications are that the erection of new buildings will continue to be active until the cold weather sets in.

Epidemic Among Children.

Physicians report a slight epidemic of intestinal troubles among children under 3 years of age. No deaths have been known excepting the 6-month-old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Bernat of the Monroe location, who died Thursday.

The prevalent illness among the children is somewhat similar to that experienced in Hibbing some weeks ago, but here the cause is attributed to the abundance of flies instead of any impurity in the water. A special effort is to be made to check the disease.

M. J. Thompson received a message announcing the death of his uncle, J. Thompson of Taylor, Wis. The deceased was well known here, having visited Chisholm many times. He was a prominent member of the G. A. R.; he fought in the battle of Gettysburg.

Dr. J. Pengrilly of Hibbing, member of the Rood hospital staff, is substituting at the Chisholm hospital in the place of Dr. E. H. Nelson, who is on a vacation in the southern part of the state.

Two Saloons Are Closed.

James Garland and Lawrence Kovac, saloon keepers, had their saloons closed by the local authorities on Thursday for violation of the laws regulating the conducting of a saloon. Garland's license was revoked for keeping women on his premises; and Kovac lost his chance to run a saloon for selling liquor to minors.

Mrs. J. D. Williams, widow of the late J. D. Williams, who some two months ago was run over by a train in Hibbing and killed, has received a check of $1,000 from the Modern Woodmen of America, in which fraternal society he had just a little previously insured his life.

The Euclid mine, east of town and bordering on Lake Longyear, which has been shut down for the last two weeks, will resume operation again on Monday morning, Aug. 1, with its usual crew of men. A. B. Coates of Virginia is manager and principal owner.

Nels Nelson, one of the local plumbers, has just completed a residence on Chestnut street, modern throughout. Dr. Joseph Shellman's new home on Elm street is about completed and work is being rapidly pushed on the Frank Austin house which is the next one to it on the west.

TWO HARBORS IS FIXING STREETS

Two Harbors, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The macadamizing of Cedar and Poplar streets is progressing rapidly since the completion of the new crusher plant. Mr. Clough of Duluth, who has charge of the cement work, has completed the curbing on Cedar street and is now laying the cement walks on Poplar street. As Poplar street is all torn up, the work is being pushed as rapidly as possible before any rain comes. When this is completed the streets of Two Harbors in the business and part of the residence section will be in first-class shape.

Ore Shipping Falls Off.

The ore business has slacked down from the good beginning as now the receipts per day are lower than those of last year at this time. The receipts per day for 1910 are 52,812 tons, compared with that of 1909 at 55,652 tons. In July, 1909, 1,335,667 tons were received, while this year there were received for July 1,214,693 tons, which is over 100,000 tons behind that of last year. The receipts for this season are ahead of those of last year by 700,000 tons, this year's receipts being 4,146,913 tons, while those of 1909 were 3,359,937. There are thirty-one crews on and they are running steadily.

The Two Harbors baseball team will play the Virgina team Sunday at the local park, a double-header.

BROTHERHOOD MEET.

Annual Gathering of Range Members Held at Bovey.

Bovey, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Modern Brotherhood of America held their convention of 1910 in the Eagles' hall, concluding with a banquet given at the Whitmas hotel and and a dance in the Eagles' hall after the banquet. There were many members from the neighboring range towns. Last year the convention was held in Hibbing.

GOOD MONEY IS BURNED.

Chisholm Woman Loses $50 in Cash When Building Burns.

Chisholm, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the building that was burned on Wednesday in the sawmill location, Nellie Fager, who roomed at the house, had a roll of bills amounting to $50, burned up. She had this money hidden in the floor and for some reason was unable to get at it. The furniture in the house for the most part was saved, but the building was burned to the ground. It was insured for $500.

NASHWAUK TO PAVE.

Main Thoroughfare of Village to Be Greatly Improved.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of removing the telephone poles from Central avenue by George Lindsey, superintendent of the water and light plant, has been finished and bids will be opened for the paving of the main thoroughfare at the next meeting of the council.

Fred W. Cram, formerly president of this village, has moved to Hibbing, leaving a vacancy. Dr. John Shellman has been spoken of to succeed Mr. Cram in this office for the remainder of the year.

Archie McWilliams, county commissioner of this district has a force of men at work building a new highway from here to Swan lake. This road cuts off almost a mile to the lake from this village which will be more convenient for the many tourists who visit there during the summer.

Trezona Funeral Monday.

Ely, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Frank Trezona, the mining man for several years a local resident, who died Wednesday of Bright's disease, aged 50, will take place on Monday, the body being held awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Trezona's mother from Utah.

TAKING SPECIAL COURSES.

Three Virginia Teachers Are Studying in New York City.

Virginia, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Anna Olund and Julia Stone, kindergarten teachers at the Johnson school and Miss Evelyn O'Neil, grade teacher at the Roosevelt building, are taking special courses in educational work in New York city. They will return to Virginia in time for the opening of the schools in September with far better knowledge of the work of instruction to the little ones as introduced in the New York colleges.

The high school students gave a party Tuesday evening in the Fay opera house. Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Poirier and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. McLean chaperoned the party.

SWAMP DELAYS WORK.

Many Loads of Ballast Required to Secure Foundation for Rails.

Hibbing, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new track being built by the Missabe road from one mile south of town to the town of Silica, is progressing slowly because of the swamp conditions. Several crews of men are kept constantly at work and many hundred loads of ballast have been used so far in order to obtain a solid road bed. This road is being built for the purpose of aiding the ore shipping facilities of the Mitchell yards. It is the intention of the company to use this road for the shipping of ore only.

EVELETH BURGLARY.

Thirty Suits of Clothes Taken From Tailoring Establishment.

Eveleth, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bayrose Tailoring company's sales rooms, next to Rylander's saloon, were entered early yesterday morning and thirty suit cloths, valued at $25, were stolen. Entrance was effected through the back. No clue has been found to the burglars.

MANY TEACHERS ATTEND.

The contest will be held next February, here during the session of the state legislative assembly. Superintendent E. M. Sherry of the Rolette schools is in charge of the contest arrangements.

To Start Virginia Paving.

Virginia, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cement foundation, preparatory to the paving with creosote blocks for one block north and south of Chestnut street on Wyoming avenue has been completed and the laying of the blocks will probably be begun next week. Work of laying the cement foundation on the other avenues has already been begun and the work will progress as rapidly as possible.

WISE WORDS.

A Physician on Food.

A physician out in Oregon has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

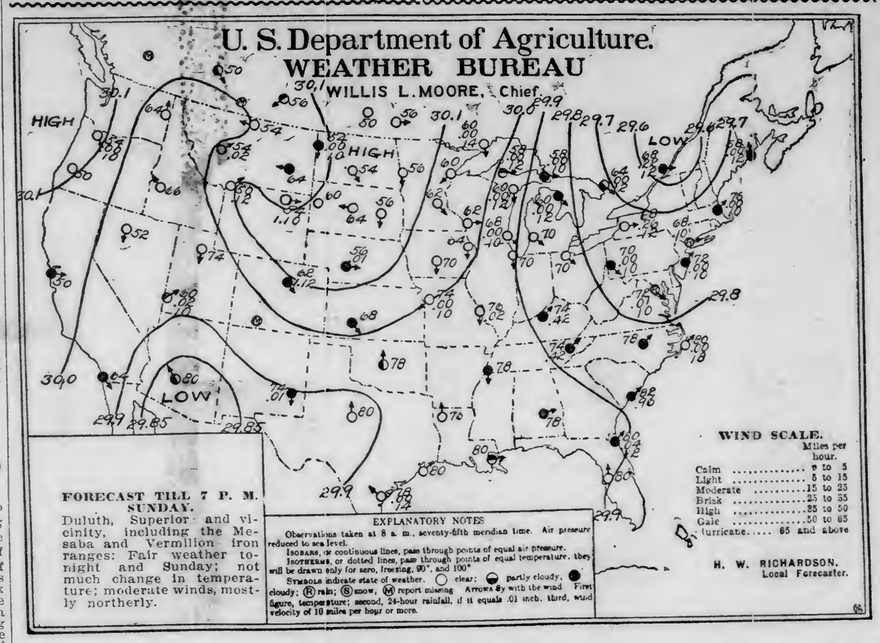

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach especially at breakfast to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work. In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream and I think it is necessary not to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than twenty years treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

Duluth is still enjoying delightfully cool weather, while other parts of the country are sweltering under temperatures of from 80 deg. to 100 deg. in the shade, and not much shade either.

The highest temperature recorded in Duluth during the past twenty-four hours was 76, and the mercury got down as low as 54.

The weather man looks for the present conditions to continue for the next twenty-four hours.

A year ago today it was fair and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 4:45 and will set at 7:44, making fourteen hours and fifty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Temperatures of 90 deg. or more occurred Friday in the plateau region, the Mississippi valley and Southern states, 100 deg. being recorded in Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona. Barometric depressions overlying the St. Lawrence valley and Arizona caused light to copious showers during Friday or last night in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Western Texas, the lower Ohio and St. Lawrence valleys and Atlantic states. Cool weather prevails from Saskatchewan and Manitoba southward to Kansas as a result of a high pressure condition central over the Dakotas. Fair weather is likely to continue at the Head of the Lakes until Sunday evning at the least."

General Forecasts.

Upper lakes: Light to moderate north and northwest winds, except variable on Superior; fair tonight and Sunday.

Chicago, July 30.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday

Upper Michigan — Fair tonight and Sunday.

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Sunday; moderate temperature.

The Most Wonderful Invention in Player Pianos is

THE KIMBALL INTERIOR PIANO PLAYER

This is conceded by the most critical musicians and by music lovers everywhere. The Kimball company controls exclusive patents on such parts that make it possible to play with the "tip of finger" effect, and as the mind directs.

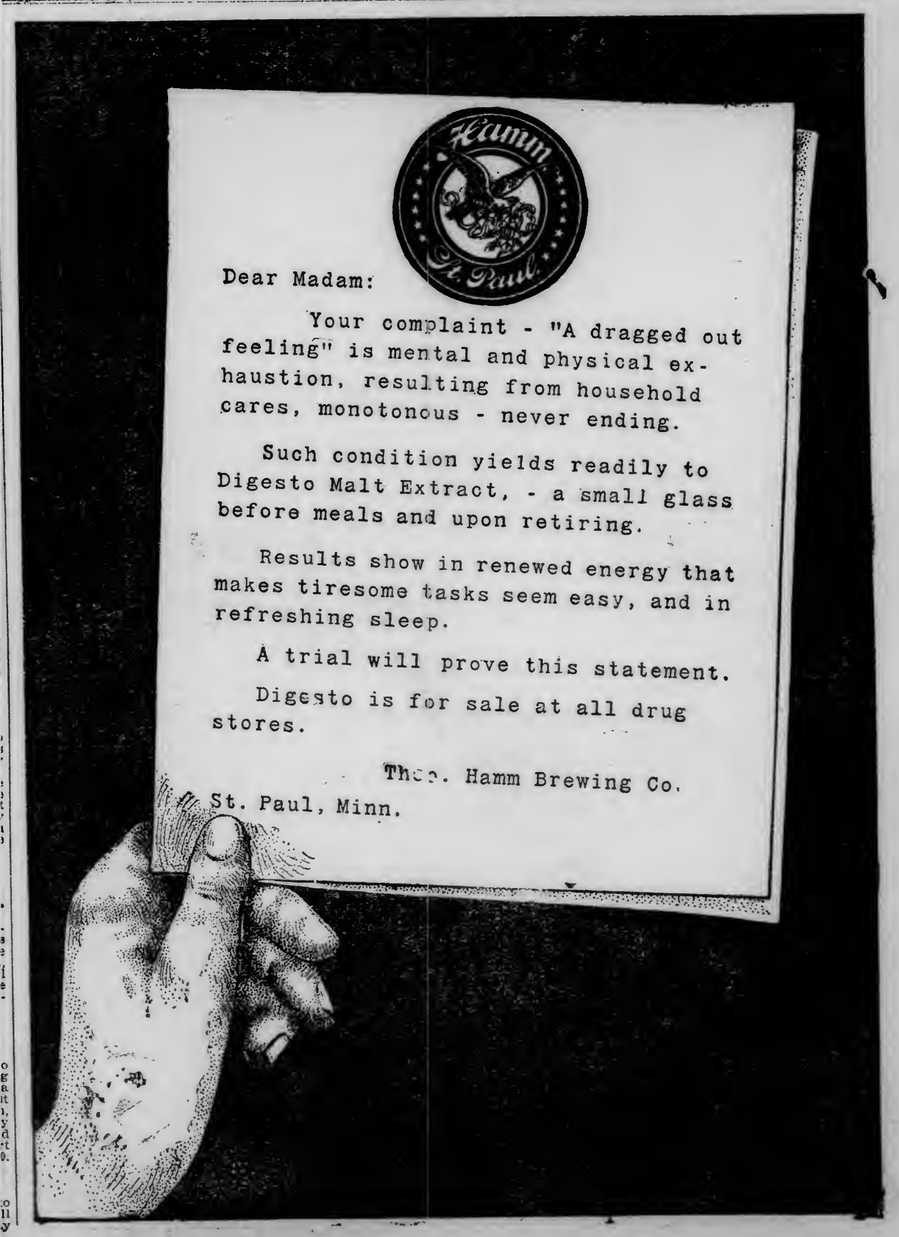

This splendid instrument may be heard at our warerooms. We cordially invite you to inspect and play on it yourself. It requires only a few minutes to practice to become proficient in the operation of the player piano, and you can play as well as the great artists—and just as difficult music, too.

We have on hand a complete line of the celebrated Kimball Pianos, which we offer to you at factory prices.

Several used pianos which we have taken in exchange for new Kimball Pianos can be had, if you hurry, at very lowest prices, on your own terms.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

An intense silence has settled over Puget Sound. John Lind isn't saying a word, beyond saying that all he has to say has been said. A dispatch from Everett, Wash., imparts the information that the Democratic nominee for governor of Minnesota, intent upon escaping the interviewers who have pestered him to no purpose since he reached the state of Washington, took to the woods yesterday with his family.

Intense Silence In The Big Noise

Mr. Lind, accompanied by his wife and daughter, will sail for Alaska on the steamer Humboldt Sunday morning They will remain in the southeastern part of the territory two or three weeks and will then return to Everett, according to present plans, for a stay of one day before proceeding to California. What Mr. Lind will do after reaching that state is just as much up in the air as the Ramsey county delegation was at the state convention.

It has become apparent that the former and prospective governor will say nothing more about the action of the convention for some time, at least. Members of the St. Louis county delegation sent a telegram to Mr. Lind yesterday morning. Its contents has not been made public, and no reply has been received from Mr. Lind. These members of the delegation also sent to Mr. Lind a letter that is expected eventually to wring from him some expression that will clarify the situation. However, that may be, the Duluthians seem to be satisfied with the trend of things so far as it is observable.

The impression is growing that the nominee will continue to maintain silence until he returns from Alaska. By that time, so say those who are usually correct in their political forecasts, John Lind will be so definitely securely, irrevocably the candidate of the people that he will realize the futility of attempting to contend against the fate that decrees he shall again grace the office of the chief executive of the state.

The situation as it stands is tersely stated by the St. Paul Dispatch in an editorial discussion of the Lind candidacy, as follows:

"While saying that he will not accept—the mere fact of formal acceptance being unnecessary — he has left open the way to service as a candiate by not as yet having finally and formally refused to run, in a communication to that effect to the party organization. That, or a personal notice to the secretary of state to omit his name from the ballot, is the only thing now that will keep John Lind from being a candidate for governor at the next election."

Charles L. Rakowsky, city assessor of Duluth, whose tenure of office terminates in September, has made formal announcement of his desire to secure the Republican nomination for county auditor. It has been rumored for some time that Mr. Rakowsky contemplated this venture and the rumor was the subject of much interested conjecture, not only in St. Louis county, but also in other parts of the state. The prominence that has been attained by Odin Halden, the present county auditor, who is a candidate for re-nomination and re-election and is one of the most widely known Republicans in the state, was the reason for the attention attracted outside the county by the rumor. Mr. Rakowsky's announcement appears in this issue of The Herald.

C. L. Rakowsky Flies For Auditor.

Before taking the office of city assessor, which he has held for two years, Mr. Rakowsky was for eight years employed in the office of the county auditor, four years as a clerk and four years as deputy auditor. He has lived in Duluth all his life and is a young man and well liked.

It was believed that Mr. Halden would have no opposition either at the primaries or at the general election, when he announced his candidacy this year. An interesting fight is expected.

Albert Berg, who is A. L. Hanson's only opponent for the Republican nomination for senator in his district, was at Crookston the other day and said while there that he had every confidence of winning the prize. Al Jester's withdrawal in his favor helps him materially, as Hanson's support is expected to come from sources that would not be largely drawn upon by either Berg or Jester, had both remained in the race.

The Moose Lake Star Gazette very pertinently remarks:

"Tho Hinckley Enterprise, Sandstone Courier and the Pine Poker of Pine City, have got into quite a mix-up over Congressman Miller. What is the use of wasting good ink on a man of Miller's calibre? Save the ink for a good man and boost him into office this fall so that the Eighth district will have a representative whom you can put your finger on all the time."

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is expected to come to Minnesota this fall to preach insurgency. He is willing to come and in all likelihood will be invited by the progressive leagues that are being formed in different parts of the state. He will refuse to say anything in commendation of the Republican state platform, of course, and may not have anything to say about the state ticket of his party. Possibly he will come to Duluth while making his tour of the state, but this is not certain.

Thomas R. Brown of Crookston and Fred Strobel of Angus are expected to run for the Republican legislative nominations in Polk county in opposition to the two county optionists who have filed. Mr. Brown is secretary of the Crookston Commercial club and Mr. Angus is a war veteran and twenty-year resident of the county. Representative Holton and W. A. Marin are the optionists who have filed.

Because he beat George Ralph, state drainage engineer, in a foot race on the beach at the Lake of the Woods, Congressman Steenerson thinks it might be well for Mr. Bjorge to give up. Probably Bjorge will look up Ralph and have a try-out with him before reaching such a decision.

On His Way East.

Mr. Pinchot is now on his way East from California, and on his return will have another conference with his former chief, Col. Roosevelt.

In common with other friends, Dr. Lindsay has been working quietly on the Pinchot boom for some time and first suggested to Mr. Pinchot himself the possibility that he might run. No definite answer, he said, was returned. "The personal relations between President Taft and Mr. Pinchot have always been pleasant," he said, "and they were not interrupted by their differences over the conduct of the interior department. We who favor his candidacy do not consider that his nomination could be taken as an affront to the national administration."

tion, the Eastern Mills and the Maryland Mills.

Myron C. Taylor, President.

Mr. Taylor is president of the American Commercial corporation, a director of the Bay State Cotton corporation, the Boston Yarn company, the Lowell Weaving company, the Mercantile corporation and other interests in the trade.

A number of prominent New England, New York and Baltimore mill men are identified with the new company and will control its management.

The following were elected officers of the company:

Myron C. Taylor, president; Charles M. Warner, Thomas M. Turner and P. T. Jackson, Jr., vice presidents; J. D. Armitage, general manager; Augustus P. Loring, treasurer; Davis H. Carroll, secretary; S. D. Davies Warfield, chairman of the board of directors.

Offices of the company will be located in New York, Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, London and Manchester, Eng., with agencies in other foreign countries.

Biggest Mill Merger in History.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—The consolidation of cotton mills is said to be the largest of the kind ever undertaken in the United States. The Consolidated Cotton Duck company, which is to be absorbed by the International Cotton Mills corporation, is a combination of duck mills, including the Stark mills of Manchester, N. H., and the Mount Vernon-Woodberry Cotton Duck company of New Jersey and Maryland. The Consolidated Duck company is controlled largely by Boston capital.

The other mills to be taken over include yarn mills in this state and New York, and two mills in Canada. The properties represented number twenty-two mills, employing from 10,000 to 12,000 operatives.

The big cloth mills of Fall River, New Bedford, Rhode Island, Lowell, Lawrence and Manchester, N. H., with the exception of the Stark plant, are not connected with the new corporation.

ment as a factor in the government of the kingdom, and, confident of the support of the cortes, which was selected in May upon this issue, is determined to carry through his battle for the revision of the concordat of 1851, the registration and regulation of religious orders, governmental control of public education and the recognition of absolute freedom of conscience.

Accepts Pretender's Challenge.

Premier Canalejas telegraphed the following statement to the press today, boldly taking up the challenge of Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender, of a revolution:

"We do not fear the threat of civil war. The king and the Spanish democracy support us."

The recalling of de Ojeda followed a conference of the premier with the king at San Sebastian.

Spain's recalling Ambassador Ojeda, it is expected, will be followed by the departure from Madrid of Monsignor Vico, the papal nuncio, when the rupture will be complete.

Expects Supreme Battle.

Senor Canalejas is preparing for a supreme battle. In addressing a Liberal organizaton he declared that Spain was struggling for liberty of conscience.

"Poor Spain, he said. "If we succumb it will be decadence. The government, which possesses the confidence of the king, will save Spain, despite all and against all. The struggle we wage is not anti-religious but anti-clerical. We count upon the army, a majority in parliament and reason."

legislating against prohibition. He appealed strongly to the society to help as much as possible to stamp out the liquor traffic. Prof. Reima of the Finnish college at Helsingfors, Finland, spoke on "Prohibition in Finland," telling what was being done in that country compared to what was being done here. Frank Mattson of this city also spoke on behalf of the local societies in introducing Mr. Shields.

Retiring Grand Secretary Miss Alma Hinkonnen of Ishpeming was greatly surprise when she was called to the stage to accept a set of silverware presented to her by the delegates for her good work during the year. Although unprepared for the gift she responded very neatly to the token of appreciation. The presentation was made by Miss Tyua of Cloquet.

Big Picnic at Ely Lake.

A large number of Finns came in today on a special train from Ely, Virginia, Gilbert, Chisholm and Hibbing to attend the picnic that is being given today for the delegates at Ely lake. Led by the Finnish band of Ishpeming all the delegates and visitors formed a long parade this morning at 10:30 and marched out to Ely lake, where the picnic is being held. After partaking of a hearty lunch the crowd, estimated at 2,000, mostly Finns, went over to the grove, where they listened to speeches.

John R. Shields gave one of the principal talks of the day on "Prohibition." Ex-Mayor Smith of Eveleth told the assemblage now much the Finnish people have contributed to the betterment of citizenship on the range. President M. Skytta and Prof. Reima, who has been one of the features of the convention week, also responded. The speeches lasted until late in the afternoon.

A musical contest between the Glee clubs of Eveleth, Virginia, Hibbing and Ironwood, and the Finnish band of Ishpeming, was one of the attractions of the afternoon. Three prizes were up, $100, $75 and $50. The band was expected to take the first prize as its work during the last three days of the convention has shown a great degree of perfection. The second and third places were hard to decide.

Final Concert Saturday Evening.

This evening the final concert of the week will take place and there will be more speeches by the leaders in the temperance work. All of the speakers of the week will be called upon and the program will be a long one. J. H. Jasberg, president of the Finnish college at Hancock, Mich., has been in attendance during the past two days, but has been working quietly. Some prominent delegates came in last night from Michigan. Among them were Isaac Sillberg of Republic, Andrew Haapola of Ironwood and F. Tolonen The local convention has attracted some of the most prominent Finns in the country. The present convention is the most successful that has so far been held by the Finnish Temperance Society of America.

every 138 of her people; Milwaukee, one to every 141, and Hoboken, one to every 175. In Philadelphia, the freest of large cities, there was one drinking place to only every 758 people. Lincoln, Neb., had one to every 2,038.

Cities Received $1,288,635,496.

The report shows many other interesting facts concerning municipal finances, including the total receipts of the 158 cities in question, which for 1908 were $1,288,635,496. This figure was made up from tax receipts, borrowed money and refunds. Of the total amount, $500,905,416 was borrowed.

Liquor licenses and taxes formed more than 13 per cent of the general revenues in the cities of Ohio and more than 10 per cent in the cities of California. New York city received $7,927,300; Chicago, $7,252,687, and Philadelphia, $1,969,459 from this source. The only other cities deriving more than $1,000,000 from liquor licenses were St. Louis, Boston, Cleveland, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

TO RUN FOR SHERIFF.

Bemidji Police Chief, Who Killed Bandit, After County Job.

Bemidji, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief of Police Allan Benner has tendered his resignation to Mayor Parker, to take effect next Monday. Benner is a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Beltrami county. Benner gained prominence last November by shooting and killing Swan Anderson, one of the Pupopsky safe blowers who was attempting to make his get-away from officers at the overhead bridge west of town.

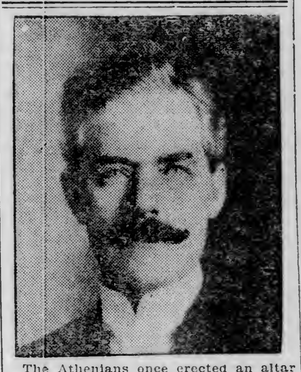

Several names are mentioned as the probable choice of Mayor Parker to succeed Benner, but as the mayor is away there is no certainty as to whom he will appoint, although rumor has it that Joseph Harrington, at present state boiler inspector, will be the next chief

COOLEY SPEAKS AT GOOD ROADS MEETING.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 30.—A resolution introduced by John Craft, president of the Good Roads Congress of Alabama, indorsing holding the Panama Canal exposition at New Orleans, met with opposition at yesterday's session of the National Goods Roads congress. After a sharp colloquy it was buried in committee.

Instruction in prisons on good road building was advocated by Durant Churchill of San Diego, Cal., and supported by William Bryant of Kalamazoo and Arthur C. Jackson, president of the congress.

Others speakers were James T. Cowles of New York and J. F. Cooley, state highway engineer of Minnesota.

The Athenians once erected an altar "To the Unknown God." They probably did that because they were not satisfied with any of the well known deities.

It was a beautiful act, and showed a blind and simple faith that there might yet be another and a better one that they knew not of. Such a sentiment may be appealed to this fall by the people of St. Louis county in their search for the best man to fill the office of Judge of Probate Court. There is a new candidate who wishes to become better acquainted with the people of this county—men, women and children, and he asks them to meet him half way.

CHARLES L. RAKOWSKY.

Upon the urgent request of my many friends and a large number of the voters of the county; after a careful survey of the situation in the city of Duluth, the iron ranges and outside towns, and believing myself competent, having served as a clerk and deputy in the office of county auditor a number of years, I feel it my duty, at this time, to announce to the voters of this greatest and best county in the state of Minnesota, my candidacy for the Republican nomination for county auditor at the coming primary election, for which office I shall file in the near future.

My ONE and ONLY promise, if elected, is that I shall to the very best of my ability, faithfully fulfill the duties of said office according to law, without fear or favor. Very respectfully yours,

Beer vs. Other Tonics

The government's ruling compelling manufacturers of medicines to state on their labels the constituents of their products, has revealed the fact that most tonics contain a very large percentage of alcohol, often 50% and more.

Beer on the other hand contains but little alcohol, (about 3½%), and its medicinal properties are derived from two of nature's products—hops and barley.

Dr. Mitchell's

TRIED, TESTED AND PROVED METHODS.

Fourteen Years' Practice in Duluth —Hundreds of Cured Patients.

Dr. Mitchell has built up the immense practice he now enjoys through the cures he has effected and giving entire satisfaction.

Dr. Mitchell's electro magnetic treatment cures not one disease alone, but it cures all diseases. In less than two minutes he will tell you just what he can do and verify his diagnosis by doing it. Whatever he tells you, that you can rely upon implicitly. He does not take a dollar from any one unles he gives them value received. He performs seeming miracles in the relief, restoration and cure of the sick and sufferling.

Mr. C. W. Thompson, 1010 West Third street, says: "My case was pronounced hopeless here in Duluth, and also sent to a council of physicians in Chicago, and they said I could not live thirty days. I had kidney and stomach trouble. Dr. Mitchell's magnetic treatment cured me four years ago. I am a well man today.

Mrs. Gust Johnson, 429 Ogden avenue, Superior, Wis., had a tumor removed by Dr. Mitchell which would weigh about five pounds. Her home physician was going to operate, but she consulted Dr. Mitchell the day before she was to be operated upon and decided to try his magnetic treatment first. She was cured—the tumor was removed. That was six years ago.

Sena Hagen, Neilsville, Minn., cured of rheumatism and kidney trouble.

Mrs. L. Lautave of Grand Forks was cured of female weakness. Had been a great sufferer for years and was about to have an operation performed, and did not expect to live through the summer. Was cured by Dr. Mitchell. This statement can be substantiated by calling at 125 North Fifty-sixth avenue east.

Capt. Thomas Read of the Read Wrecking company of Port Huron, Mich., says:

To all whom it may concern:

I advise all suffering from disease that are not getting well under their present treatment and have given up all hope, to consult Dr. Mitchell. His treatment has worked wonders for me. I had doctored five years with medical doctors and taken all kinds of treatment and spent over $10,000 and got no relief until I placed myself under Dr Mitchell's treatment.

Mrs. Ellen Olson, 2826 Huron street, was cured of tumor of womb and general nervousness; was about to have an operation performed.

Mr. Carl Stackmesser of Tower, Minn., who had rheumatism and paralysis and had not walked for eleven and a half years, was 82 years old and had given up hope. Was entirely cured by Dr. Mitchell.

Mr. Ely Lafave of Two Harbors, Minn., cured of stomach trouble and general breakdown of the entire system.

He may be consulted at 325 West First street, one block east of postoffice. 'Phone, 579.

A SPECIAL TREATMENT FOR SKIN DISEASES

General Remedies Usually Are Useless for Eczema, Scrofula, Etc., Which Are Now Cured By Zelmos.

This is the day of the specialist. Any one who suffers from torturing and disfiguring skin diseases knows very well that it is a very serious matter, and also knows that special treatment is necessary.

It has been the custom for so long for the usual salves, lotions, etc., to be recommended for any kind of skin troubles that those who suffer from Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Barber's Itch, Pimples, Carbuncles, etc., have come to the conclusion that there was no cure for these distressing diseases.

Zelmos is the name of a new preparation, and it means new hope for those who suffer from the disfiguring and irritating affections of the skin, most of which troubles come from impurities in the blood.

Zelmos Salve gives quick relief from the terrible itching. Zelmos Tablets combine the active principles of the best blood purifiers with the most effective vegetable laxatives in minute quantities.

Zelmos is the most effective treatment for skin diseases and eruptions ever offered to a suffering public. It gives almost instant relief from Sunburn, Chafing and Prickly Heat. Zelmos is for sale by the Leithead drug store and all druggists. Price, 25 cents per box or $1 per large jar. Zelmos Tablets, 50 cents per box of fifty tablets. Sample of Zelmos Salve will be cheerfully sent free on request by Eagle Laboratories, Marbridge building, New York.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROOKSTON FAIR PLANS

Annual Exhibit of Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural Society Oct. 4-7.

To Wind Up Red River Valley Fairs, Giving Visitors Money's Worth.

Crookston, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary T. R. Brown, Jr., of the Northwestern Minnesota Agricultural society today issued the premium list for the second annual fair to be held here on Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7.

In addition to a liberal premium list in which approximately $3,000 will be given away in prizes, in addition to the $500 which Senator Stephens gives for grain contests, there is a good racing program for each day with $200 and $300 purses for each event. These will attract some good horse flesh and will be a feature of the fair not attempted last year. The meet here will complete a circuit, including Marshall, Kittson, Roseau and Red Lake counties.

The local fair will be held the last in the circuit and exhibits from all the others will be sent here so that a fine showing will be made.

A special effort will be made to show what the Red River valley will do in a dry year when conditions have been far from favorable, and there will be eye-openers for those from other states as to soil possibilities here under most unfavorable conditions. Eastern Polk county will make the finest showing ever attempted in that line.

EARLY HARVEST IN RED RIVER VALLEY

Yields Per Acre Reported Not Quite as Poor as Predicted.

Crookston, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The harvest this year is going to be completed earlier than in the past twenty years.

The rye harvest began the first of the week and some of the farmers thrashed at once, the yield proving very fair. Nels Hanson thrashed eighteen bushels per acre, not up to his usual standard, but the crop is a very paying one and in addition leaves the land clear of all weeds. This land will be plowed at once, making it as good or better than summer fallowing for a wheat crop next year. There is a big rye acreage this year as farmers are getting more and more into rye as a clearing crop for the land and because it permits of plowing the land very early.

Some early oats have been cut also, but the oat yield will be very light. Some of the farmers have been mowing their oats on the green side for fodder, because of the shortage of feed for milch cows. Green oats, although too rich to be fed freely makes an excelent fodder when properly cured and used with less richer oats or barley straw.

A little early wheat has been cut. Some of it will yield as high as fifteen bushels per acre, but these are the exception. There are many fields that will easily thrash ten and twelve bushels per acre and very few will go less than eight bushels per acre. Late barley is as a rule very poor and a great deal of it will not be cut. The farmers will use it as pasturage in many instances and in this manner keep their dairy herds well fed till the pastures pick up. The pastures will do little until a soaking rain comes, showers doing scarcely any good as the moisture evaporates before the roots of the grass derive any material benefit. Creamery men are surprised at the manner in which the production of cream is being maintained in the face of very poor pasturage, but the dairymen are resourceful and using everything possible for green feed to keep up the milk flow.

COUNTY FIGHTS QUITE NUMEROUS

Biennial Contests in North Dakota More Than Usual This Year.

Bismarck, N. D., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota's biennial crop of county-division, county-seat removal and county-seat location contests is one that never fails, and this season provides no exception to the rule. This year three counties will vote on the question of dividing, Williams, Stutsman and Billings.

Division of Williams.

In Williams an agreement is said to have been reached whereby the people in the entire county will support the division proposition. The north section of the county hopes to be created into a new county to be known as Divide, while the south half will continue as Williams, with Williston as the county seat. Crosby and Ambrose will be the leading cities contending for the county seat honors in Divide county, should it be created.

In Stutsman county it is hoped to cut off the western three tiers of townships and create a new county to be known as Lincoln, with Medina as the county seat.

Billings county probably has the most interesting division problem, there being three new counties proposed out of the one. These propositions provide for one county out of the south twenty-four townships and one out of the northeastern townships. Of the northwestern townships, Medora would be the county seat, and the name of Billings would be given it. In the northwestern townships the county seat problem would not be so easily settled, as Sentinel Butte, Beach and Golden Valley would be contenders for the honors.

Two counties have county seat removal contests on, Pembina and Rolette. Cavalier hopes to wrest the seat of government honors from Pembina city, while in Roletto county the city of Rolette is fighting for the honors now held by Rolla.

Four new counties that were created through the carrying of division propositions two years ago are having extremely interesting contests, Sheridan, Burke, Renville and Mountrail Although the vote to create these counties was taken two years ago, it has been only within the last month that two of them have been organized, such stiff fights being made in the courts against the organization of Burke and Renville that they have only now succeeded in combatting all obstacles successfully and be officially baptized.

NEW POSTMASTER NATIVE DULUTHIAN

JOSEPH LLOYD, JR.

International Falls, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Lloyd, Jr., a native of Duluth, where his parents still reside, and where he was born thirty-four years ago, is the new postmaster here.

Mr. Lloyd came to this section during the gold boom at Rainy Lake city, fourteen years ago, and after that gold bubble burst, turned his attention to steamboating on Rainy lake, which occupation he followed until a few years ago, when he sold his steamboat interests and devoted his attention to real estate.

As the years rolled on and this section and town developed, Mr. Lloyd's popularity grew. Congressman C. B. Miller visited this locality during his campaign two years ago and soon became cognizant of the fact that Mr. Lloyd was one of the most popular young men in International Falls, as well as one of the brightest and cleverest. Last fall J. C. Chamberlain, the incumbent of the office, died and it devolved upon Mr. Miller to fill the vacancy. He immediately recommended Mr. Lloyd but the latter's name went upon the waiting list in the postmaster general's office, along with a number of other Miller appointees.

Mr. Lloyd is now in charge of the business, however, and is making good The office is in the second-class and the postmaster's salary was raised to $1,700.

BEMIDJI COMMERCIAL CLUB'S NEW SECRETARY.

Bemidji, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The directors of the Commercial club have elected Harry Reynolds as secretary to succeed Al. H. Jester, who tendered his resignation to the club several weeks ago. It is announced that Mr. Reynolds will be paid $25 per month as salary, and he will enter upon the discharge of his duties at once.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—The plea of a mother for clemency for her son gave George Lynch, recently arrested at Kenmare on a charge of grand larceny, a parole at the hands of Judge E. A. Goss. Young Lynch has faithfully promised that his conduct in the future will be of the very best.

Dawson, N. D.—Ed Hallstrom, residing on a farm near Dawson, suffered from the accidental discharge of a rifle that he was carrying in his rig. The bullet entered his body near the heart and was removed in the back. He may live.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The local mill of the Russell-Miller Milling company has closed down for the present time to undergo a thorough overhauling in preparation for the heavy fall and winter work. Although there is no wheat now on hand, a large amount has been purchased for delivery and there is plenty of flour on hand to supply the demand in the meantime.

Bismarck, N. D.—Surveyors have been sent to the new townsite of Energy in Morton county and within a short time will have the ground laid out. Lots in the new place are to be sold soon.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Dr. Andrew Ekern and his family will have a very enjoyable automobile trip during the coming few weeks, leaving Grand Forks Thursday morning with Chicago as their destination. From Grand Forks they will go to South Dakota to spend a few days and from there they proceed to Des Moines, Iowa, where they will spend a few days with relatives. Their next stop will be Chicago.

Rugby, N. D.—No decision has been reached as yet in the case of L. W. Dale the young man recently convicted here on a charge of being implicated in the death of Miss Gina Lien of Union, N. D. At the time of the decision of the jury, it was stated that an appeal to the supreme court would be taken at once but up to the present time no such action has been taken.

Minot, N. D.—Mrs. Peter Sandvick, the defendant in the action, was granted a divorce Wednesday by an order from Judge Goss. Sandvick brought the action on the grounds of adultery, but failed absolutely to prove his assertions. The defendant filed a cross bill charging cruel and inhuman treatment and was given the divorce.

Fargo, N. D.—Since Jan. 1, sixty plans and specifications for proposed new buildings have been exhibited in the Fargo Builders' and Traders' exchange rooms. This is by far a greater number than has ever before been exhibited in the rooms in the same length of time.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The Aberdeen police force is searching for a middle-aged foreigner, who late at night, as 11-year-old Daniel Healey was returning from attending a moving picture show at the Aberdeen roof garden, criminally assaulted the child, inflicting injuries which may cause his death.

Hancock—Mrs. Ada M. Emery, formerly postmistress of Hancock, is preparing to remove with her family to Ann Arbor, where she will make her future home. One of Mrs. Emery's sons is now employed in Lower Michigan and others will attend school at the university, which is the reason for moving.

Houghton—Articles of incorporation of the Fennia Manufacturing company of Hancock have been filed in the county clerk's office. The company is the one whose articles were recently filed at Lansing and is to manufacture the Ostman patents.

Calumet—The 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shultz of Centennial died Wednesday evening from diphtheria. Interment was at Lake View late that night

Hancock—John Lanci sustained a broken arm in an accident at No 6, Quincy, on Wednesday morning and was removed to St Joseph's hospital.

Houghton—R. S. Burke, agent in the Copper country for the Chicago & Duluth Transportation company, has been in Marquette and other iron towns in the interest of his concern.

Hancock—W. J. MacDonald, Houghton county's prosecuting attorney, will address the Italian federation at its annual state convention to be held in this city the last week in August.

Calumet—There was a well-attended meeting of Calumet residents Wednesday evening in the Calumet Social club rooms for the purpose of forming a club in the interests of the candidacy of Attorney Angus W. Kerr for congressman from the Twelfth congressional district.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Janesville—Edward Bierkness, believed to have been crazed by the heat, is alleged to have attempted suicide twice on Thursday. It is said that he waded into the river and lay down but was rescued and that soon after he attempted to jump into the water. He was taken to the police station.

Oconomowoc—The seven men charged with unlawful assembly at the Pine lake farm of Mrs. Sarah Sands, a few weeks ago, were discharged in municipal court, on motion of District Attorney Mike Muckleston. The complainant did not appear. The seven defendants were F. T. Gordon, Fred Schutts, W. C. Meyer, Benjamin Seits, Frank Drost, C. Heyer and J. J. Kiegan.

Wausau—J. A. Underwood, a prominent business man, is dead, after undergoing an operation.

Waupun—Thomas Floyd McDonald died in his home here of diabetes, after an illness of seven years' duration. He was born in Mount Vernon, O., Aug. 1, 1844, and came to Wisconsin in 1857, settling on Mackford Prairie. He served in the army during the civil war, after which he came to Waupun.

Ashland—Mrs. Jack Jackson, of Washburn died in this city Tuesday after a short illness. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mrs. Alfred Erickson, and 9-year-old Gertrude. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Anderson, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. J. Sandstrom of this city and one in Sweden. The funeral took place place Friday.

Chippewa Falls—The funeral of the late Geo. H. Shilling, for twenty-three years a fireman and engineer, serving in the latter capacity twenty-four years, was held Wednesday. His illness was typhoid fever, contracted three weeks ago at Ashland. He is well known to all the employes of the Soo line. The deceased was 53 years old and survived by a wife and daughter.

Ashland—Miss Katherine Erl, of this city, and Walter A. Lohr, a railroadman of Milwaukee, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride on Second avenue east. They left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C.

Eau Claire—The steel work on the Phoenix Manufacturing company's addition to its present large plant, is completed, the steel gang having left. The work on the main construction is now under way. The building will soon be completed, when it will be equipped with the latest machinery and placed in full operation, probably as early as Sept. 1.

Evansville—Byron Campbell of this city has just received an octopus, recently captured in the Pacific ocean.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Northome—Some much needed repairing has been done on the village water tower the past week. The tank has been given a new coat of paint and otherwise repaired in order to stop it from leaking.

Wadena—Dr. George E. Hall, aged 31 years, a prominent and well known citizen of Wadena, died July 22, at Vancouver, B. C., where he had gone in a hope that a change would prove beneficial, and perhaps restore him to health. The funeral was held here last Tuesday.

Sauk Rapids—Mrs. Chloe Culosis Rust died at the home of her brother, J. H. Bonham here, Thursday morning at the age of 85 years. The deceased has been feeble for a long time and has been gradually failing from the infirmities of old age. The funeral was held from the residence at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

Staples—Alexander Hasbrouck died July 25 at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. James P. Simpson, after a week's illness with erysipelas, from which he had suffered at different times during his life. Deceased was a native of Tioga county, N. Y., and was born Feb. 12, 1823.

Rochester—Eugene Debs, Socialist leader and orator, was operated on at St Mary's hospital for an obstruction of the bowels. He recovered from the anesthic satisfactorily.

Foley—A deal has been closed whereby Mrs. Mary D. Foster of St. Cloud, acquired 200 acres, with buildings of the fine 280-acre farm of Joseph Parent, three miles south of the village. The price paid is $50 per acre.

Brainerd—Francis Edmund O'Niell, the 5-year-old son of Mrs. O'Niell, died of diptheria Tuesday morning. The funeral, which was necessarily private, occurred on Tuesday afternoon. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Moorhead—Theodore Skrei completed harvesting Thursday morning, entirely finishing up 100 acres of wheat and sixty acres of oats and barley. The wheat is good, the barley looks good, but the oats are poor.

St Cloud—Mrs. Elizabeth Stich, wife of Christ Stich, whose home is on Second street north, died early Thursday morning at the hospital, death being caused by acute nephritis. The case is a sad one because of the fact that the deceased was a bride of but five months and was only 21 years of age.

Pine City—By a vote of 141 to 63 it was decided Tuesday to install a system of water works and sewerage in the village of Pine City. The question voted upon was, whether or not to float bonds in the sum of $20,000 for the purpose of building the system. It carried, with votes to spare.

Fergus Falls—The postmasters closed their convention in this city Wednesday and formed a permanent organization by electing Henry Olson, president, and Clint Potter, secretary and treasurer.

Little Falls—Supt. George M. Gordon of the local power plant said Thursday that so far the local company has experienced no trouble, although the water is now below the minimum of several years past. The reading at the station showed the presence of a head of 19.04 feet, nearly 3 feet less than the heal of a year ago Thursday.

Crookston—Wednesday evening the state drainage commission and party spent several hours in Crookston, arriving on the train from Warrond, and departing in the special car for St. Paul, after an extended trip through the northern part of the state.

Mankato—As the esult of a shooting affair at Eagle Lake Thursday night, Burt Anderson was arrested, charged with attempting to shoot his wife. No one was injured

Work That Tells

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Duluth.

Cures that last are cures that tell. To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate the cures and see if they prove permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Duluth. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now declare that relief was permanent and the cure perfect. How can any Duluth sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Capt. M. McLean, 4324 Gilliat St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Time has only strengthened my high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I publicly recommended this remedy in 1898 after they had freed me from a dull, heavy ache across the small of my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint. There has been no return of my trouble, convincing me that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanantly. I shall advise the use of this remedy at every opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WHAT IS "ELECTRO-RADIATION?"

A few little-known facts about scientific electric apparatus and its uses in the hands of scientific men for the purpose of effecting cures.

First let us state that static electricity is not and never will be the universal panacea that some rampant faddists claim.

Static electricity could no more cure a gall-stone than could a dose of salts!

While it is a fact that eminent specialists make use of static electricity in all kinds of cases, they do this to tone up the system, not with the idea of perfecting a cure solely by means of it.

A current of static electricity applied directly to an inflamed or swollen part would undoubtedly relieve the unnatural condition immensely, would take away the pain and would put the patient in a fit state of mind and body for the work of the real cure to commence.

That, however, is all that can be asked of "radiated electricity."

Then the skilled physician with his drugs must step in and do the real work.

After the cure has been completed, static electricity again assumes its usefulness in assisting and encouraging the disease-worn body in fully winning back its former state of health.

Electricity in many forms finds a place in the modern doctor's operating rooms.

The Progressive Medical Association, No. 1 West Superior St., Duluth, use it in countless ways for the amelioration of the ills of suffering men.

Static electrical machines, X-Rays, Organizers, Ultra Violet Rays, Electrical Vibratory Machines and electrical apparati used in the world-famous "dissolving process" discovered by these specialists completely fill their operating rooms.

These, together with a plendid stock of drugs, an unequalled knowledge of Diseases of Men, and the skill gained by twenty-five years constant practice in this one field only, enables these specialists to offer a guaranteed cure to all suffering men.

The Progressive Medical Specialists handle diseases of men only!

Thus they are able to offer you the skill of specialists, at the same time that they assure you against the possibility of embarrasing encounters in their waiting room.

Games Today.

Wausau at Duluth.
Eau Claire at Superior.
Red Wing at La Crosse.
Rochester at Winona.

There was a disturbance in West Duluth yesterday afternoon that sounded like the Atlantic battleship fleet at target practice.

The loud noise was the cannonade of swats, biffs, bingles and screaming four sackers that the Wausau Lumberjacks picked from the assortment of near-parabolas dished up by Messrs. Cummings, Worman and Johnson. The visitors ran the bases until they were limp from exertion. They garnered sixteen hits and crossed the rubber eleven times. Scheffer's south wing was in good shape and the six hits which the Sox glommed from his offerings, did not do much damage. For the first five innings Schieffer was invincible but toward the close of the game he relented and permitted the Sox to whang the sphere a bit. The Sox chalked up two runs.

Al Cummings, old reliable, lasted about five minutes. Al's spit-ball wasn't twirling right and the Jacks went to his service like the elders of a dark camp meeting to the collection box. They lost, no time. After Cahill had lifted the pellet over the left field fence for a homer and Duchien and Carter had singled, Al resigned in favor of Worman. The blond heaver failed to stop the bombardment. The Jacks had on their batting rags and in their mad, wild flight there was none to stay them. Taree-fingered Brown or Babe Adams would have been run over and crumpled up as by a steam roller. Dolan sacrificed Duchien and Carter a base each and the last two scored on Brody's single. For Duluth, Kohl got a single in the first but expired calling feebly for the help which Mr. Schieffer would not permit the king's teammates to give. In the second Cahill got another home run over the left field fence. This Cahill boy, by the way, grabbed two singles besides his pair of home-seekers. In the third the Jacks fell on young Mr. Worman and smote him hip and thigh. Johnson slapped out a two-sacker and scored when Walliser sent the ball to left similarly tagged. Schieffer got to first when Altermott fumbled his grounder. Duchien singled and Wallister and Schieffer registered at the pan. Duchien tried to pilfer third but Schwab cut him down by a straight peg to Darby.

In the fourth young Mr. Johnson was installed in place of Worman, who was derricked. For two innings Johnson had a pleasant little outing on the hill and seemed to enjoy himself. In the sixth there were dire rumblings, sinister portents of the storm that was to break over Mr. Johnson's unsuspecting head in the seventh. In the sixth Cahill singled, stole second and came home on Dolan's hit. In this innings Rube Marion distinguished himself and earned a halo of hero leaves. Rube made a circus catch of Duchien's long fly to right center. Then he went back to the fence and plucked Carter's sky-wiper out of a knothole. Rube put a fitting climax on his three-ringed performance when he dove under Brody's short fly to the right field line. Rube turned two flipflops but came up with the ball.

In the seventh Claus Johnson started the proceedings that made Mr. Carl Johnson deeply grieved and caused the fans to give up hope. Claus lammed a two-bagger to left and scored on Bond's single. Walliser stung the pill for a home run, Bond also registering. Cahill hit safely, but a double play stopped his excitement. In the next two innings Carl Johnson was unhittable. But by that time the Jacks were tired and hungry.

The Sox grabbed their first run in the seventh. Marion got life at first when Wallser fumbled his grounder. He took third on Schwab's single to right and pulled off a double steal with Schwab that was one of the features of the game. Schwab got life at second and Marion crossed the rubber safely. In the eight the Sox grabbed another tally. J. Anderson singled to left center and G. Anderson hit to right for a base. Kohl hit to Brody, who fielded the ball and planted it on J. Anderson, Kohl being safe at first. Dary O'Brien, pinch hitter, slapped out a single and G. Anderson chalked up the second score for Duluth.

Holstrom got a two-sacker in the fifth, but died at second. In the sixth J. Anderson singled, but cashed in at first.

On the whole, the game was an interesting exhibition. Considering the bombardment of balls about their ears the locals put up an excellent fielding game. Altermott offended twice and O'Brien once. Walliser and Bond of the Jack each made a miscue. The errors did not have much to do with the result.

Wausau will play here today and tomorrow. Schmirler, the left hander, will pitch for Duluth today and "Rube" Marion will show tomorrow how he has "come back."

LONG GAME GOES TO EAU CLAIRE

Superior Drops Heart-Breaking Contest in Thirteenth Inning.

Eau Claire defeated the Superiorites 5 to 4 in a thirteen-inning game yesterday that had many sensational features. Nicholson was on the hill for Eau Claire and Thorsen officiated for Superior.

Eau Claire got two runs in the first on Kick's walk, Breyette's passage to first on Caldwell's error, Callahan's walk after Kick was nabbed off second, Bailey's hit and Kading's single. Superior scored in the second when McCarthy doubled and came home on an error. Superior scored in the fifth. Caldwell tripled and Bancroft was walked. Thorsen hit and Caldwell and Caldwell and Bancroft scored, Landry singled, scoring Thorsen.

Eau Claire tied the game in the sixth, Breyette was passed and Callahan singled. Both scored when Bailey tripled. Kading scored the winning run in the thirteenth. He doubled and came home on two outs.

WALLISER WINS FROM BUNDY IN TENNIS

Walliser defeated Bundy in the tennis match at the Boat club yesterday afternoon by the score of 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Walliser's steady playing was the feature of the match. Bundy was unable to get his service working and Walliser's returns were always placed where Bundy was not. Bundy's net playing was also poor.

MARION WILL PITCH AGAIN

"The Rube" Will Try to "Come Back" After Long Rest.

"Rube" Marion, who was one of the stars of the league last year, but whose pitching arm has been on the blink this year, thinks he has "come back." He will twirl against Wausau Sunday afternoon. Marion has been putting up a great fielding game in the right garden and has been spanking the pellet on the nose every now and then. The big hurler thinks his arm is in first-class shape again and he is eager to get back on the mound.

Tom Taylor will go to left field and J. Anderson, who has been guarding that territory, will go to right. Tom has been out of the game for a few days and it was supposed that he was out of it for the rest of this season, at least. Taylor has not been hitting the ball consistently and his fielding has not been up to its standard of last year.

Jack Schmirler, the side wheeler, who has been on the sick list with a poisoned foot which was spiked, has recovered. Jack will work against Wausau this afternoon. Three of last year's pitchers have been laid up. With Marion and Schmirler in form the pitching staff is suddenly and unexpectedly strengthened. Dauss is still on the hospital list and there is no immediate probability of his return to the game.

DULUTH MEN BEST MARKSMEN

The Third Regiment Team Wins Shoot at Lake City.

Again the Third regiment, M. N. G., came out victorious in the state military shoot which was held during the week at Camp Lakewood, Lake City, Minn. Teams from the three regiments took part and the Third, which is composed mostly of Duluth men, won all the shoots, except the 200-yard rapid fire.

For the past ten years the Third regiment has won these meets, so the victory this past week was not a surprise. The Third regiment team had 2,532 points to its credit at the conclusion of the contest, with the Second regiment 75 points behind and the First 141 points lower.

The report of this shoot was completed yesterday and the returns received in Duluth last evening by the officers of the Third regiment. Although expecting a victory, the Duluth men were well pleased with their showing.

The match was conducted according to the regulations to be used by the National Rifle association in its annual shoot at Camp Perry, Ohio, this fall. It consists of ten shots at 200 yards, slow fire, and ten shots at 200 yards, rapid fire; ten shots at 600 and 1,000 yards, and one skirmish run of twenty shots, making a possible total of 3,600 points for a team of twelve men. The following scores were made by the Third Regiment men:

Lieut. H. D. Marshall	202
Sergt. E. G. Simpson	237
Sergt. Chas. Helmer	186
Sergt. O. H. Sorenson	207
Sergt. D. L. Larson	229
Priv. J. Thompson	254
Priv. G. E. Geddes	217

Priv. A. J. Lassard	201
Priv. William Sanford	167
Priv. B. W. Perringo	230
Priv. A. E. Ritzman	195
Total	2,532

F. Thompson, a Duluthian, captured the high score in the Brigade National Rifle association match, making 135 points out of a possible 150. He was awarded a handsome bronze loving cup.

PHELPS AND EVANS MEET

Two Champions Play Final Match in Western Golf Tournament.

Evans Scores Remarkable Victory Over Hunter in Semi-Finals.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 30.—Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, the present champion, and Mason E. Phelps of Midlothian, the winner of the title in 1908, met today in the final match of the Western Golf association tornament over the Minnikahda course. Evans was a slight favorite with the large gallery when the men drove off for the first hole of the morning round, because of his sensational victory over Robert E. Hunter of Midlothian by 1 up in 39 holes in the semi-finals yesterday.

Phelps, however, had many supporters because of his easy defeat of Warren K. Wood of Homewood in the semi-finals and his consistent work throughout the tournament. It was expected that the match would be hotly contested, as both men appeared in excellent stroke as they started.

Both men worked their way to the final round by a series of hard fought matches and easy victories.

Evans had a hard time in beating Donald Edwards of Midlothian in the first round, 2 to 1. Kenneth Edwards of Midlothian, Donald's brother, was the next victim by 6 to 5. W. E. Clow, Jr., of Onwentsia was beaten by the decisive score of 9 to 8 in the third round and then came the extra hole match with R. E. Hunter. Phelps was forced to go 37 holes to beat H. B. Heyburn of Louisville by 1 up in the second round after disposing of J. F. Standish, Jr., of Detroit by 2 to 1 in the first match. C. T. Jaffray was an easy victim for the Midlothian star by 4 and 3 in the third and Warren K. Wood of Homewood was beaten 5 and 4 in the semi-finals.

Evans Plays Fine Golf.

Evans gave one of the most marvelous exhibitions of golfing, yesterday, ever seen on a Western link. Hunter was dormie one playing the eighteenth in the afternoon round, but Evans made a remarkable three in the face of golfing difficulties that would have overwhelmed any one but those of championship calibre. With the match even they started the thirty-seventh hole.

Playing that hole it appeared as if fates had doomed Evans to defeat, but his friends stopped Evans from giving up the hole. Evans' drive went into the worst bunker and he lost a stroke getting out. Hard luck still followed him and he over-approached into the sand trap on the far side of the green. Another stroke was lost there and he was on the edge of the green in 4. He missed a long putt for a 5 and was ready to give up the hole but his friends advised him not to give up until Hunter had putted. Hunter's second was short and he over-approached his third. He took three putts for a 6 and Evans holed out in 6, and the match was still on.

Hunter was hole high on the second, but on the edge of the green.

Evans' second was sixty yards short but he laid his approach almost dead to the hole and it was halved in 4.

The strain was beginning to tell on Hunter and he wobbled badly going to the third. The third hole is located at the top of a hill and it is 120 yards long. Hunter's pitch was short and rolled back down the hill. He put his second too far over and his third too far back toward the tee. He finally laid on the green in 4 and missed a putt for a 5. Evans had better luck and holed for a 4, giving him the hole and a victory in the hardest fought match of the tournament.

Evans was 1 down at the end of the morning round as Hunter came in well after being 1 down at the turn.

The match was evened when Evans won the first hole 5-6, after Hunter got into the bunker at the far side of the green and lost a stroke getting out. Evans also went in but got out onto the green in 3. On the second Evans ran down a fifteen-foot putt for a half in 4. Hunter's pitch was short on the third and Evans won 3-4, making him 1 up. Hunter went into a bunker on the fourth and Evans won 5-7, making him 2 up. The fifth and sixth were halved in par figures. Evans rimming the cup for a 3 on the latter hole.

Evans had bad luck on the seventh and lost the hole 5-4, when he lost a stroke by unintentionally hitting his ball while addressing it. Both missed putts on the eighth and the hole was halved in 5. On the ninth Evans put his second on the lower side of an embankment to the left of the green and Hunter won the hole 4-5, making the match even at the turn.

Many Holes Halved.

On the homeward jurney Hunter's approaching was deadly in its accuracy and he was able to half several hole on that account. The tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth were halved in par figures.

Or the sixteenth Hunter put his second within two feet of the hole and ran it down, winning the hole 2-4, and taking the lead 1 up.

Evans kept the match going by holding a ten-foot putt for a half for 3 in the seventeenth. Evans had to win the eighteenth to stay in the running. He got off a beautiful drive but it rolled under the raised side of a public road running through the corse about forty yards from the hole. It was an almost unplayable lie, but Evans showed his championship caliber when he played out and put the ball about three feet from the hole. Hunter went to the far side of the green on his approach and Evans won the hole, 3-4. Then came the three extra holes and Evans' victory.

Extra holes: Evans, 6, 4, 4; Hunter, 6, 4, 6.

The Wood-Phelps match was one-sided all the way and Wood never had a chance after the match was well under way. Phelps was 3 up at the end of the morning round and Wood was unable to improve his game in the afternoon. Wood played into the woods several times and always got a bad lie, while Phelps went in once, hit a tree and bounded out into the course. On the second hole in the afternoon Wood laid himself a half stymie but hopped the ball in with his niblick for a half in 5.

Wood held Phelps fairly even for the first six holes of the afternoon but Phelps won the seventh, eighth and ninth and was 6 up at the turn. The match ended on the fourteenth green.

OPENING OF RACE MEET IS POSTPONED.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 30.—The Niagara Racing association announced yesterday that the Fort Erie meet scheduled to open today with the $10,000 Domino handicap in which Fitz Herbert was a feature entry, had been indefinitely postponed. Conditions arising from the strike on the Grand Trunk Railway were assigned as the cause of the postponement.

THE ALLEGRO TACKING.

The Allegro, Charles Brewer's Class B boat will represent the Duluth Boat club in the Inland Lakes regatta at Oshkosh next month.

The Allegro's crew is composed of Charles Brewer, A. C. Fiske, Sibbald McDerald and A. C. Trux. The Allegro took part in the races last year and made a good showing. With another year's experience in handling a boat of this type, better things are hoped for this season, although the boat is a year older, and hardly as rigid as she was when new.

There is some talk of entering Frank Farrell's Class A boat also this year, but this has not been definitely settled.

ROLLER COMING TO SHOOT MOOSE

Wrestler Will Visit Friends in Duluth This Fall.

Dr. B. F. Roller, the famous wrestler, who has many friends in Duluth, is coming here in November for the purpose of shooting a moose. So far as is known, he doesn't care what particular moose he slays, but the belief is that any big one will do.

Dr. Roller refers to it in a letter just received by "Tilt" Lewis of the St. Louis, whose camp on Vermillion lake will be the scene of the foray next fall. The letter is dated "Royal Mail Steamship 'Caronia,' July 7," and reads:

"My very dear friend—Well, old horse, we are five days out and the voyage smooth as on a dancing floor all the way. Have done nothing but eat, read, sleep and dance. This is a dandy boat, a sociable crowd and we are having one —— of a time. I only wish the famous Duluth bunch were aboard. Mrs. Roller and Mr. Curley are both quite well and we could scarcely be happier.

"Land Saturday morning at Queenstown to mail this letter; then go on to Fishgard, Eng., leave the boat, take the train for London and later to Paris. We expect to return in November in time for a good season to close my career as a wrestler.

"Take good care of things over there and for my sake look after that bunch of good sports in Duluth. Give them each individually my very best and have a drink on me.

"Mrs. Roller and I are anticipating a jolly visit to Duluth this winter."

He gives his address while abroad as the American Express company, London and Paris.

COUNTRY JAY IS WONDER OF TRACK

Trotter 14 Years Old Sets New Mark for Himself.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 30.—Country Jay, a 14-year-old trotter, proved the wonder of the grand circuit opening, if not of all harness history, when in the second heat of the 2:05 trot yesterday he made a new record for himself in the time of 2:05¼. Country Jay won this race, which broke the world's record for the three fastest heats ever consecutively trotted, the time being 2:04¼, 2:05¾, 2:05½. Gus Macey drove Country Jay. Sonoma Girl took the first heat.

Favorites were winners three times in a program of four events.

In the 2:00 pace, Giftline was made favorite over such famous contenders as The Eel, Darky Hal and Aileen Wilson. Giftline was distanced in the first heat through breaking at the half. A bandage around one of his hind legs loosened and tangled his feet so that he could not pace. Darky Hal won the race after The Eel had taken the first heat.

The 2:09 trot proved to be a disappointment. There were only three starters and Nancy Royce, the favorite was never in danger. Earl, Jr., was the favorite in the 2:11 pace, with Peter Pan a strong second choice. For four heats it was a see-saw between these two, but finally in the fifth Earl, Jr., crossed the line first and won the race.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well-known merchant of Agneeville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in cases of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plain printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all druggists.

DULUTH IS OUTCLASSED

Bantams Finish Second in a Field of Six Entries.

Kenora, Ont., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Getting away to a bad start, the Duluth junior eight was outclassed in the eight-oared event here yesterday afternoon. Splashing badly at the starter's gun, the shell listed to port. When the boat was again riding smoothly on its keel, St. Paul and Winnipeg had a substantial lead. Duluth struggled gamely to overcome the lead, but the superior form of St. Paul and Winnipeg enabled them to hold a safe lead. St. Paul won from Winnipeg by three feet, while Duluth was two and a half lengths back. St. Paul scored heavily yesterday, taking the junior singles, senior fours and junior eight events. Winnipeg won the bantam four and senior doubles.

Walker, O'Donnell, Refug and Talboys put up a neat race in the bantam four event, coming fast at the finish. Winnipeg beat Duluth by a length. There were six crews in this event. The junior eight event was rowed in 8:32 1-5, the bantam four event in 9:54.

The bantam fours, six in the race, provided splendid sport, the fight being for first place between Winnipeg, the victors, and Duluth. For third place there was a keen race between Port Arthur and Kenora, the home crew winning out. At the start there was danger of St. Paul and Duluth crossing, but St. Paul fell behind and the Zeniths went out after the 'Pegs.' At the final spurt Winnipeg had only four strokes on Duluth.

The senior doubles was a surprise. McMillan and Baker, also entered for the junior doubles, defeated Mairs and Cochran of St. Paul.

The two senior fours, St. Paul and Winnipeg, made a grand race, the victors being St. Paul, by a length and a half, though for five-sixtiis of the distance there was less than five yards either way, each taking turns at leading.

In the junior singles, West of St. Paul, beat McMillan of Winnipeg, in 11:05 2-5.

The summary follows:

Junior singles—First, West, St. Paul; second, W. McMillan, Winnipeg. Time, 11:05 2-5.

Senior fours—First, St. Paul; second, Winnipeg. Time, 9:35 3-5.

Senior double—First, Winnipeg; second, St. Paul. Time, 10:10 1-5.

Junior eights—First, St. Paul; second, Winnipeg. Time, 8:35 1-5.

THANKED BY THE BALL CLUB

Directors Pass Resolution Expressing Gratitude to The Herald.

The advisory board of the Duluth Baseball Association has adopted resolutions thanking The Herald for issuing celluloid "Booster" buttons which many of the fans are wearing.

The resolutions follow: "Whereas The Duluth Evening Herald with its customary enterprise and disposition to work for the common good has issued several thousand "Booster" buttons advertising the Duluth baseball club of the Minny league, therefore,

"Be it resolved by the advisory board of the Duluth Baseball association that The Duluth Evening Herald be congratulated for its originality and its public spirited act and that the thanks of the Duluth Baseball association, its advisory board and its manager be extended to The Duluth Evening Herald.

FITWELLS WILL GO TO CLOQUET

Two Teams Will Clash for the Deciding Game.

The Fitwell baseball team will make a third trip to Cloquet Sunday. As the clubs have won one game each the game tomorrow will be fought to the bitter end. The Fitwells have spent most of their time in the evenings this week with good workouts and Manager Sears announced that he is confident of winning Sunday.

In Johnson and Talbot the clothing house team has two crack pitchers. The former has a world of speed and at the first of the season went to Hayward and let them down with one hit, but lost through errors. In Allouez he struck out eighteen men and allowed them two hits. The game ended a tie in the tenth inning. Talbot made a record for himself against the Adams team last Sunday in the championship series. He beat them 4 to 2 and did not allow a hit, striking out eight men. Errors gave the Adams team their runs. A few out-of-town games are yet to be played at Moose Lake, Ashland, Marble, Spooner and probably Two Harbors, winding up with the winner of the Twin Ports league for the championship of the city in semi-professional ball.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Dearrhoea Remedy the Best ad nSurest.

"It affords me pleasure to state that I consider the preparation known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and surest of good results of any I have ever used in my family," says P. E. Herrington of Mount Aerial, Ky. This is the universal verdict of all who use this remedy. Its cures are so prompt and effectual that people take pleasure in recommending it. For sale by all druggists.

The Automobile

IS CITY OF AUTOMOBILES

Number of Cars Owned in Duluth Causes Much Comment.

The 1911 Models Are Here ---Auto Club Being Reorganized.

"This sure is an automobile city," remarked a stranger who attended the Venetian carnival held during the week at the Duluth Boat club as he looked over the great number of cars that were waiting for their passengers.

Although officially there are but a few over 200 machines in the city, as a matter of fact there are a great many more than that. At the Boat club gathering the other night there were at least fifty cars taken across on the aerial bridge and at least fifty more stood on the city side of the canal while the passengers journeyed across the bridge on foot.

The stranger was right. Duluth is a city of automobiles. There are many of them here. It has been said that for the size of the town Duluth has more machines than any other city in the United States. Superior street is at all times crowded with them and the roads about the city are always lined on pleasant days.

A local automobile dealer says that there are 600 cars in the city and then some. The dealer should be in a position to know.

In and about Duluth the roads are not of the best, the city is hilly, but in spite of the drawbacks, Duluth people enjoy their cars probably as much as they do anywhere in the country.

The new 1911 models of several of the makes are appearing these days on the streets. The lines have not been changed to a great deal, but the manufacturer seems to insist that the purchaser get used to and like the torpedo body. Some of them have the appearance of a coffin, others are good looking. The torpedo body is not popular as yet.

The fall months, the best time of the year for touring are approaching. Many have cars coming for fall delivery.

The reorganization of the Automobile club is coming along nicely. Many are taking advantage of the opportunity to get in while the dues are set at $5. It is probable that they will be raised soon as the club wishes to do some work on its own account and the $5 per member idea does not overflow the treasury. The club is planning on putting sign boards on all country roads and at all the crossings. This will save much time and trouble for motorists who do not wish to spend some hours upon the wrong road. A meeting of the club was held a few days ago at which time the plans for improving the motoring conditions were gone over and the work to be done by the club during the fall and winter laid out.

The work done on the Pike Lake road is being appreciated. The holes have been filled with coarse crushed rock and one is agreeably surprised at the smoothness of the road after traveling over it. The road is now one of the best about the city.

WOMAN MAKES A LONG JOURNEY

Drives Her Runabout From New York City to San Francisco.

San Francisco, July 30.—After ten weeks of traveling, Miss Blanche Stuart Scott of Rochester, N. Y., has successfully ended her long journey. This plucky young woman left New York city the middle of last May in a runabout. Accompanied only by a woman companion she set out to make the journey hitherto attempted only by seasoned motorists in specially equipped cars.

"I don't think the trip will be such a great test of endurance," said Miss Scott, when she started. "Really it was a very enjoyable trip," she said at the finish, "although there were times ——" she concluded with a smile.

This trip is remarkable in more ways than one. It has opened up new fields for the feminine motorists, who now have conclusive proof that long distance touring is as easy for them as it is for men. With the advent of the modern motor-car, motoring among women took a tremendous boom. Now this feminine transcontinental tour has given renewed impetus to the feminine side of automobiling.

Miss Scott deserves much commendation for the very successful way in which she handled her car on this long journey. The whole journey was accomplished with no greater mishap than a broken leaf, caused by crossing a bridge from which several planks were missing.

Miss Scott did not try to make a speed record for the tour. She merely made a good day's run every day. From seventy-five to 200 miles completed her daily schedule. As far as Denver she followed the beaten path of other transcontinentalists. After that, however, she struck out across the Red desert and the Great American desert, depending on the ability of her little car to pull her through. She crossed Medicine Butte, one of the highest ranges in America, at midnight. She was lost for a whole day on the desert. In the East her path was beset by constant rain and storms. In the West she had to contend with the stifling heat of the deserts where no rain had fallen since last February.

It would seem to the casual observer that such experiences as these would tend to make Miss Scott a nervous wreck, but one glance at her sunbrowned face, beaming with health and vigor, is enough to convince one to the contrary. It is very evident that her 5,200 mile automobile journey has not made an invalid of her.

GOVERNING AUTO OWNERS

Restrictions on Operators and Other Things Are Provided For.

Rochester, N. Y., July 20.—"I'm the owner of an automobile," said a Rochester man yesterday, "and I've heard a lot about this new Callan law, put through by the youngster down in Albany, but I'm ignorant as to its exact provisions. There are a lot more in the same boat, all of us owning cars, but not quite sure what we've got to do by Aug. 1 to keep within the law."

"Fire away," said the person addressed.

"What's this I hear about registration by the owners of cars?"

"It is simply this: Every owner of a motor vehicle operated in this state must cause to be filed, by mail or otherwise, in the office of the secretary of state, a verified application for registration, on a blank to be furnished by the secretary of state for that purpose, containing a brief description of the motor vehicle to be registered, including the name of the manufacturer and the factory number, the character and amount of the motive power stated in figures of horse power. In accordance with the rating established by the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers; the name, residence (including county and business address) of the owner of such motor vehicle; providing that, if such motor vehicle is used or to be used solely for commercial purposes, the applicant shall so certify."

"Who has the right to drive a machine?"

"No person shall operate a motor vehicle who is under 18 years of age, unless such person is accompanied by a duly licensed chauffeur or the owner of the motor vehicle being operated."

Obtaining Tags.

"How are the tags to be obtained?"

"Upon the filing of such application and the payment of the fee demanded, the secretary of state shall assign to such motor vehicle a distinctive number and, without expense to the applicant, deliver to the owner a certificate of registration, and two number plates, or tags. In the event of the loss, mutilation or destruction of any certificate or registration, number plate, license or badge, the owner of a registered motor vehicle or manufacturer, or dealer, or chauffeur, may obtain from the secretary of state a duplicate upon filing in the office of the secretary of state an affidavit showing such fact and paying a fee of $1."

"When are we to register?".

"Registration applied for before August 1, shall take effect on that date and will expire on Jan. 31, 1911. Registration must be renewed annually."

"What are the fees?"

"The fee is $5 upon the registration of a motor vehicle having a rating of twenty-five horse-power and less than thirty-five horse-power; $15 on a rating of thirty-five horse-power and less than fifty horse-power; $25 on a rating of fifty horse-power or more. After four years in which the annual fees are paid, the amount will be one-half. For machines used solely for commercial purposes, the fee shall be $5."

"Suppose I sell my machine?"

"Then you must notify the secretary of state within ten days."

"If I buy a machine from a manufacturer, may I use it prior to the receipt of tags and certificate of registration?"

"Yes, provided that during the period of fifteen days allowed the motor vehicle shall have a placard attached to it, bearing the registration number of the dealer under which it may previously have been operated, and that application for registration shall be made by mail or otherwise before the vehicle is used.

Two Tags on Machine.

"When must the tags be on the cars?"

"By Aug. 1—one on the rear and one on the front of the car."

"May manufacturers register all their cars, except those for private use or for hire, under one number?"

"Yes; a general distinctive number for all the vehicles owned or controlled by a manufacturer or dealer will be furnished by the secretary of state upon application."

"What about the rules for operating cars?"

"Every machine must have adequate brakes, horns and lamps. During the period from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, two lighted lamps must be displayed on the front and one on the rear; also a red light visible from the rear. The rays of the rear lamp must shine upon the number plate. When approaching a crossroad outside the limits of city or village, the driver must slow down and give signal. When a hand is raised by a person riding, leading or driving a horse, the machine must come to a stop and remain still long enough to allow the horse to pass. In passing a street car which has stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator shall slow down, and, if necessary for the safety of the public, he shall come to a full stop. Upon nearing a person who is upon the traveled part of any highway, the driver shall slow down. When meeting, turn to the right, and when passing another vehicle, pass on the left side, turning to the right again as soon as possible.

The Legal Speed.

"What speed is permitted?"

"Never in excess of thirty miles an hour."

"Can this law be added to by local authorities?"

"Only in regard to a driveway, speedway or road expressly set apart by law for the exclusive use of horses and light carriages. The speed through villages may be limited by local authority, provided signs of sufficient size to be readable are placed where the speed is to be changed.

"What are punishments for violations?"

"A fine of $100 for exceeding the speed law; for leaving scene of an injury without giving number, etc., $500 or two years' imprisonment, or both; second offense punishable by one year and not more than five years' imprisonment; for violation of license law, a fine of $50; all other violations, $25."

WINNING DRIVER IN GLIDDEN TOUR

"BILL" BOLGER.

"Bill" Bolger is the man who drove the Chalmers-Detroit car to victory in the recent Glidden contest. He covered 2,851 miles. The start was made at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the finishing point was at Chicago. Sixteen days were occupied in making the trip. The longest distance covered in a day was 243 miles. The tourists passed through thirteen states. The hardships were many, but "Capt. Bill" says it was well worth while.

WILL SEND THE NEVALED

Farrell's Class A Boat Wil Go to the Oshkosh Regatta.

George Holland Will Act as Skipper in Oshkosh Races.

Definite decisions was made this morning by the Duluth Boat club to send the Nevaled, the new sailing boat, owned by Frank Ferrell, to take part in the class A races in the Inland Lakes regatta, to be held during the early part of August at Oshkosh, Wis.

The Nevaled is the only class A boat in Duluth, and as it was new here, and little known about it, there was some doubt whether it should be sent. Several of the best sailors at the Head of the Lakes have been busy studying her workings, and believe they now understand her sufficiently to be able to make a good showing.

The following men have been selected to handle the new boat: George Holland, skipper; E. A. Pierce, managing the sheet; Joe Roth at the jib, and Lester Phelps and Frank Farrell as the crew.

The boat will be shipped from Duluth a week from tomorrow, and will arrive in Oshkosh in plenty time for the races.

Some time ago it was decided by the club to send Charles Brewer's "Allegro," a class B boat, which is the fastest of its class in the local harbor. Much is expected of this boat, for it has shown up well in the past.

The Inland Lake regatta, to be held at Oshkosh, is the largest regatta in the West, and considerable interest is taken in it throughout the country. All the larger cities will be represented, while many smaller ones, famous for their water maneuvers will also have crews there.

THE GREAT LAKES FLEET.

U. S. S. Wolverine, flagship.
Gopher, Duluth.
Nashville, Chicago.
Don Juan de Austria, Detroit.
Yantic, Hancock and Essenaba.
Essex, Toledo.
Dorothea, Cleveland.
Hawk, Buffalo.
Sandoval, Rochester.

With every officer and every man determined to do his best to equal the record which brought fame and trophies to the Minnesota Naval Militia last year, the two Duluth divisions will sail out of the harbor next Thursday evening on the United States Steamship Gopher, en route for Thunder Bay, where the Great Lakes fleet will mobilize.

Resplendent in fresh white paint and shining brass, the Gopher lies at anchorage in the bay ready for the cruise. With two new boilers to generate power for greater speed, improvements to her cabin arrangement and other new equipment for the comfort and convenience of officers and men, the Gopher is a better boat now than at any time since she sailed up Lake Superior as the Fern to become the training ship of the Minnesota militia.

The Gopher has been out of drydock only about two weeks, so that the stood at the head of the list each year militia boys have had little opportunity for practice this summer. Two weeks ago, they drilled on board while the boat lay at anchorage in the bay and last Saturday evening a cruise was taken to Bark bay. The boys had opportunity for some drills, but they will not be as well equipped for the annual maneuvers as they would have been had they had the boat from May 1 as they first expected.

Despite the handicap, the crew of the Gopher will leave for the cruise determined to maintain the high standard of excellence for which the Minnesota militia is noted in the Great Lakes fleet. The regular navy officers who have observed the maneuvers of the fleet each year have always had a word of praise for Commander Guy A. Eaton and the men of the two Duluth divisions and Lieut. A. K. Shoup, who accompanied the Gopher last year as one of the ship's company was especially warm in his praise of the manner in which the Minnesota reserves carried themselves through the maneuvers.

In general excellence, in precision in drill, in signal work, and in the other maneuvers in which comparison might be made, the Gopher and its crew and the boys will not fall down this year if hard work and conscientious attention to duty will prevent.

Last year, the crew of the captain's gig of the Gopher won permanent possession of the trophy offered by the Little Traverse Yacht club of Harbor Springs, Mich., the victory last year being the third by the Duluth crew. Last year also, the officers' boat crew, stroked by Commander Eaton, won the Sherman cup, which was in possession of the officers of the Wolverine the previous year. Commander Eaton and his officers' crew are determined to work hard for another victory this year that they may be nearer permanent possession of the cup and the supremacy of the fleet in that contest.

The fleet, which will gather at Thunder Bay, Aug. 8, will consist of the Wolverine, which is the flagship of the fleet; the Gopher of Duluth, Nashville of Chicago, Essex of Toledo, Dorotha of Cleveland, Hawk of Buffalo, Don Juan de Austria of Detroit, Yantic of Hancock and Sandoval of Rochester, the latter being a new addition to the fleet this year.

A Longer Cruise.

The cruise this year will be the longest ever made by the Gopher and will also be the longest ever made by the entire fleet after the mobilization. After gathering for of Alpena, Mich., in Thunder Bay, Aug. 8, the fleet will proceed to Port Huron and from there will sail Aug. 9 for Buffalo, Aug. 11, the fleet will arrive at Buffalo and it will remain there until the evening of Aug. 12. One half of each crew will be given shore leave each day to visit Niagara Falls.

It is expected that at Buffalo, the boat races between the men of the ships, an annual event, will be held. The officers of the fleet will be guests of the boat club at Buffalo, Aug. 13 and 14 will be spent at Cleveland unless Governor Harmon of Ohio will review the fleet on the latter date. Aug. 15 at Detroit, Governor Fred M. Warner of Michigan, who also visited the fleet last year, will be received. The board of inspectors of the United States navy will inspect the fleet at Port Huron, Aug. 16, after which the fleet will disband and the different ships will leave for their respective home ports.

For the officers and men of the naval militia the annual cruise is not all work, nor is it all play, but work and play are so intermingled as to get the best results, for the men individually and for the organization.

There is rigid discipline on the ships all during the cruise. With few modifications, the sailors of the Great Lakes follow the routine which is enforced on the battleships of the United States navy. They are men from all walks of life, men whose primary training is not the training of the ship, but when they are on shipboard, as militia of their state and reserves of their nation, they are not playsailors. They are just as earnest in observing regulations, just as careful in their drills, just as keen to earn and attain excellence as are the bluejackets who have enlisted in the regular navy to follow the life for the term of their enlistment.

The boys of the Great Lakes fleet are enlisted for two weeks on shipboard. During the year, they hold weekly drills, but the real results desired cannot be obtained without the actual work on the ship completing the work which the armory drills accomplish, or aim to accomplish.

The boys get pleasure out of their cruise and, out on the water of the great fresh water lakes, away from their offices and their daily routine, they enjoy the work. They do everything eagerly and willingly. There is keen rivalry between the different ships of the fleet. A victory in competitive signal drill or in a boat race is a cause for rejoicing on the winning ship and the representatives who gain the victory are heartily cheered by their fellows. The Minnesota reserves have had cause to cheer every year. They will be grievously disappointed if they do not have cause to cheer this year and they are determined not to be disappointed if doing their best will prevent.

Rigid Routine.

The routine on the ship, while rigid, is not irksome. The boys must take their watch, present themselves for inspection, keep the ship shining, participate in the drills, swing their hammocks at the bugle call and be up betimes again in the morning, but they have opportunity for relaxation and the novelty of the work on shipboard and the eagerness to attain commendable excellence are factors that remove any semblance of hard labor that their duties may have.

In port, the men off watch and having a clean record, are given shore liberties and that fact is a factor in obtaining strict observance of regulations on shipboard. No man is anxious to go into the brig or have his liberties curtailed and a failure to realize the serious side of the work will have just that result.

The visit of King Neptune to the ship is an annual event that is keenly looked forward to by the initiated, but is not relished by those who have not been presented at the court of his royal highness. Although King Neptune has his usual habitat in the vicinity of the equator, where he boards ships as they cross the line, he comes North each year to visit the Gopher, and his visit is always welcome—to the initiated.

The two Duluth divisions will have a full complement of officers and men this year, about 150 in all. It is expected that Lieut. Shoup will again accompany the Gopher as a representative of the navy department.

Besides the two new boilers which have been installed in the Gopher, the ward room has been enlarged, some new equipment has been installed and the officers' quarters will be much more comfortable than they have been formerly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Prayer meeting topic this week—"My Most Interesting Missionary Item."

The Second Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society—Leader for Sunday will be Ralph Page. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Aug. 5, at Magham's camp. This society is trying the system of holding their meetings on different nights. The idea was taken from a suggestion at the recent state convention.

The Westminster Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society—Leader for the Sunday evening meeting will be John Kerr; hour of meeting 6:45 p. m. The society has charge of a reception to be given to Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Leitch on Tuesday evening, Aug. 2.

The First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society—Meeting at 6:45 p. m. Willis Churchill, delegate to the recent convention at Mankato will give his report on the convention. Mrs. George Campbell will sing.

At the Smithville Christian Endeavor society—Will meet in the school house at 7 p. m., and Miss Tillie Swensen will be the leader.

The Union Church Disciples Christian Endeavor society will meet in their room in the Knights of Pythias hall at 7 p. m. The meeting this week will be in charge of the missionary committee and all visitors are welcome.

The Glen Avon Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society will meet in the church at 6:45 p. m. Visitors are welcome.

The First Christian Endeavor society will meet in the church at 6:30 p. m.

The Pilgrim Congregational Christian Endeavor society will meet in the endeavor room at 6:30 p. m.

The Lakeside Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society will meet in the church at 6 p. m. and will welcome all visitors.

The Poor Farm meeting will be in charge of the Second Presbyterian society.

As was shown by the reports of the different societies both this and last week, most of the societies have heard the reports of their delegates to the recent state convention at Mankato. The unanimous verdict of all of the delegates who attended the convention from this city is that it was the best Christian Endeavor convention ever held in this state. The city at which the next convention will be held has not yet been definitely decided upon, but Duluth is making a strong bid for the honor and hopes to be able to secure it. Reports from the different societies are encouraging showing that the attendance is good during the summer month. The Duluth Union is planning a campaign to raise money for the headquarters building at Boston, that will house all of the departments of the society's work. Plans for the building have been finished and Endeavorers all over the country are working to make possible the completion of the structure. The entire cost of the land and building is about $250,000 of which amount about $90,000 remains to be raised.

So infrequently does the army of the United States take part in serious warlike encounters that some people—quite naturally under the circumstances, no doubt—have come to believe that it is composed of men who know little or nothing about the practical art of fighting. Yet, as a matter of fact, the army is full of first-class fighting men who have won their spurs in battle and, incidentally, have performed feats of heroism which will take rank with the fiction accounts of Dumas in reciting the eventful lives of the "Three Guardsmen."

Right in Washington at the present time engaged in perfecting the United States army, are probably twenty men, wearing medals of honor, who would be called upon to direct the army in time of war. Among them are several members of the general staff, which is recognized as the strategy board of the army. The deeds which brought them their medals of honor are stirring human interest stories, which will be preserved in the history of the army for all time to come. Their promotion in rank and the fact that they are on duty in Washington serve to indicate that, despite the slow method of promotion, men of merit in the regular fighting force always come to the surface in some responsible capacity where they can serve the country best. And, likewise, this same point is aptly illustrated by the careers of still other highly placed fighting men in the national capital and elsewhere, who, though they hold no medals of honor, have, nevertheless, performed valorous deeds on the field of battle rivalling any that have won congressional recognition.

A Medal of Honor Man Head of the Army.

Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, and if he lives, likely to remain head of the army for a longer period than any of his predecessors, is best known to the country by reason of his services as colonel of the First United States Cavalry, otherwise known as "Roosevelt's Rough Riders," in the Spanish-American war. Gen Wood, however, got his medal of honor for distinguished conduct in the campaign against the Apache Indians during the summer of 1886, while serving as medical officer with Capt. Lawton's expedition.

In order to get his medal of honor, Gen. Wood performed numerous feats and among other things made the present physical test for army officers look decidedly cheap. The occasion was the great Geronimo campaign in which that crafty and cunning Apache warrior, perhaps the most dangerous Indian who ever went on the warpath in the United States, was run to earth and thereafter became a prisoner of the government. The chase took place over the wild desert county of Arizona and the opportunities for distinguished service were almost countless. The two conspicuous things that Wood did were as follows:

In the first place, in order to keep the wary Apache and his band caged it was necessary to cover a vast deal of country with small detachments. Incidentally, it was necessary to keep the lines of communication open so that a call for help would bring white soldiers and not red ones, to the rescue. On one occasion, Wood undertook to get communication through the enemy to headquarters. He had a hundred miles ahead of him, every foot of which was just as likely to hide an Indian as not. The young medical officer started at night and by daybreak had covered seventy miles on horseback over a rough and partially unknown country. In the broad light of day, despite the presence of the hostile force, he covered the remaining thirty miles on foot and within twenty-four hours completed his journey and handed in his dispatches.

The other act which attracted the attention of Gen. Wood's superior officers was his voluntary request to be assigned to the command of a small detachment of infantry engaged in the pursuit of Geronimo. This band of soldiers was nowhere equal to the known strength of the Indian chief, but Wood and his command made the pace so hot for the Apache that they never once lost the trail, although they were momentarily in danger of an encounter which, had it taken place, would probably have wiped them off the face of the earth. Thus, Gen. Wood demonstrated his love for the soldier life when "sawboning" was a dull business. He did not receive his medal, however, until April 8, 1898, when he was in Cuba.

Gen. Carter's Brave Rescue.

Maj. Gen. William H. Carter, acting chief of staff in the absence of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, had nearly twenty years' experience as an Indian fighter. He began in the Apache country and finished out his Indian record by participating in the last pitched battle ever fought between federal troops and the Indians on Wounded Knee creek in the Dakotas. On this occasion Carter led a cavalry charge against the flank of an attacking party of Sioux who had cornered a small body of troops sent out to reconnoiter. The Indians were beaten off and a few days later made their famous surrender to Gen Miles.

It was as a lieutenant that Gen. Carter won his medal of honor. In a fight on Cibucu creek, the soldiers, leaving several badly wounded men on the ground behind them, had been driven along to a place of shelter by the Apaches. No sooner were the troops safely lodged than volunteers were called for to bring in the wounded men. Lieut. Carter was one of those who volunteered and in the face of a galling fire from the Indians, who were protected behind rocks on the hillside, he went forth with two companions and one by one brought in the wounded men. Strange to say, not a single member of the volunteer party was hit by an Indian bullet during the many trying minutes they were under fire.

The army records show that Gen. Carter's medal of honor was awarded him "for distinguished action against hostile Apache Indians in rescuing with the voluntary assistance of two soldiers, the wounded, from under a heavy fire." Cold type cannot begin to describe the nerve and bravery of the young lieutenant and his associates in the face of cold lead.

The Height of Self-Sacrifice.

For cool, calm and deliberate action in the face of almost certain death, Brigadier-General William P. Hall, assistant adjutant general of the army, won his medal of honor. General Hall deliberately exposed himself to the fire of hostile Indians for the sole purpose of saving the lives of two of his comrades who had been cut off by the Indians and were attempting to effect an escape.

It was in 1879 that Hall, then a first lieutenant in the Fifth United States cavalry, lay resting on the mountains of Colorado after a pitched battle with the Ute Indians, in which Hall's detachment had been rescued only by a furious charge of cavalry under General Merritt. Notwithstanding the known presence of hostile Indians in the vicinity, Lieutenant Weir of the artillery and a civilian went deer hunting. At the same time Hall was ordered to take two men and reconnoiter the district. While engaged in this duty, the reconnoitering party were made aware of the nearby presence of Indians by a volley of shots at the mouth of a valley. From their position on the hillside it was plain to them that Lieutenant Weir and his friend had been "treed" by the Utes, who were intent upon finishing their careers in short order.

Immediately, Hall and his men went to the rescue. Coming upon the flank of the Indians, they opened fire. Under cover of their fire Weir and his companion broke from their hiding place behind the rocks and made a place of safety behind another boulder a short distance away. As quick as a flash, Hall conceived a plan to unite his party of three men with the two men on the mountainside. Rising in his place from behind the rocks, he deliberately exposed himself to the enemy and drew their entire fire. At the same time, Weir and the civilian made a dash for another rock, which they also safely reached. This process was repeated by Hall three times before the Indians saw through his plan. By that time Weir and his fellow hunter had nearly reached the little band trying to save them. From that time on, however, no amount of exposure on Hall's part and no amount of firing by himself and his companions could divert the Utes. Neither Weir nor his companion ever reached Hall's little party, which, on its own account, had to fight a retreating battle toward camp which culminated in a rescue by the entire regiment.

The army records say that Hall and his two enlisted men stood off thirty-five Indians in this conflict, more than half the time being engaged in trying to save the lives of Weir and his companion and all of the time busy in saving their own. Not one of Hall's party received a scratch.

A Deed That Reads Like Fiction.

Major Thomas Cruse, of the quartermaster's department, won his medal of honor on the big dry wash of Arizona in 1882, in saving a wounded comrade from an attacking party of Apaches. Major Cruse made the Indians respect the keenness of his eye and the power of his carbine by some of the most remarkable shooting known in the annals of the army. Single handed an dulene, he made the entire attacking party stick close to the sheltering rocks while he calmly walked out and picked up his wounded comrade and bore him to a place of safety.

The story of Cruse's brave act is short, but full of action. Arriving at the bed of the stream known, paradoxically, as the Big Dry Wash—a name arising from the fact that in the wet season it washed out everything in sight and in the dry season was as dry as a bone—Cruse reconnoitered the opposite bank, which was covered with rock, before attempting to lead his little party over it. Failing to find any Indians in sight, he started across with his men. In the middle of the river bed they received a volley from a party of Apaches, estimated to have numbered at least fifty, and as a result, two of Cruse's men fell. A retreat was ordered, but Cruse stopped long enough to pick up one of the wounded men and carry him along with him, leaving the other one for dead.

Shortly after reaching a natural breastwork behind the rocks, Cruse saw the other wounded man turn over in the bed of the creek. Without waiting an instant, he jumped to his feet, carbine in hand. As he did so, the redskins began to poke their rifle barrels over the rocks ahead. Quick as a flash Cruse blazed away and brought down the first Indian with a shot through the head. Then advancing toward his comrade, he took another shot at a second Indian and knocked him over with a hole through the body. Ready for further action if it became necessary, Cruse ran to his comrade, all the time keeping his eyes on the enemy, and, raising the fallen man to his back, carried him to safety. The fact that not another shot was fired by the Indians during the actual work of rescue when Cruse himself was at a decided disadvantage, is held by army officers to be an evidence of the great respect the Indians had conceived in a few seconds for Cruse's unerring aim and his personal bravery.

A Hero of the Last Great Indian Battle.

Brig. Gen. E. A. Garlington, inspector-general of the army, won his medal of honor in the last great battle against the Indians which was fought in this country.

Garlington was a lieutenant of the famous Seventh cavalry, which was attacked by the Indians under Chief Big Foot on Dec. 29, 1890. As a part of the campaign, it had been the duty of Garlington's troops, along with three other companies, to keep Big Foot on the move along the Cheyenne, while other troops were engaged in the gradual forcing of Sitting Bull and his warriors back onto the Pine Ridge agency. The latter feat had been accomplished to the extent that Sitting Bull was encamped only seven miles from the reservation, when Big Foot eluded his guard, consisting of 470 soldiers, and escaped. He had with him at the time 106 warriors and nearly twice as many women and children.

For a few days the soldiers were busily engaged driving in Big Foot's scouts, who were on the lookout for a chance to join some of the larger parties of Indians on the warpath. Then attempts to get Big Foot into line peaceably led to an open rupture and a fierce battle in which a cavalry charge was the spectacular feature. The result was that thirty officers and men of the Seventh cavalry were either killed or wounded. Lieut. Garlington being among the latter. The Indians, fighting from within their tepees, made it impossible for the soldiers to discriminate between the warriors and their squaw and children. As long as the Indians kept up the battle, the soldiers continued to return their fire, with the result that 200 of the redskins were killed. Gen. Garlington was three months at Fort Riley recovering from his wounds sufficiently to enable him to take a leave of absence lasting until nearly a year later, when he returned to active service.

Gen. Garalington's assistant, Maj. Andre W. Brewster, is a hero of the Boxer rebellion in China. At that time he was a captain of Company B of the Ninth infantry, which accompanied the international army on the march to Pekin.

Arriving at Tien-Tsin on July 13, 1900, the combined arms were confronted by the Chinese, entrenched behind the walls of that city. Outside the wall was a considerable country covered with pools of water greatly resembling a moat. Behind the walls the Chinese had a number of cannon, some of them modern Krupp guns that they had picked up from their European visitors. A counsel of war among the commanding officers of the motley army resulted in a determination to attack the town. Capt. Brewster and his company were among those sent around in the neighborhood of the bridge leading toward Pekin. In the resulting attack Brewster and his men had a lively session of it. In the course of their numerous charges and retreats in and around the pools of water, two men of the company fell into a pond eight feet deep, one of them having been twice wounded. Despite the fact that he was fully accoutered and the Chinese were giving him about all they could send, Capt. Brewster jumped into the water and saved the lives of both men. Hence his medal of honor.

Two Deeds of Valor and a Joke.

Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, who preceded Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood in Washington as chief of staff of the army, and who has been assigned to the command of the Philippines, thus goes back to an old stamping ground, where he not only won his medal of honor, but was jumped in rank from captain to brigadier general in the army without the protest of a single officer or enlisted man who knows a fighting man when he sees him.

Gen. Bell received his medal for distinguished gallantry in action on Sept. 17, 1899, near Tarlac, in the Island of Luzon. The country thereabouts was covered with bamboo thickets, which made guerilla warfare on the part of the natives not only easy for them, but thoroughly exasperating for the United States troops. Bell was in advance of his regiment when he found himself suddenly confronted by seven natives all armed with rifles. In the twinkling of an eye the future chief of staff of the army whipped out his long army Colt and made a headlong dash for the insurgents. So astonished was the enemy at his single-handed charge that Bell captured the captain and two privates, while the other four fled.

No sooner had Bell begun to march his captives toward camp, however, than the free rebels opened up a smashing fire from a bamboo thicket, yet Col. Bell—that was his rank in the volunteers—managed to stand off the attacking party and at the same time keep his captives in tow; and when he brought them into camp there was not a man in sight who did not acclaim him worthy of a medal of honor.

Gen. Bell landed in Manila a lieutenant in the army. He was with the first troops to arrive after Admiral Dewey had destroyed the Spanish fleet, and when the city itself had not yet fallen into American hands. One of the first things to be done by the army was to ascertain the strength of the Spanish batteries which surrounded the city, especially on the water side. Franklin Bell volunteered to perform this task, and his services were accepted, although none of his comrades knew exactly how he proposed to perform it. When darkness came on, Lieut. Bell went down to the beach and "peeled off." The next moment he was in the water, swimming through the harbor of Manila. His great strength enabled him to cover long distances without rest. Occasionally, however, he swam ashore to get a better view of the Spanish guns, and after swimming clear across the harbor he swam back again to his starting point with accurate information of all the Spanish intrenchments and the disposition of their heavy guns.

Gen. Bell is chock full of practical humor. One of the best jokes he ever perpetrated was on a Tagalog village in the Philippines. At the head of a regiment of regular soldiers who had re-enlisted after their term of service had expired, Bell set out to capture this village, which was full of Tagalog warriors who had been giving the soldiers from the United States a lot of trouble. Being a veteran of the Indian wars in this country, Col. Bell sent his soldiers between the pickets of the enemy rather than at them, and the only picket who observed the proceeding was quickly suppressed.

Having arrived in the village in the dead of night, Col. Bell hesitated to awaken his adversary unceremoniously. He deployed his troops so as to cover every avenue of escape, and a little later, while roaming around the village, stumbled across an old cannon which the Taglogs had captured from the Spaniards. At the same instant he conceived a plan to appraise the enemy of his presence. Summoning a squad of three men he ordered the old canonn loaded to the muzzle with powder. Just as dawn was breaking there was a roar in the heart of that Tagalog village that brought every nightshirtless inhabitant of it out of doors. Spears and bolos and even army rifles were cold comfort in their hands when confronted with rifle barrels and bayonets under their noses. The Tagalogs quit without firing a shot and admitted afterwards in their own language that Gabriel's trumpet will not rouse them quicker than did Bell's cannon.

"Forlorn Hopes" Elliott of the Marines.

Maj. Gen. George F. Elliott, commandant of the marine corps, while not listed on the official records as owning a medal of honor, has, nevertheless, won his spurs on so many occasions that it would be difficult to ignore him in any fair estimate of the valorous qualifications of high placed fighting men stationed in the national capital. In Cuba, in the Philippines and in Korea, Gen. Elliott has been called upon to lead small detachments of soldiery on what might well have been forlorn hopes. In Panama he saved the lives of his men and himself by catching red-handed a man who was about to dynamite the whole outfit. About the only chance he has had to cool off was when he was sent with the Alliance into the arctic regions years ago. That good ship reached 80 deg. and 10 minutes north latitude, "the farthest north" at that time.

When the Chinese and Japanese were at war in the early 90's, Elliott, at that time a lieutenant attached to Winfield Scott Schley's cruiser, the Baltimore, was sent with a force of sixty men to Seoul, the capital of Korea, to protect the United States consulate and the missionaries who had assembled there. The march was made from Chemulpo through as God-forsaken a country and under as adverse conditions as men were ever called upon to make. The sailors and marines sweltered in the sun from the waist up and sank in the mud and water of the Korean rice fields from the waist down. Nevertheless they made Seoul and accomplished their purpose.

In 1898, when the American troops made their first landing in the neighborhood of Guantanamo bay, Capt. Elliott was sent out with a small body of marines and Cuban auxiliaries to destroy some Spanish stores nearby. The newcomers had not had time to make a reconnoitre, consequently, it was not at all surprising that they stumbled into a first-class fighting Spanish regiment. Without retreating a foot or calling for help, Elliott and his men pitched into the enemy for all they were worth. The net result was forty dead Spaniards, nearly twice that many wounded and eighteen prisoners, and the balance of the Spanish force took to its heels over the most convenient hill. Elliott calmly marched on and performed the duty he had set out to accomplish.

The result of this episode was that Elliott was made a major, and it was as major that he was sent out in the Philippines at the head of a detachment of 300 men to clean out a region infested with insurgents who were preventing a junction of two wings of Gen. Schwam's army. As in Cuba, neither Elliott nor those over him knew just what he was going up against. Near Nova Leta Elliott found out. The enemy was entrenched and judging by the fire of rifle balls in his direction, the entire insurrectionary force of the Philippine natives seemed to behind the breastworks. The only alternatives were a retreat or a charge. As in Cuba, Elliott charged, and while he lost a good part of his force, no natives were left in the breastworks except dead ones. All Maj. Elliott got out of it was a sunstroke and the thanks of his superior officers. Schwan's corps was brought together and the whole district shortly cleaned up. Elliott had taught the natives a lesson they have never forgotten.

Maj. John Bigelow's Heroism.

Another, and even more striking case of valor that did not win a medal of honor is found in the career of Maj. John Bigelow, Jr., now retired; and his is a case that simply goes to prove, like Maj. Elliott's that wherever you run across a regular army officer, either active or retired, you are likely to have before you a hero of actual warfare. Oil paintings may not show it and history may not have done full justice to the fact that Maj. Bigelow of the Tenth cavalry (colored), was one of the real heroes of the battle of San Juan hill.

Bigelow was a captain when the Spanish war broke out and went to Cuba as a part of Gen. Shafter's army. It will be recalled that when the Roosevelt Rough Riders met their first check in their charge up San Juan hill it was the colored troopers of the Tenth cavalry who were ordered to their support. They marched forward as infantry through a country thick with underbrush and upon reaching the open country in front of the Spanish entrenchments, rushed the enemy. Almost at the first volley Capt. Bigelow was shot through the right arm and had to stop to pick up his weapon before renewing his advance. A little further on the bullet passed through his body, the shock of the impact bringing him to earth. Up got Bigelow to renew the charge. Before he had proceeded a few yards, however, a third bullet pierced his leg above the knee and down he went again. This time the hospital corps captured him, loaded him onto a litter and carried him to the rear.

The captain was still game, however, and leading up against a nearby tree for support; insisted on receiving reports and sending orders to the front. While standing there; he was shot a fourth time. For the balance of the day he alternated between resting and fighting with the whole hospital corps, who tried to keep him down. No better example of determination and grit, courage and bravery has ever been shown on a field of battle than Bigelow put up on this occasion. He retired in 1904 after thirty years of service in the army with no medals of honor on his person other than those inflicted by Spanish bullets. He is a son of one of America's grand old men, the nonogenarian, John Bigelow of New York; and because he is an expert on military science his services would undoubtedly be in demand by Uncle Sam should the genial old gentlemen go to war during Maj. Bigelow's lifetime. As it is now, the major contents himself teaching French and writing books on war subjects.

NORMAL NOTES

Summer school has closed at the normal.

Those who will receive diplomas from the elementary graduate course are: Minnie Campaign, Helena Gannon, Mary Langford, Harriet Martin, Elizabeth Schaeffer and Viola Slavick. The graduates from the advanced graduate course are: Mary Fitzpatrick and Alice Cox. Winnifred Wright, graduate from the kindergarten course.

Miss Ely, the librarian, left Friday for the Wisconsin lakes, where she will camp for the rest of the summer.

Mrs. Pettingall and Miss Pettingall will go to their cottage at the Briery for several weeks.

Miss Carey will go to St. Paul and from there to her home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Long has gone to her home in Baldwin, Kan.

Miss Van Stone has gone to her home in Malla Bend, Mo.

W. C. Cobb has gone to Brainerd; E. A. Freeman to Grand Rapids; J. A. Van Dyke to Coleraine; Mr. Frazee to Walton, Ind., and M. A. Morse to Buhl.

Margaret Donohue, Effie Pfeiffer, Harriet Martin, Elizabeth Scheaffer and Minnie Campaign have left for their homes in Tower.

Miss Alyce McCarthy will go to Superior before returning to her home in Coleraine.

Miss Viola Slavich has gone to Virginia, Margaret Kelley to Montreal, Wis., and Lawretta Schean to Hurley, Wis.

Miss Katherine Cave has gone to Hibbing for a short visit.

Those who have gone to Brainerd are: Winnifred Wright, Vivian and Serrie Anderson.

Those who have gone to Cloquet are: Winifred Collins, Agnes Saraheat, Edith Mickelson, Caroline Erwin, Leonna Blair, Leona Bonnier, Lidia Carlson and Petronella Stenberg.

Rachael Eperson has gone to Brookston; Phue Young to Aitkin; Mary Fitzpatrick to Wabeno, Wis.; Marie Driscoll to Willow River; Ruth and Ruby Haigh to Goodland, Minn.; Mary Langford to Farmington, Minn.; Inez Holm to Twin Valley, and Alice Cox to Becker, Minn.

Miss Isabel Joyce will leave for her home in Viroqua, Wis., Tuesday, Aug. 2.

Mr. Bohannon is in St. Paul and Minneapolis on business.

A number of the girls who have been attending the normal this summer are planning to take the teachers' examinations which will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the high school.

Miss Alyce McCarthy was pleasantly surprised at the home of her aunt, Mrs. McCarthy, in Superior, last Saturday. Those who attended from Washburn Hall were: Misses Loretta Shean, Katherine Cave, Rhue Young and Margaret Kelley.

Miss Mary Fitzpatrick returned to Washburn Hall Monday, after an absence of two weeks.

Mrs. Blair of Clouquet was the guest of her daughter, Leona, at Washburn Hall this week.

Miss Winnifred Wright spent Saturday and Sunday at Solon Springs, Wis.

Miss Harriet Martin was very ill with an attack of appendicitis this week.

Those who visited the school this week were: Miss Adeline Buckley, Miss Margaret Conklin of Stillwater, Minn.; Lucile Norris, Mary O'Brien, Katherine Guthrie, Margaret Raleigh, Margaret Grogan and Rebecca Walker.

Miss Ina Martin of Tower was at Washburn Hall Monday to attend her sister, who was ill.

Mrs. F. G. English of Hunter's Park entertained a number of girls at a farewell party for her sister, Miss Isabel Joyce on Thursday. The guests were: Miss Alyce McCarthy, Miss Margaret MacArthur, Miss Helen Harbison, Miss Margaret Kelley and Miss Rhue Young.

In chapel, Monday, President Bohannon announced that school would close on Thursday instead of Friday, as had been arranged. It was necessary to have the reports in before the teachers' examinations were held and there was a meeting of superintendents on Friday. The examinations were held Thursday morning.

The manual training classes which have been conducted by Miss Ruth Raleigh during the summer term will continue until next Friday.

Miss Clara Routheau, who was in the junior class last year at the normal, is in the city to take the teacher's examination.

SEARCHING AFTER PEARLS.

Claming Is Favorite Pastime at Winona While River Is Low.

Winona, Minn., July 30.—That the extremely low stage of water, which has resulted in a record-breaking harvest of clams in this section of the Upper Mississippi, may have the effect of depleting the supply so that button factories will find it difficult to get enough shells to make the business worth while after a year or two, is the opinion expressed by a prominent local riverman, who has been greatly interested in newspaper accounts of the discovery of big new beds of clams and stories of the finding of rich pearls.

The government fish steamer Curlew, which has been located at the La Crosse sub-station, has left for the Illinois river, where it has been ordered to assist in the government work on the clam beds, and probably will not return to these waters until late in the fall.

The Curlew has had nothing to do on this section of the upper river during the spring and early summer. The water has been so low that most of the sloughs have dried up and there have been no land-locked waters out of which game fish could be saved. There has been no rise since the Curlew finished its season's work last October.

PLANS BEING DRAFTED FOR NEW HOUGHTON SCHOOL.

Houghton, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Architect E. Breilmeyer of Milwaukee has been engaged to draw plans for the projected parochial school for St. Ignatius Catholic church here. The building will be modern in every respect and will be erected at a cost of $20,000. Allouez township school district, Keweenaw county, will shortly begin the erection of a $10,000 building, to be used ultimately as a high school. Pupils from half a dozen small villages and mining locations will attend the new school. It is to be constructed of concrete blocks.

DIAMOND DRILLS ARE BUSY

Good Showing Being Made at the Superior & Globe Workings—Development of Three Separate Faces Carried on Rapidly at National.

Globe, Ariz., July 30.—The diamond drill in operation at the Superior & Globe mine has made some fifty feet since its installation last week. It is expected that when things are running smoothly an advance of ten feet a day will be made. It may then be advisable to put on another shift and double the development along those lines.

On the 650-foot level a crosscut runs north for some 550 feet and it is in the face of this crosscut that the drill is established. At 250 feet from the shaft the crosscut passes through the vein which is twelve feet wide here, and dips 51 deg. to the north. It can be seen that the drill is 300 feet further in and that as it is expected to cut the vein at a vertical depth of 600 feet below the 650-foot level, is turned slightly off the perpendicular and with the dip of the vein. The vein contains principally the oxidized iron compounds where it is shown up by the crosscut, and both the foot and hanging walls are of diabase, and are twenty feet apart. Every forty-eight hours fifty 200-gallon buckets of water are hoisted, the new drill hole having encountered quite a flow of water.

National.

Work at the Williams shaft of the National Mining Exploration company is continuing and the shaft is now at a depth of 770 feet. The weekly progress is about twenty-one feet. As soon as a depth of 778 feet has been attained, which will be in another week, a station will be established. The shaft will be continued for another fifteen feet to afford a sump.

The limestone in the bottom of the shaft to date is somewhat darker, approaching a true shale. After the sump has been completed work will all be concentrated in cutting a station and in carrying on development on both levels. It is the intention of the management to run drifts northeast and southwest along the vein and to crosscut also, in both directions. On the 660-foot level above a small stringer of ore, running 9.5

NORTH BUTTE AND TUOLUMNE

Injunction Proceedings May Not Be Pressed, But Action for Accounting of Ore Begun—Millionaire Murray Claims Anaconda Is Taking Ore From Fashion Quartz Lode Mining Claim.

Butte, Mont., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a rumor which may be well founded that the injunction proceedings of the North Butte company against the Tuolumne Copper Mining company will not be pressed at the present time, although the parties to the action decline to express any opinion on the question. However, the fact is no date has been set for the hearing in the case and the Tuolumne is mining as usual and hoisting 100 tons of ore a day. Some papers in the East published a report that the Tuolumne had stopped mining under an agreement with the North Butte company, but this was denied by Supt. Sheehan, who says that there is no agreement of any kind in existence and that the company is mining away just the same as before any papers were filed in the case. "We have nothing to fear," says the superintendent, "and are perfectly willing to have the North Butte company go ahead with its action at any time." It is alleged by the North Butte company that the Tuolumne has been mining on the Jessie vein which is partly disputed ground. It is said that instead of making an effort to secure the injunction a suit will be brought by the North Butte company for an accounting of the ore taken from the ground claimed.

Loss of Washoe Sampling Works.

The total destruction of the Washoe sampling works, the property of the Anaconda Copper Mining company by fire, means quite a loss to this city in the way of furnishing employment to a number of people who have been living here for several years. The works were built by Brunton & Taylor in 1902, and two years later were purchased by the Washoe company, and under the merger terms passed into the hands of the Anaconda company but a few months ago. The works cost $100,000 and were insured for $60,000. The opinion seems to prevail that the building will not be rebuilt in this city and that all the sampling will be done in Anaconda. The works were used almost entirely for the reception and sampling of custom ores and these are now going to Anaconda, so that the prospectors and others are not suffering any inconvenience. With the force at the sampling works in Anaconda, where all the ore treated at the Washoe smelter is sampled, the extra ore from the independent producers, and prospectors can be easily handled, it is unofficially stated, and therefore there is really no necessity for the sampling works in this city.

Davis-Daly.

There are various rumors concerning the future of the Davis-Daly property and there does not seem to be any definite plan yet as to the resumption of work in the Colorado mine, although it is just possible that the company shipping silver lead ore. The mine is from the assessment paid a week ago is available to pay for the construction of the tramway from the mine to the railroad tracks, so as to send the ore to the Basin concentrator. It is a well known fact that a large amount of ore has been blocked out in the Colorado, and that the statement of company officials is to the effect that just as soon as the tramway is constructed there will be shipments of 200 tons a day, but the fact is the tramway has not yet been actually started, although two weeks have elapsed since the supreme court dissolved the injunction which prohibited the company from proceeding with the work.

East Butte.

The East Butte Copper Mining company holds $2,494.45, which is claimed by W. O. D. Clymo and the Anaconda

NORTHERN SONORA ACTIVE

Great Pilares Property Daily Producing 2,000 Tons of Ore Rated at 3 Per Cent Copper--- Deal for El Canary.

Douglas, Ariz., July 30. — That the northern Sonora mining camps have entered upon an era of enlarged activity is the opinion of mining men and others from Nacozari, El Tigre and Altar camps, who are passing through Douglas daily. Many are going into these districts to open old properties and to place new ones on a producing basis.

The great Pilares property, owned and operated by the Moctezuma Copper company, is said to be producing daily about 2,000 tons of ore, rated at 3 per cent copper. The concentrator has been running full capacity since the recent rainfall in the district. It is said to be working a large force at the 1,000-foot level and it is claimed has proven 50 years' supply by going down 1,700 feet with a core drill.

This company is working the Furtuna under leases and a small force is blocking out reserve ore. Shipments are expected soon.

J. R. Cowell, of the Paris Copper company, which controls the Caridad group, reports that while the property is not working at present, it will be but a short time before work will be commenced. There has been 4,000 feet of work done on the property and it is claimed a large body of 3 per cent ore is in sight.

On account of a deal pending for the sale of the property, it is said the El Canary, which adjoins the Moctezuma properties on the north, has discontinued work temporarily. Tim Lamberson is the owner and manager of the mine. He has opened the ground for 200 feet.

The Arizona Mining & Trading company, owner of the Los Angeles in the Moctezuma district, is working a small force on development work and is said to be shipping ore, averaging $1,500 a car. The ore is said to run 12 per cent copper and 40 ounces silver. Superintendent Holbreek and J. S. Wolfe are in charge of the property.

The El Tigre camp presents a scene of unusual activity, practically every property in the field with the exception of one or two working full blast and nearly all making monthly shipments.

El Tigre is working a large force developing new reserves and it is said blocked out immense quantities of high grade ore, increasing its capacity and making arrangements for the construction of a new cyandide plant.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Ore Bodies Opened Through the Alpha Shaft Are in Limestone—Will Be Mined Through the Company's New Giroux Shaft.

Ely, Nev., July 30.—Preparations for producing ore from the Alpha shaft of the Giroux Consolidated company are progressing rapidly. The ore bodies opened through the Alpha shaft are in limestone, and the general average values on the 1,000-foot level are said to be better than 20 per cent copper. A winze, which is down 150 feet from the 1,000-foot level is all in ore, the major portion of which is native copper. Ore produced from these workings is to be shipped to the International company's smelter at Tooele.

While the ore bodies have been opened in the Alpha shaft, they are to be mined through the company's new Giroux shaft, which is five-compartment, and is down 1,200 feet. A station 125 feet long and 25 feet wide has been cut at the 1,200-foot level, and it is being lined with concrete. Two pumps, one of the capacity of 1,200 gallons a minute, the other of one-half that capacity, are being installed in that station. Another 600-gallon pump is on the ground, which is to be installed later at a lower level.

The Giroux shaft has been sunk in ground that is virtually dry, but there is considerable water in the Alpha shaft. The pumping capacity arranged for is believed to be ample to handle any possible flow. The management would be glad to develop a flow sufficient to supply its own concentrating mill. The two shafts are connected on the 1,000-foot level by an 800-foot crosscut. With the pumps installed, a crosscut will be driven on the 1,200-foot level from the Giroux shaft to the ore bodies, when the breaking of ore for shipment will be begun.

The Giroux's permanent hoisting plant is the largest in the Ely district—perhaps the largest known to the copper mining world. The two engines have behind them eight horizontal tubular boilers, each of 150-horse power. One of the engines will handle two five-ton skips, the other will handle the timber cage and drive the pumps. The concrete foundations for the boilers are being laid. The present wooden gallows frame will be supplanted by a steel head frame, 75 feet high, which is on the ground. It will be put into place without interfering with the shaft work or the driving of the crosscut.

It is understood that the management has laid plans for sinking in Rickard Ely ground the counterpart of the Giroux five-compartment shaft. Survey for the new shaft has already

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Companies Paying Less Attention to Production Owing to the Unsatisfactory Condition of the Metal Market—Shipping About 10 Per Cent Less Rock Than a Year Ago.

Houghton, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The unsatisfactory conditions in the metal market are causing the local mining companies to pay less attention to production and more attention to betterment in and around the mines. A canvass of the several railroads show that the companies are at present shipping considerably less rock than a year ago, the decrease approximating 10 per cent. Some of the larger companies notably the Calumet & Hecla, Osceola and Tamarack have been producing at less than their normal rates for many months past. These companies are making approximately one-half of the copper produced in the Lake Superior district, which is now around 18,000,000 pounds fine copper per ton. The Copper Range companies, Champion, Baltic and Trimountain and the Quincy company are not showing decreased productions and are without exception operating well up to capacity. Among the smaller companies operating in this district, production is limited to only such rock as is taken out in the course of development work and the total value is small.

Lake.

The Lake Copper company is centering all efforts in the development of that property and is paying no attention to production. The small tonnage is being shipped at irregular intervals, and even these are likely to be stopped altogether. The shaft is temporarily bottomed at the seventh level, where a plat has been cut and crosscutting to the lode is under way. Drifting is in progress at several levels from the third to the sixth inclusive, and high-grade ground continues to be opened at several points. An exceptionally fine run of ground is being opened at the fifth level south, where the drift discloses between forty and fifty feet of very rich rock. The third level south drift is also in exceptionally rich ground and is breasted within 100 feet of the Algomah boundary. The company is going ahead with the installation of permanent mine buildings, including a new compressor house, though as yet nothing has been done toward the erection of the steel rock shaft house, the contract for which was let several months ago.

Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company is engaged in running cross trenches across its property with the object of determining the identity of the formation upon which the exploratory shaft is being sunk. The shaft has attained a depth of about twenty-six feet all in copper ore of the same general character as that opened in the exploratory pit. A skip road is being installed to facilitate sinking.

Franklin.

The Franklin Mining company has opened some good looking copper ground in the crosscut at the sixteenth level of the No. 3 shaft. This shaft has been in and out of the lode continuously, but the showing at the sixteenth level is the first of importance obtained at this point. The No.

Globe, Ariz., July 30.—The good fortune which has attended development at the Live Oak mine in the past is apparently continuing, as every churn drill hole sunk has passed through the ore body. It is difficult at present to give the average thickness of the ore, but 100 feet is a safe estimate. As to the probable genesis of the ore-bearing solutions it can at least be said that it is the same as that of the Miami and Inspiration. It is the prevailing theory in the Miami district that the ore bodies as they stand today were formed by the leaching of super-incumbent rocks, either Pinal schist or Schulze granite. This theory, however, does not go further to indicate just what is the genesis of the copper minerals as regards the overlying Schulze granite and schist. However, it cannot be denied that the overburden of the ore body on Live Oak has been leached, but whether of copper or iron minerals it is impossible to say. Admitting that the copper depositing minerals were previously included in the overlying rocks, facts as they are shown up today, do not prove that the copper minerals were a magmatic segregation in the intruded granite. Facts also at present do not prove that a large fissure or system of fissures have been the original source of the copper carrying solution. It seems a little premature at the present stage of operations in the Miami district to dictate any kind of a hypothesis as to the source of the copper solutions which may, much to the chagrin of the promoter, be completely dispelled in the light of future development.

The Live Oak ore body reveals the four stages that a normally formed copper ore body should show. The leached zone is underlain by the oxidized material of minimum thickness containing cuprite, azarite and malachite and assaying in various places as much as 5 per cent copper. Under this oxidized zone and for 100 feet in depth occurs the Live Oak ore body in the zone of secondary enrichment. Here is found the mineral, chalcocite, which is the chief mineral constituent of the Live Oak ore and which brings the copper content up to a little over 2 per cent. Under this the fourth

ON MICHIGAN IRON RANGE

New York Steel Company to Open Two New Mines in Iron River District—Tobin Mine Location Being Much Improved.

Republic, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The New York State Steel company is preparing to open two new mines in the Iron River district, at the western end of the Menominee range, in Michigan. These are the Gleason property, in section 23, 42-35, and the Goodman, in section 14, 43-35. The tracts are a short distance north of the village of Iron River and in the vicinity of the Mineral Mining company's St. James mine, which is proving one of the best properties on the western range. Exploratory work has been in progress a considerable time past, with the result that large deposits of ore of very good grade have been found. The sinking of permanent shafts will be started as soon as the material can be assembled. One shaft will be lined with steel and will be equipped with a steel headframe. The development of the mines will be in charge of Rudolph Ericson, now chief engineer of the Michigan properties of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company and who has resigned that position to take the superintendency of the New York State Steel company's operations in the Iron River district.

The diamond drill has had much to do with determining the value of the Gleason and Goodman properties. The diamond drill has, in fact, been invaluable in finding new iron ore deposits in the Lake Superior region. It is the practice of many mining companies not only to explore from the surface, but to use diamond drills within the mines in locating ore extensions and ore pockets on the strike of the formation and contiguous to the underground workings. However, most of the drill work is done under contract with exploring concerns which in some cases employ scores of machines and large forces of experienced men. Since the present price of black diamond is $85 a carat, the drill setter is a man of great importance. The drill runner, too, must be thoroughly capable and know just how to manipulate his bit of stones in the rock. He could easily destroy hundreds of dollars' worth of the carbons in a single shift. The bit must be fed into the earth according to the nature of the rock and it is only long practice that makes this possible. Good drill setters and expert machine men are always in demand at high wages.

Activity is Great.

While there is a lull in the Iron trade at present, little evidence that

REPORT ON THE NORTH BUTTE

Deals Essentially With Physical Condition of the Property—More Than 200,000 Tons of Ore Sent to Smelter of Average Value of 4¼ Per Cent Copper.

The stockholders of the North Butte Mining company have received with their dividend checks copies of the semi-annual report covering the physical condition of the property. No reference is made to the financial affairs of the company.

The report is as follows:

Duluth, Minn., July 23, 1910.—To the stockholders of North Butte Mining company:

We are pleased to hand you herewith, for your information, a copy of a letter dated the 13th inst., received from our general manager, John D. Pope, which we believe fully and correctly sets forth the physical conditions of the properties of this company as of June 30, and outlines the various developments that have been made since the date of our last annual report.

Since the issuance of that report this company has acquired the remaining outstanding interests in the Croesus and West Gem claims, and also the westerly end of the Sioux Chief claim. The Croesus claim was purchased by the issuance of 10,000 shares of the treasury stock of this company, and the West Gem and Sioux Chief interests were acquired by exchanging the Gem Mill Site claim and certain fractional interests in other claims, which were not considered of much value to this company. Both of these deals, we believe, will prove to be very advantageous to our company's interests.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

For the board of directors,
JAMES HOATSON, President.

Mr. Pope's Letter.

Butte, Mont., July 13, 1910.—James Hoatson, president North Butte Mining Company, Duluth, Minn.—Dear Sir: Following is a report of the work done by the North Butte Mining company for the six months ending June 30, 1910:

A sinking station was cut on the 2,000-foot level in April and May, and the shaft was sunk 72½ feet in June, giving a total depth of 2,319½ feet, and we are now 176 feet below the 2,200-foot station. As soon as another 125 feet is sunk to provide necessary sump and room for skip pockets, we will cut the station on the 2,400-foot level and open up that level, and it is planned to resume work on the shaft as soon as the station is cut, sink it 400 feet deeper, cut the 2,600 and 2,800-foot stations and open these two levels simultaneously.

The shaft has been connected from the surface to our 700-foot level, and the upraise under this shaft has been completed from our 1,200-foot level, to our 1,000-foot level, and upraising is in progress from our 1,000, 1,600 and 1,800-foot levels to connect with this shaft. We have upraised a total of 696 feet from the various levels under this shaft.

Edith May Vein.

The winze was down seventy-seven and one-half feet below the 2,000-foot level on June 30, and showed ore for a depth of fifty feet. At that depth the ore dipped flatter than the winze, and in consequence the winze has been in the footwall of the ore for the last twenty-seven feet, with the ore showing at one side of the winze to the bottom. The ore in the winze has shown a width of from five feet to ten feet and has assayed from 5 per cent to 12 per cent copper. The winze will be continued to the 2,300-foot level before the ore is crosscut.

The only development on the Edith May vein, aside from the winze, has been the extension east of the drift on the 2,000-foot level, which has proven the ore to extend to our east end line without a break. The width of the ore being from five to seven feet, assaying from 3 per cent to 7 per cent copper.

Jessie Vein.

GOOD ORE ON THE TWO VEINS

Man Who Recently Saw North Butte Says Edith May and Jessie Veins Are Wide and Strong ---Deepening Speculator Shaft.

Butte, Mont., July 30.—George F. Bartlett, who spent many years in Butte, was formerly owner of Boston & Corbin, and within two months has made an exhaustive examination of underground conditions at North Butte in the interests of minority stockholders, says:

"Notwithstanding the present selling price of North Butte shares, which would seem to indicate that the property was nearing the end of its career as a producer, I feel certain that the present situation warrants no such assumption. Both the Edith May and Jessie veins are as wide and strong at the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels as they were above, although the ore is of lower grade, and it is ridiculous to think that they are played out. North Butte is mining good ore from both of them now.

"The big mistake that the North Butte management made—outside of paying such large dividends—was in not doing sufficient development work the past three years. They have only developed three veins, namely, the Speculator, Edith May and the Jessie. In addition there are the Adirondack, Gem, Croesus, Berlin, Lynchburg and Millview veins which have hardly been prospected. It is true that the Gem, Croesus and Berlin veins have been developed by crosscutting from the 1,600-foot level of the Speculator shaft and have also had some work done at the surface, but there never has been any systematic and vigorous development of these veins.

"Apparently when the rich ore was found on the 1,600 and 1,800-foot levels the management losts its head and thought the bonanza would last forever. They are now doing what they should have done long before, which is to sink the Speculator shaft to the 2,400 and 2,600-foot levels, from which crosscuts can be run to the northerly veins. The sooner this work is done the better it will be for all concerned.

"Practically all the talk concerning North Butte has related to the Edith May and Jessie veins, and now that they are leaner on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels than they were above, stockholders are led to believe that the mine has seen its best days. This belief was confirmed by the statement of R. M. Atwater, Jr., in the 1909 annual report, that in Butte it is not usual for an ore body to give way to barren vein filling and then be followed at depth by a second ore body. I do not see how Mr. Atwater reconciles this statement with the experience of several of the other Butte mines, particularly Anaconda, Parrot and Gagnon, all of which encountered the so-called zone of secondary enrichment, after passing through lean ground following a good showing on the upper levels.

"The North Butte stockholder should not lose hope now just as his property is beginning to be developed. I believe the stock is worth much more than going prices and will sell higher when the present stock market game concerning it is over."

RAPID PROGRESS AT MIAMI

With Air Compressor Again Working, Development Proceeds Rapidly—Three Boilers Are Now Being Installed at the Power House.

Globe, Ariz., July 30.—Development work at the Miami will approach the 1000-foot mark this week. The curtailment of drifting during the previous week was due principally to the air compressor at No. 2 shaft being somewhat out of commission. This work is being done chiefly on the 420 and 570 foot haulage levels and all the sub-levels and working levels up to the 270-foot level.

The main shaft, which is sunk off the ore body in the Gila conglomerate is now down to the 720-foot level. It measures 12 by 16 feet in the clear and has four compartments. There are two skipways, placed side by side the narrow way of the shaft and each of these is fifty-five by fifty-five feet in the clear, and is designed to accommodate two seventy-five ton skips run in balance. Back of the skipways and lagged off from them is a compartment extending the entire width of the shaft and measuring six by twelve feet in the clear. In this a large man cage will run and its size is such that timbers can be lowered on trucks and can be wheeled directly off the cage and into any paritcular drift or cross drift. Haulage is to be accomplished on the 420-foot level by two six-and-one-half-ton electric locomotives capable of hauling a fifty-ton train. Curves are put in on 23-foot radii and should give ample room. Drifts are timbered with eight by eight-inch sets placed as far apart as the nature of the ground demands.

The shaft is timbered with twelve by twelve-inch creosoted timbers framed and impregnated with the oil in El Paso.

At present, there are being installed at the power-house three 600-horse-power boilers with space for a fourth if necessary. They are of a new type manufactured by the Edgemore Iron works at Wilmington, Del. They are built on the same principle as the B. & W., or Sterling boiler. The boilers are to be fed by pumps, which at first are to be installed in the western end of the boiler house. The stack which is already a landmark for many miles around, is said to have cost the Miami Copper company some $12,000. It is 210 feet in height, is lined with twenty-two inches of fire bricks, covered with eighteen inches of concrete at the base, and tapers from an inside dimension of eighteen feet four inches at the bottom to twelve feet at the top. It is reinforced by two sets of steel rods on the inside.

ON THE VERMILION IRON RANGE

Michigan Man Becomes Heavy Investor After Exhaustive Investigation—Amazed at Amount of Exploration Work That Is Being Carried On—Progress at Some Properties.

"I have just returned from an exhaustive investigation of the Vermilion iron range. I have covered that great mining belt most thoroughly between Tower and Ely and beyond. I lack words to properly express my impressions and conclusions. As a factor in the iron world; as an example of skilled mining on a large and economical scale; as a producer of high-grade iron ore that cannot be excelled in the world; as a region of great future possibilities in iron production; and as a most attractive field for for serious investment, the Vermilion iron range stands very high in my estimation."

The foregoing expression was made to The Herald yesterday at the Spalding by F. M. Pinnegar of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Pinnegar is a Michigan man and, many years ago was prominently connected with the business management of several daily papers in Detroit. From newspaper business he turned to the fields of finance. A brilliant success has accompanied his endeavors. Today, he has a national reputation as a Portland cement expert and is heavily interested in the Cowhan-McCourtie system of Portland cement manufacture with a line of cement mills in Michigan, Iowa, Kansas and Texas.

Although Mr. Pinnegar considers himself on a vacation and picked Duluth and its rare summer climate as the proper place to enjoy a vacation, he has taken much of his leisure time for the purpose of exhaustively investigating the iron fields of Minnesota, with the outcome that he has become a heavy investor on the Vermilion range.

"One cannot get complete information of the Vermilion range or a proper conception of its importance without visiting it," continued Mr. Pinnegar. "In Duluth its existence seems to be taken rather too much as a matter of course and entirely too little heard about it in the business offices, around the hotel lobbies and on the streets.

Invest at Home.

"If I were asked for a suggestion to Duluth people I would say: Take more pains to talk about and show your iron ranges. Make wise and careful investments there, right at home, rather than blindly gambling your money on unknown and distant mining schemes. Keep your many good things for yourselves instead of permitting them to be monopolized by outsiders.

"Although a Michigan man, I never before fully appreciated the importance and magnitude of the Lake Superior iron fields. The iron mines in my own state are superb but, personally, after most careful investigation and consideration, I have decided to heavily interest myself on the Vermilion iron range of the North Star state.

"I also have been surprised to learn the number of Michigan men who have heavy investments in Minnesota iron mines and how profitable those investments have been to them. Although I may be a little behind the Michigan procession in this matter of investment, I propose to make an aggressive dash for a share of the good things

REVISION OF MINING LAWS

American Mining Congress, Having Won Its Fight for Mines Bureau, Is to Ask Change in the Mine Code Next.

Denver, Col., July 30.—Since the American Mining congress finally succeeded in its efforts to secure the organization of a mines bureau at Washington, after urging the passage of this measure for years, they have decided to push ahead the various recommendations they have had in mind for some time in regard to improving the mining laws now existing in the United States.

E. B. Kirby, chairman of the committee of general revision of the mineral land laws, has already been instructed to take the initiative in this matter and see that congress may consider at its next session a bill to authorize a general revision of the mineral laws as they now exist in this country with a view of making some of its details less complete.

In explanation of the various federal laws now existing it is pointed out that the mineral land laws of the United States and Alaska, framed in 1872 and interwoven with a mass of supplementary state legislation differing in every state, fail to meet the present requirements of the industry. Moreover, they have developed evils, the injurious effects of which are steadily increasing. These have become so serious as to create dissatisfaction and complaint everywhere, and a general revision for the purpose of affording relief will be welcomed and supported by all the mining communities.

"Out of the numerous evils due to the present code," says the Mining Congress, "those most generally recognized are the monopolization of valuable mineral land and the speculative holding of such land without utilization and to the exclusion of prospectors and miners. Among the many points which will come up for consideration during a general revision may be mentioned the following:

"First—The apex law, with the uncertainties of title and litigation caused by it. These include not only the conflicts due to the extralateral right, but also those occasioned by the conse-

AFTER NEXT YEAR'S MEETING

The United States Delegates Want Road Congress of All Nations Held in America in 1911.

Washington, July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Automobile owners, farmers and others who make daily use of some part of the 2,000,000 miles of public highways in the United States will follow closely the proceedings of the second international road congress which opens in Brussels tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon and continues until Aug. 10. The reason for the unusual interest in the affair at the Belgium capital is the fact that the American delegates enter the congress hopeful that it will be possible to bring next year's meeting to this country, and if they are successful, the third convention of road experts of all nations will be held in Washington next fall.

This government will be represented at the congress by four delegates, Col. Spencer Crosby, corps of engineers, United States army; Joseph W. Jones, representing the automobile interests of America; William Halstead Wiley, a publisher of technical journals, and John M. Goodell, editor of the Engineering Record. Besides these official representatives of the government, there will be many American delegates representing various cities and states. The first international road congress, which was called by the president of France last year, and held in Paris, was attended by representatives of forty-one governments, and it is expected that the attendance at this year's meeting will be even more satisfactory.

Motorists in every country of the world are interested in the meeting because the congress is the outgrowth of individual work of the leading governments to improve the public highways and meet the conditions brought about by increased automobile traffic. The principles of road construction to meet the swish and wear of rubber tires are different from those in building the road designed to stad the impact of horses' shod hoofs and steel tires. Up to this time, very limited study has been given to this new road problem. Many parts of the country are partially inaccessible to automobile traffic because of bad roads, and communities are discovering that there is no better way of bringing about the enhancement of property than by perfecting their system of highways.

Both Director L. W. Page and J. E. Pennybacker, chief of road management in the office of public roads in the department of agriculture, who have sent papers to the congress to be read, have hopes that next year's international meeting will come to America. This country has the most tremendous system of highways of any nation of the world, the length of all the roads amounting to 2,155,000 miles, on which it is estimated that there is an annual expenditure of $90,000,000. This sounds like a great deal of money, but England with her little system of 150,000 miles of road spends about $80,000,000 a year, or about fourteen times as much per mile on roads.

The agriculture as well as the automobile interests will be looked after by the American delegates who attend the Brussels congress during the coming ten days. The farmers of the United States are spending about two and a half times as much to get their products to the market as are the farmers of Europe, and this important difference in cost of hauling over bad and good roads is playing its part in the hesty cost-of-living problem on which Senator Lodge and his committee threw so little light. Conservation of farm resources will mean little if the problems of cheap transportation of products to market are not solved.

The remarkable growth of the automobile industry and the increased use of motor cars both for business and pleasure, have proven a great stimulus to the study and work for better roads in this country. Further interest will be added if the American delegates succeed in landing next year's congress and make it possible to bring the world's leading experts in road engineering and road administration here to discuss Uncle Sam's problems of highway traffic face to face with the best road men of the United States.

AT THE SUPERIOR & BOSTON

Much Development Is Now in Progress at the McGaw Shaft—Work Being Concentrated in Sixth Level of the Shaft.

Globe, Ariz., July 30.—At the present time most of the development at the Superior & Boston property is being carried on at the McGaw shaft. On the sixth level which is 551 feet below the collar drift is being run southeast at the rate of forty feet a week. The McGaw shaft, which is the only one of the four on the property which is at present being developed, is being sunk at the rate of ten feet a week. It is in badly broken limestone which makes sinking rather laborious. The shaft is now down 745 feet. When a depth of 770 feet has been attained the eighth level will be established and the shaft will be continued fifteen feet further from sump.

The eighth level will run directly under the one now on the sixth level from which an ore extraction of fifty tons every twenty-four hours is now being made. When this shoot is encountered on the eighth level it will in all probability be of greater extent and will, at least, facilitate ore extraction between the sixth and eighth levels. A Prescott sinker is being used in the shaft. The shaft in question has three compartments. Two of them are 5 and one half feet by five feet in the clear; the third compartments is seven by five feet in the clear. One of the smaller compartments accommodates a single-decked cage for hoisting ore and the other is used for shaft sinking. The large compartment is used as a manway and to accomodate favorable. A large shoot of ore has been encountered and apparently continues between the Black oxide tunnel and the fourth level of the Gardiner shaft 485 feet below. In the Black oxide tunnel where the shoot is encountered the vein is quite regular and nearly vertical. It is from four to six feet in width. There is a winze sunk here 100 feet which is still in the same grade of ore as the tunnel. On the fourth level of the Gardner directly below to a raise forty feet high and a winze down 116 feet in the same class and grade of ore. The vein on the fourth level is very irregular and varies from two to ten feet in width. The fact, however, that the ore shoot is so continuous for 620 feet is an excellent prediction of the life of the Superior & Boston mine especially when it is taken into consideration that the company is not as yet paying much attention to it as a source of production and that its limits below those stated above have not been determined.

STORY READS LIKE ROMANCE

Little Cliff Mine Near Valdez Pays Dividend After Thirty Days Run of Mill, Returning Total Amount of Money Paid In.

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—No story reads more like romance than that of the little Cliff mine near Valdez. The property is equipped with three stamps at a cost of $25,000, which was paid in by Valdez people on a capitalization of $100,000. No more working capital need be paid in for the mine at the end of the first thirty days run of its little mail paid a 25 per cent dividend, just the amount of money paid in. Future dividends will be all profit. This was the May record. The dividend for June has not been made public, but it will be in excess of that for May, as in addition to the $1,000 daily average, a sixteen-hour run on a rich pocket yielded $13,000. The mine is at the waters edge near Shoup bay, a small arm of Valdez bay. It was located originally by "Red" Ellis, one of the pioneers of the district. He found it several years ago, and worked from time to time until he proved the richness of the ore. To keep intruders away he had a heavy plank door, fastened with a huge padlock, at the mouth of his tunnel. As Red is an eccentric character of the long haired variety, every one took the padlocked door as one of his idiosyncrasies and thought the property of no value. In 1908 Ellis sacked about twenty tons of the rock, borrowed money to pay the freight and sent the ore to the smelter at Tacoma. The returns were so large that local mining men began to realize the worth of the claims and after dickering with Red for nearly a year succeed in getting a five-year lease of the property, royalty to be paid Ellis during the lease period, and then the mine, mills and all improvements revert to him.

As much as twenty years ago small amounts of placer gold were taken from the little creeks entering Valdez bay from the north. About 1890 President Cloudman and James Bettles worked with a rocker below the falls on Gold creek, with fair results. They also prospected a little on Mineral creek. In 1898 William Ripstein and partners set up a string of sluice boxes in Shoup creek and did some work. They were able to clean up from 50 cents to $1 a day. Several other parties took a little gold from Shoup creek, but none of the prospectors seemed to connect the placer gold with its source—the quartz leads—until Ellis opened the Cliff mine.

At present the mountains near Valdez are covered with prospectors who are following the retreating snow up the slopes in their search for more quartz. Some locations have already been made. The most promising so far are the Finical property, in Shoup bay; Brown and Cloe's claims across the bay from the Cliff, and the Ellis No. 2 and Singletary groups between the stamp mill and town. Each of these has had sufficient tunnel run to demonstrate the continuity of the leads, and assays from them have in some instances shown values as high as $135 per ton.

Word comes from Dawson that the cleanup on Sulphur, Gold Run and Granville has been exceptionally good this year. With two exceptions all have made money. There is a better feeling pervading Sulphur and Lower Dominion, where there are large tracts of virgin ground which will be well covered with laymen during the coming winter. No. 80 below on Sulphur showed a good pay streak of heavy gold. One nugget was $15.75 and hundreds of nuggets of smaller values were found. Two laymen on lower Granville cleaned up about $4,000 in a little over six weeks work. The cleanup on Gold Run showed the same encouraging result. The four laymen on 42 took out from $8,000 to $10,000.

SALE OF DIXON NEAR CLOSE

Well-Known Globe Property Passes Into Control of El Paso Capitalists—Must Spend $25,000 on Development Within Year.

Globe, Ariz., —July 30.—The closing of a deal now under way will affect the transfer of the Dixon Copper company's property to the Globe-Arizona and El Paso Copper Mining & Smelting company.

The Dixon property is well known about Globe. It embraces twenty claims located about nine miles north of this city and just back of Sleeping Beauty mountain. The work on the property so far consists of two tunnels, a 30-foot winze and a 390-foot crosscut. During the past operations some gold and silver and copper-bearing rock has been brought to light, and a considerable amount of iron ore has been developed. The only noteworthy logical feature of the Dixon property is a bed of Globe limestone of unknown thickness and beds of the Cambrian quartzites so common in the district, intruded, overlain and in some places isolated by later flows of diabase. There are several iron blowouts at irregular and unrelated intervals scattered over the property in various places, but these blowouts are usually of very firm siliceous iron-impregnated rocks and seem to have undergone very little lelaching. They are not of the ordinary iron hat or gossan type out of which the copper has been drained and leached to impregnate lower levels with the productive ores of secondary enrichment.

H. Vincent Wallace is the consulting engineer for the company and has just finished an examination of the property. The management is composed entirely of El Paso men. D. G. Baldwin is president; W. D. Mayfield is secretary; W. H. Anderson is treasurer. The directors are E. C. O'Keefe, John O'Keefe and M. A. Dolan. The Globe-Arizona and El Paso Copper Mining & Smelting company is capitalized at $3,000,000, with shares at $1 par. Of this total amount of stock, 750,000 shares will be assigned to the treasury, 720,000 shares will be paid over for the property, and 1,530,000 shares will be under the direct control of John O'Keefe. Within one year the company must, according to the agreemtn with the Dixon people, expend $25,000 on the property in development work.

STRIKE MADE IN GAMBLER

Claim Is in Pike's Peak District of Montana—Year's Lease Taken on Hamilton & Coeur d'Alene Silver-Lead Property.

Helena, Mont., July 30.—A strike is reported in the Gambler, a claim in the Pike's Peak district of Granite county, owned by Reagan & Casper. The head is twelve feet wide. Gold has been panned its entire width. Estimates place the values at over $100 a ton. The strike was made after the claim had been worked for only two weeks. The property is being worked by a tunnel in the face of the mountain. The New Hampshire and Fourth of July are being developed with good showings. Other claims in the vicinity are being worked by J. J. McCaffery and Jesse Fitzpatrick. Mr. McCaffery is in the city to order material for a stamp mill to treat custom ores. Messrs. McCaffery and Fitzpatrick also contemplate the installation of cyanide tanks to treat tailings.

Reports from the Timber line mine in the western part of the Wickes district say that a crosscut is being run at a depth of about fifty feet and seventeen feet of ore, which assays $22 to the ton, has been disclosed. The crosscut at last accounts had not reached the hanging wall. As far as can be ascertained the lead is about thirty feet wide. The ore, however, does not average in big figures.

Some of the richest ore ever uncovered in that district has been found in a lead recently cut on the property of the Vermillion Silver & Lead company on Trout creek, Sanders county. Assays delivered Saturday to Ross Carpenter, a member of the company, who took samples to Spokane last week, show $1,769 in gold, $530 in silver and 80 cents in lead to the ton. A wide ledge of the ore is showing.

A year's lease from July 1 has been taken by Fisher & Wild, on the Hamilton & Coeur d'Alene silver lead property near Carter, Sanders county. The company will receive 15 per cent royalty. Trial shipments have given high returns. Thomas Pendergrass has also bonded his Dixon gold-silver-lead mine in the same district to John J. Drake for $125,000.

"Development work the last two years in the Radersburg district has wrought surprising changes and I believe it is the coming camp of Montana. It was worked for years as a free milling proposition which was all right until the unoxidized ores were encountered, usually at a depth of only 100 feet," said B. Binnard of New York, president of the Radersburg Consolidated Mining company, a holding corporation which controls the Ohio Keating Gold Mining company and the Dewdrop Mining company of Radersburg. "With the exhaustion of the free milling ore the camp lapsed, but development has demonstrated that the ore bodies are not only greater but richer with depth. While owing to the excess of iron over silica which they contain they are in great demand by the smelters. The big mine is the Keating. It is developed by a shaft to the 600-foot level and is shipping ore at the rate of five to six cars a week which goes better than $16. I hear that the ore now being taken out on the 500-foot level is averaging more than $40 a ton in carload lots. The ore shoot both on the surface and in the 500-foot level is proved to be more than 1,200 feet long. The Ohio Keating parallels the Keating about 1,000 feet to the west and lies about 2,000 feet northeast of the Black Friday mine. The latter is now shipping at the rate of four carloads a week ore that averages between $50 and $100 a ton. The shaft on the Ohio Keating is now down 225 feet. On the 110-foot level we have run a drift for 290 feet which shows three feet of $30 ore in the face."

"Second—The present non-enforcement of the law of discovery.

"Third—The partial or complete evasion, by various expedients, of the law of assessment.

"Fourth—A clear, definite procedure for acquiring rights to those mineral claims on which discovery must, from the nature of the deposit, be long deferred.

"Fifth—The problem of tunnel locations and the uncertainties of title caused in the neighboring claims.

been made, as well as for railroad tracks leading to it.

While the great body of high grade ore opened by the Alpha shaft is said to be alone sufficient to make the Giroux a big mine, it is only a part of the reserves which have been blocked out. The company's Old Glory mine is in limestone, while the Morris and the two Brooks shafts are in porphyry. The exploratory work done through these shafts has been supplemented by churn drill work, which is said to have been wholly satisfactory to the management.

Work done in the porphyry has demonstrated ore bodies of size and values to warrant steam shovel production, but whether steam shovels will be used or whether the caving system will be employed has not yet been announced.

per cent copper was encountered and it is logical to assume that it is a small shoot and that it will continue in depth. The development in the three faces of the 660-foot level is continuing at a rate of about seven feet a day. A five-foot round is drilled in one face, blasted and mucked out while the machine man is setting up in the second face. He then has time before the end of the shift to drill about one-half of a round on the second set up. About 2,400 gallons of water is being hoisted daily, at present.

ON MICHIGAN IRON RANGES

such is the case is seen in the Iron River district. Some of the mines are not employing as many men as a year ago and ore is not being shipped as briskly as was expected earlier in the season, yet on the whole the activity in the devil is as pronounced as it ever has been. No less than fifteen mining companies are operating in the district, in addition to four diamond drill concerns. New ore bodies are being proved up, others are being developed and there is hardly a producing property at which improvement work is not in progress. The developments have been of great importance the past few years and the district has come to be recognized as one of the most important in the Lake Superior region.

At the Hiawatha mine, operated by the Munro Mining company, the engine house has been enlarged by the construction of an additional twenty-four by thirty-eight feet in size. A cross-compound air compressor has been received and is being installed. The Hiawatha has opened an ore body of large proportions and is in position to produce 200,000 tons annually. Pickands, Mather & Co. are installing a water system at their Caspian mine location and they also are grading the streets. At the Dober mine, adjoining the Caspian, the Steel corporation has graded and platted one of the most desirable locations in the Iron River district and already has twenty-five modern dwelling houses erected and ready for occupancy. Concrete walks, water works and electric lights are being supplied and no expense will be spared in making the place attractive. The purpose is to procure and to retain the best class of employes possible.

Tobin Mine Improvements.

Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Tobin mine location in the Crystal Falls district of the Western Menominee, also is being extensively improved. A batch of additional dwelling houses are being erected, and with these completed the residential location will cover nearly thirty acres, all laid out in lots and blocks and neatly kept. The settlement has electric light and water service, furnished by the company at a nominal scale of prices. There is no

1 shaft is sinking steadily for the thirtieth level, 3,000 feet from surface. Drifting is in progress at several points in this shaft and the general results are very encouraging. Both shafts were recently connected by a drift at the fifteenth level to provide needed ventilation.

Quincy.

The series of experiments conducted by the Quincy Mining company has induced that company to install a steam turbine, electric generator to utilize the exhaust steam from the hoisting engines. A practical test made before mine and mill superintendents from this district demonstrated the success of the steam turbine driven by exhaust steam and indicates that by its use a saving of possibly as much as one-half cent per pound of copper produced can be affected. The company is planning to install a second steam turbine at the stamp mill.

Mass.

The Mass Consolidated Mining company, due to a closer selection of the rock milled, is securing a yield of between fifteen and seventeen pounds fine copper per ton of rock stamped. The best results obtained under the old system did not exceed twelve pounds per ton of rock stamped. The old "C" shaft was reopened recently and is being sunk to greater depth, and an effort made to create ground reserves which the mine has been looking for several years past. The operations are confined to the Evergreen belt, and nothing is being done in the so-called new Mass lode, which made a sensational showing where first opened in the crosscut from the "A" shaft.

Victoria.

The operations of the Victoria Copper Mining company are beginning to show a little more encouragement, and the general conditions at depth are much improved over what they have been in the past. The drifts at the twenty-second level which is the present bottom of the mine, are exposing particularly good looking ground, and though variable, the general average is materially higher than the average of the mine. The new shaft recently started by the company is sinking steadily below a depth of about 300 feet, but apparently has not gotten down far enough to disclose anything of value.

La Salle.

The La Salle Copper company continues to ship a small tonnage of rock to the stamp mill, all of which comes directly from underground. The mill returns are not very encouraging, showing as they do a yield of but twelve pounds copper per ton of rock stamped. Three shafts are sinking without interruption, the No. 1 shaft for the twentieth level, the No. 2 shaft for the eighth level, and the No. 5 shaft for the tenth level. Neither Shaft No. 2 nor 5 has as yet disclosed commercial copper ground.

zone of primary sulphides is just being reached in exploration in various places, bringing to light what is perhaps the original mineral in ore deposition, a cupriferous pyrite assaying about five-tenths of 1 per cent copper. It may be well here to note the transition between the zone of secondary enrichment and the primary zone by calling attention to the fact that the cupriferous pyrite is here coated by a thin shell of chalcocite.

NORTH BUTTE AND TUOLUMNE

Copper Mining company, and has asked permission of the district court to turn the same over to the clerk of the court, pending a settlement. The ore in question came from the Ticon mine and the net value of the ore treated in the East Butte smelter. However, while the ore came from the Ticon mine, the Anaconda company claims an interest in the Ticon ground, hence the litigation.

Iron Mountain.

The Iron Mountain Tunnel company, of which W. Q. Ranft is president, is meeting great success. The company is mining ore from a thirty-foot lead, twelve of which is clean shipping silver lead ore. The mine is developed by a tunnel more than one mile in length which cuts the old shaft at a depth of 1,700 feet. On the completion of the tunnel, machinery was installed and the water pumped out of the shaft below the tunnel level. The new strike is reported to be below the 1,800-foot level and is the strongest and biggest pay shoot yet encountered in the property.

Butte-Ballaklava.

The Butte-Ballaklava still continues to enjoy the reputation of being about the best of the independent mines ever established in this district. Daily shipments are being mantained and the quality of the ore is as high grade as any ever taken out of a mine in this city.

Barnes-King.

The Barnes-King gold mine still remains closed and the miners have found work in other properties. Just what the policy of W. H. A. Fischer, the president, and his New York directors is regarding this property cannot be ascertained by the stockholders in this city, although there are rumors to the effect that the mine is to be handed over to leasers. Those who are well acquainted with the property do not believe that the mine can be ever put on a paying basis and, if this be true, then the directors should take steps as soon as possible looking to winding up of the company's affairs and making some disposal of the money in the treasury suitable to all concerned. With over $250,000 on hand and the machinery and equipment something could be saved from the wreck.

Another Murray Suit.

Mining litigation appears to have taken a new lease of life in this district. The latest case in point is the Monidah Trust company, of which Millionaire James A. Murray is at the head. It is intimated that the Anaconda Copper Mining company is infringing on the rights of the Fashion lode claim through the Original mine. It appears that the Monidah company a short time ago made a request to be allowed to examine the Original to ascertain if such was the case, but met with a refusal. Since then an order has been secured calling upon the Anaconda company to appear in court and show cause why the Monidah company should not be permitted to examine the Original. In the petition for the order it is stated that there is reason to believe that the Anaconda company, through the Original mine, is engaged in mining and extracting ore from the Fashion lode mining claim. The Original is the Clark property taken over but a short time ago by the Anaconda company.

Smelters Working to Capacity.

The smelters at Anaconda and Great Falls are working to their full capacity and the only curtailment in this district seems to be in consequence of the inability of the two plants to treat any more ore. The Boston & Montana mines have been compelled to ease up on the shipments to Great Falls for the reason that the smelter is handling all the ore it can, while the Anaconda smelter has all it can do to look after the ore from the Anaconda and former Clark properties.

Clark Is Optimistic.

"The copper conditions are not as bad as many people imagine," remarked Senator W. A. Clark, the copper king, on his arrival in the city a few days ago to spend the remainder of the summer with his family. "The copper situation may look a little bad," he continued, "but matters are going to right themselves before very long, unless I am very much mistaken." Asked if the leading producers of the country had not entered into an arrangement for a curtailment for a few months in order to bring about a large decrease in the surplus, he replied he did not believe that there was any definite agreement as to a curtailment, but at the same time, he said, there was undoubtedly a belief among the big producers that there should be a restriction in the output for a time, and he believed that the output was being cut down, giving as one of his reasons for this belief the decrease in the surplus last month as compared with previous months. The senator further remarked that he believed that in the course of a couple of months the consumption would be more than the output, and this will not only create a more settled condition in the copper world, but will increase the price, which is now too low. He said that the activity of the porphyry mine owners in announcing that they could produce copper at a lower rate and consequently undersell the mines in this district has had its effect in keeping the price down, but he intimated that the mines of Butte would be producing copper when the low-grade porphyry men would be out of existence.

Regarding the zinc industry, Senator Clark said that he proposed to devote all his time and money in Butte to the development of the zinc properties in which he was interested. He believed that the district had a great future before it in this particular line, and he not only was going to work the mines now in operation, but going to open up some which had been out of commission for several years. He said that extensive experiments with the Elm Orlu had fully satisfied him that the zinc industry can be made a great success, and he was prepared to invest his money in it. He said that he had a lease on the Butte Reduction works, and he would continue to operate the concentrator plant for the purpose of treating his zinc ores, adding that if the Butte & Superior or any other zinc property wished ores treated he would be glad to enter into an arrangement for handling the same.

ON VERMILION IRON RANGE

and I shall urge my friends to follow my example.

"As you Duluthians certainly know, activity in iron mining and shipping is at highwater on the Vermilion this season. This may be taken as a matter of course by you, but I was amazed to see the magnitude of exploration work and I seriously doubt if many Duluthians have a proper conception of the activity in exploration work now in progress.

"When I took the train at the Union depot, I found it fairly overflowing with men who were on the same mission as I, viz: A personal inspection of the Vermilion iron range. There were at least sixty of them on that one train, and I was informed that such crowds were of frequent occurrence. It was impossible to secure a seat in the observation car. What struck me as most peculiar was that nine out of ten were from points in Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota, outside of and remote from Duluth.

"These crowds are testing and taxing the hotel and livery accommodations of the Vermilion range towns. At Ely we had an excellent hotel with good table board and very hospitable treatment. At Tower our reception was almost frosty. We were charged first-class prices and given very little in return. The meals were very scanty and discreditable. Flies fairly swarmed. Window screens were conspicuous by their absence. The service was primitive, sullen and inefficient. If the Tower business men do not wish to drive travel to Ely, they will see that hotel accommodations are greatly improved."

Minneapolis Interested.

Mr. Pinegar was accompanied by William L. Shepherd of Minneapolis, and R. J. Ryan of Duluth, both of whom are heavily interested on the Vermillion. Mr. Shepherd stated that Minneapolis is a great believer in Minnesota iron and that it is a popular source of investment in the Flour City. Some of the heaviest deals on the Vermillion have been financed in Minneapolis. Minneapolis capitalists also have, in the past, profited greatly from judicious investments in Minnesota iron mines.

"We visited section 30," said Mr. Ryan, "and found everything active there. The larger stockpile has been added and the ore was being dumped directly from the mine into the ore cars. There is no doubt as to this famous property shipping 50,000 tons this season and I will be surprised if the tonnage is not a great deal more. The new power plant is nearing completion and George A. St. Clair is carrying on exploration work on the east 160 acres of the property. A diamond drill is on the ground, while on the west end a big power plant has been installed on the old Chandler. I was told that drifting has shown up some good ore there.

"At the property of Section 30 Development company, Capt. Brown has a testpit in very promising material southerly from the old shaft. Preparations are under way for installation of a hoisting plant at the shaft.

"I was told that John Bisbee has a pit in very promising material on his property near Robinson station. I did not visit the Macomber but was told that Mr. St. Clair is hoisting from fifteen to twenty tons of high grade ore per day from the old shaft.

"At the Central Vermilion Capt. Besson is installing a power plant and he told me he expected to have it at work and the shaft going down before the end of this month.

"Success is reported as attending Mr. Kennedy's exploration work. Many believe that the Lucky Boy is surely a mine and it is reported that the drill on the McCue property is in ore.

Marquette & Vermilion.

"Drill hole No. 3 on the Marquette & Vermilion property is down over 500 feet. Some very favorable formation has been encountered and it would not surprise me to see something a bit startling by the time the drill reaches a depth of about 700 feet. Good progress is being made and the contractors have everything running smoothly.

"Fred Rossom has a company organized to explore his property adjoining the Vermilion Steel & Iron lands on the north. He has Minneapolis people associated with him and the new enterprise has started off smoothly and with strong finances.

Mr. Walsh reports favorably concerning both the Vermilion Steel & Iron and the Extension. The shaft will be sunk on the line between the two properties. 62-14 is about the most active township on the entire range at the present time.

"On the North American the concrete shaft is down 65 feet and the work is going smoothly. Mr. Walsh also has a diamond drill at work which will cut under an outcrop of splendid ore west of the power plant, near the railroad, and then tap the big ledge of gold-bearing material at a depth of fully 700 feet, I should judge.

"That there is gold-bearing material on the North American now seems pretty well proven. Mr. Walsh showed me decomposed, slaty matter, containing free gold, that seemed marvelous in value, judged by the eye. There is great activity at the North American and many visitors are there daily.

At the Roy.

The Roy is waiting for the installation of a compressor plant, hand drilling at last having become too slow and difficult. A drill is at work on the La Chance property, by Mr. La Brec, and another drill is busy on the property of the Minnesota Steel & Iron property.

On Pine Island the power plant is working smoothly and the shaft is down 60 feet. Two feet a day were being made but some very hard material has cut that down to a foot a day. Ore is dipping into the shaft, cutting out the greenstone, and the situation is both pleasing and hopeful.

"I was informed that shaft-sinking is in progress on the Rice May property and that Albert Kitto, Dill Hobbes and others have started work in the interests of the Chicago-Vermilion Iron company. This company has an option on the Grierson land, directly between Pine Island on the west and the Rice Bay property on the east. It is reported that indications are most promising and satisfactory.

"The demand for fees seems to be increasing and it is my opinion that as soon as dogdays are over, the Vermilion will see some things that will remind the old timers of twenty and twenty-five years ago. Until I got out of Duluth and onto the range, I utterly failed to appreciate the interest, activity, travel and demand for property, either for fees or options."

REPORT ON NORTH BUTTE

level of the Gen mine has found a fine showing of ore in this vein below the old stopes of the Jessie mine, and drifts have extended for a length of sixty-five feet on this ore without finding the limits of either east or west. This ore runs from eight feet to fifteen feet wide and assays from 4½ per cent to 9½ per cent copper and seven and one-half to seventeen ounces silver per ton. We figure a total of 36,820 tons as proved in this place, of an average assay of 6.8 per cent copper and 11.7 ounces silver per ton, with a reasonable certainty of doubling the above tonnage by further development.

Our 1,000-foot level has been retimbered and connections will be made as rapidly as possible with the ore body above described for the purpose of extracting this ore through our 1,000-foot level.

The 1,700 level has been extended west 200 feet, and has opened up a fine body of ore to the west of our present stopes with widths of from ten feet to sixteen feet and assays from 3½ per cent to 9½ per cent copper, and the 1,800 drift under this point has been extended west, and has just encountered the same ore body. Neither of these drifts has found the western end of this ore, and both are being extended as fast as is consistent with good mining practice for the purpose of developing this ore body. Apparently this ore dips to the west in going down, as the 1,700 drift now shows a face of fifteen feet of ore assaying 6 per cent copper and nine ounces of silver per ton, and is farther west than the point where the ore quit on the 1,600 level.

On the 2,000 level our drifts have been extended both east and west, and we now have a total length of 511 feet opened on this vein which shows an average width of ore of ten feet, giving an average assay of over 5½ per cent copper, and the face of the east drift now shows twenty feet of ore assaying 5½ per cent copper. The west drift has just encountered poor ground, but with the good showing on the 1,700 and 1,800 levels the ore should come in again further west.

On the 2,200 level the ground is badly faulted, and the east drift has been stoped for the present at a distance of 313 feet from the crosscut, but the west drift, now eighty feet long, is being extended to prove the ore found on the 1,800.

South Gem Vein.

The 1,800 drift has run out of ore about 300 feet west of the crosscut, up to which point the ore averaged about 6 per cent, but varied in width from one to six feet.

The 2,000 drift, which has been driven 260 feet west, has shown only four feet of ore for 150 feet of this distance, but the face of the drift is in ore now, and further development may increase the amount of ore shown here. The ore on the 2,000 assays 4½ per cent copper and five ounces silver per ton. On the 2,200 level the drift is not far enough west to encounter this ore, but it is now being extended in that direction.

Croesus Claim.

Crosscutting has been begun on the 1,000, 2,000 and 2,200 levels to extend these levels under the Croesus claim. On the 1,800 a vein has been encountered which is not believed to be the main Croesus vein, but which showed five feet of ore in the crosscut assaying 5 per cent copper and five ounces of silver per ton, but on drifting this has narrowed to one foot wide going east and two feet wide going west in a distance of fifteen feet each way. This ore is of a different character from any copper ore previously developed by us, as it consists of a heavy iron pyrites containing enargite and showing a good deal of rhodochroite or pink manganees, which is generally not found in connection with copper ore in Butte, although we have found some of it associated with the ores in the Jessie vein. The drifts are being extended both east and west on this vein, and the crosscut is also being extended to the north. The crosscuts on the 2,000 and 2,200 levels are not yet far enough north to find this vein.

Tuolumne Situation.

Much work has been done by both ourselves and the Tuolumne company with the result that our position in this controversy has been greatly strengthened during the last six months, as all developments made during that period have tended to sustain the position originally taken by the North Butte Mining company in this matter. More work has now been done by us in this ground to fully prove our contention and protect our interests. As the Tuolumne company has refused to acknowledge our rights in the Jessie fraction, and to the ore therein, the North Butte Mining company has begun suit against the Tuolumne company to have its title established to the ore in controversy. Our company claims to own a three-eights interest in the Jessie fraction and in all the ores mined therefrom.

Production, Development, Etc.

During the first six months of 1910 the following development work has been done:

	Feet.
Speculator shaft	72½
Edith May winze	77¼
Crosscuts	2,582
Drifts	4,321
Upraises	1,712
Total	8,765¼

There have been mined and shipped 203,904 tons of ore as follows:

	Tons
First-class	20,284
Second-class	183,521
Precipitates	74
Leaser's ore	25
Total	203,904

The work of cutting a sinking station and sinking the Speculator shaft has interfered with the extraction of ore, and the tonnage mined has been considerably less than it could have been had this work not been done. This work and the large amount of other development work carried on, including work on the Granite Mountain shaft, has also largely increased our expense during this period.

We have ore in sight in the various levels and stopes as follows:

	Tons.
Edith May vein	649,720
Jessie vein	233,710
Speculator vein	4,100
Adirondack vein	8,000
South Gem vein	7,650
Croesus vein	1,360

The increased value in silver over the value shown on Jan. 1, 1910, is due to the increased tonnage shown in the Jessie vein and the Gem and Croesus veins to the north of the Jessie.

The development work which it is planned to do during the next three months will include sinking our Speculator shaft and cutting a station on the 2,400-foot level; sinking the Edith May winze to the 2,300-foot level and drifting on that level on the Edith May vein; crosscutting the Croesus claim on the 1,800, 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels and drifting on the veins found by these crosscuts; developing the west end of the Jessie vein on the 1,800, 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels; drifting on the South Gem vein on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels; drifting east on Edith May vein on the 2,200-foot level, and, if possible without hindering our production of ore, crosscutting to the Adirondack vein on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels. The work on the Granite Mountain shaft will be continued, and necessary work will be done in connection with the Tuolumne controversy. Very truly yours,

JOHN D. POPE,
General Manager.

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Kidneys, Free

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend one, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K 94 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better write what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

FROM CLEVELAND TO TAFT.

In an unguarded moment Senator Aldrich, Boss of the Republic, said that the expense of the federal government could be cut $300,000,000 a year without any sacrifice of efficiency.

Many asked—and the question was natural—why Senator Aldrich did not make that cut, since he was so sure that it could be made.

One reason, which will pass for the lack of a better, is the tariff. Aldrich is the agent of Special Privilege, and his special duty is to preserve the fat pickings that flow to a favored few out of the tariff tax. With the people more and more inclining to question the sanctity of an Aldrich tariff system, more and more inclining to question its holiness and to analyze its workings, excuses were needed for keeping up the high tariff schedules. What better excuse could there be, since primarily the tariff is for revenue—its only legal and economic purpose—than the need of the government for large revenues?

To create and continue the need for large revenues, part of the duty of the conspirators who have kept the tariff tax burden pressing upon the American people has been to see that appropriations were liberal; that no economies should be brought about that would lessen the nation's need of revenue, and thereby give occasion for lower tariff duties. The larger the revenue required, the higher the tariff could be, since but few people see that too high tariff schedules stop imports and curtail tariff revenue. The more money raised for public purposes through the tariff, the more could be diverted to the favored few who get three billions out of tariff taxes while the government gets three hundred millions.

Senator Aldrich says that the federal expense bill could be cut $300,000,000 a year. He has the power to cut it. He has not made the cut. The reason is that he could not make such a reduction in expense without practically wiping out the need of public revenues through the tariff, and thereby destroying the protective system.

When Cleveland was president, say in 1895, the regular annual appropriation for public purposes totalled $391,156,005. In 1910, when Taft is president, after fourteen years of Aldrich-Cannon Republican rule, the regular annual appropriations total about a billion dollars, or nearly three times as much as in Cleveland's time.

The country has grown in that time. Water has passed under the bridge. It was to be expected that public expenditures would keep pace with national growth.

But there has been nothing in national growth to account for trebling the nation's expense account. The army has jumped from $23,000,000 to more than $100,000,000. The navy has jumped from $25,000,000 to $137,000,000. The sundry civil bill has increased from $26,000,000 to $118,000,000.

President Taft was allowed to talk about economy, but he wasn't allowed to achieve any economy. The billion dollar congress has become a regular thing. There has been no attempt to limit expenditures. The money came easily through an indirect tax—the tariff—and it went easily. And for every dollar raised for public purposes by the tariff tax, the beneficiaries of the tariff special privilege took ten to swell their personal fortunes.

The kinship between government extravagance and the tariff special privilege is too plain to be ignored.

THE STRENUOUS IN MUSIC.

An English musical critic, John F. Runciman, writing in the Saturday Review makes an interesting and unusual criticism of a certain type of "academic, respectable symphonies" such as one by an Englishman named A. von Ahu Carse which was played in London recently.

"It wants," he says, "a spice of the devil; it has no profound feeling for its roots, neither does it leave a smell of gunpowder.

"Give me a composer who will rise merrily after a sound night's rest, breakfast with a healthy appetite, mount a fiery bus horse bareback and dash madly through the streets, assault the police, set fire to Covent Garden theater, the Royal Academy and College, and the offices of the Charity Organization society, burst into the suffragettes' committee room and tell the ladies what he thinks of them, then return home with a sufficient overplus of energy to pour forth his uproarious soul in a gloriously rowdy symphony until Scotland Yard sends a posse of fifty police to arrest him. Such a man would be a change from the herd of namby-pamby 'safe' composers. I don't say he would prove an ideal composer, but he might wake up the others. We are, I fear, a degenerate folk; there is no strength of health in us."

No doubt many who have listened to pale, flavorless symphonies, in which music is so refined by estheticism that it is but the weary ghost of real music, will feel in full sympathy with this picturesque suggestion. Yet the robust in music, like the robust in painting, can easily be over done. It is likely to be mere bombastic fury, sacrificing harmony and tone to noise. But that, of course, is travesty, not music. Real music may be either robust or "academic and respectable", but it still is music; and the majority of full-blooded human beings will prefer a touch of the robust to the pale, washed-out type of symphony to which the critics takes vigorous exception.

But his description of the kind of musician likely to send real blood pulsing through the veins of music reminds us of something. Who, in all this country, seems more fitted to act that role than our Colonel? To be sure, our Colonel is no musician, but then neither is William of Germany, the Deutschland Colonel; and he makes no bones about directing the musical current of his native land.

If our Colonel, who has outwilhelmed Wilhelm in so many ways, and who never has shown the slightest backwardness about tackling any proposition that looked good to him, will only apply himself to music, surely none better than he could produce symphonies to the liking of Critic Runciman. William of Germany wasn't a muisician, either, but he had no hesitancy about leading German music.

There was a man once, according to story, who, when he was asked if he could play the violin, replied that he didn't know; he never had tried.

A little of the spirit of that bold man, which is so like the spirit of our Colonel, together with an appreciation of the real public need indicated by the English critic's cry for a strenuous composer, might lead the sage of Oyster Bay to fill the bill very nicely.

INJURIES TO WORKMEN.

One of the most important planks in the Democratic state platform is the declaration in favor of the enactment of a workingman's compensation act that will justly and fairly compensate without delay every person injured in industry, irrespective of whether he assumed the risk, contributed to negligence or suffered injury through the act of a fellow-servant. Reference was made in these columns yesterday to the fifth trial of a suit by a man in New Jersey to recover damages for the loss of a leg when he was run over five years ago in a freight yard. This suit having been tried five times in five years, what will be left for the injured man of the $8,000 awarded him by the jury, after he has paid his lawyers and the other expenses of those trials? Had such a compensation law as the Minnesota Democratic platform approves been in force in New Jersey, this man would have received substantial damages five years ago, if he was entitled to any, and all the delay and the expense to both sides in these five trials would have been avoided.

The late Governor Johnson inaugurated the movement for this kind of legislation in a strong message to the legislature, and it was at his request that a commission was created to study the whole question and, if possible, frame a law dealing justly with both capital and labor that would not violate the state Constitution. This commission will undoubtedly make its report at the next session of the legislature. Laws of this character have been in operation for several years in the more progressive countries of Europe, and they have worked splendidly. There is no good reason why a workmen's compensation law cannot be framed that will stand the test of constitutionality in Minnesota.

The principle that industrial accidents to workmen should be treated as inevitable incidents to industrial operations and that compensation therefor should be regarded as a part of the cost of production has not yet been incorporated into law in any American state, and it would be highly creditable to Minnesota should this state be the first to enact such a law. The Democratic platform gives strong approval to the idea, and should the next legislature contain a Democratic majority there would be no doubt of legislation along the lines to be recommended by the commission appointed by the late Governor Johnson.

FORTUNES OF CIRCUS KINGS.

When the circus visited Duluth a few weeks ago some people complained because it took money out of town. It did take money out of town. It filled its many benches twice in one day, and the result was a profit that to many would seem a small fortune. But the only question to be considered about that money taken away from Duluth was whether what Duluth got out of it was worth it, and none but those too old and sour to appreciate the joy of circus-going will deny that it was worth every penny it cost.

But there is a fascination about the circus and its profits that is irresistible. It is due, no doubt, to the splendor that tinselled display creates in the circus pageant. From a distance, the tinsel is real gold and silver and precious jewels.

But it isn't every day as it was in Duluth this particular recent circus day. A pleasant day and a big crowd mean a large profit. Bad days and poor crowds mean big losses. The prosperity of the circus depends as much upon the weather as does the prosperity of the farmer. There have been a few great fortunes that grew out of the circus business, but many have gone flat broke under crushing combinations of disastrous events.

In his time Phineas T. Barnum was not only chief of the circus kings, but the richest monarch of the sawdust ring. His estate, when death ended his career, was worth more than $3,000,000. He had good real estate investments in Bridgeport, Conn., and in New York, besides his circus interests The right to use his name in connection with 'The Greatest Show on Earth" was in itself worth a small fortune. His partner, James A. Bailey, left more than a million, and so did James L. Hutchinson, a less known member of the trio. Adam Forepaugh died very rich. W. W. Cole, who used to be a circus man but is now living in New York, is rich and he made most of his money in the circus business The Sells brothers (Louis, Al, Peter and Ephraim) built up a fortune of several millions which they were able to leave to their families. On the other hand Dan Costello and "Yankee" Robinson, well known circus men of earlier days, died in poverty.

But the king pins of today, and of all the history of the modern circus, are the Ringling brothers, and their story reads like a romance. Thirty years ago Al, Charles, John, Otto and Alfred T. Ringling were trouping it with a few horses and a few dens of animals and providing their own music. Their growth was slow, but steady and sure. Duluth has witnessed a great deal of it. They used to visit this city a couple of decades ago when their circus, though good, was vastly smaller than the big show of today.

Now these brothers dominate the tent show business. They not only own and manage the Ringling Brothers' circus, but they also own and manage the Barnum & Bailey show and the Sells Brothers & Forepaugh combination. These three circuses represent a total investment of about $8,000,000.

The Ringlings have made good by providing good shows and by a wise and consistent use of printer's ink. Quality and advertising have enabled them to pick gold dust out of the sawdust in the ring.

COLDS AND DRAUGHTS.

Slowly but surely the ancient superstitution about "drafts" is following out into the darkness of disregard the still more ancient superstitution about the deadliness of "night air."

Sir Frederick Treves, one of the greatest of British physicians, says that the idea that colds are caught because of exposure to drafts is absurd; that no cold ever came of a draft alone, and that no cold possibly can, in the physiological nature of things, so come.

Bear in mind, he does not says that drafts are not, sometimes, the final and direct cause of colds. He says they never are the sole cause.

The old idea that "night air" was bad for the health kept humanity housed up of nights as tightly as a bug in a bottle until tuberculosis and pneumonia got a hold on civilization that it will take years of hard fighting to shake off.

Night air is the only air there is to breathe at night, and no matter what its condition, no matter how cold or damp it may be, it always is infinitely better than the poisoned air of a sealed sleeping room.

And as for drafts—if drafts would kill be sure humanity wouldn't outlast the next breeze. Fresh air pretty nearly always is moving air. Air can get stagnant as easily as water, and stagnant air is no better to breathe than stagnant water is to drink. Fresh air being moving air, and moving air being a draft, if drafts are dangerous what hope is there for humanity? None whatever.

If a man over-exerts and then stands sweating and exhausted in a draft of fresh air, very likely he will take cold; but a person so foolish as that is likely to catch most anything.

It is very much more comfortable to believe that Sir Frederick is right than to think that he is wrong. The old superstition about drafts has kept thousands of its victims in misery and deprived them of an honest enjoyment of good fresh air that ought to be the privilege of everybody. Worse than that, it has kept a lot of other people in foul, nauseating air when they would much rather have faced death from a cold than continue to run the risk of poisoning from bad air; being in the presence of those who dreaded drafts, however, and being polite, they have had to suffer.

For years believers in fresh air have given in to dreaders of drafts. Whether it was because they half-believed in the old superstition or because they thought draft-dreaders were in the majority, the wholesome desire for fresh air has given way to consideration for those who quake at the suggestion of a draft.

Maybe Sir Frederick's counsel will help to turn the tide. Maybe hereafter those who demand fresh air will have their way. Maybe hereafter burly, healthy persons who thrive on fresh air and drafts will open the street car window even though the draft-dreaders protest. Maybe hereafter the country will learn to love fresh, sweet air and insist on getting it, even in the form of drafts, as strenuously as it insists on having clean food and pure water. Be certain that it is quite as important as either.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ADMITS HIS MISTAKE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to correct a statement I made in your paper, July 27, in regard to a reservoir on the hillside at Fond du Lac, north of the depot. I viewed a portion of the hillside and found it to be very springy. I learned since that I overlooked the situation. Mr. Brigam informs me that he built a reservoir there six months or a year ago and piped, as far as I can understand, quite a number of the residences, which are supplied from the reservoir now.

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE POLITICIANS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

One of the finest things ever done by a political convention within the range of my observation, was the action of the Democratic state gathering in placing before the people as its selections for the state supreme court two members of the Democratic party and two of the Republican party. We've heard a lot of times about what a good thing it would be to have a non-partisan judiciary. Spell-binders rant about it and party organs give us reams of stuff about it, but we haven't seemed to get anywhere on the proposition until now.

With such a man as Justice T. D. O'Brien on the bench, the Republican party, of which I am a humble but insurgent member, refused to do the obviously just thing and indorse him for re-election. Now comes the Democratic party and gives the public an opportunity to make good on its professions of desire for a non-partisan judiciary. It seems to me that the situation is one one which insures the election of the two Democratic candidates. Of Justice O'Brien it is unnecessary to talk at length, as his standing in the state and record as a public spirited citizen, aside from his acknowledged leadership as a scholar of the law are common knowledge. However, in my wanderings about the state I happened to encounter a paragraph bearing on Mr. O'Brien that is worth reprinting, in my opinion. It is from the Sauk Center Sentinel Press and reads:

"One of our exchanges speaks of Thomas D. O'Brien's aristocratic name. O'Brien may sound aristocratic but when coupled with Thomas D. its mention brings a flush of pride to the cheek of every true Irishman. That man is a credit to the state and nation, even if he cannot be governor of Minnesota."

As to Judge Snow of Winona, he is a fit man for the place, and although his comparative inconspicuousness may make it improbable that he will be elected, there is no reason why he should not be chosen by the voters if they would but realize the chance they have to bring about the condition in the judiciary which they have so long craved.

Misbranding Eggs.

New York Globe: A Brooklyn man bought fourteen "strictly fresh eggs" for 25 cents (evidently he was a hopeful person). Subsequent events led him to believe that three or four of them had been misbranded. Upon reproaching the previous owner of the eggs with duplicity, he was met coldly and disdainfully, and his request for replacements scorned. Then he wrote to the newspapers demanding justice. That's how the case came out.

The legal questions underlying this controversy have long pleaded for adjudication in the courts. There is urgent need for official definitions of the various terms used in designating the status of eggs. The present muddle of nomenclature—"store eggs, cooking eggs, fresh eggs, fresh laid eggs, strictly fresh, absolutely fresh, guaranteed fresh," etc—often raises false hope in the consumer's heart and certainly tends to destroy his confidence in all eggs.

There is this to be said, however, regarding the Brooklyn man's case. He walked into trouble with his eyes open. At prevailing food prices, fourteen "ordinarily" fresh eggs for 25 cents is a bargain sale price. He must have known that "strictly fresh" at the same figure were necessarily something of a speculation.

"Somefin" Cut Off Thumb.

Kingston Item in New York World: "Look, papa, I got only four fingers now!" lisped 4-year-old Joe Jannan, as he toddled up to his father while the latter was talking to an acquaintance.

Little Joe and his father had been walking through the woods near the East Kingston brickyards when the father stopped to speak to a friend. Joe started to investigate the vicinity. He returned in a few minuts.

"What?" the father exclaimed in alarm.

"See," cried Little Joe holding up his right hand, from which the thumb was missing.

"What happened?" was all the father could gasp.

"Somefin over there cut it off," said Joe, pointing toward the brick-making machines.

"Where is it?" asked the father in horror.

"I got it," Joe answered, as he produced the missing thumb.

Joe's papa nearly fainted. "It's all right, papa," the boy said. "It don't hurt."

But papa thought it might hurt later and brought Joe to the Benedictine Sanatorium.

Eloping Up to Date.

The coatless man puts a careless arm
Round the waist of the hatless girl,
While over the dustless, mudless roads
In a horseless wagon they whirl.
Like a leadless bullet from hammerless gun,
By smokeless powder driven,
They fly to taste the speechless joys
By endless union given.
The only luncheon his coinless purse
Affords to them the means
Is a tasteless meal of boneless cod
With a dish of stringless beans.
He smokes his old tobaccoless pipe
And laughs a mirthless laugh
When papa tries to coax her back
By wireless telegraph.

Be Content.

The sea doesn't care about you and me,
It goes on all the time
Wish-wish-washing away out there
(In a way that tells you it doesn't care)
With a sort of wistful, weary rhyme,
The staid old song of the sea.

It wish-wish-washed away just so
When William the Conqueror came;
It will wish-wish-wash when you and I
Have gone away to hush-a-bye
A year, or an age (it's all the same,
And we both have to go).

So what's the use of worry and care,
And where's the need of sorrow,
When you think that whatever becomes of us
The sea won't trouble a tiny cuss,
But tomorrow, and ever again tomorrow,
Will wish-wish-wash out there?

No Red Tape For Him.

Youth's Companion: Some people fear red tape more than any other kind of trouble. One such was a postman, whose duty it was to bring mail to the few scattered houses on an island off the Atlantic coast.

One morning during a terrific storm a man saw him pulling his boat over. Several times it was nearly swamped and the rower in danger of his life.

"Why in the world did you make that trip?" he asked him, when the boat finally grounded on the beach.

"Well, you see," replied the other, "if I miss a trip I have to write a fearfully long letter to Washington, explaining why, and so I thought I had rather pull the boat."

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Which Solons Represent?

Warren Register: Let a few more states demand that congress call a constitutional convention. In that way only is it possible to have direct election of senators.—Duluth Herald.

We don't know of any states that have yet made such a demand upon congress. To be sure, some legislatures have, but if the legislatures fail to do the will of the people when they elect United States senators, who is to say that the people are back of their demand for direct election of senators? The average member of a legislature who favors this change in the method of electing senators is a moral coward—he is afraid somebody will criticise his vote if he takes part in a senatorial election, whether the candidate he supports be the winner or the loser on the deciding ballot. Some of the legislatures that have demanded a constitutional convention did so but once, and after their predecessors had turned down the proposition time and again. Who is to say which represented truly the prevailing sentiment of its state? Some of these "demands" were made years ago and have not been repeated. Granting that they may have expressed the wishes of the states when made, what reason is there for congress to assume that they express the present wishes of those states? Cannot a state change from the affirmative to the negative? Is such a demand once made to outweigh its refusal a dozen times? Is the verdict of a majority never to have any force unless it be given one way? If so, isn't that a species of the "Heads I win, tails you lose!" game?

What Winona Needs.

Winona Independent: The Winona police department surely does need a patrol wagon. As it is now, when an officer makes an arrest he often has to exhaust every ounce of strength he has to get an obstreperous party a distance of several blocks to the jail. As soon as the wagon can be afforded it should be procured.

Mere Man After All?

Ortonville Herald Star: It is most amazing how Col. Roosevelt keeps himself bottled up on the subject of politics. With the country proclaiming him the alpha and the omega of all things political, in which view the country and the colonel seem to be in full accord, and with the colonel's hitherto apparent willingness to assume the burden of directing the minds and consciences of the American people, it is we say, amazing that he now sits idly by and maintains an imposing silence while such inviting hot tares and thistles for the Republican party. What has tamed this mighty political head hunter? Have the burdens of general seer and prophet and dictator become too onerous or has he listened to the siren buzzings of the presidential bee again? Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt is a mere man after all.

Colleges and Churches.

Philadelphia Press: The late Commodore Vanderbilt was rewarded for his grant of $1,000,00 to a Methodist college in Nashville, Tenn., by having its name changed to Vanderbilt university. His family has materially increased the original grant, and the question is now raised whether this institution, founded by Methodists, but now representing an investment of $3,000,000, mostly contributed from non-Methodist sources, is or is not the property of the Southern Methodist church.

A great lawsuit is in sight to determine this question, which will doubtless reach the federal supreme court. The church party already claims that Justice Lurton will not be qualified to sit in the case, because as a Tennesseean he has already taken sides in favor of the view that Vanderbilt university is no longer under sectarian control. The issue has a very wide bearing, as most of American colleges were founded by or in connection with some church, with a view to training up an educated ministry for that particular denomination. Many of these broadened and sought students and donations from every source, and gradually became released altogether from denominational control. Others still keep up their church allegiance, while others occupy a somewhat intermediate position.

An authoritative decision is needed which will settle the exact legal status of colleges which are drifting away from their denominational origin and seek to become purely secular colleges. Mr. Carnegie's grant of money to colleges not under sectarian control has strengthened this tendency toward their secularization. If there are property rights or church rights infringed by such change, it ought to be clearly ascertained, and only the highest national court can determine this with an authority as wide as the land.

Little Aeroplane Invention.

New York Press: Truth is, and Tip hates to say it, never in all the history of science have such great things been accomplished on so little intellectual genius as has been the case with our science of flying. And for two obvious reasons. Flying was not so difficult of accomplishment as was supposed, was easy after the explosive engine was developed, though impossible before. The great intellect had already been expended in the motor and electric sides of the matter. This is not saying the Wrights are not beyond compare in their sharp genius in mechanics and their marvelous bravery. But the science of flying is not ornamented by such intellectual giants as is electricity by Franklin, Faraday and Kelvin. Flying is really a composite of inventions.

Progress in South Carolina.

Columbia State: How rapidly the South Carolina cities grow! The Greenville News speaks of "Spartanburg's thirteen clawhammer suits," and it seems but yesterday that Spartanburg had only three such suits. At that time there was but one in Laurens, though in Greenville there were supposed to be six or seven in commission as early as 1885. Greenville has probably not maintained her lead in this manner. Anderson was behind all the up-country towns in acquiring clawhammers and Abbeville was ahead of them. In the latter town some of the original specimens were in existence as late as 1891, and there were no older anywhere except in Camden and on Edleto Island.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Not Needed.

"He doesn't seem to need me." This was the rather pathetic way in which a man referred to another person whom he admired and with whom he was closely associated, but to whose happiness he knew that he was not himself essential. "Moreover," he continued, "he is one of those men who does not seem really to need any of his friends."

We all know the type. Certain persons seem to move through life as if they lived in a different realm from common mortals. They are refined, courteous, good tempered, high minded. Often they are persons of large capacity and of tested character. They seem to subsist on books or music or pictures, or business, or travel, or possibly on one or two persons to whom, and to whom alone the gates of their hearts are unbarred.

Without assuming the judicial function, we may say that as a rule something is not quite right with the man who does not need other persons and a considerable number of them, who is willing to receive the admiration of the crowd, but who will never take a single man among them even into the ante-chambers of his heart. Such a thing as a one-sided friendship is almost impossible. Your friend may be a good deal richer, and wiser than you; he may have ten gifts to your one, but unless there is some little need of his life which you and you alone can supply, you are at best only a fawning parasite on him, tolerated rather than really valued.

To prove this we have only to cite one of the classic examples of friendship, that between Jesus of Nazareth and his followers. If anyone could have dispensed with the ordinary values of friendship, if anyone could have completed his life apart from men, through the rare communion which he had with his Father in Heaven, it was He. But He invited His disciples into the sacred places of His own experience, not simply because of what He could do for them, but because of what they could do for Him. And there were occasions when His longing for what they had to offer became intensely acute, as when in the Garden of Gethsemane He sorrowfully asked the sleeping three "what, could ye not watch one hour with me?"

A one-sided friendship, then, is a contradiction in terms, for a mutual need is the cornerstone in the temple of friendship and all through life we get our deepest satisfaction through being able to supply some need in the social order. Is there anything harder than not to be needed in the home? When you have ministered so gladly month after month, year after year to a beloved one racked by disease, or prostrated by the infirmities of age, and death comes at last, do you look upon it as unfeeling outsiders may, who say "what a happy release from confining toil!" Ah, no, you sorrow because your own hands are now idle and nobody seems to be left who needs you, now grandmother or mother is gone.

Is there anything harder than not to be wanted in the business world, to have the foreman or employer come along at the end of the week and say "We shan't need your services any longer."

When our cares and responsibilities seem heavy let us be thankful that we are necessary to other lives, big or little, to the church, to the community. When we seem to have become or to be unnecessary to anybody, or any good cause, let us create a need for ourselves by being the kind of people of which the idle rich has too many.

It Was His Deal.

Lincoln, Neb., State-Journal: No disturbance in Rhode Island follows the declaration by Senator Bristow that the last tariff act raised the duty on manufactures of rubber from 30 to 35 per cent and that the chief beneficiary of this raise is the International Rubber company, of which Senator Aldrich is a director and his son, E. B. Aldrich, is president. Some of these New Englanders look upon Senator Aldrich and his tariff bill very much as a Western citizen regarded a complaint made to him in a card game that the dealer had slipped himself three jacks. "Well," he said in some surprise, "what if he did? Isn't it his deal?"

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL.

After a successful existence of six years now occupies an enviable place in the educational system of Duluth. Its course of study is broad and elastic, and is in the hands of teachers specially trained for their tasks. It admits boys and girls and covers the ground from the primary grades to college. Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

O. G. Traphagen and Thomas Dickens have added another fine steam launch to the Duluth fleet. The boat, which is 32 feet long and 7 feet beam and carries twenty-five people, was purchased in Dakota by Inspector Chalk and has been named The Pearl, in honor of the inspector's daughter.

The Republican state convention has nominated William R. Merriam for a second term as governor of Minnesota.

The Cranberry Lumber company, of which George A. Stevens is manager and part owner, is figuring on moving its immense business from Ashland to Duluth. The company is composed of Arthur Hill, Thomas Merrill, Gordon Corning and John La Due of Saginaw, Mich., in addition to Mr. Stevens.

The Minnesota Subway Conduit company has been incorporated at St. Paul with $10,000 capital to operate conduits and lay pipes to convey water from Lake Superior across Minnesota Point and Superior bay to the state line between Minnesota and Wisconsin. The incorporators are C. A. Severance, W. C. Hubbell, C. W. C. Wither, S. Powers and A. N. Taylor.

Owing to a change in stock ownership, the Spalding House company has recently reorganized. The new directors are W. W. Spalding, G. G. Hartley, Albert Harrington, J. A. Willard, George F. Piper, A. A. Warner and H. W. Coffin.

The grand jurors drawn for the September term of the district court are: August Grochau, J. J. Hibbard, Herman Beier, C. A. Everett, A. C. Olson, T. W. Hoopes, Isaac Bondy, Vose Palmer, William Ball and Ole A. Berg of St. Louis county; George Dingman, J. P. Appleby and Paul Bandit of Cook county; L. Belland and Henry Doerr of Lake county.

THE KNAVE AND THE FOOL

By SAVOYARD.

The sundry civil appropriation just enacted has a provision to take out of the public treasury $250,000 and bestow it upon the Republican party as campaign boodle for the presidential election of 1912. It provides that a commission be raised to investigate and report on the facts as to wages paid to labor in foreign countries and in the United States. There is no suggestion that the inquiry shall be stretched to ascertain the profits of capital at home and abroad. That is the last thing the tariff monopoly would willingly make known.

When it was suggested that a Democrat or two be put on the commission it was rejected by a strict party vote, and that makes it manifest that the report, possibly already prepared, will be a thoroughly partisan document designed to persuade the people that all material blessing descends to them from a monopoly tariff that abolishes supply and demand and puts the consumer at the mercy of the producer of manufactured articles and the owner of the output of the mines.

It is an additional hypocrisy and a cumulative infamy of the Republican party. What is the proposal? Here it is. If the tariff is too high, we are going to find it out by paying $250,000 of the public money to a batch of its friends, probably broken down and discredited politicians, to ascertain the fact. They will consume years pretending to "investigate," and when they make report, it will be that the Payne-Aldrich law is faulty in that the graft in it is altogether too small. And the people are to pay $250,000 for such stuff as that, meanwhile paying in excessive protection billions of dollars annually to the manufacturers, who say they cannot make a living unless they get more in the domestic market for their goods than foreigners would be willing to supply them for. And at the same time those tariff-fat manufacturers ship their goods abroad and sell them cheaper than they sell them at home, after paying the freight on them.

The emblem of the Democratic party is the jackass. It is extremely appropriate, for it is as pronounced a fool as the Republican party is a consummate knave. The Democratic party has had but a single issue since reconstruction, and that the tariff—honest and constitutional taxation. Hundreds of millions for revenue, not one cent for monopoly. On that issue we very nearly won in 1880. We did win in 1884 and 1886. We barely missed in 1888, we swept the country on it in 1890 and 1892.

Then we threw it away for the impossible repudiation of 16 to 1. We had the disgraceful war with Spain, imperialism, the octopus chase and what not. All this was nuts to that matchless knave, the G. O. P., that cared not a rap what happened, so it did not happen to the tariff.

Theodore Roosevelt was president more than seven years. He was agreed with John G. Carlisle on the tariff, if one can put trust in his writings. On the robber tariff, all the seven years he was president he was as mute as a fish. But he made a harmless crusade against the railroads and that took the minds of the people off the tariff. As for the roads, I make no doubt that they did some enormous things to the injury of the public that they served and that supported them; but to strike a balance, the roads have done good to the people to the amount of $100 for every dollar they robbed the people of. But suppose the roads never served the people beneficently at all, the harm they did any two weeks ever equaled the graft the tariff exacted any two days.

And so while Teddy was chasing the railroad octopus that he never overtook and never harmed, the tariff was robbing the people with both hands. Then he got up the fad of "conservation," as arrant a humbug as ever was ordered, conceived in Pittsburg, Pa., or Providence, R. I., I doubt not, to keep the people in hot water and divert their minds from the tariff robber. It is a fad of "the man-milliners, dilettante carpet knights" of political economy.

Had James Buchanan and his successors applied it to the West of their day, Kansas and Nebraska would now be howling wildernesses. As I understand it, the government is to withdraw empires of land from settlement and force loyal American citizens across the border to become loyal subjects of King George. But I have a crude idea of it, except that I am thoroughly convinced that it was sprung to take the thoughts of the people off the infamous robber tariff, and I am thoroughly convinced that we never would have heard of "conservation" if the tariff had not been robbing the people in city, town, village, hamlet and farm from ocean to ocean.

As for Taft, he is a sincere, honest, able man who has lived in the courtroom, in the war department, and as satrap in the Philippines. He knows nothing of the tariff. How could he? He never heard of it until the standpatters "revised" the graft "up." Let him understand it as it is and he will smite it hip and thing, for Taft is as brave as he is honest. He is an able and a strong man and by all odds the best president the Republican party has given us.

Here is an act of Taft worthy Andrew Jackson or Grover Cleveland. Congress ordered an expenditure of $300,000 to enable the attorney general to prosecute violators of the anti-trust laws, but the house of representatives was guilty of the unspeakable wrong of providing that none of the money was to be devoted to the prosecution of a labor organization that violated the law, which is to say that organized labor is a pretorian in this country, above the law, and should be granted indulgence to break the law whenever the labor bosses so order. Taft let it be known that he would stand for no such infamy and I am glad the house receded from such in indefensible position.

The house was pretending to compliment labor. In fact it was insulting labor, and everybody knows that the play was to capture the labor vote. Of course the things was not only the meanest sort of class legislation, but it was grossly unconstitutional and a serious injury to labor. What was it? Simply this, only this: Capital was to be held strictly and rigidly to the law; labor was to be exempted from the law's operation. What would follow? Millions of capital would withdraw from gainful enterprise in this country and seek investment in other lands where the laws bear on capital and labor precisely alike. That would throw out of employment tens of thousands of laboring men and thus reduce consumption and curtail production.

When will this country learn that capital and labor are partners, mutually dependent upon each other? The law ought to be blind to both and it ought to operate alike on both. When capital is earning a dividend, labor is enjoying a high wage. When there is panic in the mart, labor must accept reduced wage or cease work; but this proposed legislation to exempt labor from the operation of the anti-trust laws can have none other effect than to widen the schism between capital and labor already distressingly and portentiously inflamed. Why not try a little Tom Jeffersonism, "equal rights to all, exclusive privileges to none?"

When Charles Sumner said that something Andy Johnson did was a "ridiculosity," Joseph B. McCullough wrote, "that is one of Sumner's 'jackassities,'" and it is a jackassity of the Democratic party to antagonize the honest business intersts of the country and that is why they have been in the wilderness so long.

Let the Democratic party throw away all its immense stores of demagogy and grapple with the protective tariff and cling to it until the people force taxation for public purposes only, and not one cent to private graft. That is the road to victory and there is none other.

WOMEN'S TRADE UNIONS

Effectiveness Shown by the Shirt-waist Girls' Strike—What They Do and Stand For—Part Played By Women's Trade Union League.

By ALICE HENRY,
Editor of Womens' Department Union Labor Advocate.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

You have all heard of the strike of the 40,000, when the shirtwaist girls in New York and Philadelphia left their machines in the depth of winter and stayed out till the employers accepted their terms.

Why did they strike, when it was so hard for them? That was what the public asked. That was what some employers asked too, when driven to distraction by silent machines and unfilled orders. The answer of one little Jewish girl was to the point. "How can you live," said her former employer, "if you won't come back to work?" She said slowly in her queer, formal English.

"I lived not much on 49 cents a day."

Would not you strike, too, if you had 49 cents a day, if you were fined a day's pay for being five minutes' late; if you were charged for a worn-out presser-foot; if you had to pay for power to run your employer's machine?

These were the conditions which the words of one girl, "I am tired of talking, let us do something," changed from an ordinary petty dispute to a struggle of national importance.

This girl is typical of the finest material of the strikers. She is a young Russian Jewess, not yet out of her 'teens who had in her own country a good schooling. She herself did not strike because of personal hardship, but because many of her sister-workers were paid so poorly and treated so badly.

It was at this stage that the New York Women's Trade Union league was of such service. It more than any other one body brought this story before the public, and linked together Socialists, suffragists, lawyers, clergymen and society women, to raise money to keep this enormous body of workers from starvation, to enroll the girls in the Shirtwaist Makers' union, to rent halls in which they could meet, to provide speakers in English, Yiddish and Italian, and to aid in drawing up agreements as fast as employers were willing to make terms

Thus organized and thus expressed the restless dissatisfaction of the girls was focussed on certain simple clear demands and these in the end were gained.

A fifty-two hour week.
A limit to night work.
Increased pay and a contract with each shop drawn up by the union.

The Strike of the Forty Thousand is a mirror of conditions common in the life of working girls. The part taken by the Women's Trade Union league is typical of that which the organization is beginning to play in the lives of our young girl workers.

It is but six years since the league began its work in Boston The national headquarters are in Chicago and the president is Mrs. Raymond Robbins. She is fired with a religious enthusiasm for the welfare of the young working girl. There are now local branches in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Springfield, Ill., and Philadelphia, Cleveland and other cities are coming in line.

The league is an expression of the mother spirit of the women of this continent, watching over the young girl, helping her to relate herself to her brothers in the labor union and to her sisters who are in the service of the home and the child. Every one can belong. It is not only a gathering togother of women's unions. it provides a fellowship to which can belong, the working woman and the woman of leisure and the woman's club anxious to help in bringing about the shorter working day, a wage on which a girl can live, and in hastening the time when all dangerous machinery will be protected, and every factory well lighted and ventilated. Anywhere and everywhere the man or woman who wants to see the precious gift of the girlhood of each generation conserved as carefully as the forests or the waters can help by joining.

It is a wonderful training school for its members. The inexperienced work-girl and the woman who has never had to earn her own living come into touch with some of the wonderful personalities who, under the prosaic title of business agent, are helping other working girls to know their own powers.

Here is how one business agent, Melinda Scott, handled a situation that the unprotected young factory-worker has to face often. A little Polish factory girl was insulted by a foreman. She complained to the superintendent, but was told it must have been her own fault. She sent to the owner of the factory a registered letter and obtained the official receipt. No reply was forthcoming. Melinda Scott, as business agent, was now appealed to. She went straight to the superintendent, and told him she would call "shop" within fifteen minutes if this foreman was not made to publicly apologize. The employer was telephoned for. He came in his motor and within the fifteen minutes the foreman was asked for an explanation he could not give. "Very well," said the employer, pointing to Miss Scott, "you do as she says and apologize."

The foreman did what was asked, and the same day received his walking papers.

Could church or priest have preached a more forceful sermon on morality?

THIRTEENTH SEASON AT CAMP MILLER OPENS AUG. 15

Sixty Duluth Boys Will Spend Vacation at Deerwood.

Pleasant Routine of Life "Where Comfort Is King."

The thirteenth season of Camp Miller, the boys' department summer camp, will open at Deerwood, Minn., Aug. 15, and will last for two weeks. The advance party will leave three days before hand to have everything in readiness when the camp opens.

Accommodations have been prepared for sixty boys and registrations are coming in every day. Places will not be reserved after the limit of sixty boys have registered.

The camp will be in charge of Secretary Norman D. McLeod, assisted by J. R. Batchelor and six young men, who will act as leaders. Boys' camps have become quite a feature of the association's work and each year thousands of boys spend their vacations in this way. The matter of the boy's vacation is often a problem with parents, but the boys' department camps offer the boys every advantage of outdoor life under the right conditions of health and morals. The boys' department of Duluth has conducted thirteen camps, and the training gained in these years enables it to give the boys a vacation long to be remembered.

On arrival at camp the boys will be assigned in congenial groups of seven with a camp leader. They will select their own name and camp yell, and each group will be responsible for some phase of camp sport and work. The daily program is something like the following: 6 a. m. reveille is sounded and all the campers appear in front of their tent door for setting up exercises, followed by a morning dip at 7:30. The flag is raised, breakfast at 8; chapel at 8:30. The morning is devoted to camp duties, games, boating, fishing and the morning swim. The afternoon is devoted to athletic sports, nature study, etc. Supper is served at 6 and at 7:30 comes the sounding of retreat and lowering of the flag, then comes one of the most pleasant features of camp life, the camp fire with its good times until 9:20, and at 9:30 taps is sounded and lights out for a good nine-hour sleep.

Fishing and Swimming.

Fishing is one of the big attractions of camping. Serpent lake abounds with black bass, crappies, sunfish and pickerel. Every boy loves to swim and plenty of provision is made for this sports. The morning swim comes off at 10:45 and the afternoon swim at 4 o'clock. The boys are allowed to go in only on these occasions, and every precaution is taken for their safety. All the leaders are present and the life-saving corps will be on patrol in boats to give help should the need arise. Special aquatics are planned for and the shoot-the-chute, trapeze and raft add to the fun. During the past years nearly every boy who has attended camp has learned to swim.

Hiking trips will be taken by the different groups and their leaders to points of interest. On these trips the boys will do their own cooking, minstrel entertainments, corn and marshmallow roasts, ice cream socials, baseball, basket ball, quoits, nightshirt parades, ghost dances, launch rides, hay rack rides and a host of other things go to make two weeks of solid fun never to be forgotten.

Members of Camp Miller have established a reputation for manliness and good behavior so that very few rules are necessary.

The problem of feeding sixty hungry boys three times a day looks like a big one, but is easily handled by the competent chef and assistant. Only the best food purchasable is used. A farmer in close proximity to the camp supplies the milk, vegetables, etc.

A short course in nature study, first aid to the injured and life-saving will be given. A dark room will be fitted up so that campers can develop and print their pictures. Tools will be provided for boys who want to make things, and a library of outdoor books will be provided.

There will be two athletic contests, one for boys under 14 years and one for boys over 14 years. Prizes will be given and awarded during the closing days of camp.

This year it will be the privilege of campers to win and wear the camp initial "M," by performing the following events:

Boys Under 15 Years.

1. Swim, fifty yards.
2. Win a place in athletic contest.
3. Pass Red Cross examination.
4. Sleeping out all night away from camp and cooking breakfast.
5. Taking part in entertainment.
6. Take a picture of an animal and name and identify five trees.
7. Run 100 yards in 14 seconds.
8. Pull up six times.
9. Broad jump, 6 feet 6 inches.
10. High jump, 3 feet 6 inches.
11. Meet the approval of camp leaders.

Boys Over 15 Years.

1. Swim sixty yards.
2. Win a place in athletic contest.
3. Pass Red Cross examination.
4. Sleeping out all night away from camp and cook own breakfast.
5. Take a picture of animal or identify five trees.
6. Take part in entertainment.
7. Run 100 yards, in 12 2-5 seconds.
8. Broad jump, 7 feet 10 inches.
9. High jump, 4 feet 5 inches.
10. Pull up twelve times.
11. Meet the approval of camp leaders.

The big "M's" will be given out while at camp and a picture of the winners taken and hung up in the clubrooms.

The prizes follow:

Gold medal to best all round camper.

Camp Miller pennant, new design, to champion athlete, junior and senior.

Watch fobs to each member of best tent.

Camp Miller pennant for the largest and best fish caught and cleaned.

Camp Miller pennant for the best set of camp pictures delievered before Sept. 15, 1910.

Watch fobs to each member of the tent which turns in the best string of cleaned fish. Pennant to leader of the tent.

Pennant to quoit champion, junior and senior.

Pennant to first boy learning to swim after going to camp.

Watch fob to boy who, on coming to camp cannot swim and is most proficient on leaving.

The Hall of Fame.

A vote will be taken on the following things and the winners will have their names hung up on the clubroom walls:

Most popular boy.
Best athlete.
Most courteous boy.
Camp humorist.
Most generous boy.
Brightest boy.
Boy with biggest pull.
Heavenly twins.
Boy who has done most for the camp.
Best natured boy.
Most popular song.
Best table manners.
Favorite game.
Neatest boy.
Hard luck boy.
Mascot.

Who Will Have Charge of Camp Miller.

THE AUGUST MAGAZINES

The August issue of the Woman's Home Companion is called "The Good Time Number," and it lives up to that title in every particular, giving ideas for summer enjoyment of every sort. The fiction is of the light, happy variety with, in most instances, the atmosphere of vacation days charmingly depicted. "Mille. Mystic," a midsummer comedy by Anna Steese Richardson, will doubtless be acted in many gardens during the summer, and a remarkably timely article on the outdoor play, by Walter Prichard Eaton, will help in a large measure to make al fresco theatricals the popular thing during the summer. The prize-winning answers to the "Which Girl Would You Love" contest appear in this month's issue, and among the attractive and practical articles are "How to Build a House-Boat," by Charles E. Searle; and article about Queen Mary, by Philip Hume Forster; and a boy's vacation letters to his mother. The regular departments are summery and happy, the fashions are particularly fetching and the cookery is cool to even read about.

The August American Magazine is an achievement in periodical publishing. In the first place, being a fiction number, it contains some of the best stories that have appeared in any magazine in a long time. John Fleming Wilson writes a splendid sea story of adventure; R. F. Foster, the card expert, contributes a great bridge yarn; David Grayson describes some more of his delightful "adventures in contentment"; Neith Boyce tells a charming love tale; "A Woman," by James Oppenheim, is powerful and compelling, while the story entitled, "Achievement,' by the noted English author, J. C. Snaith, is a spellbinder. Secondly, the more serious features in the magazine are excellently balanced. Another article of the series "Barbarous Mexico' exposes the outrageous treatment of the natives in Mexico by the soldiers of Diaz. It is written by a trained nurse who describes the things she has actually witnessed. "Some Tennis Champions," by Arthur S. Pier, is an excellent review of the work and battles of the great tennis players, the photographs being especially good and interesting. Jane Addams tells how the work among the poor in Chicago is carried on under the direction of Hull House. George Fitch writes a very laughable article about our "cruelty to Presidents," and Superintendent of Weights and Measures for the state of New York describes the tradesmen's temptation to cheat by using false weights and short measures.

"Who Will Win the Pennant in the National League?" is a question asked by several hundred thousand devoted "fans" and Johnnie Evers, second baseman for the Chicago Nationals, should know the answer if anyone does. He gives it with his reasons in the August Metropolitan Magazine. If anyone is desirous of learning the complete details of the controversial career of the administration, he should read "The Administration on Trial," which begins in the current number of the Metropolitan. Therein, during the next few months, each member of prominence of the two houses of congress will write his defense or complaint—Messrs. Payne, Bristow, Norris and Clark this month. The story of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks by Lindsay Denison is interesting.

For those who are watching with interest the evolution of the church in its relation to human affairs, and who have noted what many believe to be the signs of an impending change in the nation's religious life, the Rev. Washington Gladden's paper on "The Municipal Church," in the August Century, will be rich in suggestiveness. Dr. Gladden delves down to some of the basic truths of Christianity, and from a careful analysis of these truths and their bearing on Christian living builds up an ideal organization the realization of which, he contends, would go far toward solving many of the problems of philanthropy, while at the same time it would strengthen church unity. Already something resembling Dr. Gladden's proposed Municipal church has been started in Columbus, Ohio. Among recent literary discoveries perhaps there is nothing that takes a higher rank than the revelations made by Prof. Charles W. Wallace, of the University of Nebraska, as a consequence of the investigations which he has recently completed among certain neglected archives in England belonging to the Elizabethan era. Out of these archives Prof. Wallace has rescued a number of documents in which Shakespeare is revealed "as a man among men,' certain facts as to his career and social position being thus elicited which will inevitably change, or at least modify, the estimate which have heretofore been placed on his personality and importance as a citizen of the London of his day. In the August Century Prof. Wallace contributes the results of some of these discoveries, from which it is possible to determine Shakespeare's actual money interest in the Globe theater.

Lippincott's Magazine for August is an excellent example of what a summer magazine should be. There is the usual complete novel, of course—"The Mystery of Mary," by Grace Livingston Hill Lutz, author of "Marcia Schuyler" and "Phoebe Deane." "The Mystery of Mary" is a strong story, with an ingenious plot and cleverly depicted characters. Mary, the heroine, finds it necessary to lose her identity suddenly, and she does so, ably assisted by a young man, who, however, is not taken into her confidence—nor is the reader—until the final pages. "The Montser in the Car" is a remarkable paper by Kate Masterson. It has to do with the brutalizing effect automobiling is having upon American women. The author doesn't mince matters, but indulges in some pretty frank statements. Whether you agree with them or not, you will find the article interesting. Other papers and sketches are "A World Paper Dollar," by Willard French; "When the Cow Jumps Over the Moon," by Clifford Howard; "Going Too Far," by John Kendrick Bangs; "Swimmin'," by Edwin L. Sabin; "Canned Literature," by Ellis O. Jones; and "Sleeplessness," by David H. Dodge. The short stories in this issue of Lippincott's are delightful.

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for August is given to a profusely illustrated review by Warren H. Miller of mechanical and commercial developments in the French aeroplane industry. The business has increased to such an extent that five concerns are now engaged in manufacturing aeroplanes, some of them in more than one factory, all of them issuing handsome catalogues of standard sizes and styles of aeroplanes. One plant has sold more than 250 machines, and the other concerns, Farman, Sommer, Voisin and Antoinette have in hand orders for from twenty to fifty aeroplanes each. Other illustrated features of important importance include Frank Koester's concluding paper of his general review of hydroelectric-engineering practice, dealing with high-tension transmission lines and apparatus, and the second and last of R. J. S. Bigelt's articles on the revival of the reciprocating engine, in which he demonstrates the method of calculating the engine-turbine combination for a given case.

The leading articles in The Forum for August are: "Siberia and the Russian Woman," by Rose Stremsky; "Omar Khayyam," by Allen Upward; "He Came to Provels," by Edward Bedinger Mitchell; "The Dramatic Line," by Vanerhoyden Tyles; "The Theater, the Play and the Public," by Granville Barber; "The Wastrel," by Reginald Wright Kauffman; "Edward Carpenter's Message to His Age," by Mrs. Havelock Ellis; "The Regeneration of Child Life by Means of the Roentgen Ray," by Rose Pendleton Chiles; "Limitations," by Cole Young Blee; "The Ascending Effort," by Bliss Carman.

The story of the National Guard is told in the issue of Harper's Weekly for July 23 by Harry Albert Austin, who, writing under the title "The Strong Arm of the State," describes the ancient record and honorable service of this fine body of men. Under the title "Dragging a Road Across Iowa" Stewart Ives de Krafft tells of the movement that produced the new state highway from the Mississippi to the Missouri. Charles Johnston tells in this issue of "An Interesting Figure in the New Democracy"—John Alden Dix. The Rev. Michael Clune contributes, under the title "The Siren of Bull Run," an account of a remarkable confession by the late secretary to Jefferson Davis. This issue contains a thrilling story by Marvene Kennedy Thompson and the usual humor and editorial features.

The contents of The World's Work for August is comprehensive enough to have something of general interest to every one. "The Crime of the Pork-Barrel," and the two articles which follow it—"A Congressman's Letters" and "Schedule I—The Cotton Tariff"—taken together explain clearly and without partisanship the wasteful and dishonest system of which congress is both the author and the victim, a system which taxes the people for the benefit of the few, throws away millions of dollars every year, and by indefensible special favors builds up a party machine in the house of representatives and the senate which perpetuates itself by the very abuses that it was built on. All three articles are by men who have seen the system at close range and who know it well, and one of them is by a congressman who is both a beneficiary and a victim. The August number also contains an illustrated article entitled "The Passing of the Man with the Hoe," which shows the phenomenal spread and development of the combustion engine as a labor-saving implement for the farmer and the farmer's wife. William Bayard Hale, who recently attended the funeral of King Edward as a special representative of The World's Work, returned on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria with Mr. Roosevelt. The result is "The Colonel and John Bull.'

"Pan and the Crusader," the novelette to which the August Atlantic gives the opening place, is the best example of Margaret Sherwood's distinguished workmanship since the appearance of "Daphne." The background of Miss Sherwood's story is a classic island, peopled by the happy worshipers of Pan, and in dramatic contrast the story itself portrays the temptations of a shipwrecked Crusader, who longs to exchange the burden of his cross for the joyous Paganism of his new-found friends. In "Catholicism and the Future," Father Benson, the Roman Catholic son of the late archbishop of Caterbury and youngest of the distinguished Benson brothers, claims the world for the church of Rome, marshalling his arguments thickly and, it must be owned, effectively. Dr. Crothers contributes a paper at once genuine and humorous "In Praise of Politicians,' while ex-President Tucker, celebrating his release from the cares of Dartmouth, discusses under the title of "The New Reservation of Time," the gift brought by the modern pension system of veteran professors. Other significant papers in the number are "American Characteristics," by the Italian historian, Ferrero; a vacation idyl, "On Foot in the Yosemite," by Bradford Torrey, and "The Nervous Strain," by Agnes Repplier, while "The Quarter," by Mrs. Pennell, and Emily James Putnam's paper on "The Lady Abbess" contribute to variety of interest.

New York, July 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today, says:

There is no lack of evidence that the business situation is much better than the recent depression in Wall street would indicate. Notable improvement in business confidence took place in the latter part of the week, due to recovery in securities prices, to advices that much needed rains were falling in crop sections and to the excellent quarterly report of the leading steel producer. That conditions in the iron-steel trade during recent months have been more satisfactory than generally believed is evidenced by the report of the United States Steel corporation for the second quarter.

Production is at a fair rate and reports of cancellations are not borne out by facts. Business is rather brisk in steel bars, and the minimum price is $1.45, Pittsburg. Shading continues in sheet products of from $2 to $4 per ton, while tinplate is firm and there is no sign of abatement of activity in this direction.

Buyers are more numerous in the primary dry goods market and trading is slightly more active for staple prints, bleached goods and duck, while miscellaneous export fabrics are in better call with values held steadier. Sales at Fall River were equal to a full week's output, for the first time in a number of weeks, and trading is quite general in all lines of ordered goods. Men's wear for spring and dress goods have been opened by the large corporations; orders on plain staple worsted increased steadily, but conservatively. Yarns are firmer and in better inquiry. Silks in fancy weaves and in the gray for converting purposes sell steadily.

Shoe buyers still operate conservatively, following the recent buying in Boston, and hold off from placing further orders on account until crop results are determined. Footwear values are again about 2½ cents per pair lower all around. There is no snap to leather trading, but the demand is more steady than a month ago.

Large buyers are said to be short of supplies, and though they operate more or less from hand to mouth, appear desirous for immediate shipments. Further clearance sales by large Chicago packers of back salting hides at about the prices accepted on previous large sales have served to impart a much better tone to the domestic hide market.

TO DISCOVER THE NORTH POLE

Arctic Navigator Says it Will be Located by Autovessel.

ALTHOUGH the now historic Peary-Cook controversy has, with the mysterious disappearance of the "physician-explorer," long since ceased to fill the columns of the dailly press, that famous squabble while it lasted had no more eager follower than Capt. George Bartlett, a mariner of international reputation and one of the pioneer cryolite trading masters between the port of Philadelphia and the frozen North, who now comes forward to revive local interest in the much disputed point at 90 deg. north latitude by expressing the opinion that the pole has never been discovered, and that he has just completed plans for the only kind of a vessel that could possibly pierce the northernmost icy recesses on the topmost portion of this sphere. Captain Bartlett, who bears no relation to the skipper of that name who manned Peary's ship, the Roosevelt, has been busy on the designs of his creation ever since the first message of the announced polar victory startled the entire world, and now he makes the assertion that the idea he has evolved provides for an amphibious boat that can travel with power equally as well and as speedily on ice or land or afloat, says the Philadelphia Record.

Captain Bartlett is one of the most widely known navigators of American and Arctic seas, and his claims will probably create more than a ripple of excitement in marine circles, where his standing precludes the possibility of his statements being taken for those of an imaginary or impracticable person. While now retired and living quietly at Pleasantville, N. J., he has rounded the world several times and has made more than a score of voyages to the frozen wastes of the Far North, carrying large cargoes of cryolite for the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company of this city.

He was one of the pioneer traders running to the Arctic circle, and being also the possessor of an English master's certificate, commanded some of the fastest sailing vessels afloat before the days of manufactured ice, when he made many record voyages to Calcutta and other Eastern points with ice from the North. For the past few years Captain Bartlett has devoted his attention to motor craft and he now announces his willingness to head a party for the North to demonstrate the pole has never been reached and that he has perfected the only mechanical contrivance that can leave the north of Greenland and reach the earth's polar axis in less than ten days.

Prefacing a description of the craft, of which he has made a sketch and in which he places so much confidence, Captain Bartlett says: "The experience I have gained from my voyages to the icy North caused me to take a lively interest in the North Pole controversy, and out of this interest was born the desire to draft some mechanical contrivance that would possess the strength to cope successfully with all the natural changes and at the same time be speedy enough to travel to the North Pole within a reasonable time.

"I have never believed that Dr. Cook reached the North Pole, his lack of education as a practical navigator being so apparent as to make his claims improbable. Any man could frame up a set of observations that would bear close scrutiny and yet do such. I do not believe that the pole has yet been discovered or reached nor do I believe that such a journey can be accomplished in open boats or by sledge.'

The design of Capt. Bartlett's idea bears resemblance to craft of similar nature that have been often manufactured in the past only to fall of their purpose, but the intrepid mariner believes he has solved the problem of land and water travel. His plan calls for an "automobile boat" "that can be operated with equal facility over the ice or snow or in the water." His autoboat, which he has built in minature, will for service be 35 feet in length, 6 feet beam and 7 feet depth of hold. Only one mast will be utilized, forward, of sufficient length to carry a spread of 30 feet of canvas. A gasoline engine of fifteen horse power will furnish the propelling force. The land "legs" of the amphibian comprise two sets of wheels, the after ones being made of solid iron with extra broad rims and sharp paddles of the same material. Capt. Bartlett also has a scheme for preventing the possible freezing of the gasoline.

"Such a boat as I have designed here," says Capt. Bartlett, "easily surmounts snow, ice or sand at an angle of 35 deg. and over land or snow maintains a speed of four or five miles an hour without trouble, and when in the water with sails spread and gasoline power approximates eight miles an hour. I could start in this from latitude 81 north in the north of Greenland and easily reach the North Pole in ten days without constant exposure to the weather and with the necessary observation and navigation instruments constantly protected in the cabin."

Capt. Bartlett points out at some length that a two-masted schooner of eighty tons could readily carry his "sailing automobile boat" on deck, and that $50,000 would be sufficient funds for him to accomplish his great project. The entire trip would take him but three months and he would return after discovering the pole by way of Alaska. He is is already making preparations to begin the Northern journey.

MANY SOCIETIES BUILDING HOMES

Houghton County Organizations Will Spend Much Money That Way.

Houghton, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fraternal and social organizations of Houghton county are building several new homes this year.

The Masonic fraternities of Houghton have started the erection of a block, to cost $50,000.

The Odd Fellows here will erect a building of brownstone and granite, costing $50,000 to $75,000, this year.

The Houghton club is rushing work on its three-story white granit block.

The Calumet aerie of Eagles has just started soliciting funds for the erection of a new home and business block. The Ho-On-Kee club of Laurium has just completed the erection of a new clubhouse on the shores of Lake Superior, west of Red Jacket. The Calumet Elks will, this fall, dedicate their new temple.

The Calumet Y. M. C. A. is carrying on its last campaign for funds with which to finish paying the cost of its new $75,000 home.

DEERWOOD WILL BUILD EIGHT-ROOM SCHOOL.

Deerwood, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—School District No. 7 has voted $15,000 bonds for the erection of a new eight-room brick schoolhouse to be built just back of the old location.

William H. Wallace is drawing the plans and expects to have them ready in three weeks. The building is expected to be completed by about the first of the year. There are now approximately 159 pupils. The new school will accommodate about 320 pupils. School will be held in the old building until the new one is completed. R. R. Graham is the principal and Miss Anderson and Miss Wetzel are his assistants.

A Few Short Weeks.

Mr. J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys become congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

SOCIETY

The informal affairs continue to be the chief diversion of society and every one is occupied with a never ending series of informal affairs. Duluth has many out of town visitors and the hosts and guests are much occupied with midsummer amusements that are all of them of an informal nature. During the week the annual water fete at the Boat club and the society vaudeville program attracted hundreds of people. During the coming week the typical picnics, shore suppers, motoring and water sports will be the amusements.

THE WEEK'S AFFAIRS

Mrs. Cassius H. Bagley was hostess at a luncheon today at her home, 1929 East Superior street, in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Beyers of Chicago, and Charles Conrad of Chicago. Covers were laid for ten.

Mrs. Wesley Feetham, who will leave Duluth the first of next week, after nearly seven years as general secretary of the local Young Women's Christian association, has been the guest of honor at many affairs during her last week here.

Tuesday evening the office secretaries and the young women who have lived at the association during the last year arranged a party in her honor and presented her with a gift of a very beautiful cameo pin, delicately set in gold. An informal evening party followed.

The maids of the cafetoria department of the association gave as their gift a beautiful set of table linen.

The same afternoon Mrs. J. D. Titcomb entertained the members of the board of the association and chairman of departments at a tea at her home, 1729 East Fourth street. The name cards were small Venetian scenes that Mrs. Titcomb brought from her recent trip abroad. Monday evening Mrs. Edwards entertained at a small dinner in compliment to Mrs. Feetham and her mother, Mrs. Bennett.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Bennett will be the guest of honor at a picnic to be held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Manley at Lakeside.

Miss Jessie McLean, whose wedding will take place next month, was the guest of honor at an informal little party given Monday evening by the young women of the Y. W. C. A. in the small dining room. The guest of honor was presented with gifts of kitchen utensils. The table was prettily decorated in sweet peas and an informal program of toasts was given.

Miss Martha Young and Miss Ella McArthur were the guests of honor a delightful picnic party Monday evening.

The other guests were:

"Foley Kidney Pills Have Cured Me."

The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and specks float before my eyes. I took Foley Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Sold by all druggists.

CARRYING ARMS TO NICARAGUA

Washington, July 30.—The yacht Hornet, recently purchased by Nathan Stern of New Orleans, will be granted a clearance to Bluefields, Nicaragua, carrying arms, ammunition and foodstuffs. The collector of customs at New Orleans has telegraphed to the department of commerce and labor asking for instructions, saying that the Hornet wishes to clear today. Acting Secretary Cable has advised the collector that the facts set forth in his telegram does not justify holding up the Hornet's clearance papers.

The official disclosure of the mission of the Hornet, which is on her way from Norfolk to New Orleans, is significant in view of the nature of her proposed cargo and of the recent reports that she was destined for service under the Estrada government in Nicaragua.

Carries Guns and Supplies.

The colector telegraphed that the Stern Shipbuilding company, the owners, wished to clear the craft with 147 cases of ammunition, eight cases of shotguns and four cases of field guns, together with flour, lard, rice and gasoline, and that they claimed the Hornet was on a commercial mission.

The vessel has already been dismantled of her guns and this fact, together with the absence of passengers and of anything out of the ordinary in the number and makeup of the crew, prevented the government from stopping her departure from an American port.

LEARNING TO WORK WITH THEIR HANDS POPULAR AMONG THE WEST DULUTH BOYS

THE CLASS AT THE IRVING SCHOOL.

Duluth's summer school for boys at the Irving school building, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Nicollet street, is proving its popularity and without a doubt will be a permanent institution at West Duluth.

Three classes have been organized by C. L. Avery, who was instructor in the manual training department of the public schools during the regular term. There are nine benches available for work in the shop at the Irving school and as only two can work at one bench, the average class is about sixteen members.

According to Mr. Avery, the boys are taking an active interest in the work and are turning out good stuff. The work is carried along the same lines as in the regular manual training course, the object being to instruct the pupil to be handy with tools.

The summer school started two weeks ago, and close to fifty boys are now enrolled. The pupils are organized in classes which meet at different hours of the day.

The expense of the summer school is met by the women's council, assisted by the board of education. A similar school for girls is in session at the Bryant school at the West end, where Miss Guamnitz is intructor.

IRONWOOD MAN CHOSEN

VICTOR JACOBSON.

Victor Jacobson of Ironwood, Mich., was elected president of the Swedish-Finnish Temperance association at the closing business session of the national convention of the society this morning at Wade's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. Mr. Jacobson was vice president last year, but acted as chairman of the meetings on account of the death of the president a month ago.

The 1911 convention of the order will be held at Butte, Mont. Chicago delegates made a strong bid for the meet, but it was voted to have the affair held in the Western states and Butte came out victorious.

To serve with Mr. Jacobson, the following officers were elected this morning: Alex Koll of Seattle, vice president; John Udell of Ludington, Mich., secretary and editor, and Andrew Ostrand of Dollar Bay, Mich., treasurer. The last two named were re-elected. The trustees elected were Werner Johnson of Seattle, Mrs. Mary Johnson of Hartford, Conn., and John Smith of Eureka, Utah.

Among the resolutions which were adopted this morning was one which expressed entire sympathy with the work which is being done by the Prohibition party and the Anti-Saloon league. A resolution was also passed expressing sympathy for the Finnish people in their struggle for national freedom.

This afternoon 200 delegates and visitors enjoyed an automobile trip through the city and over the boulevard. Tonight it is expected that there will be a large meeting at Wade's hall. Hon. E. E. Lobeck will be the principal speaker. In additon there will be a concert.

Mayor Cullum will give an address of welcome at the program at Lincoln Park pavilion tomorrow afternoon, which will end the convention. Hon. W. R. Shields of Chicago, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, and Hon. E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria will also be speakers. A picnic will be held in the park during the afternoon.

BABE SURVIVES A 16-FOOT FALL

Walter Richter, Aged 2, Tumbles While Playing on High Porch.

While at play on a high porch, Walter, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Richter, an undertaker residing at 423 Central avenue, fell sixteen feet sutaining painful, though not serious injuries, yesterday afternoon.

The little fellow had climbed a railing which is built on the rear steps and accidentally lost his balance. He fell striking on his left side, dislocating one of the bones in his leg and receiving numerous scratches about the face.

His mother was in the lower portion of the house at the time and as it was customary for the little fellow to play on the steps, she knew nothing of the accident until she heard his cries.

WANT RAMSEY STREET EXTENDED.

Alderman L. A. Barnes, Alderman W. B. Getchel, Thomas Olafson, J. Frey and F. W. Jolitz are a committee appointed last evening at the Commercial club meeting to begin a systematic agitation for the opening of Ramsey street.

A resolution was passed asking the National Christian Endeavor convention to come to West Duluth next year, and the street car company will be requested to make better connections with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern trains at the Fifty-seventh avenue west station.

Plans were also made last evening to extend an invitation to the West end club for a smoker. The date has not yet been set.

ATE PIE COVERED WITH RAT POISON.

Neil J. Buckley had a narrow escape from poisoning under rather peculiar circumstances yesterday at his home, 707 North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

It all happened because a mouse had been discovered the day before in the Buckley pantry and had nibbled at a piece of blueberry pie.

Mrs. Buckley, his mother, set the pie aside where it would not be conspicuous and put on it a quantity of rat poison. Neil came to the pantry for a lunch shortly afterwards and seeing the pie helped himself.

Noticing that the piece had a peculiar taste, he spit out the first mouthful. Had he eaten it, he afterwards learned, serious consequences might have resulted.

Two Small Blazes.

The fire department at West Duluth had two early morning runs, but in both cases, the fires were small. A brush fire near the People's Brewing company plant shortly after midnight gave them the first call and an hour later they were called to Fifty-sixth avenue west and Bristol street to put out a small fire which had been caused by dumping ashes against a building.

Woodruffs at Superior.

The Woodruff sof West Duluth will go to Billings Park tomorrow to meet the Bingham bunch of Superior in a baseball game. It will be the last game of the season of the Duluth-Superior league on the Superior grounds.

West Duluth Briefs.

Cement sidewalks are being laid on Fifty-first avenue west on both ides of the street between Ramsey and Wadena streets.

William La Brosse of the Clyde Iron Works was injured yesterday while at work on one of the drill presses. He sustained a sprained ankle and a number of cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moerke have returned to West Duluth from a visit at the home of their daughter Mrs. George H. Stuber, of Hibbing.

James Arthur, 4-month-old son of A. Robinson of Minnesota Point, died yesterday afternoon at the home of J. F. Lee, 618 North Fifty-seventh avenue west of meningitis. The funeral was held this afternoon from the Lee residence with burial at Forest Hill cemetery.

The West Duluth branch of the public library has been moved into new quarters next the postoffice building on Bristol street.

Miss Gertrude Johnson of Minneapolis is visiting in Wet Duluth.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. William Paradise, 318 Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kern have as their guests J. F. Burns and daughters, Alice and Marguerite, of Froeport, Ill.

Mrs. Charles Matton have returned from Ashland.

Watch repairing. Hurst, W. Duluth.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY NEWS

Miss Mildred Washburn and the Misses Harriet and Susan Stryker entertained at a delightful evening party last evening at the Washburn home at Hunter's Park. The lovely garden was decorated and softly lighted by Japanese lanterns and the evening's program provided a series of delightful features for the guests. A march about the garden with the orchestra heading the procession came first with the guests carrying the sparkling fuses that were charmingly picturesque. A one-act melodrama written by Miss Marguerite Culkin and played by the members of the Cooking club, was given, to the pleasure of the guests and illustrated songs were also added to the program. An informal dancing party followed. More than 100 guests enjoyed the affair.

NEGROES ARE ON THE INCREASE

Washington, July 30.—The director of the census has announced that the total population of the State of Oklahoma, lacking three enumeration districts, is 1,651,951 as compared with 1,414,177 according to the special census of 1907, showing an increase since 1907 of 16.8 per cent.

The population of the state was made public because of the fact that there is to be held in the state next month an election in which the question of negro suffrage is paramount. In presenting the figures, the director of the census made the following preliminary statement:

"In view of the fact that an election is to be held on August 2 in the state of Oklahoma, with reference to a constitutional amendment bearing on the suffrage, which is expected to affect principally the negro race, the director of the census has deemed it desirable to make a preliminary announcement of the population of the state of Oklahoma and of the negro population of the state. The figures are subject to revision."

The figures show the total negro population of the state to be 138,456 as compared with 112,160 in 1907. In 1907 the negro population constituted 7.9 per cent of the total and the percentage for 1910 is 8.4 per cent. The three districts lacking in the total figures, the census director announced, would affect the total population by less than 5,000.

GASSER'S GROCERY

RICHARD HAD A GRIP; OFFICER SUSPICIOUS.

When Sergeant Gillon of the police department saw Richard Whitely walking along the street with a grip the officer grew suspicious. Richard isn't accustomed to carrying grips. In fact, if he had a grip he probably wouldn't have any use for it unless he stayed in bed.

Accordingly the officer took him in tow and began a search for the owner and Richard was placed under arrest on a charge of petit larceny.

CLAIMED TO HAVE STOLEN VALUABLE BULL DOG.

Charged with stealing a red brindle bull dog valued at $100 from Dr. N. B. McNulty, John R. Porterfield, a timber cruiser, was arrested this morning.

The dog was kept at the Howard mill and it is claimed that Porterfield stole the animal from there. He entered a plea of not guilty and will have his preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

MILLIONAIRES' FAMILY FEUD IS AT AN END

FRANK ROCKEFELLER.

New York, July 30.—Frank Rockefeller is the brother of John D. Rockefeller. They have been enemies since the organization of the Standard Oil company, when Frank charged his brother with taking advantage of him. The feud between them was so bitter that they had some of their dead removed from the burial ground at Cleveland because they would not occupy the same plot. Now the burial plot has been restored and John and Frank have shaken hands. The terms of the settlement are not known.

SENDS CRANE TO THE COAST

Taft Wants Bay State Senator to Report on Conditions.

Important Political Move Accompanied By Cancelling of Dates.

Beverly, Mass., July 29.—Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts, who occupies in the senate a position similar to that of the Republican "whip" in the house of representatives, was summoned to Beverly by President Taft and had a long talk yesterday with the chief executive at Burgess Point. He was asked by the president to make a trip through the West in the near future, going as far as Seattle, Wash. He will inquire into political conditions in the states through which he travels.

Mr. Taft is anxious to have an impartial survey made of the field and believes an outsider can get and give a better understanding of the situation in the different states than the leaders actively engaged in the politics of the various commonwealths.

Taft's Big Move.
The latest move is regarded as one of the most important politically that Mr. Taft has made. The senator's visit was surrounded with the greatest secrecy. He slipped into Beverly by making a large detour. Not until the senator was seen was it admitted at the executive offices that he had been anywhere in the vicinity of the president's cottage.

It was denied that Mr. Crane's visit to the president had anything to do with the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. It is stated with authority that the president never has and never will consider asking Secretary Ballinger to retire from the cabinet.

Is Cancelling Engagements.
Another significant move made by the president yesterday was the announcement that Mr. Taft has cancelled all of the engagements, tentative and otherwise, that he had made in different parts of the country for this fall. Important affairs of administration, it was said, would keep the president engaged at Beverly and Washington until November. It is expected, however, that he will visit the Panama canal in November, and go to Provinceton, Mass., on Aug. 5, to review the Atlantic battleship fleet, and speak at the dedication of the Pilgrim's monument. He has left open the question of whether he will speak at the National Conservation congress which meets in St. Paul, Sept. 5 to 7, and at the unveiling of the Reed monument in Portland, Me., on Aug. 11. The chances are that the president will go to St. Paul.

SAYS UNIONS WILL WIN STRIKE

Employers Will Meet Demand of Suitmakers Says Nathan Kris.

A shortage of women's ready-to-wear garments and higher prices are not to be feared. According to Nathan Kris of the firm of Kris & Rose company, who will leave Tuesday for New York on his semi-annual buying trip.

"It's only a matter of weeks, yes days perhaps, before the cloak strike will be settled to the full satisfaction of the union," said Mr. Kris this morning, when asked as to where he will make his fall purchases. "There's no doubt in my mind but that all the machines will be running at full force before Aug. 15.

"The month of August to the manufacturers is like Christmas week to the retailers. Seventy-five per cent of the orders for fall wear are placed during that month. They, the New York manufacturers, cannot afford to pass up all these orders in favor of Cleveland or Chicago markets, without seriously impairing their future business, an example of which was set some fourteen or fifteen years ago, and they will settle quickly now—for their own benefit if not for anything else.

"In truth, the striking cloak-makers are to be sympathized with greatly. The situation was getting worse and worse—sweat-shops, inside contractors, unusual overtime work and many other grave abuses of the laborer have caused the union to call a halt—and this strike will end with a triumph for the workmen, and the union—of that I am sure. Union shops and sanitary shops will be the result, and none but the union shops will get my orders for fall and winter wear. Already 200 to 300 manufacturers have settled and the others will follow suit in the very near future."

Mr. Kris expects to stay away about a month, taking about a week's vacation at Atlantic City, N. J.

CARRIES HAMMER ON VISIT TO PRESIDENT.

Beverly Mass., July 30.—John George Schubell of Baltimore, Md., who said he wanted to see president Taft on religious matters, was taken into custody by the secret service operatives at the Evans cottage today. The secret service men turned him over to the police. The city physician will make an examination of Schubell. A hammer was taken away from him when he was searched.

EXTENDS GRAIN RATES TO DELIVERY TO BOATS.

Chicago, July 30.—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad announced today that the rates on bulk grain from Kansas City, Atchison and St. Joseph, when shipments originate west of those points, will include delivery of the shipments to lake boats at Chicago. An allowance of half a cent will be made to elevators for performing this service. The new arrangement will become effective Sept. 1.

WILL FILL A CRYING NEED

Wailing Babies Will Be Cared for at Methodist Church.

Deaconess Will Have Charge of Infants During the Services.

The First Methodist church of Duluth is going to meet a crying need.

In other words, a nursery will be established in the big edifice for the proper soothing care of the babies whose mothers want to attend the services, but who object to inflicting wails on the congregation while the pastor is telling about Jonah. (Joke not copyrighted.)

Formal announcement of the innovation is made as follows in the regular church notice:

"A nursery for care of babies during church service will be found, presided over by competent help, for mothers who desire to attend service. It is open both morning and evening."

Deaconess May Trimble will have charge of the little tots and will see that they are well cared for while the services are in progress.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

Copper is more active and stronger. Lake is 12⅝ to 12¾ cents and electrolytic is 12⅝ to 12½ cents a pound. It is estimated that more than 50,000,000 pounds has been sold at these prices by American producers in the past week or ten days. More is being heard of curtailment. The Lake Superior and Butte districts have considerably reduced their outputs, and there is good basis for the belief that the production of practically all the large and small mines throughout the world will be cut down appreciably in the immediate future. Consumers have been impressed by recent developments along this line and a number of them have begun buying copper in excess of their immediate requirements. If this policy continues on the part of both producers and consumers there is certain to be a very heavy reduction in the world's visible supply during the coming two or three months. I anticipate that the Copper Producers' association figures for July will make an even more favorable showing than those covering the month of June, and also that there will be a further decrease in the foreign visible supply. An improvement in the statisucal position of the metal is sure to be reflected quickly in advancing prices and it is neither impossible nor improbable that copper may sell at 14 cents before the close of the present year. July exports promise to exceed in volume those of June.

What I consider the most important of all recent developments is the announcement by Charles M. MacNeill, president of Utah Copper, that his company has become convinced by the experience of the past six months that for the present, at least, the world's consumption cannot take care of the entire production of all the mines operating at their full capacity. This means that Utah Copper and Nevada Consolidated, the two big mines which have been chiefly responsible for the recent rapid increase in the world's production, will restrict their output until such time as the metal market has an opportunity to readjust itself. Unquestionably this means higher prices for the metal. These two companies together have recently been producing at the rate of 170,000,000 pounds of copper annually, and improvements and extensions of plants now under way should put them in position to produce over 200,000,000 pounds annually, beginning in 1912. The enlistment of these interests in the curtailment campaign is of the greatest importance, therefore, to the copper producing industry."

ORDER ON LEMON RATES TO BE EFFECTIVE NOV. 1.

Washington, July 30.—An order has been issued by the interstate commerce commission, extending the effective date of the commission's order in the California lemon case from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1. The order provides that the date on lemons from California points to Eastern destination shall not exceed $1 a hundred pounds, it having been said by the commission that the present rate of $1.50 per hundred pounds was unreasonable.

THE SLEEPING SENTINEL.

Mayor Herman C. Baehr of Cleveland told at a recent banquet, apropos of the Fourth of July, the moving story of Lincoln and the sleeping sentinel.

William Scott, a Vermont lad—so the story runs—was caught sleeping at his post and condemned to die. But Lincoln pardoned him. Lincoln, visiting Scott, said, in his gentle, melancholy voice:

"My boy, stand up here and look me in the face."

The youth, abashed and awkward, fronted the tall president.

"My boy," said Lincoln, "you are not going to be shot tomorrow. I'm going to trust you and send you back to your regiment. But I've come up here from Washington, where I have a great deal to do, and what I want to know is, how are you going to pay for my trouble?"

"I'll pay you somehow, sir. There's the bounty in the bank, and I guess we could raise some money with a mortgage on the farm. My brothers would help, too."

But Lincoln laid his hands on Scott's shoulders, and, in a voice gentler and more melancholy than ever, he said:

"My boy, my bill is a very large one. Your brothers can't pay it, nor your bounty, nor your farm. There's only one man in all the world who can pay it, and his name is William Scott. If William Scott from this day does his duty, so that, if I were there when he came to die, he could look me in the face and say: 'I have kept my promise and done my duty as a soldier,' then my debt will be paid. Now my boy, will you make that promise and try to keep it?"

Scott promised, and Lincoln passed out of his sight forever. But Lincoln's inspiring memory remained, and William Scott became a model soldier, a modest, kind, brave soldier. He died a year later, risking his life to save a wounded man. As the reports put it, he was "shot all to pieces."

AT THE THEATRES

ALONG about this time of year the "intimate friends of the intimate friends of Frohman", who have not landed their fall engagements are beginning to seriously worry; managers are painting eloquent word pictures of what may be expected in the line of winter attractions; old plays are being brought out and dusted off; new productions are being thrown together as rapidly as overworked scenic artists and costumers can turn them out; and in general, preparations for the winter season are in progress.

Not in many years has the theatrical situation been so confused as it is at the present time. In the language of the poet actors and managers are not quite positive whether they are afoot or on horseback. The changes in the booking facilities, the experiments with new and unfamiliar stars, the general spread of the theatrical business and the keen competition which will obtain, all contribute to the situation as it now confronts the individual interested in the amusement world.

As a result of all this turmoil and strife, the public will be afforded a more extensive choice in the selection of its form and style of amusement. The old condition of taking what was given, or nothing, has disappeared and it is not likely that it will ever again return. That there will be many failures in the efforts of the various producing managers is to be expected, but there will also be a consistent average of successes. The past few seasons have not been the best in the history of the theatrical world, and the indications at present do not point for an extraordinary season next year. Those who are directly concerned are busy with their elaborate preparations for next year, but the country at large does not seem any more anxious for the diversion of the theater than it has been for the past two seasons. It is not likely that the business side of the art will be any worse than it has been, but very few of those who are in a position to know are sanguine of any great revival of public interest or a return to the golden era which immediately preceded the slump of the past two seasons.

At best the situation may be described as restless. What will eventuate is a matter for future determination, something which depends largely upon the public, a great deal depends upon the disposition of the warring factions in the theatrical world and still more on the smiles of Fortunatus.

Here in Duluth the situation is perhaps a little more settled. Charles A. Marshall, who by the way is becoming one of the big figures in the theatrical business of the country thanks to the growth of his Copper and Iron circuit, and his affiliations with John Cort, is definitely committed to the open door policy. The Shubert attractions will be played next winter at the Lyceum. Henry W. Savage's bookings will also appear, and there is more than a possibility that the Klaw & Erlanger forces will be compelled to book their attractions at the Lyceum and swallow the bitter pill of the open door as far as Duluth is concerned at least.

The list of Lyceum bookings is an attractive one. The regular season will not open until early in September, although Mrs. Fiske will appear on Aug. 20 appearing in the afternoon in "Becky Shape" and in the evening in "Pillars of Society." The attractions booked for September and October are: Bertha Kalich, Margaret Anglin, "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Lottery Man," "The City," "The Blue Mouse," Mary Mannering, De Wolf Hopper and William Faversham.

Most of these attractions are new to Duluth, and Duluth theatergoers will at least have a change of diet as a result of the managerial warfare. Whether it is for the better or for the worse, remains to be seen, but judging from the bill of fare, the 1910-11 fresh table d'hote of Shubert shows should outclass the warm-over musical comedy victuals which Duluth has swallowed for many years.

Duluth has been warming up to the Forbes Stock company druing the last two weeks, and the quarters and half dollars of well pleased patrons have been playing a cheerful tune on the Lyceum box office cash register. Those who know the difficulties surrounding a summer stock company, and who have watched the efforts of Mr. Forbes and his company to give Duluth adequate productions of first-class plays at popular prices, will rejoice at the improved business.

The opening of the new Orpheum theater is naturally the topic of chief local interest in theatrical circles at the present time. The first performance will probably be given about Aug. 22. The theater is of the most modern type, and will be beautifully finished and furnished.

Just how successful the Orpheum will be remains to be seen. The Bijou has been furnishing its patrons with excellent vaudeville—clean and fresh, and it has its list of steady patrons. But Duluth is growing, and should be large enough to support two vaudeville houses.

new to this country, and a gorgeous wardrobe.

The Marie Tempest of vaudeville is Kate Fowler, who is presenting one of the classiest acts in this popular line of amusement. Miss Fowler is a pianiste of considerable note, having played several noted concerts in New York musical circles. She is also the possessor of a good singing voice. Her songs with her pianologue make one of the most entertaining acts in vaudeville.

An unusual novelty that will be an attraction that will delight the patrons for the week will be Milo and Hattie Vagge. They will offer some of the most remarkable bag punching acts ever witnessed. These athletes perform their act in a most artistic manner. Miss Hattie Vagge is the recognized champion of all women bag punchers. The act shows great skill and much practice.

The big extra feature for the week will be Haydn, Borden and Haydn, who describe their offering in a single line, viz: "A Happy Combination of Jollity and Music." They have one of the few acts in vaudeville in which there is laughable comedy, excellent singing, clever dancing, and rare instrumentation. Their appearance in Duluth marks their initial engagement in the West. Their piano playing is a big feature in the act, as all three play operatic selections at one and the same time. Whether in song, dance music or mirth, they are entertainers of the highest type and never fail to register a permanent hit with their audience.

James B. Adams will sing his favorite illustrated song entitled "Texas," a western song that is illustrated with views from the Golden West. The moving pictures, as usual, will be a feature in themselves, as only the best are shown and these pictures of the better class.

Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and performances every night at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A children's matinee will be given Saturday at 2:30, and performances Sunday afternoon and night.

NEWS OF THE RIALTO

Mid-Summer Gossip of the Actors and Managers Along Broadway—Some Plans For the Coming Season.

Bessie McCoy, whose dancing and singing in "The Three Twins" gave her an unusual distinction, is to be raised to stellar honors next season by Charles Dillingham. To accomplish this purpose "The Echo," in which Richard Carle starred for a brief period toward the close of last season, has been selected. "The Echo" will be slightly changed to suit the eccentricities of the nimble Bessie, and an early Broadway production will be made. It is common rumor, by the way — and there is every foundation for it in truth—that Bessie McCoy will marry the well known short story writer, Richard Harding Davis, just as soon as the divorce proceedings are concluded which will sever the bonds now legally binding the writer to his present wife.

"East Lynne' has been boiled down to a one-act drama for vaudeville purposes, and is so being given in London. Thus even the variety shall not escape the tragedy of Lady Isabel.

Mrs. Fiske has been meeting with unusual success on her present summer tour, which has been taking her out to the coast. She is alternating in "Pillars of Society" and "Becky Sharpe."

Henry W. Savage has not given up hope that he will yet be able to make a success of the comedy written by Engel and Horst and called "Glueck Bei Frauen," a literal translation of which would be "Luck With Women." Last season he offered a translation of it and called it "The Florist Shop." It did not seem to make a very strong impression. Then he had it adapted as a musical comedy, maintaining the same title. For the coming season its name will be changed, and it will henceforth be known as "The Wife Tamers."

The New theater is to make another tour next season during the months of April and May. Cincinnati is to be included in the list of cities to be invited.

Christie McDonald, who will be starred next season, has gone to Europe. She will first visit London and then proceed to Pourville, France, where she will continue her vocal studies with Mme. Adini-Milliet.

"The Gamblers," which will be the first of a number of plays presented by the Authors' Producing company, an organization of independent playwriters and managers, of which John Cort is president and Charles Klein general producing manager, will be brought into New York for an extended engagement in September, after a short period on the road. "The Gamblers" is Mr. Klein's latest effort, and is considered by him to be the best work of his career.

"Miss Patsy," the character comedy by Sewell Collins, will be an early-season offering by Henry W. Savage in New York. The piece ran for some weeks in Chicago last season. Gertrude Quinlan, remembered for her work as the slang-slinging waitress in "The College Widow," is featured in the title role.

John Cort will present Mrs. Leslie Carter in a new play by Rupert Hughes that is said to have a role that offers the celebrated actress greater possibilities than anything she has had in several years. Mrs. Carter will be given a short road tour prior to an extended New York engagement, which will begin in October.

Edwin Stevens, the operator of the part of the Devil in the play of that name, has been engaged by Charles Frohman to play the genie in the production of "The Brass Bottle."

Bert Leslie will be the American comedian who will join the English comedians Mr. Charles Frohman produces "Our Miss Gibbs." This London Gaiety theater musical comedy will follow the brief preliminary season of "The Arcadians" at the Knickerbocker theater and is written by the same authors.

Unique among dramatic writings is Walter Browne's "Everywoman," a modern morality play soon to be produced by Henry W. Savage. It deals with the daily life of Everywoman, a character designed to typify the sex as a whole, carrying her through many and varied experiences—and concluding with her wonderful discovery, the discovery that is the moral of the drama. The play will call for a large cast and exceedingly elaborate scenic equipment.

Henry W. Savage will have three companies this season to interpret the successful Bisson drama, "Madame X." The New York organization will open early in the metropolis, where it is estimated that already fully 300,000 persons have attended performances of this play. Coincidently, two other organizations will go on tour.

One of Henry W. Savage's novelties, "The Great Name," by Victor Leon and Leo Feld, adapted by James Clarence Harvey, gave its American premiere at the Parsons theater, Hartford, Conn., last Monday. The production was a formal trial preliminary to its production by Mr. Savage on Broadway.

"The Great Name" is a comedy of sentiment, involving a story of the struggles of a musical genius to gain recognition and the self sacrifice of this old-time fellow students in allowing the use of his own well-established repute as a means to aid the genius.

Henry Kolker played the role of the successful composer of light music, a role said to have been based upon the actual characters of Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow," achieving a distinct personal triumph.

William A Brady will star Burr McIntosh this season. This past season Mr. McIntosh played Senator Langdon in "A Gentleman From Mississippi."

George M. Cohan's own theater at Broadway and Forty-third street will be ready for occupancy on Sept. 15. The Cohan family open the theater about Oct. 1, with a new Cohan musical play. Tom Lewis and Emma Janvier will also be in the cast.

A second Midnight Sons company will be sent out next season. The vaudeville team, known as the Russell Brothers, will have the parts of Lily and Pansy Burns, played in the original company by Lillian Lee and George Monroe, respectively. Flora Bonfanti Russell will have the Spanish soubrette role originally played by the late Lotta Faust.

Margaret Illington's first appearance on the stage since her marriage to Edward Bowes of Los Angeles, will be in an adapted translation of "Jusqu' a l'Eternite." Years ago Clara Morris used an English version of this same play under the title "Miss Multon." The present adaption "Until Eternity," is the work of Edward Elsner, one of Miss Illington's company. Other members of the company are Nina Morris, Willa Vane, Inez Shannon, Florence Timponi, Zyllah Shannon, Walter Edwards, John D. Barry and Melville Rosenow. For a month previous to the first performance on Aug. 26, at Tacoma, Wash., the entire company will be guests of Miss Illington during rehearsals. After a tour of independent playhouses 'Until Eternity" will appear at Maxine Elliott's theater.

A musical comedy, entitled "A Happy Night," has been purchased from Sydney Rosenfeld by H. H. Frazee for production next season. He also has two new dramas.

• • •

Mrs. Gertrude Atherton is preparing a play for Mrs. Fiske. The idea has been outlined and submitted to the actress, and now Mrs. Atherton has planned to forego a summer idling in Europe and devote herself to the completion of the drama in San Francisco. As the present plans go, it will be produced by Mrs. Fiske in Chicago in October next. It is to be a play of women. Women's suffrage will enter into the theme, but not too obtrusively.

BUFFALO BILL MAKING FAREWELL TOUR OF AMERICA

"THE FAREWELL SALUTE"
Of Col. William F. Cody, Buffalo Bill.

In the coming of Col. W. F. Cody and the announcement that this will be his last visit to Duluth, more than passing note is justified.

Buffalo Bill represents in propria persona the romance and reality of life of the troubulous times in the last decades of pioneer days, when civilization was extending her borders westward, overlapping and extinguishing the frontier. It is not surprising then that millions of people have taken intense interest in the story of the exciting time in which he was incidentally prominent and recognized the valuable work he has accomplished in giving a comprehensive and lifelike representation of an epoch in the history of this country, the memories of which are fading fast into the memories of the past. Millions will be reminded of the inevitable flight of time when they read the announcement that this tour will be the old scout's farewell.

In recognition of the importance of the occasion, Col. Cody has combined with Maj. Gordon W. Lillie to present on the same lines as the Wild West, people and scenes from the Far East. The program promised is one so extensive that it should make an exceptionally enjoyable amusement festival.

The Indian battle of Summit Springs will be a picture of early Western life, illustrating as it does one of the deciding conflicts in Indian warfare; and a battle in which Buffalo Bill himself took active part. There will be a realistic attack upon an emigrant train, a reproduction of ranch holiday, the old Deadwood stage coach will be shown in active operation. Contrasting these scenes of the Wild West will be shown an Oriental spectacle, in which, as a special feature will be introduced Rossi's musical elephants; a group of mammoths of surprising intelligence trained to perfection and giving a performance more unique and wonderful than has ever before been shown in an exhibition arena.

The Roughriders of the World are retained as a special feature, presenting horsemen from the world's equestrian nations, depicting different styles of horsemanship and introducing the saddle expertness of many nations, and two of the best trained high school troupes—Rhoda Royal's and Ray Thompson's. And riding at the head of this cavalcade, appearing on horseback at every performance, Col. William F. Cody, the only and original Buffalo Bill, will be the special feature of the exhibition; the last of the old scouts, still active in the saddle, as he says adieu.

AT THE LYCEUM

"An Old Sweetheart of Mine," a Western Drama, Will Be the Stock Company's Bill Next Week. : : : : : : :

Gus A. Forbes' most popular amusement between performances of this week's play is preparing next week's and between acts this week, while he has been impersonating the easy, resourceful, young Englishman who tells fibs as fast as he can talk, Mr. Forbes has been thinking out his character for next week when he will appear as Dick Scott, the hero of the Far American West. Dick Scott is exactly the sort of hero that the playgoer loves, a rancher from the East about whose past there is a veil of mystery, a stunning figure that commands the love and admiration of every one with whom he comes into contact, a hero who wrests fortune out of whatever circumstances come his way. That in short is Dick Scott of "An Old Sweetheart of Mine."

The story of the play is quite different from any other Western drama that has been shown of recent years. Dick Scott, foreman on a Texas ranch, is married to a Mexican woman, very evidently of an entirely different upbringing than his own. His friends know nothing of his past life, but they suspect that he has made a fearful mistake in his life by marrying, Wenona, the Mexican woman. To the ranch on a visit comes Margaret Lea, an old sweetheart of Dick's. He is living under an assumed name, and when she sees the wreck he has made of his life, she wishes to return at once to the East. Before she gets away, a murder is committed, Jose, the Mexican lover of Wenona being the victim. Dicks thinks that Margaret has done it to defend herself and he assumes the guilt She believes him when he confesses to the crime. In the end the real culprit, Wenona, is discovered and the final curtain descends on as happy a group of people as any one would care to see.

The characters of the play are of the picturesque and interesting types of the West. The cowboy friends of Dick, are an interesting group and some delightful comedy scenes mark the progres sof the story.

Mr. Forbes has made a wise choice for this next week's bill, as this play of the West comes after a series of entirely different productions and as Western plays and heroes are always popular, next week should be one of the most enjoyable of the season.

Mr. Forbes will appear as Dick Scott and Miss Justina Wayne will be Margaret Lea. The remaining members of the company are well cast. The first performance of "An Old Sweetheart of Mine" will be given Monday evening and will be continued every evening for a week. The matinees will be Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

All of Duluth has been laughing this week at "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," this week's bill. The final performances will be given tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

THE MOTION PICTURES

New Bills at the Orpheum and Lyric---Manager Thomas Furniss Looking for Criticisms or Suggestions.

Thomas Furnish, proprietor of the Orpheum and Lyric theaters, is determined that his patrons shall be pleased with the performances given. If the singers, or the pictures, or the lectures are not right, he wants to know it, and for the purpose of finding out the ideas of the patrons of the two theaters, he has distributed several thousand postal cards addressed to himself, asking the patrons to let him know if they have any criticisms to make or any suggestions to offer.

Two entirely new programs of moving pictures and illustrated songs will be given at these theaters next week. The programs follow:

Orpheum Theater.

"The Call to Arms."
"Trailed in the Hills."
"How Bumptious Papered the Parlor."
"A Vacation in Havana."
Miss Nelson will sing "Cutey."

Lyric Theater.

"The Phoenix," with Milton and Dolly Nobles in the cast.
"Two Hieland Lads."
"The Thief."
Miss Erd will sing "When Yankee Boys Come to Town."

AT THE BIJOU

"The Suffragette," a Clever, Modern Sketch Will Be the Feature of Next Week's Vaudeville Bill.

Another star bill of vaudeville will be offered at the Bijou, commencing Monday afternoon and continuing all the week. On the bill will be Franklyn Ardell and a clever company presenting J. Wolfe Gilbert and Mr. Ardell's latest success, entitled "The Suffragette." The characters of the sketch are a suffragette candidate for mayor and a Republican candidate. The dialogue is very funny from start to finish. The following notice is from the Hartford Times, where the act recently appeared:

"Franklyn Ardell and Anne Walters present a laughable sketch called 'His Opponent, the Suffragette.' The plot of the interesting act deals with the campaign of a husband for mayor on one ticket and his wife on the suffragette ticket, running under the name of Elsie Smith. The lines are witty and the act is full of life from

BUTTE AND CALUMET MINERS TO CONTEST

Crack Drill Teams Coming Together in Drilling Competition Saturday.

Calumet, Mich., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is the day of days in Calumet & Hecla mining circles, as the annual picnic of the employes of the big company is being held today. All the properties are closed and Calumet and adjoining locations are given over to a general holiday. There will be the usual parade, speaking and various athletic events, dancing, etc.

The chief event of the day is the rock drilling contest between teams from Bute, Mont., and the local mines. The winners will receive a prize of $450, and if the Butte team wins they will receive in addition their expenses.

The Butte drillers are W. J. McClain, and J. C. Carter, with Charles McCormick as twister. They arrived yesterday. The Butte lads are accompanied by Jack Adams, superintendent of the Butte & Montana mines; Dennis O'Neill, and W. B. Orem, deputy state mine inspector. It is understood that John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, will defray the expenses of the Butte miners to Calumet and back and has wagered $1,000 with a prominent Calumet miner, and if he wins will donate the money to the Butte boys.

The Becker team, one of the Calumet & Hecla teams taking part in the preliminary matches here, broke the world's record for drilling on two different occasions in practice this week. The world's record for fifteen minutes' drilling is forty-eight inches in solid granite. Mining men and miners are here from all parts of the Northwest to take in the contest.

Criticizing the interior department in regard to the development of water power Mr. Pinchot said:

"It is unfortunate that the interior department has absolutely refused to approve rights of way for municipal water supply, irrigation and water power wherever the lands affected are believed to be valuable for water power. This policy has continued for a year. It amounts to absolute stoppage of water power development throughout the arid West, and has done much to create the totally false conception of conservation in that region. The forest service has wisely rejected the proposals of the interior department looking to the establishment of the same policy in national forests."

Getting the Mitten Too Much for North Dakotan Who Attempts Suicide.

Towner, N. He used a razor and slashed himself almost from ear to ear. The jugular vein had not been struck by the blade and Kelly is still alive with aparently little hope of recovery.

WEDDING ENDS CASE.

St. Paul Man and Winnipeg Woman Steal March on Officials.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ellen Wright of Winnipeg, and Charles Sloan of St. Paul were successful in evading the efforts of the immigration officials to deport her from the United States, the statutory charge and that threatened by the federal government being dismissed yesterday evening after Immigration Inspector Steward of Mechie had held a conference with the immigration officials at Winnipeg.

The marriage of Miss Wright and Mr. Sloan brought about the dismissal of the charge, as when she became the wife of Sloan, who is an American citizen, she also became a citizen of the United States. This made it impossible to push the deportation proceedings. Miss Wright and Sloan made their way from Winnipeg to North Dakota by the automobile route after she had been refused entry at Neche by the immigration officials. The couple was apprehended here, the marriage followed and both the statutory charge and the threatened proceedings by the government were avoided.

Bemidji Cigar Fictory Burns.

Bemidji, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The cigar factory of E. E. Preston was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, the proprietor being unable to save any of the contents in the building. WEST END

SAY RENTS ARE TOO LOW

Realty Men Say West End Office Building Will Not Pay.

Plans for New Structures Have Fallen Through on This Account.

Are rentals in the West end business district so low that investors cannot afford to build new office structures on suitable corners?

This is what the realty men claim and is said to be a problem which has been troubling investors, who would improve their West end holdings, providing they could get a reasonable return on their money.

Several times during the summer, rumors have been current in regard to the building of an office structure on Twentieth and Twenty-first avenue corners, but it is understood that the proposition fell through each time on account of this obstacle.

Investors say that the present schedule of rentals is altogether too low and that if a new structure was put up, it would be necessary to demand a higher rate in order to clear anything like a reasonable percentage on the investment.

Although West end business men have at no time placed any faith in the "wildcat" stories concerning the erection of five and seven-story buildings on Superior street corners at the West end, they look forward with much interest to the time, when the eyesore at the northwest corner of Twentieth avenue west and Superior street will be cleaned out and a modern office structure replace it.

MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Ladies of Central Baptist Church Arrange Pleasing Program.

A musical entertainment of more than ordinary interest was given last evening at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. The affair was held under the auspices of the ladies' aid society.

Mrs. Schwab of Delavan, Wis., and Mrs. Elmer Hall appeared on the program in piano selections, while Mrs. Abbott of the West end, a graduate of the Oberlin conservatory of music delighted the audience with several violin numbers.

Among the vocal soloists, whose work met with much approval were Miss Eva Adams and Miss Mayme Chambers. Miss Mary Shesgren entertained the audience with a reading.

Those who gave recitations were Miss Louise Emerson, Miss Doris Mallett, A. B. Heimbaugh and Harold Sherman.

WILL WORK FOR AN EQUAL ASSESSMENT.

Fred Jannette, Ole Olson, Ole Kinn and Former Alderman Peter Olson are a committee appointed last evening by the West End Hillside Improvement club to represent the organization at a meeting of the board of public works Monday, when the assessment for the grading of Piedmont avenue will be considered.

The committee has instructions to urge the board to make equal assessments on all of the property owners affected.

Former Alderman Olson was also instructed to ask the street car officials to stop the Piedmont avenue car at the intersection of Twenty-second avenue for passengers.

ODD FELLOWS' OUTING WILL BE HELD AUG. 4.

Thursday, Aug. 4, is the date set for the annual picnic of the Head of the Lakes association of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which will be held at Lincoln park this year.

Odd Fellows will attend, not only from all parts of the city, but also from Superior and Proctor. T. W. Hugo, past grand master of the Odd Fellows, will be the principal speaker.

A program of sports has been arranged for the occasion.

On Quarterly Visit.

Rev. John A. Anderson of Marinette, Wis., former pastor of the First Swedish Methodist church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, now district superintendent of the Lake Superior district, is in the West end on his quarterly visit.

At the First Swedish M. E. church tomorrow, Rev. Wahlquist of Two Harbors, Minn., will occupy the pulpit at the evening service. Rev. Mr. Anderson will probably preach next Sunday.

Dies While on Visit.

Janice A. Anderson, 4-year-old daughter of E. E. Anderson of Canby, Minn., died yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Christianson of 2729 West Second street after a short illness. The parents of the child have been visiting friends in the West end for the past week. Shortly after their arrival here she was taken ill. The body was sent last evening to Canby for burial.

Returns From Trip.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, returned with his family last evening from a month's vacation trip to Haywards, Iowa, and Big Springs, S. D. He will preach at both services at the church tomorrow.

DULUTH WILL BENEFIT FROM CIRCUS WAR BY SEEING "CIRCUS BEAUTIFUL" AT HALF PRICE

SUNDAY, THE SMALLEST HORSE IN THE WORLD AND ESTRALIA NELSON, THE TINIEST ACROBAT, WITH THE SELLS-FLOTO SHOWS.

The great Sells-Floto shows are due to arrive here tomorrow morning and will probably commence to unload somewhere between 6 and 8 o'clock. To those who have never seen the working of a monstrous attraction of this kind, it will be a liberal education for them to visit the grounds and take note of the perfect system by which the organization regulates itself.

It is not often an opportunity presents itself to view the circus at close range, and an interesting study is here afforded to get a better acquaintance with the goings and comings of the horse-riding people.

This year the Sells-Floto shows come again bearing with them the unique distinction of having broken all circus records in the great coast cities visited, besides turning thousands away who, by reason of the tremendous attendance, were unable to gain admittance to the big tent. A circus war is now on and has been waged for the past two years between certain combined circuses on the one side and the Sells-Floto people on the other. The owners of the Denver show finally decided to popularize their prices and incidentally carry the battle to their opponents.

To this end they strengthened their organization at all points and cut the price in half, awaiting the verdict of the people. That the limited priced circus has come to stay is already an established fact. And in this it is only following in the wake of certain attractions which some years ago broke away from the theatrical tradition and sought out a field for themselves.

A partial list of the features of the Sells-Floto show will convince the doubter that its demand for patronage is not without foundation. Two teams of the famous Armour grays, the old champions, and the team which will tour Europe in the quest for fresh honors, will be seen in the parade and on the hippodrome track. Spader Johnson, emperor of clowns; Len Moore, captain of creative comedy, and the Sells-Floto company of associate clowns will help provide the laughter. The celebrated Nelson family of acrobats, the Borsinis in an act which held the New York Hippodrome for thirty weeks, the flying Herberts from Australia, the Guice family, the Hobsons, Alfred and Iva Les Jundt, Daille Julian, premier English equestrian; the famous Davenports, Fred Lehgett, the adonis of the sawdust ring; Upside-down Smith, the twin baby elephants, the Melnotts in the greatest tight-wire act ever seen, the juggling Normans, the Holland high school courses, Prof. Fred Allispaw's herd of elephantine comedians, Capt. Carroll's troupe of educated Arab steeds, Roman chariot races, horse races, mule races and all the other features going to make the entertainment just a little more attractive than any ever seen here.

The parade will take place Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The advance seat sale will be at Boyce's drug store.

other carcasses must be inspected and stamped by the government, state or city inspector before they can legally be offered for sale. A general spirit of willingness to comply with this section is apparent.

The inspections at the depots are being continued. Every carcass that is shipped into Duluth by express passes under the eyes of Inspector Bernhardt. Last month he condemned over three tons of meat pronounced unfit for consumption and this month he has condemned about a ton and a half. But those who have been shipping veal have come to a realization that it must reach Duluth in good condition if it is going to pass inspection, and the shippers are acting accordingly. Most of the meat sent in now comes here cold and fresh. The large falling off in condemned meat shows that the shippers have made a radical change in their methods.

INSANE SUSPECT GIVES THREE OFFICERS A STRUGGLE

John McLaron, 39 years old, was adjudged insane yesterday afternoon by Judge Middlecoff of the probate court, following a medical examination. McLaron said he was married, his wife living in Ottawa, Can. He has not seen her for more than a year.

He was arrested in West Duluth last Thursday when information was given as to his actions. He was taken to the city jail, to await his removal to the probate court.

Considerable trouble was experienced by Deputy Sheriff Short in bringing him to the court. He was taken on a car as far as Fifth avenue west and Superior street, but after getting off the car, he refused to go up the hill. The struggle which ensued afforded some amusement to a large crowd that assembled there.

Captain Piskett of the police department, and Col. Resche of the humane department, were called and even with their assistance, it was difficult to remove him to the court house.

He contended that he was being followed by a large number of people who wanted to poison him.

HELD ON SUSPICION OF DESERTING WIFE.

Traveling under one name and receiving mail under another led to the arrest in St. Paul, of a man giving his name as Frank Adsit, but whom the St. Louis officials claim is McDonald, wanted here for wife desertion?

He was brought to Duluth last night and lodged in the county jail, to await the arrival of Mrs. Marie McDonald, who complained that she and her 11-months-old child had been deserted by her husband.

Adsit claims he is not the man wanted, but Mrs. McDonald, who is expected from Eveleth, her home, in a day or two, will give the officers the information they seek as to his identity. Adsit is said to have been calling for mail addressed to McDonald, and so his arrest followed.

A FIRST STREET SCENE.

If one were to visit a city, whose reputation for slovenliness were well known, and whose residents were noted for their inactivity, he might expect a scene somewhat similar to that shown above, which on First street, is an every day sight. But to find such a condition in Duluth, upon one of the busiest thoroughfares and directly in front of one of the handsomest public buildings in the Northwest, is sufficient to give him a shock.

A million dollar courthouse, about which a beautiful park is now being constructed, for which large sums of money are being spent to improve, is being marred by a number of wagons left standing on the street.

This has been going on for several years, and despite all the protests from public spirited men, many of whom are the foremost in the agitation for a "Beautiful Duluth," no effort seems to be made by those in authority to prevent this condition.

For some time it has been the hope of leading First street business men to have a "White Way" on this thoroughfare, and several other improvements have been proposed. Work is still being done along this line, and it is believed that in a short time these projects will be carried out, but the owners of these rigs, do not aid in beautifying the street.

To a total stranger, who sees the park on the east side of the courthouse and federal building, finding these wagons standing directly in front of it, would be given the impression that this attractive spot were a market, where farmers could congregate and sell their goods, instead of being a beauty spot for the rest and comfort of the residents of St. Louis county.

BUTCHERS CARELESS

Many of Them Neglect to Take Precautions Against Flies.

Quality of Meat Being Shipped Into City Is Improving.

Many butchers are not observing the provisions of the new amendments to the meat ordinance as well as they should, according to the health department.

The paragraph most neglected is that requiring that all meats shall be kept away from flies, and is considered one of the most important now on the books.

It is alleged that in some shops the flies are thicker than bees about a hive, walking and flying at will on and about cuts and quarters which are being sold to the public. This is said to be dangerous to the health of the community, and it is well-known to the medical profession that flies are one of the greatest breeders of disease in existence. They carry thousands of germs on their legs, feet and bodies, picking them up in the filth which they frequent.

Meat Inspector Bernhardt states that the practice will have to cease. He is visiting different shops daily, and where he finds this condition he is making it plain that it will not be tolerated. He gives them fair warning that if there has not been an improvement when he makes his next visit, warrants will be issued for the arrest of the offenders.

Since the passage of the amendments to the meat ordinance, however, there has been a decided improvement in the butcher shops of the city. Some of those that were considered bad have moved into the good class, while the better shops have also taken more precautions than were formerly used.

Many calls are coming in for the inspector from those shops which buy veal from the farmers or do a limited amount of killing themselves. According to the ordinance all veal or

TWIG

Twig, Minn., July 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Twig baseball club will play this afternoon with the Northland team at Picnic lake, where the Culver camp of Modern Woodmen of America are giving a picnic.

Much satisfaction is felt here on account of the report that the Canadian Northern Railway company is going to commence operations on their new line, which has been surveyed through here for some time.

S. N. Peterson, the postmaster attended the postmasters' meeting in Duluth.

Mr. Elliott of Rice Lake, Minn., has a large crew of men at work on the Swan Lake road between Cloquet river and Pike lake.

Walter Newberg has accepted a position with the American Bedding Company of Superior.

Most of the farmers in this vicinity have completed their haying, the crop being very short on account of the dry weather. Much wild hay is being cut in the swamps to help feed the cattle during winter and yet many cattle will have to be sold before winter for want of enough hay. The potato crop promises to be very good.

Dr. A. Osterberg of the West end was a Twig visitor Sunday.

August Swanson has left for Superior, where he expects to be employed for some time.

The Leisuer Lumber company have started their mill again after having shut down for haying.

The county is putting in steel culvert pipes on the Swan Lake road here, which is a great improvement over the old style wooden culverts, which have been used before.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR REAL ESTATE MARKET

Dealers Look Forward to Active Market the Coming Fall.

Good Outlook for Flow of Outside Capital to Duluth.

The real estate men of Duluth are dealing in prospects. While big deals are pending, the number of actual transfers of city property is very small, and real estate men, while working to close the deals in which they are interested, are looking forward and forecasting conditions during the coming fall.

The real estate dealer is an optimistic being under all conditions, so his optimism at this time is not surprising. But allowing a liberal discount for trade optimism, the feeling among the real estate men in touch with Duluth conditions is exceptionally good, and their predictions of activity in the market during the coming fall are well founded.

The crop deficiency in the Northwest and the conditions in the stock market will have a noticeable effect on the real estate market, but they are discounted somewhat by the general prosperity and the later prospects that the crop failure will not be as serious as was first feared. Visitors to the Dakotas report that the farmer is prosperous, and although he will not have as much surplus money as he looked for earlier in the year, he will be by no means poverty-stricken when his crop is harvested and disposed of.

Crop money finds its way into Duluth and Duluth realty. The farmer who a few years ago sent his money to the banks to be loaned out at low rates of interest, now engages a shrewd realty dealer to act for him in conservative investments in real estate. He takes some speculative chances, but very few, and his purchases are for the most part improved property with continuous revenue, or unimproved property with certain prospects.

The flow of outside capital into the market this fall will not be as great as real estate dealers had hoped, but it will be great enough to have a visible effect on the market. The farmers of the Northwest will have money to invest, and many of them look to Duluth as the growing city with exceptional opportunities for returns on money well placed.

Several big deals, involving Eastern capital, are now pending in the market. The progress of work on the steel plant, the activities on the lakes, the coming of the Canadian Northern and the Soo road are all factors of which cognizance is taken in the East, and the capitalists are not slow to see the opportunities presented and the possibilities arising from the developments in industrial matters.

The contracts for the Canadian Northern extension from Virginia have been let and work has started; the Soo will be running passenger trains into Duluth at least by Sept. 1; although there has been a falling off in the ore movement, the total movement from the Head of the Lakes will not fall far below that of last year, which was a record breaker; work on the steel plant is progressing satisfactorily; new coal docks are in course of construction and there are rumors that negotiations are in progress for more coal dock sites in West Duluth; all those things are taken into consideration in determining Duluth's industrial and commercial future and they are signs that men interested in the real estate market cannot disregard.

The official census figures on Duluth may come out any day and when they do, some attention will be attracted to Duluth. It is almost certain that the official count will not fall below 80,000 and that will be an increase of over 50 per cent in ten years. The next two or three years will see 2,500 to 3,000 men brought to Duluth for the operation of the steel plant and they and their families will make up 10,000 people in steel plant workers, merchants and professional men will come to the city in great numbers on account of the increased population and to increase the population and it is not too much to expect that the state census in 1915 will show Duluth with another increase of approximately 50 per cent.

The census figures will be noted in other parts of the country. Duluth will be in a new classification, a classification that will turn the eyes of capitalists toward the city. A city that has an increase of 50 per cent in ten years and that is still developing holds out great opportunities to the real estate investor—opportunities that will not be neglected.

The acreage movement has been checked for the time—not for lack of interest but for lack of offerings. Acreage is hard to obtain and holders of desirable tracts near the city are refusing to sell at any price or placing prohibitive valuations on their property. They are not disposed to turn over their holdings to others to receive the profits that are certain to come and prospective purchasers refuse to pay prices that amount to an anticipation of profits.

The movement in low priced residence lots continues unabated and each new addition put on the market is attracting swarms of prospective land owners and home builders. Everybody in Duluth, regardless of means, is anxious to get into the real estate market and the dealers are encouraging the commendable ambition by offering lots on terms that place them within the reach of everybody.

The installment system as applied to the real estate market is proving its worth. Thousands of lots have been sold under the plan this year and an otherwise sagging market has been buoyed up by the activity of the people of small means, who have shown their faith in Duluth real estate by falling over one another to gain title to the most desirable lots in every addition that has been placed on the market.

BIG DEAL ON PARK POINT

An important sale of Park Point property was made this week, Thomas B. Scott of the state of Virginia purchasing from the Duluth-Superior Panorama Publishing company twenty acres, including submerged land, for $10,000.

MODEST HOME WHICH WOULD COST $2,500 TO BUILD IN DULUTH

ANTHONY PUCK & HOLSTEAD ARCHITECTS.
DULUTH MINN.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The above sketch shows a small house of the most economical kind, one admirably adapted for Mr. and Mrs. Newlyweds. The eves of the roof have been made as low as convenient to provide two large bedrooms in the roof, which would have plenty of closet and store space. The first floor provides a large living room, dining room and kitchen, with pantry; and a closet has been provided in the dining room, as this room may be used as a bedroom in case there was a large family or an invalid person. A porch with seats and bathroom over, are shown to face the garden.

The floors would be maple. The living room and dining room would be in oak-stained pine. The bedrooms, kitchen and pantry would be finished in birch.

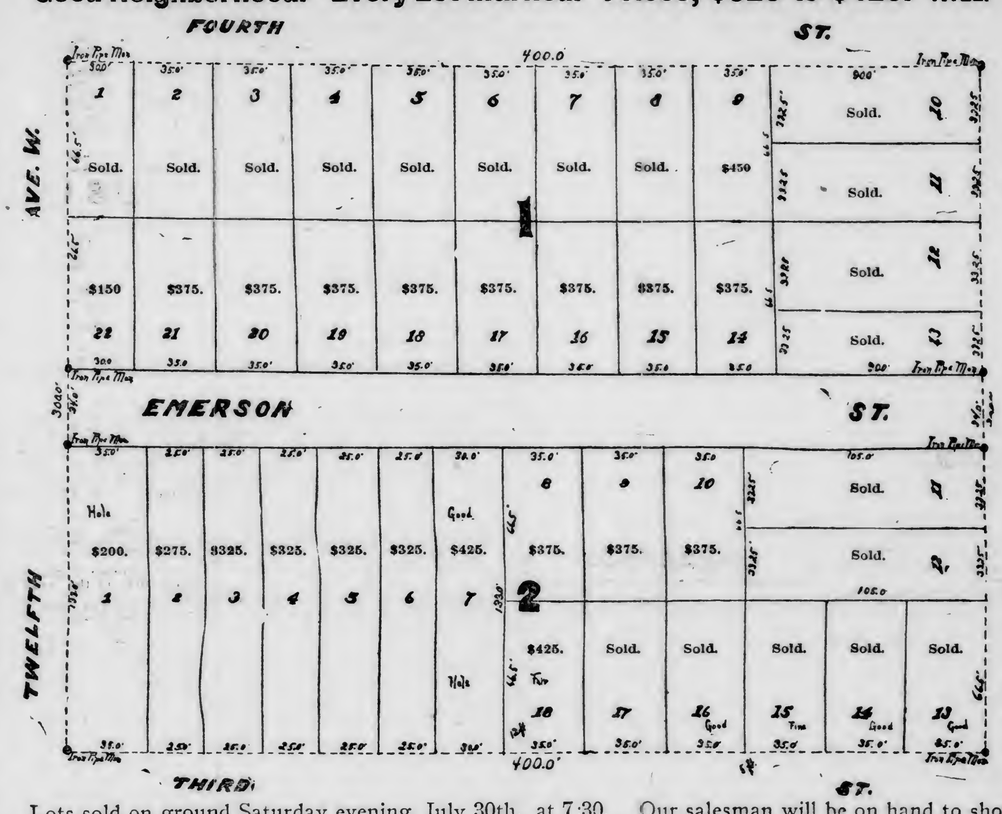

The above house will cost in Duluth or vicinity, inclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,500.

ISLE OF PINES

A ten-acre grove of grape fruit netted the owner last year $8,000. This grove was 5 years old.

Others are doing as well.

The owner of a fifteen-acre grove, 5 years old, refused $1,500 per acre.

You can do this and do it in 5 years, never miss the money, and keep on attending to your business.

Talk with us, we can convince you.

BUY LOTS!

The most important thing is to decide where. We have the most desirable lots for sale near the heart of the city. If you're connected with the wholesale houses, or in business right in town, our lots with all improvements in and paid for are cheap at around $600. If your work takes you all over the city, our Hazeland Suburban Park lots at from $150 up, and only $30 cash down, certainly are the cheapest property yet offered.

BE WISE—Don't go too far out. SEE US.

PITTSBURGH!

THE NEW ADDITION TO THE STEEL PLANT

Only three blocks from the west line adjoining Braces' Addition and only about ten blocks from the main plant, now building, which is about the same distance as from the city hall to the Union depot.

Selection of Pittsburgh Addition was made early, and only recently platted, streets, and avenues cut out and other improvements will be made to make it a model addition.

Lots are high and dry, sloping to the south.

The main line of the Northern Pacific runs through Pittsburgh Addition and station has been applied for.

The Spirit Lake Transfer company, which will be the main line of the Steel Corporation, connecting the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad with the Steel Plant, runs through on southern line of addition.

Street car service to the Steel Plant and New Duluth, south of us, will pass within a short distance of Pittsburgh Addition, and will be extended to it in proper time.

Sizes of lot is 25x125 to 190 feet. Streets sixty-six feet wide, and alleys sixteen feet wide.

Prices of lots range from $75.00 to $150.00, according to location, and will be sold on the easy terms of $10.00 per lot cash and $5.00 per month until paid for, placing them within the reach of everybody.

TORREN'S TITLE

This is one of the best real estate bargains ever offered at the Head of the Lakes, both for workingmen contemplating building a home close to the Steel Plant, or from an investment standpoint, on account of lots being so close to one of the greatest industries, which will make Duluth the Pittsburgh of the West in the near future.

About thirty lots have been spoken for, and those interested in a first-class investment will do well to look up Pittsburgh Addition by calling at our office, 715 Torrey Building.

Office Hours: 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays, 10 to 12 a. m. Both phones.

SHORTS IN JULY FLAX ARE SEVERELY POUNDED

Are Said to Have Defaulted 10,000, Bushels On Deliveries.

May Try to Show Values Are Fictitious---Touches $2.82.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 30.—The July option in flax went out of existence today in a pyrotechnic display that equalled any performance of flax in the history of the market. While less than 10,000 bu were traded in, yet the market was bare of offerings and shorts were severely punished. Shorts were forced to take their medicine, the July option advancing from $2.56 bid at the opening at $2.82, the highest point at which flax has ever sold in the market's history. Longs offered flax at the close and the price dropped to $2.75 asked without trading on the decline.

At the market's close it was estimated that shorts defaulted in about 10,000 bu. The exact figures were not known when The Herald went to press. The defaultage indicated the severe manner in which shorts were punished. The clearing house can enforce the payment of the closing price on this shortage, but the short can take advantage of the rule compelling the long to show to what extent he was damaged by the short's failure to deliver.

The short can endeavor to establish a claim that the closing prices were fictitious and were the result of manipulation and that the long did not sustain the damage indicated by the fictitious prices. This rule, so far as could be ascertained, has never been taken advantage of here. Whether it will be invoked by the defaulting shorts remains to be seen.

The July option which went out of existence today broke the record prices for flax several times. Shorts played against shorts on many occasions, causing peculiar complications. On the big bulges a few people in the pit or in the country would sell believing that prices were too high. The buyers invariably were shorts who covered after having sold at lower prices. The shortage in available flaxseed made it almost impossible to deliver the full quota of stuff on contracts. The May option established a record for manipulation and on one occasion the Chicago Board of Trade refused to quote a price of $2.49 on Duluth May flax because it was claimed that the price was fictitious. The July option, from a standpoint of speculation, threw the May delivery into the shade. It was controlled by the bulls from start to finish and the shorts never had a look-in. They were punished severely from time to time, but most of them had run to cover before the whirlwind finish today. Some shorts were hopeful of heavier flax receipts than came from the country. They believed there was more seed on the farms than the bulls claimed, but their hopes apparently were groundless.

The shortage in the flax supplies, which was the primary cause of the excessively high prices for May and July flax and the deferred futures was caused by a partial failure of last year's crop, which ran to straw instead of seed. The professional element last fall was on the short side of flax as nearly everybody believed the crop would make a bumper yield. Slowly the realization dawned upon traders that the shortage would be great as the plant had not run to seed. The trade turned to the buying side, but not until many professionals and country shorts were punished.

July flax opened today at $2.56 bid and sold up to $2.65 bid and then marched quickly to $2.82, declined at the close to $2.75 asked. Less than 10,000 bu were traded in. The net advance for July was 19c.

The deferred months did not partake of the strength which characterized the current month. September opened at $2.47 asked and sold at $2.46, $2.47, $2.44 and closed at $2.44 October opened at $2.34 bid and sold at $2.37, $2.36½. $2.33½ and closed at $2.33½ asked. November opened at $2.34 and was offered at $2.33½ and sold at $2.35½, $2.35, $2.33½ and closed at $2.33½ nominal. December was $2.26 nominal. Net decline of September flax was 1½c, October ½c, November ½c and December 2c.

The July option in wheat passed into history quietly. All the wheat that was contracted for was delivered thus surprising a lot of bulls who some time ago claimed that there would not be sufficient wheat for purposes of delivery except at excessively high prices. Elevator interests controlled the bulk of the July line, the Peavey interests being the most prominent among the long holders. Whether the Peavey people conducted the deal for themselves or for clients is not known. There was no excuse for an attempted squeeze on the month which expired today and no effort was made to manipulate the market. The July option here was relatively weaker than the deferred months and it passed into history quietly. In Chicago a few belated shorts evidently effected a settlement as prices dropped rapidly toward the close, the option closing at $1.05-½, or 4¼@3¾c lower than yesterday. The run of winter wheat which was sent hurriedly to the market to take advantage of the high prices was instrumental in defeating the purpose of any bull who expected to manipulate a squeeze. There was plenty of wheat to fill short contracts.

Many traders who are bullish on September were afraid of the July option on the theory that prices were not warranted by conditions. They are afraid of a slump now that the July option is out of the way. On the other hand the bulls think the winter wheat movement will soon be on the wane and that the cash markets will then lose their present aspect of extreme sickness and the wheat values will firm.

The deferred futures became oversold today and the congestion caused a rally that carried values higher than the opening, which was weak and lower than yesterday's close. Country acceptances of wheat showed a falling off at the winter wheat markets, it is said, and gave a beter tone to the future months. This stimulated some buying, also, as it tended to confirm the belief of bulls that farmers will not sell their wheat freely, especially until the spring wheat crop is threshed and the yield is finaly determined.

July wheat lost ¼c, September gained ¼c, December gained ½c and December advanced ½c.

Cash wheat closed 6c over September. Oats advanced ⅜c and rye and barley were unchanged. Durum gained ¼c.

A Broomhall Russia cable: The yield of winter wheat is causing disappointment in the South while the spring wheat crop has been brought to an early maturity by the prolonged drouth and the kernels are small. A well posted authority predicts that next season's wheat shipments will be fully ten million quarters less than this year, which amounts to date for the season 217,456,000 bu. Late advices this morning from our agent at Odessa reports rain which is unfavorable for harvesting. Crop advices from the interior are fairly satisfactory.

France: Latest advices mention general improvement in the agricultural situation though excessive damage to the crops by rust, floods and lodging is corroborated. French crop is estimated at 312,000,000 against 369,000,000 last year.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Violent Fluctuations in Price of July Wheat Are Feature.

Chicago, July 30.—July wheat, in which it has been quite generally believed that a corner existed, was sold down 5¾c a bushel today. A rebound of 4⅛c followed. Fluctuations both on the way down and up were violent, varying as much as 2c between trades. Transactions in the option were not on a large scale, but the variations in the price of the month were watched with much interest as this was the last day for delivering, and there had been talk that the officials of the board of trade might make a ruling which would render available for contracts 1,500,000 bu of wheat now here in cars but not not technically in storage according to ordinary regulations. The principal seller today was the concern said to be the chief short. One interpretation was that an attempt was being made to force the market lower so as to effect a more favorable settlement. Another explanation was that a settlement had already been arranged between the leading dealers on the opposite sides, and that the upset in prices was the natural result.

July wheat opened 2¾@3¼c down at $1.06@1.07, fell to $1.03½, rallied to $1.08, and receded to $1.07. Other options started ⅝c lower to ⅛c higher with September ⅛c down to ⅛c up at $1.02⅝@1.03. An advance followed to $1.03¼@1.03⅜c.

Business was light, and it did not take much to influence prices either way. The close was weak with July dropping 1¾c to 2¼c in the last 15 minutes. The final figures were $1.05 to $1.05½, a net loss of ⅜c to 4¾c. September finished at a net advance of ⅝c to ⅝c to $1.03¾ to $1.03⅜.

Corn was steady on buying due to fair weather and because offerings were light. The market opened unchanged to 3½c higher, the latter for July. September started ½@⅝c up at 63@63½c, touched 63⅝c and reacted to 63¼c.

The trade was affected by a number of private reports of damage. The close was firm at 64@64⅛c for September, a net gain of 1¼@1⅝c.

Commission houses and shorts were purchasesrs of oats. September opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 36⅞@37c and rose to 37⅜c.

Plenty of hogs made provisions easy. First sales were generally 5@7½c to 10c off, with the September option at $21.60 for pork. $11.50@11.52½ for lard, and $11.30 for ribs. July pork was an exception, showing an advance of 25c.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Market Is Unsettled By Break in Sloss-Sheffield Steel.

Prices Rally From the Lowest and Close Is Irregular.

New York, July 30.—With the London stock exchange closed today the opening dealings here were very dull. Prices showed a sagging tendency. Sloss-Sheffield Steel fell 1½ and Union Pacific, Atchison, Louisville & Nashville and Amalgamated Copper ¾. There was a rise of ¾ in Utah Copper.

A break of 5¼ in Sloss-Sheffield Steel to below 50 again unsettled the market. Prices ran off early before light offerings. Declines of a point or more became common in the most active stocks. Louisville & Nashville

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—THE NAVY IS A GREAT organization, requiring about 47,500 men. As more vessels of greater tonnage are built each year, it requires more men, which means continued opportunities for advancement, and steady employment at good pay.

Men of the seaman, gunner, machinists, firemen, carpenters and other mechanics; stewards, cooks, bakers, stenographers, typewriters and men for the hospital corps are needed. Boys over 17, without trades, may enlist as apprentice seamen.

The life is healthy, and different forms of athletics are encouraged. The food is wholesome and plentiful, and the opportunity to save money is excellent.

The Atlantic fleet will probably visit the Mediterranean next fall, and there will be ample time for visits to points of interest.

Parents of boys over 17 should investigate the advantages of the navy as a career for their sons. Four years of training in the navy is a useful experience, and a man holding an honorable discharge from the navy will find it a valuable asset.

Apply for full particulars at the Navy Recruiting Station, Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn., or write for illustrated booklet to the Bureau of Navigation, Box 204, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

WANTED—RAILWAY MAIL CLERK examination will be held Nov. 12; scores of other examinations during September and October; information free Columbian Correspondence college, Washington, D. C.
